REPORT ON CANADIAN ARCHIVES.

DOUGLAS BRYMNER, LL.D., F.R.S.C., ARCHIVIST.

The Hon. SYDNEY A. FISHER,
Minister of Agriculture,
&c., &c., &c.

SIR,—I have the honour to present the report on Archives for 1896.

The transcription of the documents in the Public Record Office, London, is going on with regularity, the utmost care being taken both in London and here to secure absolute correctness. The last of those received up to this date include for Lower Canada part of the administration of Lord Aylmer and for Upper Canada part of the administration of Sir John Colborne. In the documents respecting both provinces details are given of the proceedings connected with land and land companies. The calendars for this year are brought down to 1818 for Lower and Upper Canada; these include the war of 1812 from an early date to its close.

Of the documents copied in Paris, 61 volumes have been received; that marked volume 1 is largely taken up with information respecting the proceedings of Jacques Cartier and of the establishment of the Compagnie de la Nouvelle-France; the others relate to subsequent affairs in New France. The work of transcription continues.

In consequence of the necessary absence of the Archivist in London to prosecute additional investigations, the usual preliminary report was not made in the year 1893. Many of the documents calendared in that year give informations on the differences with the United States during the presidency of Mr. Jefferson. In Note B of this year's report a selection of these is published in full, remarks on which will be found in a subsequent part of this report. An examination of the calendar for the two Canadas, contained in the report for 1893, will show the beginning of the war of 1812, which, as already stated, is continued in the papers calendared in the report for this year (1896), which show also that during the discussions with the United States there was a steady acquisition of lands by new settlers. The reports for the years 1894 and 1895 are occupied with the affairs of the maritime provinces and in part with the early affairs of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The effect of the collection of Archives has been to modify greatly in many cases the histories of Canada and the United States and their relations to the mother country. The requests for the reports continue to increase more and more, and applications for them are received from the most divergent points as may be judged from the list of works presented; very many requests are also sent for information which are in all cases promptly attended to. As previously reported, the utmost economy is exercised in the expenditure of the amount granted by Parliament for the Archive service.

The documents published in Note A, furnish a contribution to the settlement of the question as to the extent of the grant to the Six Nations of Indians in 1784, of the lands on the Ouse or Grand River. Shortly after entering upon the lands a question arose as to the effect of the deed given by General Haldimand to the Six Nations. It was held by Brant and other chiefs that on the face of it (see enclosure No. 1, page 3 of Note A), the grant was made of land of six miles wide on each side of the Grand River from its mouth to its source; on the other hand it was contended that that grant was limited by the purchase made from the Mississaugas, who at the Council held with them on the 22nd May, 1784 (Note A, p. 22), stated explicitly that they did not possess all the lands lying between the three lakes—Ontario, Huron and Erie—but were willing to transfer to the King all that they had there, which they believed would be “sufficient for the King’s people and our brethren the Six Nations.” The latter was the view taken by Lieutenant-Governor Maitland in his letter of 22nd February, 1821, addressed to Earl Bathurst in anticipation of the demand to be made by the delegates sent by the Six Nations to urge their claim to the full extent of the lands on the Grand River from its mouth to its source. Lieutenant-Governor Maitland pointed out in the letter referred to (Note A, No. 1), that the description in the letter by General Haldimand respecting the lands arose from a misconception, the lands never having been surveyed and the course and extent of the river being unknown.

In the documents contained in volume 283 of the series Q. of the Archives, will be found an account of the transactions between Mr. Russell, President of the Council of Upper Canada, then administering the government of the province, described by Sir Peregrine Maitland as being conducted under the operation of terror or delusion. These may be referred to with advantage as bearing directly on the questions at issue between the Six Nation Indians and government.

It is altogether out of the scope of a report of this nature to express an opinion on legal points that may be under discussion, the duty being evidently only to supply such documents as may be useful to those entrusted with the management of such interests to help them to arrive at a fair decision of the questions involved. Both sides have, therefore, been given so far as documents are available. The decision came to by Earl Bathurst in his letter addressed to the delegates after consideration of their statements, which are not among the papers here, was decidedly opposed to the claims of the Grand River Indians. The arguments in support of this decision and those in Sir Peregrine Maitland’s letter of the previous month of February (1821) are of course dependent for their strength on the documents relating to the original grant by Governor Haldimand, on the transfer by the Mississaugas of the lands and their extent before the Six (or Five) Nations obtained the title under which they claim and the subsequent proceedings in regard to the lands.

Joseph Brant, the principal chief and the leading man among the Six Nations died on the 27th of November, 1807, and John Norton, always spoken of as a Mohawk chief, appears to have assumed the position of principal chief held by Brant, who when in London during Governor Haldimand’s residence there had, largely through his intervention, been received with great cordiality by the higher officials and others. In 1804, Norton brought a letter from Brant introducing him to Lord Moira, who sent him to Lord Camden, stating that all he knew of him was his introduction by Brant. He had also a memorial from the Six Nations in which he is described as an "adopted chief." (Q. 299 p. 218.) The memorial asked for the whole twelve miles on the Grand River from its mouth to its source and relied on the transaction with Mr. President Russell in support of this claim. Several memorials and letters from Norton, all to the same effect were sent during 1804 (Q. 299, various pages, see also Q. 303, pp. 95, 102-104, &c.).

In 1808 Norton was back on the Grand River, whence he sent a long memorandum recommending measures to unite all the Indians in event of hostilities with the United States; to change the tenure of the land and to adopt means to civilize the Six Nations. In a letter containing a running commentary on Norton's proceedings, Lieutenant-Governor Gore, charges both Brant and Norton with attempts so to dispose of the land on the Grand River as to turn them to account for their own private advantage. According to his statement Norton made use of Brant's introduction to impose upon what Gore calls "high and respectable characters" as an Indian and a chief, he being on the contrary a Scotsman, who had been a private in the 65th regiment, and obtained his discharge in 1788, by the influence of Mr. Coffin, with whom Norton's mother was a servant. His employments are described by Gore until he settled down on the Grand River and assumed all the appearance, habits and manners of the Indians. (Q. 312—1. p. 126.) In this letter are serious charges against Brant and objections to a change in the tenure of the Indian lands.

Till 1812, the documents are silent as to Norton's movements. On the 6th of November of that year he was at a "Council of condolence," held at Fort George, on the occasion of the deaths of general Brock and others, and on the 22nd of December, Robert Dickson, Indian agent asked for his services, if he could be spared at Niagara. In both documents he is called "Captain Norton." (Series C, vol. 256, pp. 194-228.) He acknowledged on 1st of June, 1813, the thanks of Sir George Prevost to himself and friends for their services against the enemy (series C, vol. 257, p. 81), but those marks of favour apparently gave him a feeling of self importance not conducive to discipline. His relations with Claus, deputy Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, were apparently as a consequence, anything but friendly as appears, among other evidence, from a letter written by Norton to Major Fulton, A.D.C., to Sir George Prevost, dated the 26th June, 1813, which begins: "As the Five Nations themselves appointed me a leading chief many years ago and the late General Brock when he nominated me captain also added and Commander of the warriors of the Five Nations." Hence he refused to pay obedience to Claus and denied his right to interfere with the people he (Norton) was appointed to lead.

On the 31st of July, 1813, General de Rottenburg acknowledged receipt of a letter from the military secretary, intimating Sir George Prevost's pleasure that "the Indian Chief Norton, may be allowed to be borne on the pay-list of the Indian Department with the rank and pay of a captain," but General de Rottenburg says that that order was unnecessary, as Norton had been on the pay-list in that capacity since the 2nd of June, 1812, but that the additional power to distribute presents to the Indians serving with him would be granted according to Sir George Prevost's orders. Evidently, General de Rottenburg had no very high opinion of Norton as a man. He wrote on the 15th August, 1813, (Series C, vol. 257, p. 116,) that he had vainly tried to reconcile Claus and Norton, "the latter", he says, "is certainly a great intriguer, but is a fighting man and may do a great deal of mischief if not supported."

In a memorandum dated the 24th of February, 1814, Norton made demands for the complete control of the Confederate Indians and to have the power to issue presents to the tribes and chiefs. The decision of Sir George Prevost on each point and the demand are given in parallel columns, the first two of which show the character of the whole.

Norton's demands.

"That in order to act with propriety according to my appointment at the Head of the Five Nations or Confederates, I find it necessary to intreat that no interference be allowed from the Indian Department between these tribes and myself.

"That I may have it in my power to reward the faithful services of the warriors and know to what extent I may promise on this head and also to countenance the leading war chiefs, who assist in preserving good order."

Sir George Prevost's decision.

"Captain Norton is to be furnished with a commission as captain or Leader of the five nations or Confederates, and no interference will be allowed between the officers of the Indian Department and these tribes, but through the medium of Captain Norton.

"Captain Norton will have it in his power, by the means of presents, of rewarding the faithful services of the warriors serving under him."

There are nine clauses in these demands to all of which Sir George Prevost gave his assent.

The report made to Sir Gordon Drummond by Major General Riall, after attending a Council of Indians at the head of the Lake (Ontario) and transmitted by Sir Gordon to Sir George Prevost on the 19th April, showed that dissatisfaction existed amongst part of the Indians in regard to the appointment of Norton. Sir Gordon says (series C, vol. 257, p. 234): "I am much concerned to communicate to Your Excellency that the Major General [Riall] states, that three of the Six Nations, speaking through their principal chief have requested the Major General to represent to Your Excellency their dissatisfaction at the appointment of Captain Norton to be their Leader. They say they will not acknowledge him as such, will pay him no respect or obedience, nor look to him for anything they want, that they know him not except as a Disturber of the Peace and Harmony that ought to exist amongst them; they have a Head man whom The King has appointed and they want no other (Colonel Claus); the representation made to Colonel Drummond was the contrivance of a few, who had no authority to do so and it was not the opinion of the Nations. The Major General enquired if such was the general opinion. The Chiefs of three, viz: the Mohawks, Oneidas and Tuscaroras said it was theirs decidedly; the others, viz: the Cayugas, Onondagas and Senecas refused to answer."

It has been thought necessary to give the above statement in full, so that the extract from the proceedings of a Council held at the Grand River early in the following June may be understood. The account of this Council was sent by Norton in a letter dated at Barton, 13th June; the concluding paragraph of the speech (series C, vol. 257, p. 293), addressed to Norton on behalf of the Council is in these words:

" Brother,

" We conclude in assuring you that we shall shut our ears to the chattering of evil birds and request that you will do the same, so that nothing in future may disturb our united friendship."

It was, however, alleged by Col. Claus that the popularity of Norton arose from his profuse expenditure and, according to Col. Caldwell, acting deputy Superintendent General, he was lavishing goods on the other tribes to win them over to be under his own control, and Col. Caldwell adds: " It appears to be his wish to gain over the Western Indians at any rate and make Government pay any price, his ambition will impose."

Neywash, one of the chiefs of the Western Indians, confirmed this and said: " As to the Snipe (Captain Norton) having got some of our young men to join him, I only say, he speaks loud and has strong milk and big breasts, which yield plentifully. You know, Father, your children are fond of milk and he gives when they go to him and promises them provisions as they want and goods at discretion. If you will do so, Father, they will not go to him, but we cannot keep our young men in our hands. Now, Father, I have told you the cause of their going to the Snipe."

The differences between Claus and Norton continued unabated, greatly, as Sir Gordon Drummond reports, to the detriment of the service, Norton issuing orders to Claus in an imperious style (see series C, vol. 257, pp. 373, &c.) In the Spring of 1815 the situation was not improved and Sir Gordon Drummond recommended that Norton should be allowed to retire with a pension during pleasure. The object of this, Sir Gordon stated, was to secure Norton's influence with the Indians, as otherwise he might exert it perniciously. A letter addressed to Lt. Col. Foster, Sir Gordon Drummond's Secretary, about a fortnight after (24th March, 1815), showed that Norton considered himself as principal chief of the Grand River Indians (series C, vol. 258, p. 47), and on the 18th of the following May he wrote again to Lt. Col. Foster, thanking Sir Gordon Drummond for liberating him from the disputes, and intricacies of the Indian department and offering to transfer his services to the seat of war in Flanders.

On the 26th of July, 1815, Sir Gordon Drummond gave Norton a letter of introduction to Lord Bathurst, as he was going to London, taking with him his wife and son, described by Sir Gordon as a lad. Sir Gordon spoke in high terms of Norton's knowledge of the Indian nations and added: " This man is of the coolest and most undaunted courage and has led the Indians with the greatest gallantry and much effect on many occasions against the enemy, particularly at Queenston under the late Major General Sir Isaac Brock."

Whatever might be the opinion entertained of his fighting qualities, his other characteristics, were not held in much esteem and Lieut.-Governor Gore interposed obstacles to the payment of the pension granted by General Drummond on the ground of Norton's unworthiness, alleging that authority must first be given by the King before the pension could be paid. The result of the confidence reposed in him by Sir George Prevost was, according to Lieut.-Governor Gore, to make him insolent and insubordinate to such a degree that Sir Gordon Drummond found it necessary that he should be allowed to retire from the Indian department with a pension to himself and his wife. He further said that he had witnessed "the evil effect of the policy of rewarding acknowledged misconduct" so that he was anxious it should not take place in this instance.

A letter from Sir Gordon Drummond to Earl Bathurst, dated 21st January, 1816, marked confidential, confirms Lieut.-Governor Gore's account of Sir Gordon's motives for recommending the pension to Norton. In this letter Sir Gordon says that he had recommended that Norton should be allowed to retire with a pension, "in consequence of the constant disagreements and disputes which took place in the Indian department from the insubordinate disposition and intriguing conduct of Captain Norton of that establishment and from the jealousy excited from his having been appointed by Sir George Prevost, Leader of the Six Nation Tribes." But owing to his services and his influence with the Indians, Sir Gordon urged in the strongest terms that the pension should be confirmed as a matter of sound policy, the pension to be £200 to himself and £100 to his wife on his death. The pension was confirmed during the course of 1816.

In November, 1815, Norton was in Edinburgh, where he had gone to place his wife and son until he should be ready to return to Canada and in January 1816, he informed Mr. Goulburn, under secretary, that he had been in London for six weeks waiting to have an interview with Lord Bathurst. During these six weeks he had not been idle for in the month of December, few days passed without a letter from Norton to Mr. Goulburn on the subject of claims (series Q, vol. 135-2, pp. 375 to 386). In January he sent an account of his services at and immediately before the battle of Queenston, which may be of use for comparison with other accounts, (series Q, vol. 140-2, p. 349).

Norton had gone to Dunfermline in Scotland for some time before leaving, which to some extent corroborates Gore's statement that he was a native of Scotland. He arrived in Quebec in September, 1816, and on the 30th of that month applied to the Governor General through Lieutenant Colonel Harvey, for a confirmation of the grant to the Indians of 1784; for a division of the land among the families; for additional land for the use of other tribes and a new demand of importance, namely, for an allotment of land for a seminary for the education of Indian youth of both sexes in reading, writing and agriculture. "Such an institution," he wrote, "might be formed either to the North West of Oxford or to the North of the settlement between the Grand River and York on lands yet held by the Chippawas and Missisagues." (Series C, vol. 260, p. 422). From the end of 1816 to the beginning of 1819, Norton's letters are chiefly taken up with complaints about the improper distribution by Claus of presents to the tribes, his ill feeling towards Claus not having apparently lessened. There are, however, two letters which may be of service, one dated the 1st of February, 1817, containing "A list of the chiefs and principal warriors whose conduct through the war has deserved approbation" (series C, vol. 261, pp. 27 &c.). The other dated 8th May, gives a statement of the distribution of the different tribes, their numbers, &c. (Series Q, vol. 144, p. 40). This account was apparently given because of the term "Five or Six Nations having become so indefinite in significance since these people have been scattered in various detached settlements" (Series C, vol. 262, p. 270). When, where and under what circumstances Norton died is not shown in the documents here. The last letter in the collection C, written by Norton's own hand is dated "Grand River, February 20, 1819" and is firm and plain, showing no sign of weakness (Series C, vol. 262, p. 288). In a letter addressed by Colonel Claus to Major Bowles, military secretary, dated at York, 3rd March, 1819, Norton is referred to as still alive, but after that date no mention of him appears in the collection of correspondence in the series C, until 1851, when application was made by Mr. T. Gladwin Hunt, of Toronto, in September of that year, on behalf of Norton's heirs for arrears of his pension. A certificate signed "R. Airey, acting military secretary", but without date, stated that the last payment of the pension was made on the 24th of February, 1826, but that nothing was known of Norton in the military secretary's department. Mr. Hunt said that he was ready to prove that Norton's death took place in October, 1831. (Series C, vol. 271, p. 107). In July, 1823, G. Martin, an interpreter, wrote to Colonel Claus that Norton had shot and killed Big Arrow, but whether in a duel or otherwise it is impossible to make out, the letter is so obscure, but Norton's life was in danger in consequence of the death of Big Arrow, for John Bearfoot sent a warning (Martin's peculiar spelling and composition are retained) "that the Majer [Norton] had best to not come near them. If he dose he find Trouble they think he murter him for that reason he will be kilt," (Series M, vol. 115, pp. 185-6).

In relation to the other dealings with the Indians reference may be made to the calendars for Lower and Upper Canada in the reports for 1893 and for this year, to the series C, vols. 247 to 271 and to the series M, vols. 104 to 115, for original information.

In the report on Archives for 1890, were published documents concerning the "Relations with the United States after the peace of 1783," and preceding Jay's treaty of 1794, by which questions at issue were settled amicably although the treaty was very unpopular in the United States and detested by President Jefferson, who was elected to that office in 1800, and began his first administration in 1801. War was declared by France against Great Britain on the 1st February, 1793, and General Bowyer's letter (No. 1 of note B) will show the effect it had on the Indians in the Maritime Provinces, who did not appear to have given up their adherence to French interests. The intrigues of French emissaries have been noticed in the report for 1891, and the action of the Indians as reported by General Bowyer, is no doubt significant as to their intentions had any collision with France occurred in Canada. To discuss in full the questions involved in note B would require volumes instead of the limited space available in a preliminary report, so that reference must be made to the general histories of the times, in which are to be found accounts of the war with France, from 1793, the short peace of Amiens, the renewal of war, military and commercial, the decrees on the part of Bonaparte, the orders-in-Council by the British Government, the embargo by the United States, all of which, it is represented, did more harm to the powers who were their authors, than to those against whose interests they were directed, neutral trade being entirely destroyed. It may be well to state as briefly as possible the nature of Bonaparte's decrees, the best known being those of Berlin and Milan and that of the orders-in-Council, little being generally known of them except the names.

The Berlin decree was dated at the Imperial Camp at Berlin, 21st of November, 1806, by "Napoleon, Emperor of the French and King of Italy." After stating the reasons for declaring the British Islands in a state of blockade, the decree proceeds. I translate :

Article 1. The British Islands are declared in a state of blockade.

2. All trade and correspondence with the British Islands are prohibited.

In consequence all letters or packages addressed either in Britain or to a British subject, or written in the English language, shall not be allowed to go by post and shall be seized.

3. Every British subject, whatever his state or condition who shall be found in the countries occupied by our troops or by those of our allies, shall be made prisoner of war.

4. Every warehouse, all merchandise, all property, whatever its nature, belonging to a British subject shall be declared a good prize.

5. Trade in British merchandise is forbidden ; and all merchandise belonging to Great Britain, or proceeding from its factories and colonies is declared a good prize.

6. The half of the produce of the confiscation of merchandise and properties declared good prizes by the preceding articles shall be employed to indemnify the merchants for the losses they have sustained by the taking of their vessels, which have been captured by British cruisers.

7. No vessel coming direct from Great Britain or from British colonies, or having been there since the publication of the present decree, shall be received into any port.

8. Every vessel which, by means of a false declaration shall contravene the above provisions shall be seized and the ship and cargo shall be confiscated as if they were British property.

Articles 9, 10 and 11, prescribe how the decree is to be published and enforced. (Recueil de décrets, etc., vol. 2, p. 946).

The decree begins at page 945, Talleyrand's report is at pages 942-5.

The Milan decree was dated at the palace of Milan, 23rd November, 1807. The title of Napoleon now reads "Napoleon, Emperor of the French, King of Italy and Protector of the Confederation of the Rhine." It is only necessary to give the first article, the others are regulations how the decree is to be carried into effect.

Article 1. All vessels which, after having touched at Great Britain, from whatever motive, shall enter into the ports of France, shall be seized and confiscated as well as their cargoes, without distinction of wares and merchandise. (Recueil, vol. 3, p. 190.)

On the 17th of December, an additional decree was issued at Milan, the following is a translation of two articles, all that is necessary to give, the others being regulations for the enforcement of the decree.

Article 1. Every vessel, of whatever nation which shall have suffered the visit of a British vessel, or which shall have submitted to make a voyage to Great Britain, or shall have paid any impost whatever to the British government, is by that alone declared denationalized, has lost the protection of its flag and has become British property.

2. Whether the said vessels, thus denationalized by the arbitrary measures of the British government enter into our ports or into those of our allies or fall into the power of our ships of war or privateers, they are declared to be good and valid prizes. (Recueil, vol. 3, p. 192).

From the beginning of the war with France various orders-in-Council were passed by the British government in restraint of trade, but it seems only necessary for the present purpose to give that of 1807, in answer to the first Milan decree. The second Milan decree was a rejoinder to this order-in-Council. The French decrees are so symmetrical and condensed that their republication does not require much space. The orders-in-Council are diffuse, but although those in question might be summarized, it has been thought better to publish them in full, that no doubt might be entertained of the exact terms of the order.

At the Court of the Queen's Palace, the 11th of November, 1807, present, the King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas certain orders, establishing an unprecedented system of warfare against this Kingdom, and aimed especially at the destruction of its commerce and resources, were some time since issued by the government of France, by which, "the British Islands were declared to be in a state of blockade," thereby subjecting to capture and condemnation all vessels, with their cargoes, which should continue to trade with his Majesty's dominions:

And whereas by the same order, "all trading in English merchandise is prohibited, and every article of merchandise belonging to England, or coming from her colonies, or of her manufacture, is declared lawful prize":

And whereas the nations in alliance with France, and under her control, were required to give, and have given, and do give, effect to such orders:

And whereas his Majesty's order of the 7th of January last has not answered the desired purpose, either of compelling the enemy to recall these orders, or of inducing neutral nations to interpose, with effect, to obtain their revocation; but, on the contrary, the same have been recently enforced with increased vigour:

And whereas his Majesty, under these circumstances, finds himself compelled to take further measures for asserting and vindicating his just rights and for supporting that maritime power which the exertions and valour of his people have under the blessing of Providence, enabled him to establish and maintain; and the maintenance of which is not more essential to the safety and prosperity of his Majesty's dominions, than it is to the protection of such states as still retain their independence, and to the general intercourse and happiness of mankind:

His Majesty is therefore pleased, by and with the advice of his privy council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that all the ports and places of France and her allies, or of any other country at war with his Majesty, and all other ports and places in Europe, from which, although not at war with his Majesty, the British flag is excluded, and all ports and places in the colonies belonging to his Majesty's enemies, shall, from henceforth, be subject to the same restrictions in point of trade and navigation, with the exceptions hereinafter mentioned, as if the same were actually blockaded by his Majesty's naval forces, in the most strict and rigorous manner:—And it is hereby further ordered and declared, that all trade in articles which are of the produce or manufacture of the said countries or colonies, shall be deemed and considered to be unlawful; and that every vessel trading from or to the said countries or colonies, together with all goods and merchandize on board, and all articles of the produce or manufactures of the said countries or colonies, shall be captured and condemned as prize to the captors.

But although his Majesty would be fully justified, by the circumstances and considerations above recited, in establishing such system of restrictions with respect to all the countries and colonies of his enemies, without exception or qualification; yet his Majesty being nevertheless desirous not to subject neutrals to any greater inconvenience than is absolutely inseparable from the carrying into effect his Majesty's just determination to counteract the designs of his enemies, and to retort upon his enemies themselves the consequences of their own violence and injustice; and being yet willing to hope that it may be possible (consistently with that object) still to allow to neutrals the opportunity of furnishing themselves with colonial produce for their own consumption and supply; and even to leave open, for the present, such trade with his Majesty's enemies as shall be carried on directly with the ports of his Majesty's dominions, or of his allies, in the manner hereinafter mentioned:

His Majesty is therefore pleased further to order, and it is hereby ordered, that nothing herein contained shall extend to subject to capture or condemnation any vessel, or the cargo of any vessel, belonging to any country not declared by this order to be subjected to the restrictions incident to a state of blockade, which shall have cleared out with such cargo from some port or place of the country to which she belongs, either in Europe or America, or from some free port in his Majesty's colonies, under circumstances in which such trade, from such free ports is permitted, direct to some port or place in the colonies of his Majesty's enemies, or from these colonies direct to the country to which such vessel belongs, or to some free port in his Majesty's colonies, in such cases, and with such articles, as it may be lawful to import into such free port:—nor to any vessel, or the cargo of any vessel, belonging to any country not at war with his Majesty, which shall have cleared out under such regulations as his Majesty may think fit to prescribe, and shall be proceeding direct from some port or place in this Kingdom, or from Gibraltar or Malta, or from any port belonging to his Majesty's allies, to the port specified in her clearance:—nor to any vessel or to the cargo of any vessel belonging to any country not at war with his Majesty, which shall be coming from any port or place in Europe which is declared by this order to be subject to the restrictions incident to a state of blockade, destined to some port or place in Europe belonging to his Majesty, and which shall be on her voyage direct thereto; but these exceptions are not to be understood as exempting from capture or confiscation any vessel or goods which shall be liable thereto in respect of having entered or departed from any port or place actually blockaded by his Majesty's squadrons or ships of war, or for being enemies' property, or for any other cause than the contravention of this present order.

And the commanders of his Majesty's ships of war and privateers, and other vessels acting under his Majesty's commission, shall be, and are hereby instructed to warn every vessel which shall have commenced her voyage prior to any notice of this order, and shall be destined to any port of France, or of her allies, or of any other country at war with his Majesty, or to any port or place from which the British flag as aforesaid is excluded, or to any colony belonging to his Majesty's enemies, and which shall not have cleared out as is here before allowed, to discontinue her voyage and to proceed to some port or place in this Kingdom, or to Gibraltar or Malta; and any vessel, which after a reasonable time shall have been afforded for the arrival of informations of this, his Majesty's order at any port or place from which she sailed, or which, after having notice of this order, shall be found in the prosecution of any voyage, contrary to the restrictions contained in this order, shall be captured and, together with her cargo, condemned as lawful prize to the captors.

And whereas countries, not engaged in the war, have acquiesced in these orders of France, prohibiting all trade in any articles the product or manufacture of his Majesty's dominions; and the merchants of those countries have given countenance and effect to those prohibitions by accepting from persons styling themselves commercial agents of the enemy, resident at neutral ports, certain documents, termed "certificates of origin," being certificates obtained at the ports of shipment, declaring that the articles of the cargo are not of the produce or manufacture of his Majesty's dominions, or to that effect.

And whereas this expedient has been directed by France, and submitted to by such merchants, as part of the new system of warfare directed against the trade of this Kingdom, and as the most effectual instrument of accomplishing the same, and it is therefore essentially necessary to resist it.

His Majesty is therefore pleased, by and with the advice of his privy council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that if any vessel, after reasonable time shall have been afforded for receiving notice of this, his Majesty's order at the port or place from which such vessel shall have cleared out, shall be found to carry any such certificate or document as aforesaid, or any document referring to, or authenticating the same, such vessel shall be adjudged lawful prize to the captor, together with the goods laden therein, belonging to the person or persons by whom, or on whose behalf, any such document was put on board.

And the right honourable the lords commissioners, &c., are to take the necessary measures herein, as to them shall respectively appertain.

W. FAWKENER.

On the same day an additional order was passed in the following terms.

At the Court, &c., 11th November, 1807.

Whereas articles of the growth and manufacture of foreign countries cannot by law be imported into this country, except in British ships, or in ships belonging to the countries of which such articles are the growth and manufacture, without an order-in-council especially authorising the same.

His Majesty, taking into consideration the order of this day's date respecting the trade to be carried on to and from the ports of the enemy, and deeming it expedient that any vessel belonging to any country in alliance, or amity with his Majesty, may be permitted to import into this country articles of the produce or manufacture of countries at war with his Majesty.

His Majesty, by and with the advice of his privy council, is therefore pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that all goods, wares, or merchandizes, specified and included in the schedule of an act, passed in the forty third year of his present Majesty's reign, intituled "an act to repeal the duties of customs payable in Great Britain, and to grant other duties in lieu thereof" may be imported from any port or place belonging to any state not in amity with his Majesty, in ships belonging to any state at amity with his Majesty, subject to the payment of such duties, and liable to such drawbacks as are now established by law upon the importations of the said goods, wares, or merchandize, in ships navigated according to law; and with respect to such of the said goods, wares, or merchandize, as are authorised to be warehoused under the provisions of an act, passed in the forty third year of his present Majesty's reign, intituled, "an act for permitting certain goods imported into Great Britain, to be secured in warehouses without payment of duty," subject to all the regulations of the said last mentioned act; and with respect to all articles which are prohibited by law from being imported in this country, it is ordered that the same shall be reported for exportation to any country in amity or alliance with his Majesty.

And his Majesty is further pleased, by and with the advice of his privy council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that all vessels which shall arrive in any port of the United Kingdom, or at the port of Gibraltar or Malta, in consequence of having been warned pursuant to the aforesaid order, or in consequence of receiving information, in any other manner of the said order subsequent to their having taken on board any part of their cargoes, whether previous or subsequent to their sailing, shall be permitted to report their cargoes for exportation, and shall be allowed to proceed upon their voyages to their original ports of destination (if not unlawful before the issuing of the said order) or to any port at amity with his Majesty, upon receiving a certificate from the collector or comptroller of the customs at the port at which they shall so enter (which certificate, the said collectors and comptrollers of the customs are hereby authorised and required to give) setting forth that such vessels came into such port in consequence of being warned, or of receiving such information as aforesaid; and that they were permitted to sail from such port under the regulations which his Majesty has been pleased to establish in respect to such vessels. But in case any vessel so arriving shall prefer to import her cargo, then such vessel shall be allowed to enter and import the same, upon such terms and conditions as the said cargo might have been imported upon, according to law, in case the said vessels had sailed after having received notice of the said order, and in conformity thereto.

And it is further ordered that all vessels which shall arrive at any port of the United Kingdom, or at Gibraltar or Malta, in conformity and obedience to the said order, shall be allowed, in respect to all articles which may be on board the same, except sugar, coffee, wine, brandy, snuff, and tobacco, to clear out to any port whatever, to be specified in such clearance; and, with respect to the last mentioned articles, to export the same to such ports, and under such conditions, and regulations only as his Majesty, by any licence to be granted for that purpose, may direct.

And the right honourable, &c., &c.

Another order of the same date (11th November) prohibited transfers, or pretended transfers of the shipping of France and her allies to neutral flags to guard against capture, following in this, the order states, the example of France towards Great Britain. An order of the 25th defines what would be considered a reasonable time for notice to be received in various parts of the world of the orders of the 11th November. Every vessel, it was provided, "sailing on or after these days, from "those places respectively, shall be deemed and taken to have received notice." Other orders of the same date (25th November) were issued, but it seems unnecessary to give them.

To meet those measures of France and Great Britain, Mr. Jefferson, President of the United States, proposed to establish an embargo, by which all vessels belonging to the United States and goods of whatever description should not be allowed to leave the country. Madison, then Secretary of State, wrote the message to the Senate. The only member of Jefferson's cabinet who opposed the measure was Gallatin, Secretary of the Treasury, who held that if an embargo was imposed, it should only be for a limited period. "War", he wrote to Jefferson, "with all its "privations, with all the suffering, with all the loss of revenue it would bring, was better than a lasting embargo". (Gallatin to Jefferson, quoted by Mr. McMaster, "History of the People of the United States" vol. III., p. 277). The Act was passed and came into effect on the 22nd December, 1807.

The orders-in-Council were warmly discussed in Great Britain and in Parliament. The Opposition maintained that "the orders-in-Council were the real executors of "the Berlin decree. Under them", they held, "we employ our own shipping to "stop our own trade on the sea; we make prisons of our own ports to terrify the "neutral seamen, who otherwise would careen on our traffic and find a vent for our "manufactures, and play the very game of France, by throwing neutral powers into "her arms instead of our own". (Alison's "History of Europe", ed. 1854, vol. vii, pp. 177, 178).

Dissatisfaction with the Embargo law was not confined to words. It took the form of armed resistance amounting almost to rebellion; the Eastern States threatened secession from the Union; what Henry describes as taking place in Vermont was but a part of what was the case along the whole border, where the law was openly defied and violence, law breaking and even bloodshed were frequent.

Where the law was enforced the effect was disastrous; the condition of New York is described by Lambert in his "Travels". He had visited New York in November, 1807, when he found every thing in "motion, life, bustle and activity". He returned in the following April and found that every thing wore a dismal aspect. The embargo had lasted for upwards of three months "already", Lambert says, "had 120 failures taken place among the merchants and traders, to the amount of more than 5,000,000 dollars and there were above 500 vessels in the harbour, which were lying up useless and rotting for want of employment. Thousands of sailors, were either destitute of bread, wandering about the country, or had entered into the "British service". (Lambert, ed: 1810, vol. III., p. 77, also ed. 1814 vol. II., p. 64). He gives a vivid picture of the effect of such measures but the account is too long to quote.

The effect on the people of the United States of the decrees and orders-in-Council was an oscillation of feeling towards France and Great Britain, inclining at one time towards an alliance with the one or the other power, as their respective war measures affected injuriously the trade and shipping of the United States, or as some fresh cause of offence was given or imagined.

Much of the estrangement between the two countries arose from questions respecting the desertion of British seamen, their immediate employment on board United States ships of war and their at once obtaining naturalization papers, so as to protect them from impressment, the fraudulent papers being made the pretext for claiming them as citizens of the United States. The view taken by the Federalists who were opposed to Jefferson was that the state of the naturalization law was the root of all the misunderstandings and they argued that war was threatened for the protection of British deserters. In respect to the prevalence of desertions, Mr. Henry Adams ("History of the United States") says: "The desertion of British seamen and the systematic encouragement offered to deserters in every seaport of the Union were serious annoyances, which the American government were unable to excuse or correctAt Norfolk the crew of a British ship deserted to an American sloop of war, whose commander, while admitting the fact, refused to restore the men, alleging his construction of official orders in his excuse. (Vol. II., p. 333.) If the captain of a British frigate went ashore, he was likely to meet on his return to the wharf some of his boat's crew strolling about the town, every man supplied with papers of American citizenship.....no pretence was made of concealing the fraud, but they [the papers] were issued in any required quantity and were transferred for a few dollars from hand to hand." (p. 335.) The State of Virginia went the length of enacting a law to prevent deserters from being given up, in spite of the terms of Jay's treaty of 1794.

Apparently President Madison, who succeeded Jefferson, believed that it was this state of affairs which led to, if it did not justify impressment from vessels of the United States, for Mr. Monroe, his Secretary of State, replying to Admiral Warren's propositions for an armistice, after the declaration of war in June, 1812, proposed that if the British government was willing to suspend the practice of impressment from American vessels, on consideration that the United States would exclude British seamen from their vessels, the regulation to carry these conditions into effect would be solely the object of the negotiation. The practice of impressment was not found fault with, except in so far as regarded vessels belonging to the public service of the United States, possibly because it was regarded as a question affecting the internal management of another country. The brutality of impressment cannot now be denied, but the practice had been the growth of many years, was regarded as essential to the existence of the navy and especially so at a time when Great Britain was contending almost alone for freedom to the world. During the peace between 1815 and 1854, the first year of the Crimean war, the practice ceased and was not in use during that war. The evidence is clear that naturalization papers could be procured in the United States, without difficulty by any one and this was considered as so usual, that no blame attached to those obtaining fraudulent papers, John Jacob Astor having ordered the French Canadian voyageurs, whom he had engaged to act as pioneers of his fur trade, to take the oaths of naturalization to prevent them from being impressed (Washington Irving's Astoria). Franchere who was one of the pioneers in his "Relation d'un voyage," says from the time the voyageurs arrived in New York from Canada till they sailed was about five weeks, so that they were not entitled to certificates of naturalization.

The affair of the "Leopard" and the "Chesapeake" naturally caused an intense feeling of indignation in the United States, but through the exertions of the executive peace was preserved, and on the 13th November, 1811, Mr. Madison, the President, informed Congress that the "subject of difference between the two countries" is terminated by an offer of reparation which has been acceded to." The affair of the United States ship "President" and the British sloop "Little Belt," appears to have led to this adjustment. The terms of reparations are contained in Mr. Foster's note to Mr. Monroe of 1st November, 1811, who first states that Admiral Berkeley's act had been disavowed and he had been recalled as an act of the King's disapprobation. He then proceeded to offer, as authorised, the restoration of the men taken from the "Chesapeake" and a suitable pecuniary provision for the sufferers and their families. Peace was thus restored for the time being.

There were other circumstances apparently remote from Canadian interests, which yet had an important bearing on our relations with the United States. The purchase of Louisiana and the seizure of Florida threw that country into the arms of France and into hostile relations with Spain. Mr. Jefferson, the President, and the Senate were charged with passing an act respecting the trade with Hayti, in subservience to Napoleon, who gave orders, according to McMaster (History of the people of the United States, vol. III., p. 219), that the trade must stop. McMaster says: "Having thus received the orders of Napoleon, Congress in turn made haste "to obey, and on the last day of February, 1806, Jefferson signed another San Domingo bill. This stopped all trade for one year with every port in the island "over which the French flag did not fly. Never since the United States had a "President and a Congress had she been so disgraced. But there was no insult "which Jefferson would not brook, no degradation to which he would not descend "in order to please Napoleon and secure the Floridas." Henry Adams in his "History of the United States," vol. III., p. 141, whilst admitting the fact that the law was passed in accordance with Napoleon's desire, ("in consequence of Napoleon's positive order" are his words), puts another interpretation on the action of Congress. He says: "Nevertheless, this measure, which bore on its face the birth

" mark of Napoleonic features, did in fact owe its existence chiefly to a different parentage. In truth the Southern States dreaded the rebel negroes of Hayti more than they feared Napoleon. Fear often made them blind to their own attitudes ; in this instance it made them indifferent to the charge of servility to France. The opportunity to declare the negroes of Hayti enemies of the human race was too tempting to be rejected and not only did the Southern Republicans eagerly seize it, but they persuaded their Northern allies to support them." Instead of condensing and giving a summary of the statements of these authors, it has been thought best to give them in their own language.

Other effects springing from the acquisition of Louisiana and Florida not improbably prevented hostilities with Great Britain for a time, in addition it may be assumed to Jefferson's repugnance to war. These were the machinations of Aaron Burr and General Wilkinson to form a separate republic out of the newly acquired territories and the increased hostility of the Federalists to Jefferson, arising in part from general political considerations and in part from their dread of growing French influence with the Executive, but for these and other internal conditions reference must be made to the general histories of the United States, as to enter into any details on these subjects would be beyond the scope of this report.

In the papers and discussions preceding the declaration of war in 1812, in addition to the general charges against the British government in respect to impressment, orders-in-Council, &c., there are two points on which great stress is laid. One is the charge that the Indians were stirred up by the Indian officers, under the direction of the Governors of Canada, to levy war on the United States. An examination of the State papers from the date of the treaty of 1783, will show how unfounded is the charge. They are so numerous that only a general reference is possible, but the burden of all the orders and instructions is to restrain the Indians from attacking the United States ; indeed, so far was this carried as to involve the risk of the Indians throwing off their alliance with Great Britain. It is true that among the uninformed a belief prevailed that the agents were stirring up the Indians and supplying them with arms and ammunition, but the evidence is clear that all these reports and this belief arose from misapprehension of the facts. No serious author writing now, when the correspondence is easily available, could be excused for repeating such a stale charge.

The other point to which attention was directed by Mr. Madison, was the improper employment by the "public minister", that is the British Secretary of state, at the time he was holding the language of friendship, of "a secret agent of his government in intrigues, having for their object a subversion of our government and a dismemberment of our happy Union".

John Henry, the person referred to, whose letters are given in full in note B., at the time the letters were written was in business in Montreal, and in consequence of the failure of an agent was obliged to go to the United States to protect his interests and whilst there wrote to Mr. Ryland, then secretary for Sir James Craig. The letters were shown to Sir James, and in consequence he employed him to ascertain the state of feeling in the New England States and report.

In 1807, Henry had applied through merchants in Montreal for the office of puisné judge in Upper Canada, vacant by the dismissal of Thorpe. In a letter to Mr. Edward Cooke, an under Secretary of State, Lieutenant Governor Gore speaks in most unfavourable terms of Henry as an adventurer, not even called to the bar, but who had obtained the favour of the merchants of Montreal by defending their conduct in a party newspaper. Edward Ellice, on the other hand, spoke of him in the highest terms. In Note B. will be found his letters, the instructions by Sir James Craig, &c. Relying upon the services he had, or supposed he had, rendered to government he applied for a large reward, which was refused him and out of revenge he resolved to sell copies of the correspondence to Mr. Madison, the President, who believing he could make political capital from them against the Federalists bought the copies for $50,000.

The so called copies, when sent to the Senate, were found to be worthless, not being copies but rather paraphrases, every thing of a compromising nature being omitted. An examination of the letters in note B, will show their nature, but the engagement of Henry, was not sanctioned by the Colonial Secretary, being entirely the action of Sir James Craig. Lord Liverpool, writing to Sir George Prevost on the 15th May, 1812, remarks that whatever impression may have been produced by the publication of Henry's letters, he trusted that no hostile measures would be adopted before an explanation was given, which should have been required before Henry's assertions were credited. It was to some extent through the mediation of a soi disant Count Crillon, that Henry obtained the $50,000, his first demand being for $125,000; immediately on receipt of the money Henry sailed and shortly after it was discovered that Count Crillon was a spy of the French police. Both disappeared and no further trace of them can be found among the documents. Of the war itself, so much has been written, that it would be idle to attempt a summary, even were there room for it. Those who are anxious for fuller details than are in printed works, may find valuable materials among the original documents in series C and M and in the transcripts marked series Q. Those in the latter series are calendared; the volumes in series C are numbered from 673 to 695; those in series M begin at number 104; the accounts relating to Army Bills are in series C from 320 onward.

In note C, "the Roman Catholic Church in Upper Canada," the correspondence relates chiefly to the establishment of that Church in the district of Glengarry, under the Rev. Alexander McDonell, who accompanied the settlers there as chaplain.

Whilst there is ample information respecting the early missionary work of the Roman Catholic Church in the western part of the province of Quebec, which included Ontario and a part of the United States, very little can be found respecting that work subsequent to the conquest until a comparatively recent period. The Rev. Alexander McDonell, subsequently the first Bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in Upper Canada, arrived in 1804, and from the first had great influence among his co-religionists. In note C will be found some correspondence dated from 1784, which shows that the disbanded men of Sir John Johnson's corps asked to be settled separately, the Protestants and Roman Catholics in distinct bodies. Authority was sent on the 6th May, to grant these respective requests. In the following year the Rev. Roderick Macdonell, in a memorial, prayed to be allowed to join his Roman Catholic countrymen as their chaplain, a request which was granted, as appears by a letter dated 24th June, 1785, from Lord Sydney, to Lieut.-Governor Hamilton, then administering the government of the province of Quebec, and in that year Mr. Roderick McDonell, was appointed to the Iroquois mission of St. Regis, where, according to a memorial by Bishop Hubert to Lord Dorchester, dated 20th May, 1790, Monsieur Roderique McDonell, as he is called in the memorial, fulfilled the duties for nearly five years, "with much success and edification" (Mandements, &c., des Eveques de Quebec, Vol. II, p. 428). This corroborates the statement that he was appointed missionary in 1785. In the report on Archives for 1889, is a return dated in 1790, entitled "Ecclesiastical State of Canada, Catholic and Protestant." It gives the names of Roderick and Alexander Macdonell, as serving in the district of Lunenburg, Roderick at St. Regis, Alexander at Oswegatchie (Prescott?). (Archives series Q., vol. 49, p. 350). In a report sent to Rome in 1794, giving an account of the diocese of Quebec, the Bishop states that as a consequence of the French Revolution he had obtained a supply (renfort) of clergy, which brought the number in the diocese up to 160, of whom 9 were in Nova Scotia, and vicinity (lieux d'allentour) under the superintendence of a superior, established in 1784, and 4 were in Upper Canada, of whom one was the Bishop's Grand Vicar; no names were given. In this report the Bishop spoke in very hopeful terms of the rapid growth of the new lands, that is Upper Canada, which he reported would soon require a greater number of workers (Mandements, vol. II., p. 483).

In the summer of 1801, Bishop Denaut, made a visitation to Kingston and Detroit, and in February, 1802, he returned to visit the remote parishes (paroisses éloignées) of St. André and St. Raphael. In these two visits he reported that he had confirmed upwards of 2,000 persons, but no statement is given of the numbers in the different localities. (Mandements, vol. II, p. 505). On the 25th of April following (1802) the Bishop addressed a pastoral letter "aux habitants du Haut Canada," the full address (translated) is:—"To all the inhabitants of the county of Glengarry and other places in the Province of Upper Canada, administered to (desservis) by Mr. Alexander McDonell, missionary," (Mandements, vol. II., p. 525). In this letter the Bishop referred to his previous visit in February, and now sent regulations for the proper organisation of the mission.

In 1806, Bishop Plessis reported to the "Cardinal Préfet de la Propagande" that he proposed in accordance with a plan suggested by the late Bishop Hubert, to have three coadjutors instead of one, the first to be in Montreal, the second in Upper Canada, and the third in the Maritime Provinces, the first appointment to be that for Upper Canada. (Mandements, vol. III., p. 18). As a reference will show, the Bishop reported in 1794, that he had a Grand Vicar in Upper Canada at that time, whether his proposal for a coadjutor in Upper Canada was granted or not does not appear, but the almost certain inference is that the proposal was rejected.

Until 1816, Upper Canada is not directly spoken of in the mandements, although it scarcely admits of a doubt that amidst the number of circular letters given in the volumes, some were addressed to Upper Canada. In that year (1816) Bishop Plessis, according to the biographical notice prefixed to his mandements, etc., went to Upper Canada, to give confirmation in the settlements formed at St. Raphael at Glengarry, at Kingston and at Sandwich, as far as the River La Tranche (Thames) on the borders of civilization.

Some confusion has arisen as to the individualities of the priests from the similarity of names, and this confusion has crept into the meagre accounts that are accessible. A careful comparison of dates will, however, leave no uncertainty on the subject. Reference may be made to note C, for information to 1817. A memorial by Mr. Macdonell, dated in London, 15th June, 1817, show that he was then vicar-general, but when he became so is not ascertainable from the documents here. In the report by the bishop in 1794, already referred to, it is stated that of the four priests then in Upper Canada, one was a vicar-General. In a memorial by Mr. Macdonell dated in 1817, a circumstance is stated which shows how far the "No Popery Cry" raised by Lord George Gordon in 1780 had extended. Mr. Macdonell in 1791, according to the memorial, had gone to Glasgow to assist and encourage his fellow countrymen who had been obliged to leave their homes in the Highlands "although" as the memorial says, "with considerable danger to his personal safety, as no clergymen of his persuasion had hardly ventured to stay one night in that town since the mobs of 1780." In 'Barnaby Rudge' one of the novels written by Dickens, a striking account is given of the scenes that took place in London during the progress of the Lord George Gordon riots, which is as vivid a picture in the garb of fiction as Defoe's account of the great plague in London, which is entirely a fiction in the garb of history.

On the 21st December, 1814, continued to the 28th January, 1815, Major General Procter was placed on trial for his conduct in the retreat consequent on the loss of the fleet on Lake Erie on the 10th September, 1813. In the report of the Court Martial there are five counts or charges, substantially that he did not act with sufficient judgment or energy in conducting his retreat. The general summing up is in these words: "Upon the whole the court is of opinion that the prisoner, Major General Procter, has in many instances during the retreat and in the disposition of the force under his command, been erroneous in judgment, and in some deficient in those energetic and active exertions, which the extraordinary difficulties of his situation so particularly required."

"The Court doth therefore adjudge him, the said Major General Procter, to be publicly reprimanded and to be suspended from rank and pay for the period of six calendar months."

"But as to any defect or reproach, with regard to the personal conduct of Major General Procter, during the action on the 5th of October, the Court most fully and honorably acquits the said Major General Procter". (Archives, series C., vol. 166, p. 186.)

Whilst awaiting the decision of the Prince Regent on the findings of the Court Martial, General Procter endeavoured in the months of May and June to have them revised and should the subject be brought before Parliament he transmitted most voluminous documents in support of his case. These will be found in the volume 135-2 of series Q, those enclosed in the May letter begin, with the letter itself, at page 406 and continue to page 415, and the others for June are in the same volume pp. 417 to 547. It was not till the 9th of September, 1815, that a decision was come to by the Prince Regent. Some effect appears to have been produced by the appeal by Procter, through Lord Bathurst, for the Prince

Regent, whilst disapproving of part of the proceedings, acquiesced in and confirmed so much of the sentence as adjudged the prisoner to be publicly reprimanded, but said nothing of the suspension of rank and pay. The decision seems not to have been satisfactory to the Prince Regent, as the opening words of the paragraph confirming the sentence would seem to show. It sets out: "Under all the circumstances of the case, however, and particularly those which render it impossible to have recourse to the otherwise expedient measure of reassembling the Court for the revival of their proceedings, the Prince Regent has been pleased to acquiesce in, &c. (Series C vol. 116, p. 186.)

Owing to the death of Sir George Prevost, the Court Martial which was to have been held on his conduct at Plattsburg never took place. On the 5th of March, 1815, he complained that the only notice he had received of disapprobation of his conduct was by a letter sent by a junior officer, and that although it was stated that the revocation of his commission as Governor General was not meant as a mark of the Prince Regent's displeasure, it bore every indication that such was the reason. On the 1st of March Sir George had received from Mr. Baker, ambassador at Washington, an official notification of the ratification of peace (the treaty of Ghent signed there on the 24th of December, the ratifications having been exchanged at Washington on the 17th of February). He had, he says, lost no time in promulgating the intelligence and in causing an immediate cessation of hostilities. As some balm to his wounded feelings the House of Assembly passed a resolution of confidence in his administration expressed in the strongest terms and voted a service of plate not exceeding £5,000 sterling in value "as a testimonial of the high sense this House entertains of His Excellency's distinguished talents, wisdom and abilities". (Series Q., vol. 131, p. 131). The Legislative Council not concurring in the grant, the intention of the Legislative Assembly failed of effect.

On the 23rd of May, Mr. Croker, the Secretary of the Admiralty, wrote to Mr. Goulburn, Under Secretary of State, that it would be necessary on account of the charges brought against Prevost that he should be directed to return for his justification and that the commodore should be on the spot during the inquiry (series Q, vol. 134-1, p. 10).

On the 6th June the Duke of York informed Lord Bathurst that a Court Martial would be assembled whenever he should be furnished with the specific charges, (series Q, 134-1, p. 57). The delay evidently irritated Sir George Prevost, as on the 11th August, he wrote a very emphatic letter on the subject to the Duke of York, the commander in chief, (series Q, vol. 134-1, p. 65).

Sir James Lucas Yeo, the commodore of the Lake fleet, the principal accuser of Prevost, wrote on the 19th August, 1815, that he would forward the charges with all possible dispatch, and indignantly denied that he had been searching for information in the United States to colour the allegations against Prevost, which were contained in his dispatches to the Lords of the Admiralty. (Series Q. vol. 134-1, p. 25).

On the 5th September, Sir James Yeo's charges were presented (Q., vol. 134-1, p. 42). These had previously been submitted to the Judge Advocate General (p. 39). These documents had not, however, been forwarded till the 9th of September and Sir George Prevost continued to urge the commander-in-chief to prevent further delay in assembling the Court Martial, a demand which His Royal Highness evidently regarded as justifiable, as he calls the attention of Lord Bathurst to the delay, which was the more unfortunate as the publication of the decision of the Naval Court Martial had the effect of prejudging the case of Sir George Prevost. (Series Q. 134-1, p. 69, see also 171). The proceedings of the Naval Court Martial referred to, with correspondence are in the same volume, beginning at p. 32. On the 9th of October, the Judge Advocate-General intimated to Lord Bathurst that the Prince Regent had issued a warrant for the trial of Sir George Prevost; but no date was fixed as appears by a notice sent to Captain Freer, by the Deputy Judge Advocate-General, dated the 20th October, which states that the Court Martial was to be held as soon as conveniently may be. Although dated the 20th of October it could not have been dispatched very expeditiously, as it did not reach Captain Freer till the 14th of November, as appears by his letter of the 15th of that month, dated at Lower Brook Street, (series M, vol. 144, pp. 9, 10).

The date for holding the Court Martial was postponed from time to time, but was finally fixed for the 5th of February, the reason for this latter date being chosen was stated in a letter from the Judge Advocate-General to be "on account of Sir George being much indisposed." (Series M., vol. 144, p. 14). Before the trial was held Sir George died and on the 9th the Deputy-Advocate-General informed the witnesses that in consequence of the death their attendance would not be required but the date of death is not given there. (Series M., vol. 144, p. 22). That is supplied by an application from Lady Prevost to the Secretary at War in which she states that the death took place on the 5th of January, up till which time she asks for the balance of his staff pay which was refused but by another application. Lady Prevost urged the reconsideration of the decision, pleading that in event of his acquittal, of which she expressed no doubt, he was to be immediately replaced. Another memorial, undated, was forwarded by the Duke of York to Lord Bathurst on the 27th of March, 1816, in which Lady Prevost prayed for some mark of the royal favour to vindicate the character of her late husband. Other documents accompany the memorial, which is followed by a long account of the occurrences at Plattsburg, unsigned and undated. (Series Q., vol. 138, pp. 132 to 162). The account of the military operations begins at p. 144. It is unnecessary to enumerate all the memorials sent by Lady Prevost to have her husband's reputation cleared of the charges brought against him. In a letter dated 28th May, 1816, Lady Prevost says: "Your Lordship cannot be surprised at my declaring explicitly that I feel not only justified but imperiously called upon, by every tie of duty to my late husband and his family, to resort to every means I possess, of obtaining that justice to his memory which is denied me by Your Lordship." (Series Q., vol. 140-2, p. 399). Following up this resolution, she on the 17th June, made a demand for a peerage but without any pecuniary assistance, her sole object, she said: "being to exhibit my husband's unspotted fame, a good soldier's best possession and most valuable legacy. To attain this most important object of my solicitation, I must request that a General Order may emanate from His Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief expressive of the Prince Regent's entire approbation of my husband's eminent and meritorious services which should be separately stated and include his last command.

"Secondly, MY LORD, I claim that our family escutcheon should have the addition of appropriate supporters which several baronets are permitted to display

"and that a new motto should be adopted in the following sense—Le Canada est encore à l'Angleterre—These royal favours would of course appear in the Gazette in "such terms as being previously made known to me, I shall acknowledge to be, in "your Lordship's words, consonant to my feelings."

To these proposals she adds: "These My Lord are my most moderate claims", but she winds up with a threat that if her husband's character is not justified she would withdraw the veil which clouded the judgment of the country in this singular case, a threat apparently aimed at Sir James Yeo. (Series Q. vol. 140-2, pp. 408,409). No peerage was bestowed, but in 1817, new supporters and motto were granted, which are thus described in Burke's "Peerage and Baronetage".

"Supporters.—Two grenadiers of the 16th (or Bedfordshire) regt. of infantry, "each supporting with the exterior hand a flag, gu.; that on the dexter flowing "towards the sinister inscribed WEST INDIES and that on the sinister flowing "towards the dexter inscribed CANADA.

"Motto—Servatum cineri."

The issue of Army Bills during the war of 1812 was found to be a great convenience. On the 1st of August, 1812, a Board appointed to consider the establishment necessary to carry into effect the proposed plan for the issue of Army Bills reported the proper method for the establishment of an office to be called the Army Bill Office, entering into details of the manner of carrying on the work, the officers, &c. (Series C. vol. 329, p. 48). The want of small bills appears to have been felt before long, as on the 24th January, 1814, the Board recommended that Army Bills should be issued of one, two, three, five and ten dollars, redeemable by government bills of exchange on London. The bills had not been long in circulation till counterfeits began to appear, and Mr Neilson, of Quebec, was called on by Mr. Green, director of the Army bills office, to make a report on the method of detecting counterfeits which he did on the 29th October, 1814 (Series C., Vol. 330, p. 166). Apparently these counterfeits were increasing in number, and Mr. Green points out the difficulty of detection added to by the necessity of immediately meeting demands on the part of the vessels which at that season (November) were constantly departing (p. 187). A report dated 1st December, 1814, stated that at that time a sum of £475,131 currency in bills of ten dollars and under had been circulated, that so large a sum was no longer necessary and that it was expedient to cease all reissues of such bills on account of the number of forgeries. (Series C., Vol. 330, p. 192). Regulations recommended and remarks follow.

In Upper Canada, these bills became the medium of payments and took the place of gold and silver, but in April, 1816, the commissariat through which the bills had been introduced, refused to take them in exchange for bills on Quebec to the great inconvenience of the people of Upper Canada, holders of these bills, who complained of the refusal of the commissariat. In consequence of this complaint an order was sent by the Treasury, dated 4th September, that the Commissary general was to afford every facility in his power. On the first of May, 1818 a proclamation ordered all holders of army bills to present them for redemption before the 31st of October when the office would be finally closed; if not so presented, the holders could not receive or claim the payment. By a subsequent proclamation, however, the time was extended to the 1st of April, 1819, (Series C., vol. 336, p. 118). A recommendation by Sir John C. Sherbrooke to the legislature to continue the establishment to the 1st August, 1819, was not acted on, so that Sir John wrote to the Treasury to be furnished with the necessary power to make the required extension of time. (Series Q., vol.

148-1., pp. 173 to 177). In May of 1819, Mr. Green, director of the Army Bills Office, represented that owing to the great extent of clerical work, it was impossible to close the office, and asked for another year, to the first of August, 1820. (Series C., vol. 337, p. 22). An extension of six months was granted by the Treasury, bringing the time down to February, 1820. (p. 24,) but the time was ultimately fixed for the end of 1820, and on the 24th of December of that year the clerks were discharged and on the 3rd of May, 1821, Mr. Green reported that he had transferred the balances and books to the commissariat, (Series C., vol. 338, p. 64), the receipt for which was dated 28th April, (pp. 65 to 74).

It may be of some interest to give the following undated table, but as near as can possibly be determined, prepared in October, 1819. It is called a Memo : with the title :

Grand total of the number of Army Bills, issued, viz. :

"	50 "	63,914	798,925.
"	25 "	92,726	579,537.10
			-----	£ 2,793,612.10.0
Bills at	10 "	127,600	£ 319,000
"	5 "	72,000	90,000
"	3 "	64,000	48,000
"	2 "	106,500	53,250

with specie only	1 "	179,000	44,750

It will be observed that the sums are in currency, each dollar being counted as five shillings, equal to four dollars to each pound currency.

In series Q., vol. 138, beginning at page 330 is a correspondence in relation to confining to a limited number on the lakes, the armed vessels of Great Britain and the United States, on a proposal by Mr. Adams, the United States minister at London on behalf of the President, it being his wish as stated in Sir Charles Bagot's letter to Mr. Monroe, "that some understanding should be had, or agreement entered into between the two countries, in regard to their naval armaments upon the Lakes, which while it tended to diminish the expenses of each country, might diminish also the chances of collision and prevent any feelings of jealousy." (Q. 138, p. 341). It appears to be unnecessary to give all the diplomatic correspondence.

It was originally suggested by Sir Charles Bagot that instead of a formal convention, it would be an easier course, if the two governments were left to take their respective measures in a spirit of mutual confidence, a suggestion in which Mr.

Monroe did not concur. On the 4th of February, 1817, Sir Charles Bagot was informed that the British Government was ready to confirm by a formal stipulation between the two countries, the naval force to be maintained on the Lakes on either side between the narrowest limits compatible with the immediate necessities of the public service. (Q. 146, p. 80). On the 5th of May, 1817, an agreement was reached, the terms of which are contained in a proclamation signed by Mr. Monroe, United States Secretary of State.

These are that

"The Naval Force to be maintained upon the American Lakes, by His Majesty and the Government of the United States shall henceforth be confined to the following vessels on each side; that is—

"On Lake Ontario, to 1 vessel not exceeding 100 tons burden, and armed with 1 eighteen pound cannon.

"On the Upper Lakes, to 2 vessels, not exceeding like burden each, and armed with like force.

"On the waters of Lake Champlain, to 1 vessel not exceeding like burden and armed with like force.

"All other armed vessels on these Lakes shall be forthwith dismantled, and no other vessels of War shall be then built or armed.

"If either party should hereafter be desirous of annulling this stipulation and should give notice to that effect to the other party, it shall cease to be binding after the expiration of 6 months from the date of such notice.

"The Naval Force so to be limited shall be restricted to such services as will in no respect, interfere with the proper duties of the armed vessels of the other party."

This proclamation is dated 28th April, 1818. (Series P. F., vol. 61).

Previous to and even during the war of 1812, emigration to some extent had been carried on, but apparently no systematic effort had been made till the beginning of 1815, when Mr. Campbell, of Edinburgh, was appointed to act as Government Agent, to forward emigration from the highlands of Scotland to Canada. At the same time, according to a report by Mr. Fitzgerald, agents from the United States were in Ireland offering very advantageous terms to men who would engage to go there, although nominally they were to be engaged to go to Newfoundland. The condition laid on those to be accepted by Mr. Campbell that a deposit should be paid by each intending emigrant acted as an obstacle, a great number being unable to obtain the amount necessary for the deposit. A memorial to that effect was drawn up, signed by discharged soldiers and others and sent to Mr. Campbell to be forwarded to Earl Bathurst. Besides the deposit, the time fixed for embarkation (April) was represented as being too short a period for preparation and the memorial prayed that the time might be extended to the 16th June. At the same time Captain McCaskill, of the 53rd Regiment proposed to collect in Ross shire from five hundred to a thousand families to be sent to Canada in the course of a year, whom he undertook to drill and fit for the defence of the frontier. It would occupy too much space to enter into details and proposals, made for settlements of people from Ireland, Germany, the Netherlands, etc. The same remark applies to the military settlements on the Rideau and St. Francis, details of which will be found in the papers calendared in this report. It will be found that the Island of Anticosti was an object of desire in 1815, an application having been made for a grant of the Island by Donald McEachern on the 26th April of that year, (Q. 135-2, p. 364) with the object of settling it, the claim for the salary of £100 a year paid to two families placed there for the purpose of caring for the shipwrecked being abandoned.

Besides subjects of general interest, such as the trade with the United States, the fishery treaty, etc., there are others of a purely local nature, such as the acquisition of St. Helen's Island, the proposal of establish iron works at Gananoque, the establishment of McGill College, etc., which can be ascertained by an investigation of the calendar and need not be more minutely dealt with in this preliminary report.

The whole respectfully submitted.

Archivist.

NOTE A.

INDIAN LANDS ON THE GRAND RIVER.

NO. 1.—SIR PEREGRINE MAITLAND TO EARL BATHURST.

UPPER CANADA, YORK, 22nd February, 1821.

MY LORD,—Being informed that a delegation from the five nations of Indians on the Grand River is about to proceed to Europe in order to prefer to your Lordship a complaint that the promise held out to them by General Haldimand has not been fulfilled, but that part of the land designed for their use has been subtracted and applied to settlement of white people, I have the honour to present to your Lordship a concise relation which may apprise Your Lordship of the merits of this complaint.

The several tribes of Indians inhabiting the province of New York took different sides in the revolutionary war and such of them as joined the King's colonies came to Canada at the peace of 1783.

As lands were granted to other loyal adherents, a purchase was made from the natives for the accommodation of these Indian refugees and notice of this purchase was given to them in a letter from Sir Frederick Haldimand, commander of the forces in 1784, describing it as a tract of six miles on each side of the Grand River from its mouth to its source, and stated by the General to have been then recently bought from the Chippawas.

This description, however, was vague and indiscriminate for the source of the river was unknown and its course was winding. In fact, the purchase from the Chippawas did not extend to the source of the river, which turned out to be much further removed from its mouth than was first supposed and reported. The land, however, six miles on each side of the Grand River was by this document devoted to the use of the nations or tribes of Indians and their posterity.

Such a dedication was sufficient, for their habits required no further formality; they were incapable of taking a regular grant; they had no capacity to sell or lease or to circumscribe the possession allotted by Government to them or their posterity.

Some, however, of each of these tribes remained on their own lands in the United States and treated with that Government or licensed individuals for the sale of those lands in the produce of which sale that part of the tribes removed to Canada participated and the sum received may form some estimate of what they pretended to have lost.

This permission to sell land belonging to themselves in the United States suggested to Joseph Brant, and some few white adherents, the idea of disposing of the territory in this province which they were only permitted to occupy. Its boundaries had been settled and adjusted by a formal act of the tribes with commissioners in behalf of the Crown and the neighbouring district of Nassau and were simplified by a line drawn from one point to another in the Grand River and an extent of six miles on each side of that line.

The record of this Act, with a diagram explanatory, was lodged in the office of the Surveyor General and might appear conclusive on this subject, yet His Majesty's servants have been induced to sanction the pretension of these tribes to the full extent of the course of the Grand River.

A draft of a patent designed by Lord Dorchester gives to the Indians the full extent of six miles on each side of the Grand River from its mouth to its source.

A patent under seal of the province of Upper Canada was signed by Lieut.-Governor Simcoe, limiting the six miles on each side of the river to the extent of the purchase from the Chippawas.

It imports the present administration to show that there exists no more formal title in favour of the Five Nations than the letter from Sir Frederick Haldimand. That the description of the tract in the letter was a misconception is evinced from the fact, that the purchase from the Nations therein referred to did not extend to the source of the Grand River, and more than was bought could not be given.

The lands towards the source of the Grand River remaining unconceded, have recently been purchased from the natives and laid out in townships for the accommodation of the provincial Militia and European emigrants, who are already settled in large numbers upon the ground now claimed by the Five Nations as a gift from the Crown.

The copy of a supposed grant limited only by the source of the river may be referred to by the delegates, but is only the project of a patent never completed.

There is indeed an apparent grant under the seal of this province, signed by Lieut.-Governor Simcoe, but it was never registered, never audited. It is evident from these deficiencies that it was proposed for some event which never took place, was never delivered but kept as an Escrew of a private conveyance supposed to be useless and invalid until sanctioned by the fiat of the Attorney General, Registration, Audit and Delivery.

That this patent was unknown to the Attorney General is obvious from the case subsequently stated by him for an opinion on the legality of any grant to the Indians with power of alienation.

It may be also shown by the Delegates, that this Government did not consider the extent of the Six Nations territory as bounded by the act of the chiefs conjointly with the commissioner of the Nassau District, since it accepted from these Nations a surrender of territory beyond that demarcation, as part of the Royal Bounty bestowed upon them, in order to be regranted to the individuals named by them as purchasers for valuable considerations.

It is not only true that such a form of surrender does exist, but also that in conformity to its object, grants of the tracts so surrendered were made by the provincial Government to the individuals named in express defiance of His Majesty's commands signified by His Secretary of State on the particular occasion.

A transaction effected under the operation of terror or delusion, or from any less excusable motive, can never be cited as favourable to the parties immediately concerned, however it may be sustained in regard of strangers acquiring supposed Rights under the apparent sanction of a legal act of the Government.

Such irregularities speak volumes as to the influence acquired by these Tribes over the Councils of His Majesty's provincial Government, yet the actual administration entered not into useless investigation of the past. It was willing to admit that the tract designed for the use of the five nations should be deemed to extend to the most northern point of the purchase declared by Sir Frederick Haldimand to have been made for their use, but when it is ascertained by the Records of the Indian department and all other documents respecting the purchase that it did not extend to the whole course of the River and that the land within the limit of that course, required for the accommodation of settlers, was still to be purchased, there was no further hesitation as to the error in Sir Frederick Haldimand's communication. It was obvious that he supposed the purchase from the Indians extended to the source of the Grand River and that this source was south of the line tracing upon the map the limits of the purchase and which did not show the course of the River.

If the instrument had been more formal and clothed with all legal solemnities it could not have given more than there was to give.

So much is offered as to the actual claim of Right by the five Nations. The equity of their pretension to further indulgence remains to be considered. Each of these Tribes possessed in the old provinces considerable extent of hunting ground and village seats in which they resided with their families when not engaged in the hunt. So much they forfeited by expatriation, supposing them to have retained no interest in the lands abandoned.

Their fellow sufferers amongst the white people were grateful for the land assigned to them in Canada and the aid afforded to re-establish themselves.

The grant of land to each family was from one to three hundred acres, increasing with their Military Rank to three thousand.

One year's provisions and some tools of husbandry were added, and the liberality of the Crown was lauded by these people as without example. They have become a thriving and loyal colony.

The tract of land assigned to the five Nations of Indians, who to the amount of eight hundred families emigrated to Canada was in block, the manner best adapted to their capacity for enjoying it as hunters—subdivided it would have afforded to each family nine hundred and seventy acres.

Arms, ammunition and clothing were and still are supplied to them, to procure provision with these means is to them a source of health and enjoyment.

If the Indians have restricted their hunting ground by sales to the white people which they have done to the extent of Three hundred and fifty-six thousand acres, is it reasonable to listen to their pretension for a more extensive grant?

Frederick Haldimand, Captain General and Governor in chief of Quebec and Territories depending thereon, &c., &c., &c., General and Commander in Chief of His Majesty's Forces in the said Province and the Territories thereof &c., &c., &c.

Whereas His Majesty having been pleased to direct in consideration of the early attachment to his cause manifested by the Mohawk Indians, and of the loss of their settlement which they thereby sustained, that a convenient tract of land under His protection should be chosen as a safe and comfortable retreat for them and others of the six nations who have either lost their settlements within the territory of the American States, or wish to retire from them to the British; I have at the desire of many of these His Majesty's faithful allies, purchased a tract of land from the Indians situated between the Lakes Ontario, Huron and Erie, and I do hereby in His Majesty's name, authorise and permit the said Mohawk Nation, and such other of the Six Nation Indians as wish to settle in that quarter to take possession of and settle upon the banks of the river commonly called Ouse or Grand River, running into Lake Erie, allotting them for that purpose six miles deep from each side of the River, beginning at Lake Erie and extending in that proportion to the head of the said River, which them and their posterity are to enjoy for ever.

Given under my hand and seal at arms at the Castle of Saint Lewis at Quebec the 25th day of October 1784 and in the 25th year of His Majesty's Reign.

No. 3.—COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL TO ALURED CLARKE, LIEUT. GOVERNOR.

(Archives, Series Q. vol. 329, p. 66.)

To His Excellency Alured Clarke, Lieut.-Governor and Commander in Chief of the Province of Quebec, &c., &c., &c.

May it please your Excellency,

The Committee consisting of John Collins, Adam Mabane, George Pownall, Wm. Grant and Fran Baby, Esquires, appointed by His Excellency The Right Honourable Lord Dorchester, on the 4th January, 1791, to report on the claims of certain Indians to Lands assigned them on the Grand River and Bay of Quinté; pray Your Excellency to receive as their report thereon, the annexed journal of their proceedings—Humbly submitting the same to Your Excellency's great wisdom.

Signed by order of the Committee.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS, QUEBEC, 24th December, 1791.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, 31st January, 1791.

The committee appointed by His Lordship in Council on the 4th instant to acquire information and report upon claims of certain Indians of the Six Nations to a tract of land at the Grand River north of Lake Erie.

Met at the call of the chair:

Mr. Collins, Chairman,

Mr. Powell,

Mr. Grant,

Mr. Baby,

Mr. Mabane, absent on the circuit.

His Lordship informed the Board that certain Indians of the Six Nations claimed a tract of land at the Grand River on the north shore of Lake Erie, stated to have been promised to them by Sir Frederick Haldimand in the year 1784. That some claimants actually resided there, and there was another settlement of Indians of the six nations in the Bay of Quinté. His Lordship pointed out the expediency of ascertaining the nature and extent of these claims to give full effect to any promises and to gratify any reasonable expectations in which the faith of government might be concerned in such a way as would best answer the end of making a permanent provision for the persons and their descendants and securing their comfort and tranquillity.

Ordered that Messrs. Collins, Mabane, Pownall, Grant and Baby be a committee to acquire the necessary information by correspondence with the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs and otherwise, and to report the result of their enquiries with their opinion of the proper course to be taken and the draft of a Bill if they shall conceive the Legislative Interposition necessary.

Resolved that the chairman enclose a copy thereof by this day's post to Sir John Johnson, Baronet, Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, and request his information on the business referred with all convenient speed.

Adjourned to the next call of the Chair.

March 10th, 1791.

The Committee met on the call of the chair at the Council Chamber. Present:

Messrs. Collins,

“ Baby.

Mr. Grant being absent on other public business.

The Chairman laid before the Committee a letter from Sir John Johnson, dated Montreal the 3rd February last, with two enclosures, as follows:

Sir,—In answer to your letter of the 30th January by order of the Committee of which you are chairman enclosing His Lordship's order of Council of the 4th of same month, and the Committee's Resolve thereon, I have the honour to transmit herewith for their information the substance of Capt. Brant's wishes respecting forming a settlement of the Mohawks and others of the Six Nations Indians on the Grand River, &c., together with extracts of two letters from General Haldimand upon the subject of the two Grants under consideration, all which I think I transmitted to His Lordship.

The purchase on the Grand River was made in consequence of the orders I received from the Commander in Chief and the Deed I think is lodged in His Lordship's office at Quebec; as no survey has yet been made of the tract it is uncertain whether the Course described in the Deed, commencing at a certain point at the entrance of the little Lake at the head of Lake Ontario, will intersect the Grand or Oswego River, so high up as the River La Tranche.

When at Niagara I proposed to the Land Board to employ Mr. Kotte to determine that point and the boundaries of the intended Grant, but the Commanding Officer objected to the proposal. I am not without hopes that Brant and all concerned will relinquish a small Township in depth from the mouth of the River upwards, so as to preserve a continuation of the settlements forming on the Lake side and in hopes the River may prove a harbour for small vessels. The original demand of the Mohawks was from the centre of the River Appenine to another River or Creek, the name of which I do not recollect. But you have their boundaries as last agreed on. I imagine they expect to extend in rear as far as the country was purchased from the Missisagues.

I have the honour, &c.

JOHN COLLINS, ESQUIRE.

JOHN JOHNSON.

Extract of a letter from General Haldimand.

QUEBEC, 23rd March, 1784.

SIR,—Enclosed I transmit for your information the substance of Joseph Brant's requisitions with my answer thereto. Since my letter to you of the 13th instant, I have had frequent conversations with Joseph on the subject of it, which have confirmed me in the opinion therein expressed respecting the settlement proposed upon the Grand River for such of the Mohawks and others of the Six Nations who shall chuse to retire to it. The enclosed will show you that Joseph is so sanguine in this business as to expect it may be immediately carried into execution. Desirous to gratify the wishes of these deserving people, no time should be lost in that part of it which falls to our share. You will please therefore to give Lieutenant Colonel Butler the necessary directions for purchasing without loss of time the tract of country as described in the enclosed, viz.: the Lands situated between Lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron. Satisfied that you will be very particular in your instructions to Colonel Butler respecting the terms of this purchase, I shall only observe that the utmost attention to economy must be paid in this and all future expenses in a department which has had so great share in exhausting the public Treasury.

SIR JOHN JOHNSON.

Substance of Captain Brant's wishes respecting forming a settlement of the Mohawks and others of the Six Nation Indians upon the Grand River, &c.

That His Excellency the Commander in Chief should give the Superintendent and Inspector General of Indian Affairs instructions and empower Lieutenant Colonel Butler to purchase from the Missisagues or proprietors a tract of Land consisting of about six miles on each side of the Grand River, called Oswego, running from the River La Tranche into Lake Erie for the use of the Mohawks and such of the Six Nations as are inclined to join them in that settlement.

Colonel Butler is fully acquainted with the views and inclinations of Captain Brant and the Mohawks respecting the settlement and only waits the General's approbation to make the purchase; the sooner this can be done the better, as they would remove time enough in the Spring to plant corn, &c., and Captain Brant would propose that some of his party be sent off upon this business to Colonel Butler, as soon as he returns to Montreal. The above mentioned limits are only meant for Indians of the Six Nations who may settle there but a more considerable tract of Land may at the same time be purchased on very reasonable terms whereon to settle Loyalists or for any future purpose.

N. B.—Sir John Johnson will be instructed to purchase the tract of country between the three lakes Ontario, Erie and Huron, out of which the tract required by the Mohawks for the Six Nations will be granted to them by a Deed. The rest will be reserved for Loyalists or any future purpose.

The Chairman read to the committee an Entry in the Council Book of the 9th March, 1785, in the following words, it appearing to concern the object in Reference. Extract from the Minutes of Council on Monday, the 7th of March, 1785.

His Honour the Lieut.-Governor laid before the Council a copy of His Excellency General Haldimand's speech to Captain John, the chief of the Mohawk Nation and his friends with Captain John's answer thereto, addressed to Major Potts, commanding at Cataraqui, dated Cataraqui, 12th January, 1785, also a letter from Joseph Brant of the 21st February last, concerning a writing given to him by His Excellency General Haldimand, as a Deed of Grant of Lands for him and the five nations on the Grand River and requesting a grant of Lands near his house at Cataraqui. These being read in English and French, His Honour informed the Council that he had written for a copy of said Grant which he expected to be able soon to lay before them for their consideration and advice.

The Council were of opinion that a lot of land for a garden should be granted to said Joseph Brant near his house and a portion of two hundred acres at some convenient place for firewood and pasturage.

Resolved that the chairman request the clerk of the Council to procure the speech of His Excellency General Haldimand to Captain John and his friends and Captain John's answer thereto mentioned in the above entry.

Mr. Williams called in, observed to the Committee that the Minute in the Council Book, mentioning a copy of a speech of His Excellency General Haldimand to Captain John, the chief of the Mohawk Nation and his friends with Captain John's answer thereto addressed to Major Potts at Cataraqui, 12th January, 1785, and a letter from Joseph Brant of the 21st February, 1785, is of the 7th March, 1785, when Mr. Williams was absent in England with leave, the duties of the Council Office being performed during his absence by Alexander Gray, Esquire, that he (Mr. Williams) has never seen either of the three papers above mentioned and therefore apprehends they were not lodged as official papers with Mr. Gray and for the ground of this idea he acquaints the Committee that on his return to this province and resuming his office, Mr. Gray delivered up various papers relating to Detroit affairs, among which is a Deed of Concession by the Indians of a tract of land between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario to the King, and a Deed of Sale of the Island of Michilimakinac from Indians to His Majesty, that he found with these papers a list of them and in which list no such papers as are specified in the above minute are mentioned.

COUNCIL CHAMBERS, 30th April, 1791.

The Committee met on the call of the Chair.

Present: Mr. Collins, chairman; Mr. Pownall, Mr. Grant, Mr. Baby.

The chairman laid before the Board the following letter from Sir John Johnson and its enclosures.

MONTREAL, 25th March, 1791.

DEAR SIR,—I received your letter by post and now send you a copy of the Deed and purchase of the Land on the Grand River, &c., with the best description of the purchase near Toronto and up to the Rice Lake that I am able at present to furnish you with, as I never received any Deed from Crawford of the purchase he made about Kingston and the Bay of Quinté and the Deed I had drawn up at the head of the Bay was left in your hands to fill up the courses, since which I have never seen it.

I have, &c.,

JOHN JOHNSON.

JOHN COLLINS, Esq.

N.B.—The Indians have no other claim than those of John's and Brant's tracts. If I recollect right the course running from the head of Lake Ontario to the River La Tranche is wrongly expressed in the Deed as by running a north-west course it is thought it will not intersect any part of that river and the intention was that it should.

The chairman then laid before the committee a letter to Mr. Secretary Motz for the land board of Nassau, dated Niagara 26th February with its enclosure as follows.

for the land board of Nassau, dated Niagara 20th February 1881

NIAGARA, 26th February, 1791.

SIR,—We beg leave through you to lay before His Excellency the Commander in Chief the transactions of the Land Board in a matter we think of material consequence to the future peace and quiet of this settlement.

The Grant of Land to the Indians on the Grand River extends to six miles on each side of that river from its mouth till a line running north-west from the mouth of the little Lake at the west end of Lake Ontario shall traverse it. The division lines between our settlement and their lands had never been ascertained; lest encroachments should imperceptibly be made we formed the Resolution found in the Minutes of the 20th December last. Fortunately at the meeting of the Board on the first February, Captain Brant, with several of the Chiefs of the Grand River happened to be at Niagara and we thought it highly essential to procure their opinion and concurrence in this business; this was done in the manner mentioned in the minutes of the 1st February and we have now sent Mr. Jones with a party provided as before to run the lines on each side of the river; as the plan of the river is rather bulky and as it cannot be complete till both these lines are included, we delay sending it down till the opening of the Navigation; by the same opportunity we trust to transmit a schedule of all the certificates granted by us through the settlement with the corresponding maps which we hope will then be finished.

That these measures may meet his Lordship's approbation is our most anxious wish. We are, &c., &c.

HENRY MOTZ Esq.

A. GORDON, Lieut. Colonel.
JOHN BUTLER,
R. HAMILTON.

Extract from the minutes of the Land Board for the District of Nassau, Niagara 20th Dec., 1790.

Representations having been made to the Board that the extension of the settlement to the westward approached the lands assigned to the Indian settlement on the Grand River and might soon without due care encroach on these, they thought it a matter of much consequence to ascertain the limits of this settlement and accordingly directed Mr. Jones acting as deputy surveyor to take the course of the Grand River from its mouth to the extent of the Indian claims and to lay this before the Board that they might arrange the division on the justest principles, and they request Colonel Gordon as commanding officer to assist him and his party as usual with provisions to enable him to complete this.

NIAGARA 1st February, 1791.

Mr. Jones having finished his Survey laid a plan of the Grand River before the Board, who having called in Captain Brandt Tekarchokea, Thascowanie, Odawanookta, Oghuasongeghton, Oghquarioghtsita, Ojaghtte, Goughsaneyonte, Kayendadinton, Chicklodes and several of the principal chiefs to aid the Land Board with their advice and counsel.

It was unanimously agreed upon and determined that the head of the River easterly nearly two miles from its mouth on issue into Lake Erie and the Mohawk village shall be the two fixed points and that a straight line drawn from one of these points to the other shall form the centre line of the Indian lands on the Grand River and that two parallel lines to this six miles distant on each side of the Grand River shall form the bounds between them and the settlement of Nassau.

This agreement is signed on the map of the Grand River by the members of the Land Board and the aforementioned Chiefs.

The chairman observed that until the survey taken by Mr. Jones mentioned in the foregoing minute comes down, it will not be in his power to form a sketch of the tract of the Grand River on Lake Erie assigned by the Land Board of Nassau to Captain Joseph Brant and other Mohawks, the tract however appears to be part of the purchase made of the Mississaga Nation by the Deed of the 22nd of May, 1784.

Then the chairman as Deputy Surveyor General laid before the Committee a Sketch of the Land claimed by Captain John and other Mohawks and informed that in the year 1787, he surveyed the Townships of Thurlow and Richmond on the north side the Bay of Quinté, leaving between them a tract or space of about Twelve miles front on the said bay for Captain John and about Twenty families of the Mohawk Nation who had then settled themselves on it. The Tract is bounded easterly by the line of the Township of Richmond and westerly by that of Thurlow to run northerly so far as it may please Government to assign.

This tract is part of a purchase made in 1784 by Captain Crawford of the Indian department, by order of Sir John Johnson from the Mississaga Nation by Deed bearing date _____ which deed it seems by Sir John Johnson's letter of the 23rd March, 1791, is still in the hands of Captain Crawford.

Ordered that the chairman obtain a copy of Mr. Jones's survey of the Lands on the Grand River assigned to Captain Brandt and other Mohawk Indians, with all convenient speed and lay the same before the Committee.

Saturday 24th December, 1791.

The Committee met at the call of the chair.

Present—Mr. Gollins, Mr. Grant, Mr. Baby.

Absent—Mr. Mabane, indisposed, Mr. Pownall, in England.

The Chairman presented Mr. Jones's survey of the Lands on the Grand River promised to Indians of the Mohawk Nation, also a sketch of the tract assigned to Captain John and others at the Bay of Quinté.

The Committee having considered the whole are humbly of opinion that as the faith of Government is pledged to the Mohawk chiefs for the two tracts mentioned above, every precaution ought to be taken to preserve them in the quiet possession and property of them and the Committee submit that an Act of the provincial Legislature, or a grant under the Great Seal of the Province be made in favour of the principal chiefs on behalf of their nation, or persons in trust for them for ever.

Ordered that the Chairman report accordingly annexing thereunto the journal of the Committee's proceedings and the papers and surveys therein mentioned.

By order of the Committee,

JOHN COLLINS, Chairman.

PROVINCE OF UPPER CANADA.

George the Third, &c.,

To all to whom these presents shall come greeting.

Know ye that we of our special grace certain knowledge and mere motion have given and granted &c.

To have and to hold the said Tract of Land and all and singular other the pre-mises hereby granted unto the said Indian Nations commonly called the Six Nations and to their heirs and Descendants to the use and behoof of the said Indian Nations, their heirs and Descendants for ever with full power to use occupy cultivate and enjoy the said Tract of Land hereby to them granted in any manner which they shall think by cutting down the Trees growing thereon by cultivating the surface of the ground thereof or by any other method of improvement whatsoever to apply the profits and produce thereof to their own use and benefit and from time to time to make any Lease or Leases of the said Tract hereby Granted or any part thereof or other transfer of their interests therein, subject to the proviso hereinafter contained, that is to say, Provided always that if at any time hereafter the said Six Nations shall be disposed to let or sell the said tract or any part thereof, then and in such case the chiefs of the said Six Nations shall give notice in writing of such their intention to our Governor of Our said Province or to our lieutenant-governor or person administering the government of Our said Province for the time being, and if upon such notice so given Our said governor, lieutenant-governor or person administering the government of our said Province, within from the delivery of such notice shall signify to the said Six Nations or to the chiefs of the said Six Nations on the behalf of Us, our heirs or successors the intention of Us or them to become the Lessees of the said Tract or such part thereof as aforesaid at and upon the terms proposed by the said Six Nations, or at or upon the terms proposed to the said Six Nations by any person or persons wishing to become the Lessee or Lessees of the said Tract or such part thereof as aforesaid as shall happen then and in such case it shall not be lawful for the said Six Nations to lease the said Tract or any part thereof as aforesaid to any person or persons whatsoever, except unto us Our Heirs or Successors.

And if the said Six Nations or chiefs of the said Six Nations shall make default herein and shall at any time hereafter Lease the said Tract or any part of the said Tract granted without such previous notice to Our said governor, lieutenant-governor or person administering the Government of Our said Province—or shall after such signification of the intention of Us, our Heirs or Successors to become the Lessees of the said Tract or such part thereof as aforesaid made in the manner aforesaid by Our Governor, lieutenant-governor or person administering the Government of our said Province, Lease the said Tract or any such part of the said Tract as aforesaid, then and in either of these cases, this present Grant so far as the same doth or shall in any wise respect the said Tract or any part thereof so leased, as the case may be, shall become void and the said Tract or such part of the said Tract so leased, as the case may be, shall revert and escheat to Us our Heirs and Successors and shall thereupon become the absolute property of Us and them in the same manner as if the present grant had never been made anything herein contained to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding.

The proviso must be repeated, mutatis mutandis to prevent any other transfer of their interest in the soil which the Indians may attempt without notice or after the Governor's declaration of his intention to purchase.

NO. 8.—ATTORNEY GENERAL SEWELL TO LORD DORCHESTER.

(Archives, Series Q. Vol. 329, p. 105.)

MY LORD,—In obedience to your Lordship's commands I have now the honour of submitting to your consideration the proposed Grant of the Tract of Land lying on the Ottawa River appropriated by his Excellency Sir Fredrick Haldimand for the use of the Indians of the Six Nations.

The object is to accomplish the promise of Sir Fredrick Haldimand, but at the same time to prevent the Indians from making any disposition of the property which would be injurious to themselves and the King's interests. It will be difficult to effect this purpose. A Grant of the Tract with a limit for the use in fee to the Indians of the Six Nations and their Descendants only, determinable of course upon the extinction of the Six Nations, will probably be the best Deed, and most likely to be accepted by the Indians.

The Six Nations contend that they ought to have a Right to Lease the Tract and it does not appear practicable to refuse it.

The ill effects which the exercise of such a Right might occasion may be counteracted by a clause requiring them to give notice to the Governor and reserving to His Majesty the preference and privilege of becoming their Lessee, in all instances where they may be disposed to lease. And to secure the object as far as possible it might be prudent to insert a special proviso to effect the escheat of the property or certain parts of it if it should be leased by them to any person not being a member of the Six Nations, without notice to the Governor of Upper Canada; or if any attempt should be made to convey their interest in the soil.

Another Idea has occurred to me, to Grant the Tract to the Superintendent General of Indian Affairs to be held by him and his Successors in office in fee, but in Trust to the use of the Six Nations. But this plan upon reflection I do not think advisable.

I have the honour to enclose heads of a patent drafted according to the ideas contained in this letter and shall be happy if it should be found to answer in practice.

All which nevertheless is most humbly submitted by My Lord, &c., &c.

J. SEWELL, Att. Gen.

QUEBEC, 25th January, 1796.

No. 2.—COUNCIL OF THE SIX NATIONS.

Archives, Series M. Vol. 114 p. 197.

Minutes of Council, held at Hamilton, near Burlington Heights on the 4th July, 1819, with the Six Nations of Indians residing on the Grand River.

After the customary ceremonies had been performed, the Deputy Superintendent General addressed the assembled chiefs as follows. Having referred to other questions, he said:

Brothers:—I lost no time after I parted with you last March, to lay your proceedings before the Superintendent General, Sir John Johnson, who transmitted the same to His Grace the Commander of the Forces; and the proposal you made for the surrender of the land on the upper part of the Grand River, I forwarded to His Excellency Lieutenant-Governor Sir Peregrine Maitland. Answers from both I now communicate to you.

On examining documents at York respecting the Grand River lands, it appears that in the year 1790, a survey was made by Mr. Jones and at a Land Board in Niagara in 1791, of which Lieutenant Colonel Butler, Mr. Hamilton and Colonel Jno. Brook were members, it was agreed on by them and Captain Brant, Ojagethe, Coughsemyoute, Atmouvat, Aghsett and Kayondodethon, that certain lines that had been run by Mr. Jones were to be the Indian boundary and it appearing to the Government that the Six Nations have misconceived the extent of the land, I am commanded to undeceive them by informing them that the Government from these documents conceives that the ground above Block Nichol, known as Block 4, is now in the Crown by a recent purchase from the Mississaguas, for beyond that the King had not purchased from the Indians at the time of Sir Frederick Haldimand's gift, consequently, Sir Frederick, in behalf of the Crown, had no land to grant.

I have now, my brothers, communicated the answer which I have received to your speeches and shall be ready patiently to hear whatever you may have to say in reply.

Tekanboga, a Mohawk chief, then spoke:

Brother, we are happy that the great Spirit has preserved us to meet you here, I salute you and the officers with you in the name of the great Spirit. Brother, we spoke to you agreeably to our wishes when we met at Ancaster in the month of March, that is well enough. What was then proposed was right, we will not go back to our first troubles, we will only recur to what happened in General Haldimand's time. Brother, after the American war we were at Niagara and did not know where to go. In our distress the Senecas offered us lands on the Genesee River, but we did not wish to be near Americans, as they might again distress us and some of our people got land in the Bay of Quinté. Captain Grant then went to Quebec to see General Haldimand, who told him that he would give us lands in the Grand River from its mouth to its spring. During the Administration of General

Simcoe he wished to obtain from us three miles on each side of Dundas Street, on both sides of the river. We replied that we would let him have the quantity required, but that it should be for our benefit, he declined the offer and the matter dropt. Sir John Johnson also wished us to surrender six miles on each side of the river at the mouth, we complied with his request, provided it was for our benefit, but that also dropt without anything being done. I remember very well before the lands were purchased by Colonel Butler, that the Mississaguas said: "We do not wish to sell the lands from the Grand River to the River Thames down to Lake Erie." The Government lessened the gift to six miles on each side of the Grand River from its mouth to its spring, yet we replied to the Mississaguas: "Since you have been so kind to us, we each divide our presents with you." We are surprised to find that Government says that we own the lands to the Falls only, as we have writings to prove otherwise, we have them here and are ready to produce them.

The original deed from General Haldimand produced by John Brant. Tekamboga, then turning to the Indians, addressed them saying: It is reported that I have sold Lands. Let any man step forward and say so; the superintendent knows whether I have sold lands or not.

Little Peter, of the Lower Mohawks, then got up and said: Brother, I was always present at different meetings and though I did not interfere, I listened to what was passing. When I came to see the land settling by white people, it disturbed my peace. I am a Lower Mohawk and belong to the Six Nations. The land is a thing that concerns us all and our posterity. I have heard my cousin (Tekamboga) say that a stop will be put to the sale of land. I am very glad of it, it is a custom among us to have land all in common. We do not wish it to run out in lots to be settled by the white people, which is the only thing that confuses us, by mixing with us. When I look around me, above and below, I see nothing but whites around me and we have nothing left but a spot to stand upon and what is to be the next event? Are we to be shoved off altogether? I am surprised to see so many settlers in different parts of the river. We deny having sold any land to them.

Brother, I belong to the Lower Mokawks and never disturbed the peace either among my own people or among the whites. I have never sold or leased any of our lands and never will; my grand children shall not say when I am gone, that I have left them destitute of a habitation.

It appears that my name is classed with another man, who is my cousin, to be in partnership with him in selling land. I know nothing of it. Those who lease the land, of course receive the rents, but I receive no rents from any one, never expect and never will receive any. We do not lease our land, because we do not know how to do it. If we were to require our rents, they would laugh at us.

Here the Deputy Superintendent General explained a part of his speech at the opening of the council.

I do not say that those chiefs whose names appear in the proceedings of the Land Board have sold the land, what I meant to convey was, that they had assented to the lines which had been proposed to them by the Board as their boundary.

Little Peter continued addressing himself to Tekunvoga: You say that you never sold any land. How does it appear that white people are settled above and below us? It is you that have sold it.

Then addressing himself to the Deputy Superintendent General and the officers, he said: I am very sorry to observe that you are now claiming a great part of our land, what are we to expect? Are we to be driven off our land? Shall I point back to my ancestors when they first took you by the hand, did they deceive you? Or have any of us? When we agree to anything in Council we expect it to be confirmed, because it is in the presence of all. The Council fire is the place to establish the truth.

Brothers with the red coats and Colonel Claus, this I wish to have continued when we meet again in Council. It is customary with us to talk with temper and do nothing rash. Whenever you call another Council, I will continue my subject.

Echo, Onondaga speaker, after having spoken to the assembled Nations generally, said:

Brothers, I receive your salute with friendship and satisfaction. I am happy that you and the gentlemen of the garrison and those with you are well. I return your salute.

Brother, we have just been informed that you had sent down the proceedings of the Council at Ancaster and it seems that Sir John Johnson immediately sent them down to the Commander of the Forces and you have got an answer. There are only two subjects on which anything is to be done: The schoolmaster and the blacksmith.

Brother, we will now communicate our sentiments and endeavour to be as brief as possible. We thought then we had given you the lands you asked for in a proper way.

Brother, there is one part of your communication which gives us pain. We were surprised very much when we heard what had been done at York. We never thought that the King would take from us what we considered as his gift. What is it? It seems that the King is going to take our land from us.

Brother, we wish to know if our Great Father, who we are told is coming up, would grant us a meeting with him; we would be glad that you would ask him when and where we could meet him and that you would inform us.

Brother, the reason that we wish to communicate with our Great Father that is coming up is because we know that he could inform us of everything we wish. Our Great Father at York we suppose has so much to do with his white children that he could not attend to our affairs. This is all I am going to say.

He then addressed the Six Nations, recommending union and friendship, as he had done frequently on former occasions, telling them to look at the Deputy Superintendent General, the officers and the gentlemen with him and take example by them.

Oneida Joseph next spoke: Brother, I remember very well what passed from the beginning of the settlement on the Grand River. I have gone through two wars, and must therefore have a recollection of what happened first about our settlement. It was granted to us from the mouth to the spring, six miles on each side of the Grand River. It may be supposed that we did not claim it, because it was neither surveyed nor sold, but we claim that as well as the rest.

Brother, we were told by our chiefs that whenever the land was purchased from the Mississaguas, the line would run to the spring.

If the commander of the forces will permit us to see him when he comes up, he will let us know how far we have a right to claim, agreeably to the paper which we hold as our title. I recollect that when the chief of the Six Nations requested of Colonel Butler to pay for the land which the Mississaguas had given them, they afterwards regretted having done so, because the Government by paying for it might hereafter claim and take it from us.

Clear Sky's eldest son addressed himself to the Deputy Superintendent General and said that they had nothing more to say.

Reply of the Deputy Superintendent General:—

My brethren, the officers and myself have sat patiently to hear what you had to say in your several addresses, as well to us as to your own people. I called you together to communicate to you the answer to your speech of last winter. Had the King conceived that the land he claims above the falls did not belong to him, he never would have directed me to communicate to you what I have on that subject. I shall see both your great fathers at York and shall lay before them the proceedings of this day and receive their orders thereon. If His Grace the Commander of the Forces is pleased to see you, I will inform you of the time and place. The advice given you by the chief who spoke last, but one is what I have always recommended when we parted. I now repeat my advice, and particularly to the young men, who look up to their sachems and chiefs and to pay attention to their advice and counsel.

In the name of the officers and myself I bid you good bye. I remove all briars and roots from the road, that no obstructions shall interrupt you on your way to your homes.

Clear Sky's eldest son again rose and said :—Brother, I salute you, the officers and gentlemen with you, and hope that the Great Spirit will protect you all on your return.

NO. 3.—LORD BATHURST TO MESSRS. ROBERT J. KERR AND JOHN BRANT.

DOWNING STREET, 28th September, 1821.

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of the letter which you addressed to me on the 7th instant, transmitting an official note in which you complain of a decision of the Colonial Government of Upper Canada, with respect to the extent of lands which ought to be permanently reserved for the five Indian Nations who settled in the Province at the close of the first American war.

As the Indian nations rest their claims entirely upon the terms used by General Haldimand in his proclamation of the 25th October, 1784, I shall confine myself to a statement of the reasons which convince me that it was never the intention of that officer to grant them the extent of territory to which they now lay claim of six miles on each side of the Ouse or Grand River, from its mouth to its source and that the proclamation does not warrant such a claim.

It is evident from the proclamation annexed to your note, that the land which General Haldimand intended to assign to the Indian nations was that which the Colonial Government had a few months before purchased from other Indian nations resident within the Province of Canada and that whatever disposition he may be presumed to have had to confer advantages on the Five Nations by giving them lands belonging to His Majesty, he could not intend (for he had not the power) to make over any Indian lands to which His Majesty had not then acquired a title. The description therefore of the land which is given in the close of the proclamation must be taken with reference to what the King had at the time the power to grant. It must be considered with reference to the general inaccuracy and contradictions of all geographical descriptions of America at the time, when the country was unsurveyed and unknown and when information as to the course of the rivers was derived either from reports of individuals, or from the source which afterwards proved altogether incorrect.

As the course of the Ouse or Grand River became known, it was found that the head of the river was not within the purchase made from the Chippawas in 1784 and that that purchase therefore did not comprise the lands to which the Five Nations now lay claim. I do not find indeed any claim of the nature now advanced by the Five Nations of this land, until the Colonial Government had many years afterwards, with a view to the settlement of emigrants, made a further purchase from these Indians which put His Majesty in possession of the land lying between the head of the Grand River and that purchased in 1784, which is the subject of your present application.

Under these circumstances His Majesty cannot but consider the Colonial Government justified in allotting to settlers, instead of reserving for your use, such part of the land now claimed by you as was not purchased in 1784 from the Chippawas. That the Indian nations never had originally in contemplation any grant so extensive as that for which you now contend is evident from the proceedings which took place in the colony in 1791, respecting the limits of the Indian lands and the agreement signed by Captain Brant and the other chiefs.

The intentions of General Haldimand must have been at that time perfectly well known; the extent of the Grant was then the subject of discussion and the chiefs of the Nations voluntarily acquiesced in an arrangement which excluded the claim now under consideration. I have only further to add that in coming to a decision upon this claim, adverse to the views which appear now to be entertained by the chiefs of the Five Nations, His Majesty does not in any degree undervalue either the original services which led to the settlement of these Nations in the British Province, or those which they have subsequently rendered. The present question (as you have correctly stated in your interview with Mr. Goulburn) depends entirely upon the meaning of General Haldimand's proclamation. For the reasons I have stated and others arising out of contemporary documents, to which I have not adverted, that proclamation cannot warrant the claim which has been advanced and His Majesty has only, without reference to the merits of the parties, to approve of the decision upon this point to which the Governor of Canada has already come.

I have the honour, &c.,

BATHURST.

MESSRS. ROBERT J. KERR and JOHN BRANT.

NO. 4.—MEETING OF THE MISSISSAUGAS, 22ND MAY, 1784.

(Archives, Series, Q. vol. 23, p. 349.)

A meeting held at Niagara, 22nd May, 1784, with the Mississauga Indians accompanied by the Chiefs and Warriors of the Six Nations, Delawares, &c.

Present.

Lieut.-Colonel Hoyes, 34th Regt.; Capt. Forbes, 34th Regt.; Lt.-Col. John Butler, Deputy Agent Indian Affairs; Capt. Hamilton, 34th Regt.; Major Potts, Corps. Rangers, with many other officers; Captain Parke, 8th Regiment of the Garrison; Mr. Nicholas Stevens and Mr. William Bowen, interpreters.

After the usual ceremonies and compliments were made Pohquan, a Mississauga Chief rose and spoke as follows.

Father, some days ago your message with this Belt was received desiring us to assemble at the great Council Fire, kindled at this place by the King our Father, we accordingly collected our people as soon as possible and are now ready to hear your business with us.

Returned the Belt.

Lieut.-Colonel John Butler then spoke:—

Children, I have received the Commander in Chief's order thro' Sir John Johnson, to purchase some land the property of you the Mississagas laying between the Lakes Ontario, Huron and Erie, for the use of such of your Brethren of the Six Nations as may wish to plant and Hunt thereon, as well as for an intended settlement for such of His Majesty's faithful subjects, who have assisted him during the late war, as wish to settle and improve the same; it would be needless for me to add more at present as I have already explained every circumstance of our present Business, as well as future intentions in as clear a light to you, the Chiefs, as in my power to do. Therefore expect your immediate Answer.

A BELT.

Pokquan, Mississauga, speaks.—

Father and Brethren Six Nations, we have received your request.

Father,—We the Mississagas are not the owners of all the Land laying between the three Lakes, but we have agreed and are willing to transfer our right of soil and property to the King our Father, for the use of His People, and our Brethren the Six Nations from the Head of the Lake Ontario or the creek Wayhguata to the River La Tranche then down that River until a south course will strike the mouth of Catfish Creek on Lake Erie, this tract of Land we imagine will be quite sufficient both for the King's people and our Brethren the Six Nations, who may wish to settle and Hunt thereon; your request or proposal does not give us that trouble or concern, that you might imagine from the answer you received from some of our people the other day, that difficulty is entirely removed, we are Indians, and consider ourselves and the Six Nations to be one and the same people, and agreeable to a former and mutual agreement, we are bound to help each other. Brother, Captain Brant, we are happy to hear that you intend to settle at the River Oswego with your people, we hope you will keep your young men in good order, as we shall be in one neighbourhood, and to live in friendship with each other as Brethren ought to do.

Colonel BUTLER.

Children, I have paid strict attention to your answer and I now thank you for the Friendly attachment you show to your Brethren the Six Nations, and I imagine that the lands you now have agreed to dispose of will be satisfactory, both to the Commander in Chief and Sir John Johnson. Your Brethren the Six Nations will answer for themselves.

NOTE B.

ANTICIPATION OF THE WAR OF 1812.

No. 1.—LIEUT. GENERAL BOWYER TO LIEUT. GENERAL HUNTER.

(Archives, series C., vol. 673, p. 103.)

SIR,—An extraordinary occurrence took place in March last by the departure of all or most of the Indians able to carry arms from this province, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Cape Breton, leaving their wives, children and old men behind under pretence, as they said, of going with the Canadian Indians against the Mohawks. The assembly was, we understand, in the confines of Lower Canada, and the real or supposed cause of it to meet certain French emissaries or others as ill-disposed to the British Government. They were absent from their respective abodes a considerable time and on their return gave out that an expedition was fitting out in France for the conquest of British North America and that 20,000 men with a suitable fleet might be expected in this country during the present summer.

I will not even surmise that an expedition could be prepared against any part of the foreign British dominions without the ministers at home having intelligence of it, who no doubt would take care of us, but I think it right to communicate to you that Lieut.-Gov. Sir John Wentworth on Friday last received a letter by a special messenger from some Federals and friends of the British Government residing in the State of Vermont that very considerable depots of arms are making in that Province also of powder &c., and that numbers of men of all descriptions were engaged and engaging to act with the cooperation of some French troops expected and of 1,000 or 1,200 Indians.

The letter further states that the Executive Government of the United States is not unacquainted with what is going on in Vermont and other parts, that there are considerable numbers of French in New Hampshire ready to assemble at any point they may be directed to go to, and that great secrecy is used in conveying arms, &c., into Vermont, which is done by carts and waggons covered with straw.

The Vermontese, it appears, are extremely jealous of any person leaving the State and Mr. Clark who brought the dispatch to Sir John Wentworth could not have got away had he not taken his two daughters who are now at Windsor, under the pretence of going to see a relation at Boston. The letter is signed by a Col. Sallisbury and a few others living in Vermont. If there is any foundation for this intelligence, you or Sir Robert Milnes will probably have had it, but it coming as it has done, I have thought it expedient to forward it to you.

I have the honour, &c.,

HEN. BOWYER.

No. 2.—JOHN McDONELL TO COLONEL BROCK.

GLENGARRY January 28th, 1807.

SIR,—I have the honour to enclose you the Proposals for raising a corps of Highland Fencibles in this county, which were submitted to your perusal. The alterations you made are adopted with very few exceptions. Should they meet with your approbation, you will be pleased to forward them to the War Office.

The permanent pay asked for the Field Officers and Chaplains may be considered unusual, but in this instance it is necessary and expedient for carrying the proposals into effect. The Field Officers must undergo a vast deal of trouble and their time will be as much occupied as if the corps were constantly embodied. The county is almost entirely inhabited by Highlanders and their de-cendants, naturally brave and loyal as subjects and firmly attached to the British constitution and Government, yet from their situation and circumstances, being in general possessed of some landed property, and the high run of wages in the country, they are reluctant to quit these advantages to become soldiers. Nothing but a scheme of this nature, headed by gentlemen whom they know and respect would induce them on any consideration to put themselves under the restraints of military discipline. The chaplain having served in that capacity in the late Glengarry Fencibles in Great Britain, Ireland and Guernsey has a claim to the favour of Government. He conducted a number of these people to this country and having rendered himself useful in many respects to the people at large has gained so far their confidence that his services in urging and forwarding this matter will be very essential. The adoption and successful issue of the present plan will greatly facilitate any future project for raising troops for a more general and extended nature of service.

I have, &c.,

J. McDONELL, Lieut. of the County of Glengarry.

No. 3.—COLONEL BROCK TO RIGHT HON. W. WINDHAM.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 102, p. 36.)

QUEBEC, 12th February, 1807.

SIR,—I have the honour to transmit for your consideration a proposal of Lieutenant Colonel John McDonald (McDonell) late of the Royal Canadian Volunteers for raising a corps among the Scotch settlers in the county of Glengarry, Upper Canada.

When it is considered that both the Canadas furnish only two hundred militia who are trained to arms, the advantages to be derived from such an establishment must appear very evident.

The military force in this country is very small, and were it possible to collect it in time to oppose any serious attempt upon Quebec, the only tenable post, the number would of itself be insufficient to ensure a vigorous defence.

This corps being stationed on the carlines of the lower province would be always in readiness and essentially useful in checking any seditious disposition which the wavering sentiments of a large population in the Montreal district might at any time manifest. In the event of invasion or other emergency this force could be easily and expeditiously transported by water to Quebec.

The extent of country which these settlers occupy would make the permanent establishment of the staff and one sergeant in each company very advisable.

I shall not presume to say how far the claims of the Field officers to the same indulgence are reasonable and expedient.

In regard to the Reverend Alexander McDonald (McDonell), I beg leave to observe that the men being all Catholics it may be deemed a prudent measure to appoint him Chaplain, his zeal and attachment to Government were strongly evinced whilst filling the office of Chaplain to the Glengarry Fencibles during the Rebellion in Ireland, and were graciously acknowledged by His Royal Highness the Commander in Chief.

* A note by Colonel Brock says: "There is no convenient place in which the corps can assemble in Upper Canada, it ought therefore to be embodied at Montreal, where barracks and every other accommodation is to be found."

His influence over the men is deservedly great and I have every reason to think that the corps by his exertions would be soon completed and hereafter become a nursery from which the army might draw a number of hardy Recruits.

I have, &c.,

ISAAC BROCK,
Colonel Commanding.

No. 4.—LORD CASTLEREAGH (BY SECRETARY) TO COLONEL BROCK.

DOWNING STREET, 25th April, 1807.

SIR,—I am directed by Lord Castlereagh to acquaint you in reply to your letter of the 12th February addressed to Mr. Secretary Wyndham that on a full consideration of the subject it appears to His Lordship that several offers similar to that now made by Lt.-Colonel McDonald have been made to His Majesty's Government, but it has not been thought advisable to adopt them on the ground that every attempt of this nature has generally failed and at this moment the Canadian Fencibles though endeavouring nearly three years to complete consist of only 124 men by the last returns.

Lord Castlereagh, therefore, under the above circumstances deems it unwise to recommend or sanction the raising of a new corps until those already formed are complete, but His Lordship at the same time feels much anxiety that every exertion should be used to fill these now established. Their completion might be an inducement for His Majesty's Government to avail themselves of further offers similar to that now made by Lt.-Col. McDonald.

I have, &c.,

CHARLES HOWARD.

No. 5.—THE "LEOPARD" AND THE "CHESAPEAKE."

(Archives, series C., vol. 673, p. 105a.)

Account given in the London Courier of 6th August, 1807.

We have received Halifax papers to the 14th containing an account of the proceedings towards the "Chesapeake" frigate. Captain Humphreys appears to have conducted himself throughout the business with the greatest propriety. He first sent Admiral Berkeley's order on board the "Chesapeake," with a letter from himself, stating that he hoped to be able to execute it in the most amicable manner. Commodore Barron said that his orders were most positive from his government not to suffer any foreigner to muster his ship's company, but that he would write an answer to Captain Humphreys, which he did, asserting that he had no deserters on board. As Captain Humphreys knew that he had, he edged down to the "Chesapeake" hailed her, and said three times that he must obey Admiral Berkeley's order. The American pretended not to hear what Captain Humphreys said. The "Leopard" fired one shot across her bows and a second shot after a minute had elapsed; and then, no satisfactory answer being given, the "Leopard's" fire was opened upon her beginning with the foremost gun, a broadside was next poured into her, but it was directed chiefly at the rigging. Commodore Barron then hailed and orders were given to cease firing, but as he said he was only going to send a boat on board and as they were preparing to return the fire, it was supposed to be only an artifice to gain time, and orders were given to renew the fire. After two more broadsides she struck. Commodore Barron wished to consider his ship as a prize, but Captain Humphreys replied he had nothing further to do with her; that he lamented the necessity of resorting to violent measures and that if he could render the "Chesapeake" any service, he would most cheerfully do it. Upon the "Chesapeake" being searched, three men were taken out who belonged to the "Melampus" and one to the "Halifax"; two more had been killed by the "Leopard's" fire, one had been gunner of one of His Majesty's ships and had acted in the same capacity on board the "Chesapeake" Many others were left on board the American by Captain Humphreys because they could not be identified.

The American populace appear in their senseless outrage, to be desirous of plunging into a war with this country. They seem unwilling to leave any chance of amicable adjustment between the two governments. All the most violent and scurrilous epithets that are to be found in the English language are heaped upon the country. Public meetings have been held in almost all the towns and each seems to be desirous of distinguishing itself by the superior intemperance and fury of its resolutions. Will the American Government be able to stem this torrent and act according to the dictates of reason and reflection? It is supposed that it will not be able to oppose the popular fury but will be forced into measures of immediate hostility. When the "Two Friends" left Charleston on the 7th July, it was apprehended that an embargo would be laid upon all British vessels in American ports. As to hostilities against us on the part of America, it would be idle to say that we can entertain the least apprehension respecting them. Two fifty gun ships would be able to burn, sink and destroy the whole American navy. That this country has sought a war with the United States, no man, the American populace excepted, will assert. We have carried moderation almost to meanness and forbearance to such an extent that the Americans seem to have begun to believe that it proceeds from fear. We again assert that Admiral Berkeley, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, acted in a manner that deserves the thanks of the country and we trust every other British officer who may be placed in a similar situation will act with the same decision.

No. 6.—ADMIRAL BERKELEY TO LIEUT. GOVERNOR GORE.

SIR.—Having received dispatches from His Majesty's minister to the United States, dated Washington, 1st August, in which he informs me of circumstances which seem to make the question of war inevitable and requesting me to make known to His Majesty's Governors of the dependencies of England such hints as may assist them in taking the necessary steps for His Majesty's interests in their respective provinces.

It appears that a categorical demand of renouncing the Right of Search is transmitted to England which if refused is to be considered as a declaration of war; as that is a question to which I think it impossible our government can accede, the return of Mr. Munroe, the messenger from England will probably be the signal for hostilities and as such I conceive every preparation ought to be made.

I am, &c.,

E. BERKELEY.

N.B.—It may perhaps be an additional incitement to the people of your province to know that from every information I have received, it is a secret article agreed to by the American government, if the events of the war should put them in possession of the English colonies in America, to transfer them to France, or erect them in a separate kingdom to be governed by a Frenchman.

No. 7.—LIEUTENANT COLONEL GRANT TO JAMES GREEN, ESQ., MILITARY SECRETARY.

(Archives, series C., vol. 673, p. 106.)(Extract.)

AMHERSTBURG, August 7th, 1807.

SIR, * * * * *

As the affair of the "Leopard" and "Chesapeake" has occasioned much ferment at Detroit, and has also induced the Governor of the Territory of Michigan * who resides there to take steps by no means indicative of friendly intentions I conceive it my duty to acquaint you for Colonel Brock's information what is going forward there as also to lay before him the present state of this garrison. The militia at Detroit have been constantly assembled for the purpose of drill. They amount to about 400, are much better disciplined than could well be supposed, are very well appointed and two companies are kept in constant pay. There is besides a company formed of renegade negroes, who deserted from Captain Elliott and several gentlemen at this side. This company consists of, I was informed, 36 in number and are kept for such desperate services as may be required at this side, they being well acquainted with it. Great apprehensions are expressed at Detroit by the Governor and principal officers there of an attack from the Indians and they industriously spread a report that the Indians are instigated by the British officers at Amherstburg. A law has been passed at Detroit, for that colonial privilege is allowed the Governor, requiring the aid of all subjects to assist in erecting works, &c. for the defence of the place. The inhabitants in consequence have been called in from the distance of 30 miles to contribute in labour. They have picketted the whole town of Detroit and are erecting block houses at certain intervals. Every military preparation is going forward there and every violent declaration against this side. I have had information given me from a most respectable person at this side that the Governor of Detroit declares, if an Indian fires a hostile shot in Detroit or in the territory, he will treat the Canadians with the utmost severity. The apprehensions circulated at Detroit appear to me to proceed more from a policy to frighten the inhabitants into labour without food or reward, than from any real sense of danger from Indians. The regular force at Detroit consists of 1 captain, 2 lieutenants, 4 sergeants, 4 corporals and 67 privates mostly artillery. The works at Detroit are very confined, consisting of a small square with guns placed at intervals on each side of the square, a blockhouse and drawbridge at the entrance and ditches, frieze and picketting. Guns cannot take effect at Detroit from this side. The force at Detroit is too inconsiderable to occasion any alarm here, however weak my garrison and circumstanced the situation of the works, but militia to the amount of 4 or 5,000 may be brought against us in about six weeks from Kentucky, and those are well inured to war, particularly of the Indian kind. The aid I should expect here from Indians and Militia is of a very precarious kind. Indians can never be brought to act within pickets.

The state of the works of this post must be known to Colonel Brock. There are four Bastions, one at each angle, but one is unserviceable and excluded from the works. The picketting is entirely decayed and fallen down.

J. GRANT,
Lieut. Col. Com.

No. 8.—SIR J. H. CRAIG TO LIEUT. GOVERNOR GORE.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 209.)

SIR,—Though a very severe malady with which I have been afflicted since my arrival here has put it out of my power before to pay that attention to business, which would be necessary to enter into a confidential communication with you, such as the urgency of public affairs demands, yet it has been with concern that I have found on enquiry that owing to some mistake or neglect, which I am afraid I must take to myself, my arrival here was not announced to you, otherwise than by the circulation of the military orders by the Adjutant General. I trust you will have the goodness to excuse what has certainly been an omission and attribute it solely to my temporary incapacity.

I was in hopes before now to have received some information, by which I might have been able to form a conjecture as to the probable issue of the pending controversy on which the continuance of our tranquillity with our neighbours depends, but there has not elapsed a sufficient time for the means that I have myself employed to have produced any effect and I have not been honoured with a single communication from our minister to the United States. I therefore know little more than what can be gathered from the papers and from the temper of the president's speech at the opening of Congress. Either of these afford but slender grounds on which to rest judgment. It must be our business therefore to take such precautions as may place us in a state of preparation for the event of Hostility and with this view to concert a general outline of co-operation that may, as far as it can be done, compensate for our deficiency in strength and at any rate to enable me to pursue that line of conduct that has been marked out for me by His Majesty's Instructions.

These Instructions, as far as they relate to the Canadas, as well indeed as my own view of the subject, in every light in which I can possibly turn it, point out the preservation of Quebec as the object of my first and principal consideration and that to which all others must be subordinate. It is the only post, defective as it is in many respects, that can be considered tenable for a moment, nor is the preservation of it of less consequence to the Province under your immediate direction, than it is to this, as affording the only door for the future entry of that force which it might be found expedient and which the King's government might then be able to send for the recovery of both or either, although the pressure of the moment in the present extended range of warfare would not permit the sending of that which would be sufficient to defend them and the considering it in this view will place its importance in its truest light, for if the Americans are really determined to attack these Provinces and employ these means which they may so easily command, I fear it would be vain for us to flatter ourselves in the hopes of making an effectual defence of the open country, unless powerfully assisted from home. And indeed, although we would certainly resist every predatory or ill concerted attack, which presumption might lead them to undertake without sufficient means, yet in every event of Invasion, not conducted on such principles of inefficiency, it might perhaps be wise to act with that caution, that would enable us to husband our own Resources for that future exertion to which I have alluded and I should therefore hesitate to recommend a more extended scene of operations than might be adapted to that object, were it not in the idea that such might be called for as immediately and essentially connected with the still more important object which I have laid down as that which must be our first consideration and must absorb all others — the defence of Quebec.

I am totally unacquainted with the state of the Militia of Upper Canada and unable to obtain any information on it upon which I can place any dependence. Indeed if it were otherwise, I should not feel inclined in the slightest degree to interfere or interpose my opinions as to the arrangements which you may think proper for your internal defence, the fatal effects of division and dissipating our Force, by attempting to act on too many points, have been too frequently illustrated of late for me to be under any apprehensions that you will not feel, that it is by concentrated means alone, that adequate or powerful effects can ever be produced; the application of this principle may I am persuaded with safety be left to your prudence and judgment, which will be guided by a knowledge of the country of which I must be totally deficient. It is only to such circumstances of joint co-operation or union of effort as may be necessary that I shall beg leave to call your attention.

Even in confining myself to this object, general principles are all that can be adverted to, detail is scarcely possible, and the attempt to enter into it might be dangerous, as it might tend to embarrass under circumstances which I could not foresee or which might take their course in a very different [manner] from what I might have thought they would.

If the Americans should turn their views to this Province, which is certainly most probable, as their operations must ultimately terminate in a siege, the exertions that will be required to bring forward the artillery and stores necessary for that purpose, may I think exhaust all their means and occupy their attention, so as to prevent their being able to give at the same time any great molestation to your Province. I shall on my part endeavour to form a corps sufficiently strong to show themselves before them in the frontiers. If you should be without apprehension for yourselves at the moment, the re-inforcing of this corps by some of the Militia of the Lower part of your Province might be extremely serviceable. This is not with any hopes of being able to defend the frontiers, the gaining of time by obliging the enemy to advance with caution and the checking them by partial strokes when the opportunity presents itself will be my sole object; in the end we shall be obliged to shut ourselves up in this place and it is then by collecting all the force that you can possibly spare and sending it into the upper parts of this Province, where I shall hope that it will be joined by considerable numbers of our Militia, it may do essential service towards our safety. With this view it should advance as far in the rear of the Besiegers as can be done with any regard to their own security; the object must be to act upon their communication, to cut off their convoys and to harass them with continual alarms. In this way, if nothing more can be done, time may be gained and that in our situation is everything. It may be a fine field for an officer of some talents and much activity to distinguish himself. If the enemy should be in sufficient strength to leave a corps at Montreal, that would be able to bar his advance in a direct line the frontier towards Lake Champlain and the line from thence to Albany will probably be open to his incursions and they must have magazines or depots in these parts, the destruction of which would be distressing to them. I do not know whether among the officers of the 41st Regiment there are any who served in the American War, but among your loyalists you must have many who know how little the American Militia is to be feared when briskly attacked and in particular how open they are at all times to night assaults, a species of attack which I would strongly recommend whenever the opportunity presents itself.

I understand that you have given directions for repairing and putting in the necessary order for service the armed vessels of the Lakes; the command of these waters may be of great importance, more particularly of Lake Ontario. I do not know what force the Americans may have on it, but it will be a proper precaution to keep the superiority if practicable.

I have still a subject to refer to, which requires the most serious consideration and which is strictly an object of concert, as it is indispensably necessary that one uniform system should govern our conduct. I mean in what regards the Indians. If a war takes place, they will not be idle. If we do not employ them, there cannot exist a moment's doubt that they will be employed against us and in that event it is not merely the immediate consequences of their hostility that we should have in contemplation, the chain of our annexion which has subsisted for so many years would be broken and very great difficulty would be found in restoring it. All our valuable commerce now carried on in the Indian country would be lost and it would be years before our traders could venture to the parts necessary to resume it. On all these considerations, but particularly in the perfect conviction that if they are not on our side they will be against us, I have no hesitation in saying that we must employ them if they can be brought to act with us. Much caution should indeed be used in the language that may be held with them, nor is it perhaps expedient to bring the subject forward at present until Hostilities are more certain, unless they themselves force it upon us, or unless the Americans are found to be gaining so much ground with them that it may be necessary to meet their progress by a direct address on our part.

By a copy of a speech made by Governor Hull of Detroit some time in August, now before me, I observe that he certainly restricts himself to the advising them to remain neutral. I am not inclined to place this to the sense of moderation, so much as to his having reason to believe that it would be in vain for him to attempt to engage their actual assistance; it will however always be brought forward as a proof of that disposition, but it is of too much consequence to us to run any risk of our Intentions being misunderstood by these people or of furnishing them with grounds for pleading such an excuse to admit of our too closely copying the affectation. Although, therefore, I would avoid coming to any explanation with them as long as possible, at least to any public explanation, yet whenever the subject is adverted to, I think it would be advisable always to insinuate, that as a matter of course we shall look for the assistance of our Brothers. It should be done with delicacy, but still in a way not to be misunderstood.

If indeed the Americans should make a direct proposal to the Indians to join them, either by any public act of their Executive Government or thro' the medium of the Governors of their Posts to any assembly of those people called together for the purpose, I think that in that case no time should be lost by messages to the different nations and by every other means that are usual in our intercourse with them to remind them of our long subsisting friendship, of the difference of the conduct which has been pursued towards them by the Americans and by us and that by joining the former and enabling them to drive us out of the country, if that were possible, they would only seal their own destiny, which would be almost immediate extermination.

I need not I am sure observe, if we should unfortunately be under the necessity of availing ourselves of Indian assistance, how desirous it will be on every principle of Humanity and of Policy that every practicable means should be adopted to restrain them in and to soften the ferocity of their usual mode of warfare. They should never be suffered to act alone if it can be avoided, but always with some of our people, though I am sensible that is very difficult, especially where the number of our Troops, either Regular or Militia, must be so small.

I shall be very glad to receive some information as to the history of the Prophet, as he is called, and the extent of his influence among the Indians; if this is great, and some of our Indians Department can enter into an intercourse with him, it might be worth while to purchase it though at what might be a high price upon any other occasion.

I am aware that I have prolonged this letter by entering into much reasoning which might scarcely be thought required by the occasion. I have, however, been led into it from the reflection that as it was my object to avoid detail and to confine myself to what was necessary in the concerting of a very general line of co-operation, it might enable you to judge the better of the measures that might become expedient if you were made acquainted with the principles on which that line has been adopted. On your part I have to request that you will be so good as to communicate with me as to the state and strength of your Militia, as well as on the degree of dependence that can be placed on them. I shall like also to be informed of your other Resources and indeed of every circumstance that may suggest itself to you as what may be useful for me to know. I understand from the report of Lieut.-Colonel Bruyeres, that there is not one of your Forts that is in a state of making the slightest resistance and indeed judging by the plans of them, I think it is a fortunate circumstance that there is not a temptation for leaving Garrisons in them that would certainly be lost in eight and forty hours at any rate.

I have, &c.,

J. H. CRAIG.

His Excellency Lieut.-Gov. GORE.

No. 9.—HON. JAMES BABY TO LIEUT.-GOV. GORE.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 247.)

May it please Your Excellency :

In my last letter, I entreated to receive further Instructions for my conduct. I am now more in want than ever to know your Excellency's intentions and hope will be deemed a sufficient apology for my sending the present express.

On the 14th instant I called jointly with my Brother on the commanding officer of Amherstburg and consulted with him as to the propriety of calling out the Detachments we have received Orders to prepare and placing them at that Post in case of the arrival of the Reinforcement our neighbours expect from different parts, in addition to which they have within this last week raised two hundred men now on actual duty at Detroit. His answer was that he had no orders to receive any body of men in his Garrison and on the subject of provisions he said he would feel a scarcity by the great quantity daily consumed by the Indians and the non-arrival of the snow, the General Hunter, which from the lateness of the season we need not look for. The Colonel read to us the Orders he had got for the distribution of arms, which seemed to leave it to him to deliver them, when he may see occasion for. He recommended us at the same time to address ourselves to your Excellency.

I am at a loss what construction is to be put on the words emergency or actual necessity, if there be no formal declaration of war. In a few days our neighbours will in all probability have a force of from five to seven hundred effective men exclusive of their non drafted militia; this number will have the advantage over us of being drilled and disciplined. On the first news of a war they may overpower us before we could collect our own numbers, amounting in all as drafted, to one hundred and sixty or eighty men, some of who are spread over an extent of more than sixty miles from Sandwich or Amherstburgh.

It would greatly relieve my embarrassment and anxiety if your Excellency would be pleased to point out what course must be followed in what I beg leave to refer to your Excellency's consideration that is, if on the arrival of any extraordinary force, or of levying a greater number of men at Detroit, we should be justifiable in calling out the Detachment of the Militia, were we to wait until hostilities or for a declaration of war and at the same time upon whom is to devolve the finding the militia with provisions and other necessities, if we should think ourselves sufficiently strong to guard the settlement opposite the Americans Garrison of Detroit, or otherwise to repair wherever necessity might direct.

I have come to this river to Review the Militia according to your Excellency's orders and it is with satisfaction I can state to your Excellency that the people of the county of Kent have appeared in a loyal manner. They have nearly all offered themselves as volunteers. One fourth of the whole is now in readiness for service.

My Brother having no opportunity to write, I may perhaps be permitted to say that I was present at the Review at Amherstburgh where the people of Essex exhibited great zeal and alacrity, offering themselves also as volunteers.

I Have &c.

J. BABY.

RALEIGH, RIVER THAMES,

No. 10.—LIEUT. GOV. GORE TO JAMES BABY.

*(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 250.)*GOVERNMENT HOUSE, YORK, 29th December, 1807.

SIR,—I have received your letter of the 18th of this month and offer you thanks for your attention as Lieutenant of the County of Kent to the militia which you are entrusted with.

It gives me the highest pleasure to be informed of the zeal and loyalty discovered by that Body of men and beg that you would communicate to them how much I am satisfied with their conduct on this occasion.

Should further reinforcements be made to the Garrison of Detroit, I think it necessary that a Detachment of one Fourth part of the Militia should be called out to meet any Emergency that may occur; to wait for actual hostilities might render Defence ineffectual.

I also consider as necessary that arms and ammunition should be issued by Lieutenant Colonel Grant and the Lieutenants of the counties of Kent and Essex to the commanding officers of the Militia from time to time, in such Quantities as may be deemed expedient for which arms Receipts are to be given.

I shall direct Lieut. Colonel Grant to receive such a number of the militia into the garrison of Amherstburgh, as he may deem expedient and as the exigency of the case may require.

If one-fourth part of Militia does not appear to you to be of sufficient strength for the Defence of such parts as are most liable and exposed to attack, you will call out a greater number, and even if the exigency of the case would require it, the whole of the Body.

At this distance of place and having never had it in my power even to view the country, it is impossible that I can give particular Instructions. Your conduct must be regulated by that of the Americans, I mean so as to be prepared to oppose such measures as in case of a rupture they may probably adopt.

With respect to Provisions for the Militia, I shall instruct Lieut. Colonel Grant to give orders to the commissary to apply to the contractor to furnish such Quantity of fresh Beef as the Militia on actual Service may require, which when embodied are to be considered on the same footing with respect to Provisions as the regular Troops.

I am happy to find you consult with Lieut. Colonel Grant, respecting the measures proper to be adopted, that officer's experience and professional knowledge I trust will be of the greatest advantage to the Defence if necessary of your part of the Province.

I have only to add that I have the greatest confidence in your zeal and discretion, sincerely wishing that this unpleasant business may terminate in a favourable issue.

I have, &c.,

FRANCIS GORE.

No. 11.—LIEUT. GOVERNOR GORE TO SIR JAMES CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 236.)

YORK, UPPER CANADA, 5th January, 1808.

SIR,—I have been honoured with your Dispatch of the 6th of December, marked secret, by Ensign Shaw of the 49th Regiment.

The reports that I received of Your Excellency's health gave me the greatest concern and prevented me from sending Lieut. Colonel Shaw sooner to lay before you the Situation of this province, for I do assure you that it never entered my mind to wait for an official communication of your appointment before I shall solicit to be honoured with your commands.

I am, sir, in a similar situation with you in respect to Intelligence. I never received any communication from Mr. Erskine but once, which was immediately after the affair of the 'Chesapeake,' containing only general observations respecting the displeasure of the Americans at that event, and I cannot certainly agree with your Excellency, that in such a state of uncertainty we ought to be prepared for Hostility if even it should take place.

The extent of this Province and its slender Population afford but too good grounds for the plan that is specified in His Majesty's instructions.

To defend this Province from any partial or sudden incursion may be practicable, beyond that your observations are but too well founded that it would be in vain. However convinced I am in my own mind of this truth, yet it must be carefully concealed from Persons of almost every description in this colony, for there are few People here that would act with Energy were it not for the purpose of defending the Lands which they actually possess.

I do myself the honour of enclosing for your Excellency's information a Return of the Militia, the fourth part of which I directed to be Ballotted for have voluntarily offered their Services.

I think I may venture to state that the generality of the Inhabitants from Kingston to the Borders of the lower province may be depended upon, but I cannot venture, from the Industry that has been used by certain characters now and lately in this Province, to assert that the Inhabitants about the Seat of this Government, Niagara and Long Point are equally to be relied on. I have also to observe that excepting the Inhabitants of Glengarry and those Persons who have served in the American war and their Descendants, which form a considerable body of men, the residue of the Inhabitants of this colony consist chiefly of Persons who have emigrated from the States of America and, of consequence, retain those ideas of equality and insubordination, much to the prejudice of this government, so prevalent in that country.

I have before mentioned that the Militia of this Province can only be expected to resist partial Incursions and on that account, if it meets with your approbation, it must be my endeavour to place them, as much as possible, at such points as are most susceptible of a sudden attack from an Enemy.

If I might presume to offer an opinion, I think that the plan which your Excellency suggests of harassing an Enemy, should an attempt be made to invest Quebec, would be productive of the most salutary effect, indeed the Provincial Force to be employed, aided by the Indians, point out this mode of warfare as most likely to succeed in distressing an Enemy.

I shall, whatever operations may take place, never lose sight of Quebec, for which purpose I shall endeavour to reserve as much as possible the Militia of Glengarry, Stormont, Prescott and Dundas, to act towards Lower Canada, in such a manner as you may be pleased to point out.

The Americans have not any other armed vessels on the Lakes and I conceive little doubt can be entertained of our retaining the superiority, at least for some time. It may be a subject worthy of your Excellency's consideration whether the Brig the "Duke of Kent" should be repaired and orders given to employ an additional number of seamen, which I fear from the difficulty already experienced cannot be effected without increasing the wages.

With respect to Provisions, we have in this Province a quantity of Flour, Fresh Beef and fresh Pork. Ammunition is only to be found in the King's stores. As to money we must look to Great Britain, the whole Revenue of this Province has as yet not much exceeded Three Thousand pounds a year, and of these by much the greater part is already appropriated to colonial purposes.

It is of much importance to keep up the appearance of defending Amherstburg, on account of the confidence it would inspire the Indians with and although I do not think it possible to retain that Post in its present state long against a force, yet I shall endeavour to reinforce it with Provincials till the Indian Nations can be assembled. It was on this principle that I was anxious that the Post of St. Joseph's should be reinforced by a few Regular Troops detached from the Lower Province by the Route of the Grand River.

Your Excellency will, I trust, pardon me for advancing an opinion that could we destroy the American Posts of Detroit and Michilimakinak that a great number of Indians would declare for us, of whose co-operation I am ever doubtful.

I feel the justness of your Excellency's observation, that in the event of war, if the Indians are not for us they will be against us. At the same time the delicate manner in which they ought to be managed and the danger of too precipitately pushing forward men so impatient, unthinking and ungovernable must always be kept in view. The mode of addressing them which you propose might, I think, have a sufficient yet not too violent an operation on their minds, but we must take care in this matter not to be too passive, for Reports do prevail, well or ill founded I know not, that some of the Indians have already discovered a degree of coldness in our cause.

Anxious not to mislead your Excellency with regard to the number of Indians who may be disposed to join the British Standard, I dare not venture to say further than that, on former occasions, between two and three thousand have been in the field. In these numbers I include the Indians round St. Joseph's, who are a powerful and active Race of men, having on former occasions come forward with alacrity when called upon and were distinguished by their Gallantry and Success. They consist of about six or eight hundred Warriors. As, however, directions have been given for a General Council to be held at Amherstburg, I shall hope to ascertain what assistance may be expected from them with some accuracy and I shall not fail to transmit the Proceedings of the Council to you.

The selection of the fittest Persons to be employed in conducting the Indians and restraining their impetuosity and ferocious disposition when engaged is an object of the utmost importance. I have no difficulty in communicating to your Excellency that I have for some time most anxiously wished for an influential character at the head of the Indian Department at Amherstburgh, where by far the greatest body of Indians assemble, and have used my best exertions to find out a proper person to head those Indians in the event of hostility as well as to take charge of their concerns at that Post. From every quarter where my enquiries have been directed the recommendation has exclusively fallen upon a Captain Elliott, who served with the Indians the whole of the American war, whose Influence and knowledge of their customs and Language point him out as the only person capable of producing a decisive impression on the minds of the several Nations and of conducting them with a temperate, though determined spirit, in any conflict with an Enemy. It is not to be conceal'd that Captain Elliott was removed from the situation he held in the Indian Department for supposed improper conduct by General Prescott and that this removal was confirmed by the King, but it is also to be stated that Captain Elliott's innocence is now universally believed in this Province and if I am to give credit to most respectable testimony, General Prescott was in that matter unfortunately misled by partial and unfounded representations, without being made acquainted with Captain Elliott's defence; under such circumstances however much I may believe Captain Elliott to be innocent I shall only feel myself justified in employing him till your pleasure shall be signified to me and then only in the event of an appearance of an immediate attack, or from other circumstances which require a prompt decision and where Captain Elliott's influence may be highly beneficial to His Majesty's service. In such case I trust the good of that service would prove a sufficient apology for my conduct.

I submit also to your Excellency's consideration that a Body of Indians will be very inefficient without they are accompanied by some regular Troops to direct and assist them and that other officers, besides those employed now in the Indian Department should be appointed to go on service with the Indian Nations; should you deem such officers to be necessary I believe that they could easily be found in this Province.

In order to avail ourselves of Indian assistance on any emergency, it appears absolutely necessary to have the whole of the Indian presents for this Province deposited here, instead of being stored at La Chine, from whence it has been the custom to send every spring the supply for the ensuing year; from the great reduction made in these presents, the Indian stores are now nearly empty. I shall in consequence feel considerable embarrassment on the assemblage of a large Body of Indians; it is, therefore, for your Excellency to determine on the expediency of ordering every description of Indian Goods to be forwarded from Lower Canada immediately the navigation opens to the Province.

The speech of the Prophet, as he is called, and which I presume you have seen, is the only Document by which any judgment can be directed in forming an opinion as to his motives and designs. It is however certain that he discovered a spirit of Hostility against the United States and from his having lately sent Messengers to Amherstburgh to request clothing for a few of his People (which was immediately delivered) it may fairly be presumed that he has a reliance on our friendly disposition towards him. My Information states that many of the Indians, especially those about St. Joseph's, who have had a meeting with him, now pay him little or no regard. It is notwithstanding believed that there are about Eight hundred or a Thousand over whom He has a considerable influence. I understand Captain Elliott is personally acquainted with this Prophet, having been in service with his Nation (the Shawanese). Mr. Elliott is shortly expected here to attend his Legislative Duty. I shall endeavour to find out from him how far he thinks the purchase of this man is worthy of further consideration of which I shall acquaint your Excellency.

I shall not at present inter into a detail of the political transactions which have occurred since my arrival in this Province. I have had the pleasure of a secret and confidential correspondence with Mr. Chief Justice Alcock on these points, to whom I have written to communicate all, or such parts of my correspondence with him as may be necessary to afford you such information as you may be desirous to be made acquainted with. I cannot however quit this subject without informing your Excellency that I have too much reason to believe that the indefatigable industry and artful insinuations, made use of by certain characters, have had a considerable effect on the public mind, which I fear will not be easily eradicated.

I have thus endeavoured to give you a faithful statement of the situation of this Province, from my own observations and the best information which I am in possession of.

In subserviency to the general Plan which I have laid down, my conduct must often be guided by the events of a moment.

In the difficult duty which I am called upon to perform, it will afford me much satisfaction not only to obey your Excellency's commands but from time to time to be honoured by your advice and council.

FRANCIS GORE.

Lt.-Governor.

NOTE.—In the County of Middlesex no Militia have been formed as yet.

FRANCIS GORE.

Lt. Governor.

No. 12.—JOHN HENRY TO H. W. RYLAND.

SWANTON, VERMONT, 2nd March, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—You will have learned that Congress has passed a law, prohibiting the transport of any American produce to Canada and the collector at this frontier post expects by this day's mail instructions to carry it into vigorous execution. The sensibility excited by this measure among the inhabitants in the Northern part of Vermont is inconceivable. The roads are covered with sleighs and the whole country seems employed in conveying their produce beyond the line of separation.

The clamour against the Government and the measure particularly is such that you may expect to hear of an engagement between the officers of Government and the sovereign people on the first effort to stop the introduction of that vast quantity of Lumber and produce which is prepared for the Montreal market.

This law is a comment on the Embargo of Jefferson intended only to preserve the commerce from falling into the hands of the Belligerent powers; he has done every thing commensurate with that object, but as no part of the policy applicable to that measure has the smallest relations to the suspension of intercourse with Canada, we may seek for the origin of this paltry attempt to deprive our navy of a few masts and spars in the inveterate hostility of the American executive towards Great Britain and an ardent desire to abet the designs of Bonaparte.

I scribble this news for you while breakfast is preparing for me and am in haste, &c.

J. HENRY.

No. 13.—JOHN HENRY TO W. H. RYLAND.

(Archives, Series Q., vol. 107, p. 115.)

WINDSOR, VERMONT, 6th March, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—I find that the Mail for Montreal will leave this place to-morrow and as it may be interesting to you to know the state of the public mind in the Northern part of Vermont, I shall send you a summary of what I have learned on my journey.

The prevalent opinion of the most judicious and best informed men is, that War with England is inevitable. I should ascribe this opinion to their fears but I have ascertained that the representatives from the several districts in Vermont of both the political parties write to their friends that "the administration and a majority of their colleagues in Congress are determined, if forced from their neutrality, to "take part with France unless Great Britain will make an unconditional surrender "of the right of search; that this surrender will not be made, nor indeed any concession which shall materially vary the existing practice of the British Navy," and they super add that "a general opinion prevails in Washington, that if a time can "exist, when concessions can be extorted from Great Britain, it is the present time."

In this state of things the principal topic of consolation to which I can refer you is the general dissatisfaction of every cast of society against the Government. The bold talk publicly of an organized resistance and the timid who see nothing but general bankruptcy and the most extended individual distress in a contest in which they have everything to lose and nothing to hope for would consent to or guarantee an armed truce along the borders and even an union with Great Britain, to the extent of protection from the coercion of their own Government, which would perhaps attempt to force them into active measures. This is not a favourite opinion with a few individuals, it is a general sentiment, flowing from a sense of their danger in an alliance with Buonaparte, a consciousness of the benefits they derive from a state of amity with Great Britain and a well founded conviction, that the interests of the northern states are not now regarded and can never again predominate in the National Councils. I am not surprised at this revolution in public opinion in the northern States. General distress pervades the country and law suits are so numerous, that the defendants greatly exceed in number the suitors. Although few only can reason, all can feel and where there is no physical restraint, the politics of the multitude will naturally and necessarily be governed by their interests.

The collector at the frontier posts has not yet received the law prohibiting every species of mercantile intercourse with Canada, nor is it absolutely ascertained, that the bill has gone through the Senate and been ratified by the President, but I have not found a man of any description who would quietly submit to it and only a few who would not justify a forcible opposition to it. Even these few would be glad to see the mob hang the Collector and his assistants.

In addition to what I have stated, I am very happy to find men speak with more reason of the conquest of Canada, which you know was (a few months ago) considered as a mere party of pleasure for ten thousand militia. They now inquire "where are our arms, military stores, camp equipage; where are officers of talents and experience, and why should we risk every thing on which we have been accustomed to set any value for the mere gratification of some political theory in which we take no concern and from the perfection of which we can derive no benefit, or to advance a project hatched in an evil hour beneath the influence of a french minister." They begin to see their own weakness now that a short period of suffering has a little repressed their vanity. They moreover know the character of our Governor General and infer from his being appointed the determination of Great Britain to preserve the colony.

The stage waits to take me on. I go to see what can be saved from the bankruptcy of my agent and have in some measure overcome my distress, by reflecting that the misfortune is not owing to any fault of my own or any want of vigilance. I shall draw what consolation I can from an old scholastic dogma, which was intended merely to show what little value we ought to set on human wisdom. Vitam regit fortuna non sapientia.

Boston, Thursday night,
March 10th, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—By a gentleman about to set out for Quebec in the morning, I send you a paper of this morning, containing an account of the failure of Mr. Rose's mission and his intention of immediately quitting the United States and also a letter from Mr. Pickering (now a Senator and formerly Secretary of State) to the Governor of Massachusetts on the danger of a war with England. I need not comment on either. The men of talents, property and influence in Boston are resolved to adopt without delay every expedient to avert the impending calamity and to express their determination not to be at war with Great Britain in such a manner as to indicate resistance to the Government in the last resort. From all I can learn the mob is on their side, the Democrats are intimidated and my only apprehension is that the general government will yield to the wishes of the Northern States before these States are ready to solicit the aid and make a common cause with their natural ally. Despair and indignation are now operating powerfully on all classes of people as well they who have lost everything as they who have everything to lose and very active though secret measures are taken to rouse the people from the lethargy which if long continued must end in their subjection to the modern Attila. I fear however that the mass of the people will awake in the chains of the Corsican when their struggle will only accelerate their weakness. O! my country, exalted by every moral and political perfection above the most splendid nations of modern or ancient times with what delight do I feel my little destructive share of the glory and dwell on the deeds of thy heroes. The inflexible, uniform and splendid virtues of thy monarch, the excellence of thy institutions and thy lofty unbending part amidst the wreck of Empires and the abandonment of principles which marks the decline of every state in Europe, thyself alone excepted.

I shall return in ten days and in the meantime will transmit to you any important or interesting event that may occur.

I am, &c.,

J. HENRY.

No. 15.—JOHN HENRY TO H. W. RYLAND.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 121.)

BOSTON, 18th March, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—By an arrival from England we have the King's speech, which you will see in the papers of this morning. His Majesty with his characteristic candour and decision refuses to concede any of the points which the American Government has connected with the affair of the "Cheapeake," so that the two nations are at issue. It now remains with Great Britain whether or not there will be a war, as the American Government has pushed coercive measures as far as the divided and distracted state of the public mind will authorise and only waits for England to commit such an act of violence as will unite the people of the United States, or rather deprive those who are now opposed to the Government of every excuse for further resistance to its measures. Until this can be accomplished Jefferson will persevere in the present vexatious irritating system. It is however to be expected that the evil will produce its own cure and that in a few months more of suffering and privation of all the benefits of commerce, the people of the New England States will be ready to withdraw from the confederacy, establish a separate government and adopt a policy congenial with their interest and happiness. For a measure of this sort, the men of talents and property are now ready and only wait until the continued distress of the multitude shall make them acquainted with the source of their misery and point out an efficient remedy.

Of local topics I find little worth communicating. The commander of the "Chesapeake" is acquitted. It is ascertained that he justified himself by orders from the president "not to resist." The conclusion is inevitable.

The captain of a ship arrived yesterday from a french port states that previous to his sailing two American vessels had been condemned on the charge of having been boarded by a British ship of war on their voyage and were with their cargoes confiscated.

I intend to return home next week. The failure of my agent occasions me the immediate loss of eight thousand dollars and my only indemnity is a new lesson of experience of the cruelty and perfidy of merchants when their interest favours an abandonment of principle.

No. 16.—SIR J. H. CRAIG TO LORD CASTLEREIGH.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 107, p. 111)

(Private.)

QUEBEC, 10th April, 1808.

MY LORD,—Thinking it possible that the enclosed letters may contain useful information on the subject of the disposition of the people of the Eastern States of America, I take the liberty of transmitting them to your Lordship, and however little secure I may think the mode of communication, I nevertheless hazard my packet by the Halifax mail, because its early arrival is the only means by which it can at any rate be serviceable and the writer will at all events be out of the reach of any inconvenience that might result to him by the circumstance long before it can be interrupted. Every account concurs in confirming that which he gives and it is certain that the communication with Vermont continues, as far as the badness of the Roads, which at this Season of the year are scarcely passable, admits of just as freely as before the passing of the Act for prohibiting it.

Mr. Henry is a Gentleman of considerable ability and I believe well able to form a correct Judgment on what he sees passing. He resided for some time in the United States and is well acquainted with some of the leading people of Boston to which place he was called very suddenly from Montreal where he at present lives by the intelligence he received that his agent was among the sufferers by the present measure of the American Government. He has not the least Idea that I should make this use of his correspondence which therefore can certainly have no other view than that of an unreserved communication with his Friend who is my Secretary.

No. 17.—JOHN HENRY TO H. W. RYLAND.

MONTREAL, April 14th, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—I returned from the United States on Monday and as I possess some information that you cannot obtain from Newspapers, I hasten to communicate it. The anxiety which we all feel in relation to our country, assailed as it is on every side and depending for her political existence on the firm confederacy of all the virtues and talents she can call her own—all that every man can furnish of information or aid ought without reserve to be thrown into the public exchequer.

To considerations of this kind must yield all these notions of delicacy, which on ordinary occasions would deter individuals like myself from obtruding their opinions or advice unsolicited & probably unnecessary.

To begin with Boston. Only men of large fortunes can now subsist. Every thing by which personal exertion has been hitherto excited or rewarded has ceased to exist and the commercial cities present a dreadful spectacle of distress, despair and that abandonment of principle which grows out of poverty and disappointment.

You will naturally enquire, if this be true why do we not see some bold & efficient measures resorted to? The truth is that it is only within a few weeks that the men of talents and fortune could calculate on the co-operation of the mob, but now that public opinion is unanimous, spirited measures will soon be adopted. I attended a private meeting of several of the principal characters in Boston, where the questions of immediate and ultimate necessity were discussed. In the first all agreed that memorials from all the towns (beginning with Boston) should be immediately transmitted to the administration and a firm determination expressed that they will not co-operate in a war against England. I distributed several copies of a memorial to that effect in some of the towns in Vermont on my return. The measure of ultimate necessity, which I suggested, I found in Boston some unwillingness to consider. It was that in case of a declaration of war the State of Massachusetts should treat separately for itself and obtain from Great Britain guaranty of its integrity. Although it was not deemed necessary to decide on a measure of this sort at this moment, it was considered as a very probable step in the last resort. In fine, every man whose opinion I could ascertain was opposed to a war and attached to the cause of England. In the northern part of Vermont the general sentiment is favourable to a coalition with England and the moment war shall be declared I have reason to believe the northern district will convene and endeavour to negotiate with the Governor of Lower Canada for his protection. Those with whom I conversed in Burlington went so far as to suggest that it would be well for our Government to purchase the sloops (fourteen in number) which navigated Lake Champlain. From all I have been able to collect I can with confidence infer that in case of a war, the States on our borders may be detached from the Union and like the Germanic body, each State consult its own safety and interest. But to accomplish this important object Great Britain must use address and conciliation towards the friendly States. Of the probability of war in which all the measures I have referred to are predicated the government of the Province can better judge than any one else, but to the information of which it is possessed, I am desirous to add that I have had a long and serious conversation with Captain Dunham who has for several years commanded the post at Michilimackinac. He has spent the winter at Washington and is now on his return to his station instructed to expect war. He is although a federalist much in the confidence of the heads of departments and he assured me that when the King's address to Parliament arrived at Washington they all agreed in opinion that war was inevitable. "The present delay," he says, "is merely to wait the arrival of all the India ships and that the majority of Congress and the Executive Government are determined to put every thing to risk to maintain the pretension that American citizens natural and adopted shall be protected in public and private ships." A report has within a few hours reached town that Mr. Rose has sailed and a vessel been sent to England for Mr. Pinkney. I have not however been able to trace it to any satisfactory source.

No. 18.—JOHN HENRY TO H. W. RYLAND.

MONTREAL, April 25th, 1808.

MY DEAR SIR,—In my last I omitted to mention to you, that among the details of the plan for averting from the northern states the miseries of French alliance and friendship, individuals are selected in the several towns on the seaboard and throughout the country, to correspond and act in concert with the superintending committee at Boston.

The benefits of any organised plan over the district and desultory exertions of individuals are I think very apparent. Whether this confederacy of the men of talent and property be regarded as a diversion of the power of the nation, as a sufficient means of resistance to the General government in the event of a war, on the nucleus of our English party that will be soon formidable enough to negotiate for the friendship of Great Britain, it is in all respects very important and I have well founded reason to hope, that a few months more of suffering and the suspension of everything collateral to commerce will reconcile the multitude to any man and any system which will promise them relief.

There are no laws in the United States sufficiently vigorous to prevent or punish combinations of this nature constructive treason is unknown to their criminal code, and the regular force at the disposal of Government has hitherto been deemed insufficient to evict a few hundred illegal settlers in the eastern district of Massachusetts.

I have this moment received from Burlington the enclosed paper which is the result of the proceedings which I led you to anticipate in my last letter. My correspondent writes to me "that it was deemed necessary to make some material alterations in the sketch I left with him, in order to render the whole transaction agreeable to a few individuals who have still confidence in the general Government." Although I am disappointed in not finding a bolder or more decisive language in the memorial, I still think it a strong evidence of the union of those people who have hitherto disagreed in everything political and an assurance of their co-operation with the Government of Canada in the event of a war. The accession of the northern part of Vermont and the command of the navigation of Lake Champlain would be an effectual barrier to any inroad that might be attempted by the usual and most practicable route into Canada. Nature has so fortified Vermont that it could be maintained even by Militia against any army the United States could supply. The road from Burlington to the Connecticut River is alternately over mountains and through defiles.

I send you the last Boston Repertory, the receptacle of the political speculations of the last winter in Boston. You will perceive what the editor says of Champagny's letter. It is too true that a majority of Congress and the Executive Branch of that Government concur in everything the French Minister writes in this extraordinary State paper.

The Election of Governor in Massachusetts has (as was expected) terminated unfavourably to the federal party. It took place throughout the State on the first Monday in April. Too soon for any extensive revolution in the public opinion.

I owe you an apology for a letter so episodical and am &c.

JOHN HENRY.

I shall occupy part of my envelope with a recapitulation of the regular forces of the United States and their distribution, which I extract from minutes taken with a view to publish some general sketches of that country.

	Men.
4 Regiments of Infantry not complete	2,150
1 Regiment of Artillerists complete.....	750
2 Companies of Engineers and Cadets.....	150
2 Troops of Cavalry	130
Total.....	3,180

Distribution of the Army.

One Regiment assigned to the frontier of Tennessee and Georgia, and two Troops of Cavalry at the principal outpost in Georgia.

3 Regiments distributed along the Lakes from Niagara to Michillimackinac, upon the Miami, Ohio, Mississippi and Tombigbee.

4 Companies of Artillerists on the Northern, Western and Southern frontiers and six Companies on the seaboard from Portland in Massachusetts to St Mary's in Georgia. There are not in any fortress on the seaboard more than one full company consisting of about seventy men, nor is there one that could not be taken by the boat's crew of a frigate. Five thousand men might maintain themselves in the two Islands in the harbour of Newport against the whole Militia of that state and ten thousand against any disposable force in the country and that port has the peculiar advantage of being accessable with any wind and a safe harbour for an hundred ships of war. It is indeed the only harbour in the United States that can be entered with a violent North Wind. It may be useful to you to know these facts and as necessity requires communicate them.

SIR,—I think it right to acquaint you that a communication has been made to His Majesty's Minister for Foreign Affairs by Mr. Pinckney the Minister of the United States at this Court that he has received information from Mr. Armstrong at Paris, by which it appears that a demand made on the part of the United States that France should revoke or soften her Decree of blockade against Great Britain had been refused by Buonaparte; in consequence whereof he had no communication to make to the Court of London.

This information undoubtedly diminishes the probability of any rupture with the American States, at the same time it is not considered of such a nature as to warrant the suspension or discontinuance of those measures of precaution and preparation which you have been instructed to take.

QUEBEC 6th April, 1808.

MY LORD,—I take the earliest opportunity of informing your Lordship that the present critical situation of affairs with the accounts I have received from His Majesty's Minister at Washington of the failure of Mr. Rose's mission have induced me to accede to the offer of the inhabitants of the County of Glengarry in Upper Canada, which your Lordship put into my hands, to raise a corps of Fencible men for these colonies of 500 Rank and file. As it is but within these very few days that I have come to a conclusion with them on the Terms, I have it not in my power by this opportunity to inclose the Details for your Lordship's Information; they are however pretty much as usual except that I have reserved to His Majesty's Government the power of disembodiment at any time and for any period that may be thought proper during which the officers are to receive only half pay with the exception of the staff who as they may be in continual employment in the service of the Regiment it is reasonable should remain at all times in the full receipt of their Pay.

The Regiment is to be clothed every year if kept embodied, otherwise proportional to the time that it may be used. I shall have cloth enough in the store here for their Jackets and Waistcoats, but as they claim the Privilege of being in the Highland Garb, I must request that your Lordship will be pleased to give the necessary directions that we may be supplied with Bonnets and tartan stuff for the kilts together with the other articles that are necessary for the usual establishment of a corps of that strength.

At the unanimous desire of all parties, I propose appointing Lieut.-Colonel Aeneas Shaw, on the Half Pay of the Queen's Rangers to the command of the corps as Lieut.-Colonel Commandant.

SIR,—I have the Commander in Chief's commands to acquaint you in reply to your letter of the 10th of February last, that in consequence of your having deemed it expedient to call upon the Canadian Fencible Regiment to take part in the discharge of the military duties of the Province, His Royal Highness has been pleased to recommend to His Majesty that this Corps should be placed upon the Establishment of the Army at 400 R. & F. with the usual proportion of officers and the non-commissioned officers and the same has taken place accordingly.

QUEBEC, 5th May, 1808.

MY LORD,—Although I imagine the return of Mr. Rose will have furnished your Lordship with the most correct Information on the state of this country, yet I would not omit completing the series of Mr. Henry's Letters of which I forwarded the first part by the last packet and I therefore do myself the Honour to enclose two more written after that gentleman's return to Montreal (see Nos. 17 and 18), to which I have to add that his account of the disposition of the People of Vermont has been since completely verified in so far as relates to their opposition to the Embargo, Rafts of timber and Lumber, for which the People were under Engagements to our merchants here, having actually arrived at St. John's in defiance of a Vessel placed under the direction of officers of the Customs on the Lake at the Line which marks the Boundary between that State and this Province. It was apprehended that there would be some scuffle between them, none however happened as upon the Raftsmen declaring their resolution to proceed the People in the Boat declined any further opposition.

Although this Boat is stationed close to the Line yet I thought it prudent to avoid for the present taking any notice of her, so as to preclude the possibility of any Event that might occur among them being ascribed to any interference on our part. If however any affray should take place I shall immediately advance a Post to the Line on our side with Injunctions not to interfere in any case while the parties remain beyond the Boundary, but to give protection to either which may find it necessary to take refuge on our side, at any rate to preserve His Majesty's territory from violation. I will take particular care that this post shall be under an officer upon whose discretion a proper reliance can be placed.

NO. 23.—SIR J. H. CRAIG TO JOHN HENRY.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 254.)

Most secret and confidential.

QUEBEC, 6th February, 1809.

SIR,—As you have so readily undertaken the service which I have suggested to you as being likely to be attended with much benefit to the public Interests, I am to request that with your earliest conveniency you will proceed to Boston.

The principal object that I recommend to your attention is the endeavour to maintain the most accurate information of the true state of affairs in that part of the Union which from its wealth, the number of its inhabitants and the known intelligence and ability of some of its leading men must naturally possess a very considerable influence over, and will indeed probably lead the other Eastern States of America in the part that they may take at this important crisis.

I shall not pretend to point out to you the mode by which you will be most likely to obtain this important information. Your own judgment and the connections which you may have in the town must be your guide. I think it however necessary to put you on your guard against the sanguiness of an aspiring Party. The Federalists, as I understand, have at all times discovered a leaning to this disposition and their being under its particular influence at this moment is the more to be expected from their having no ill founded grounds for their hopes of being nearer the attainment of their object than they have for some years past.

In the general Term which I have made use of in describing the object which I recommend to your attention, it is scarcely necessary to say that I should observe I include the state of the public opinion both with regard to their internal politics and to the probability of war with England, the comparative strength of the two great Parties into which the country is divided and the views and designs of that which may ultimately prevail.

It has been supposed that if the Federalists of the Eastern States should be successful in obtaining that decided influence which may enable them to direct the public opinion, it is not improbable that rather than submit to a continuance of the difficulties and distress to which they are now subject, they will exert that influence to bring about separation from the general Union. The earliest information on this subject may be of great consequence to our Government, as it may also be that it should be informed how far in such an event they would look up to England for assistance or be disposed to enter into a connexion with us.

Although it would be highly inexpedient that you should in any manner appear as an avowed agent, yet if you could contrive to obtain an intimacy with any of the leading party it may not be improper that you should insinuate, though with great caution, that if they would wish to enter into any communication with our Government through me, you are authorised to receive any such and will safely transmit it to me, and as it may not be impossible that they should require some Document by which they may be assured that you are really in the situation in which you represent yourself, I enclose a credential to be produced in that view, but I most particularly enjoin and direct that you do not make any use of this Paper, unless a desire for that purpose should be expressed and unless you see good ground for expecting that the doing so may lead to a more confidential communication than you can otherwise look for.

In passing through the State of Vermont, you will of course exert your endeavours to procure all the information that the short stay you will probably make there will admit of. You will use your own discretion as to delaying your journey with this view more or less in proportion to your prospects of obtaining any information of consequence.

I request to hear from you as frequently as possible and as Letters directed to me might excite suspicion, it may be as well that you should put them under cover to Mr. Richardson and as even the addressing Letters always to the same Person might attract notice, I recommend you sometimes addressing your Packet to the Chief Justice here, or occasionally though seldom to Mr. Ryland, but never with the addition of his official description.

I am, &c.,

No. 24.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

(Archives, series, Q., vol. 109, p. 82.)

BURLINGTON, 14th February, 1809.

SIR,—This goes by a Private Gentleman who will deliver it safely at Montreal.

I have remained here two days in order to converse with a person with whom I have been in correspondence, relative to the arrangements alluded to in my Letters written last year to Mr. R—— as well as to ascertain the prevailing sentiments of the People in the Northern District of Vermont, on the political topics which excite such general Interest at this time in every part of the Country.

On the subject of the embargo Laws there exists but one opinion, namely, that they are unconstitutional, unnecessary and injurious, and impart such invidious authority to those who are charged with their Execution that the worst consequences of resistance are deemed preferable to submission and it has on several occasions required all the influence of the leading men to keep the People quiet and prevent them from offering violence to the Detachments of Soldiers who have been sent near the frontier to aid the revenue officers, the more reflecting part judging very correctly that it is better to preserve that spirit for more important occasions, which could now perhaps be content with the massacre of ninety or one hundred miserable creatures, who are soldiers because they are scarce able to exist by labour.

It is no longer doubted that the measures of the general Government are directed by France. The lowest people and the best informed speak a common Language on this subject and under the influence of their indignation and their fears, are making such arrangements for their common safety as at least prove their sincerity and readiness to co-operate with any more efficient and powerful body. Massachusetts is looked to as the Dictator and from every sort of evidence I can venture to give it as my opinion that obedience will be promptly and willingly rendered. The resolutions of the principal Towns will be published in the Burlington Paper which will be sent to Mr. R——d. I have seen the manuscripts; they indicate more violence than judgment.

I have met with Mr. Tichenor the present Governor with whom I have long been intimate. He is visiting the Towns in the Northern district and makes no secret of his intentions. He is desirous personally to inform the people that his own opinion of the measures of the Administration are perfectly congenial with theirs, but at the same time to urge the necessity of Union and the interposition of State Sovereignty in preference to detached and desultory efforts to obtain redress. As Commander in Chief of the Militia he is determined to select such officers as he can rely on and put himself at their head in case the State should be called on to furnish its quota of Troops and it is perfectly understood that he will not permit a man to march out of the State and in case of a war with England will maintain a perfect neutrality. Something more than neutrality is talked of in such an Event, but I doubt whether more can be expected, unless Massachusetts should set the example.

It will be easily seen that a pressure of unexpected events may impel this State from the path it has marked out, but this strong predisposition to oppose the embargo laws and war with Great Britain is a happy presage of a correct course of action. Should the other Northern States entertain corresponding intentions it is not easy to conceive with what force a war can be carried on. To what extent the Sentiments which prevail here exist in the Neighbouring States I am not informed. I only know that the Federalists act in concert and that the organization which commenced in March and April last and was the subject of a former correspondence includes now all the Talents and Property of the Northern States and if (as is now firmly believed) the common people are federal, at least a majority of them, everything that could be expected is already accomplished.

A report has this moment reached me that the House of Representatives has passed a resolution to repeal the Embargo laws on the 4th of March. It is not known that any substitute has been adopted nor is it considered probable that it will pass the Senate.

I am, &c.,

A——B——.

NO. 25.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR JAMES CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 86.)

BURLINGTON, February 15, 1809.

SIR,—After having sent off my letter yesterday, I waited the arrival of the Southern Mail in the expectation of receiving some intelligence of a late date from Washington. It brought the letter which I herewith transmit. It is from the Member who represents this District in Congress to a Gentleman with whom I have been in correspondence and who is active in promoting the views of the Federal Party in this part of the State. The writer of this letter is a man of character and veracity & whether competent or not to form correct notions of what is going on, is at least within reach of all the knowledge, which is possessed by his party.

If his statement be correct the relative strength of Parties in the new Congress stands thus:

Anti Administration Members.....	15
	— 60
Democrats in favour of the Administration.....	82
Whole number	142
Majority 22.

Notwithstanding this sagacity on the part of the new President, there is good grounds at present to hope, that the states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont will resist every attempt of the French party to involve the United States in a War with Great Britain. As far as I am now able to form an opinion the first measure of the States above mentioned will be to pass Laws contravening those of the General Government and support them by means of the Militia. The Laws already passed by the General Government are in many instances directly contrary to the constitutions of particular States.

Massachusetts standing first in power will undoubtedly take the law, (lead?) and with respect to the mere physical force, little more seems necessary to obtain the complete control of it than to strengthen the well founded apprehension which now exists of the ultimate tendency of the projects dictated by Buonaparte and concurred in by the Southern Democrats. I need scarce add that no means which can conduce to this end shall be neglected.

The men of talents, who untill lately have been oppressed with the hatred and Obloquy which the vile population have heaped upon them have now nothing to do but direct with skill and energy that very animosity towards the slaves of the Corsican.

NO. 26.—MARTIN CHITTENDEN'S LETTER ENCLOSED.

WASHINGTON, February 12th, 1809.

MY DEAR SIR,—I have the pleasure to acknowledge receipt of your esteemed favours of the 15th and 23rd ulto with the address or presentment of the G. Jurors for which I beg you to accept my sincere thanks. Everything is operating at Washington as favourable as could possibly be expected we have operated so powerfully on the fears of the Troops of the palace that their ranks are broken in such a degree that they have not been able to hold a general caucus for many days. We have spent four days in debate on a resolution presented by Mr. Nicholas of Virginia for repealing the Embargo on the first of June next and granting letters of Marque and reprisal on the same day. In Committee of the whole we have negatived the proposition for the first of June for the repeal of the Embargo Laws with a view to insert an earlier day say the 15th of this month or the 4th of March, 73 to 40 with some hope of rejecting the other Branch of the Resolution which is the granting Letters of Marque & Reprisal but of this I cannot speak with confidence if not then all may be lost for the friends of the Liberty & prosperity of the country are determined if possible to prevent the administration from plunging the Nation into an unnecessary and ruinous war. The whole force and influence of the present administration and the President Elect is exerted to continue our present self destroying and ruinous measures untill they can send to France. Mr. Coles the private Secretary of the President is to leave this for France in a few days probably to communicate verbally what they dare not commit to paper. That there is a private understanding between T. J. and Napoleon on the subject of the Embargo there can be little doubt. Should the Embargo be removed without a substitute equally agreeable to him I think it probable he might disclose a scene of Iniquity which would damn King Tom and all his minions very few of whom I believe however are fully in the secret. This is the principal reason why the Embargo system was not abandoned at the commencement of the present session.

These are my own conjectures formed from an attentive observation of all their movements in addition to some private information both from France & G. Britain and I can assure you Sir that G. Britain stands very ready to close with any proposition from our Government which shall honourably and sincerely be made with a view to an amicable adjustment of all existing differences. It is astonishing what an effect so small a minority have had upon such an overwhelming majority but this is [in] a great measure owing to the firm stand which the people have made in many parts of the Union against the Tyrannical, oppressive and unconstitutional measures which are pursued. The independent and dignified Resolutions which have been passed in Town meetings have a very different effect from humble Petitions. I hope and trust that the good people of Vermont who are real friends to good order & to public and private liberty, will continue to conduct with prudence, but with firmness worthy of Freemen prepared to meet any event as everything which respects their real Interests and the welfare of their country is uncertain at this eventful crisis. Although I am in some degree a silent observer of passing events I am by no means an inactive one and this is a time which requires action in a peculiar manner.

The Eleventh Congress are to meet on the 22nd of May next when we can calculate on 45 Federalists of the old Washington School and at least fifteen who are called Democrats but whom I consider good Republicans, who will be anti-Administration men with such a minority I do not despair of the Commonwealth. You will please to accept of this hasty and imperfect sketch as I have no time to correct it.

I am, &c.,

MARTIN CHITTENDEN.

No. 27.—ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ON AFFAIRS IN THE UNITED STATES.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 58.)

(The questions are not given.)

Nos. 1 and 2.

To answer these Questions in all their extent would require a much longer time to result [reside?] in each state than an excursion so short as mine in which the greater part of the time has been employed in actual and rapid travelling would admit of; besides a person is liable to be deceived by the political feelings of the different Parties which agitate the country, unless he has a clew to many of their actions. But have no hesitation in saying from sources on which I think I can rely, that since the Democratic party came into power, by the accession of Mr. Jefferson to the Presidency, which is eight years that a large majority from New York to Georgia have been in favour of Democracy of the grossest kind and have generally advocated the measures of their Government. Several causes contributed this Democratic ascendancy in the states generally and in the further states in particular, but the most efficient cause of the defeat of the Federal party was occasioned by a direct System of Taxation which had taken place to no great extent under General Washington's Administration and which had continued under Mr. Adams. This system had been continued by both with a view to the increase of the Naval Force of the Country and to the general improvement even in time of Peace of the Fortifications and general Military means of the Country.

Whoever knows anything of American ideas must know that nothing is more alarming than the iden of Direct Taxation; the Party now in power excited a general alarm throughout the States on this ground—they decried the expenditure of Public Money on Fortifications, building ships or any other measures of Military preparation, as a waste of Public Money and calculated to keep up and increase the direct Taxes of the Country. And since the Party obtained power, the greater part of the Fortifications have been suffered to go to ruin—they have sold a great part of their Navy and the remaining ships have been laid up at Washington, where by the little care taken of them, they have been so much injured as to have ruined some of them and to have injured the others so as to have rendered it extremely difficult and expensive to repair them. This wasteful Economy has compelled the Government this year to keep employed in the Dockyard at Washington only upwards of 500 workmen besides an expensive Naval Yard at New York and one at Charlestown, near Boston. Besides this economical Tub to the Whale, other causes have contributed to the establishment of the democratic Party in the Southern States—one powerful and efficient cause of which has been the immense influx of Foreigners a large proportion of which were driven from their own countries and among this description of persons has been a large proportion of Emigrants from His Majesty's Dominions in Ireland. There are in New York 7 or 8,000 of these People. In Philadelphia the number is greater and the number dispersed through the State of Pennsylvania is estimated at more than four times the number in the Capital. At Baltimore they are overrun with this description of men. The enmity of these Foreigners to Great Britain is kept alive at Philadelphia by Duane, an Irishman, printer of the Aurora, who possesses Abilities and is supposed to be in French Pay, at Baltimore is another Irish Printer of the same stamp and of equal violence. The late Election in Pennsylvania in which the Democratic Party has obtained a majority of upwards of 20,000 has been partly occasioned by the influx of Foreigners and partly by the tertium quid or third party throwing away their votes, by voting for candidates of their own and so joining with neither. As far as respects foreign pecuniary influence, though it is supposed there are Persons in several of the States who are in the Pay of France, yet this kind of influence is difficult to detect but several other causes have contributed to this foreign influence—the resentment which the American War left on the minds of men, is often a predisposing cause which when any new circumstance of irritation arises is immediately resorted to by the Party opposed to Great Britain. The assistance which France rendered in that War is next resorted to, but an influence much stronger than either of these was that extraordinary spirit which the beginning of the French Revolution produced, by its extravagant Doctrines of Liberty and Equality, the Destruction of Thrones and the Establishment of Republics; this new Order of things gratified the pride of this Country, which supposed that the revolution had led the way to it—in this kind of enthusiasm Mr. Jefferson largely partook and during his residence in France and continual intercourse with the visionary theorists who have alternately rent asunder that ill fated country his mind, which readily received any new fangled theory, became so impregnated with French Ideas and so strongly attached to that Country, that no change of System there has been able to shake it, until the receipt of the last dispatches from Mr. Armstrong. These have led to a different way of talking about France even among the different members of Mr. Jefferson's Cabinet.

This change of opinion, as it respects France, is beginning to appear openly in the Speeches of the Government Leader in Congress and if the Spaniards should be able to maintain the ground in Spain against Bonaparte the French influence will continue to decline in this Country. His proceedings in Spain have produced him many enemies in America and of late it is operating among the Roman Catholic Foreigners who have emigrated to America, some of which are beginning to speak with great severity of his conduct.

Since the democratic Party obtained their power in this Country, they have by a variety of artifices retained that Influence. Every Federalist has been turned out of office and Democrats appointed in their stead. All taxes which could be dispensed with have been withdrawn and as the Trade which Mr. Jay's Treaty secured to them has been uncommonly productive, though originally abused by the present party in power, their Revenue which results from Trade has furnished an overflowing Treasury and has rendered it unnecessary to resort to direct taxation. This source of Revenue the Impolitic System of Embargo effectually destroys and if the present order of things is persisted in, or if War ensues, direct Taxes must be resorted to. John Randolph warned the adherents of the Administration in the House, a few days before I left Washington, that as direct taxation has driven out of power the Federalist Administration, so would the same measure (and it appeared to him they must soon resort to it) ruin the influence and drive out of Power the present Dominant Party.

Among other artifices the present party have resorted to for perpetuating their power is the following. In the State of New York as soon as the Democrats had obtained a majority on the first meeting of their Legislature, they arranged a new division of the Counties to give decisive effect to their future Elections. In doing this they took from some Counties, where there was an overflow of Democracy, and added these Democrats to counties where Federalism prevailed. By means like these they consolidated their power in that State and have thereby made the most unnatural division of the State that could possibly be conceived; by the immense number of Foreigners that have been collected in the new settlements they have been enabled the more easily to effect these objects.

Another cause which gives a fatal preponderance to the Democratic Party is the perpetual recurrence to Elections, so universal is the Elective Suffrage that property and Talents are continually made to give way to those who have neither the one nor the other. Indeed men of Property and Talents have been so annoyed by the servile means necessary to obtain Power by the violence and licentiousness connected with it, that they are generally shrinking from the Scene. This last observation was rendered very striking to me while attending Congress, which in point of Talents is far inferior to any congress they have ever had since their Independence.

It has not been in my power to collect with that accuracy I could wish the names of the Leaders generally, but to the causes above stated more than to particular men themselves are to be attributed the general Democratic ascendancy.

No. 3.

In Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia two thirds are Democratic. This opinion is warranted by the late Election; the same proportion was last year to be found in Maryland, but in that state the Embargo has operated a change in the House of Representatives this year which has given a Federal Majority of five.

In the lower Counties of Delaware more than two thirds are Federal. In Pennsylvania this year their Elections have produced a Democratic majority of more than two thirds. In New Jersey there is this year a considerable majority in favour of Democracy but not equal to the majority of last year. The New York Elections taking place in the Spring months, the Federalists lost their Elections of State officers by a majority of about 1,000—this however was a great gain, as the majority of last year was upwards of 5,000 in favour of Democracy. A great change is however taking place in the public opinion in that State. The number of Federal votes for President when Mr. Jefferson was elected was only 18, in the present Election it was 45; though outvoted by the Democratic Electors, the gain under all circumstances was considered great. In Connecticut more than two thirds have been always Federal—this year their majority has been greater than ever. In Rhode Island, where democracy prevailed last year, all their Elections have been Federal by a large majority. In Massachusetts Democracy two years ago obtained a small majority, this year they have gained in the Senate and the House a majority of one third; the next Election will be more decidedly Federal. In New Hampshire, where for several years Democracy has prevailed there is this year a considerable Federal Majority. In the State of Vermont, the same change has taken place and Federalism is daily encreasing in that State. In the choice of Elector of President by that State lately there was a Democratic Majority of 4 or 5, but Mr. Lyon explained the reason of it in Congress to be this. In some of the States the choice of Electors is by General Ticket or suffrage; in Vermont it is by Districts, which have in them so little population that he resembled them to old Sarem (sic), to give the same Votes as the most populous Districts of that State and in this way, he said, this small majority had been obtained directly in opposition to the general voice. The State of Tennessee is generally democratic.

The Federalists generally wish a reconciliation with Great Britain, a large proportion of them from a preference to Great Britain and others from a conviction that their commercial Interests will be more effectually promoted by a connexion with Great Britain than with any other nation. The Talents and the Wealth of this Country are almost invariably to be found in this party, there may be exceptions to this last Remark in some measure as it respects the States South of Pennsylvania. As the feelings of the Federalists are generally in favour of a reconciliation with Great Britain so, on the contrary, the feelings of the Democrats, with few Exceptions, have been until the late Dispatches from Mr. Armstrong, in favour of France. These dispatches have already had considerable operation and it now rests with His Majesty's Government if it pleases to give a more powerful effect to this new operative clause.

The Election of President has created a partial division in the Democratic Party some adhering to Munro (sic) and some to Clinton; this division of Sentiments might by the Federalists have been improved to advantage by joining with either of the opposing Candidates, but that party had so little confidence in either of them that they preferred voting for the candidate they respected though they knew their votes would be thrown away.

The Federal party on the divisions of the House of Representatives while I attended Congress were about 26 to 87—the late Elections will increase the Federal party in Congress to 60 or upwards, but I shall soon obtain a complete list which will enable me to ascertain this question more precisely. The States where the change of Politics has occasioned this difference are already noticed in the answer to No. 3. The causes are chiefly to be attributed in those States to the extreme pressure and impolicy of the Embargo System; to the fear that direct taxes must soon be resorted to if that system continues and in many instances to the shameful conduct of Bonaparte in his treatment of Spain & Portugal and to an approbation of the conduct of Great Britain in the honourable assistance she has afforded to these nations. In the Eastern States the universal feeling is warm for the success of the Spaniards.

The first branch of this Question is answered by the above observations. As far as respects a third party in Congress Mr. Randolph appears to have a sort of influence over 8 or 9 of the members. This Gentleman possesses a strong mind, is a correct & interesting speaker and is always listened to with much attention, but he has so full a consciousness of his own power and so thorough a contempt for the greater part of the House, that he mixes very little with them and turns his talents to so little political purpose as to render them nearly useless—this may in part arise from his extreme feeble habit of body which often seems too weak to sustain him long.

The President for the ensuing four years will undoubtedly be Mr. Madison. From the Diplomatic Correspondence in which this Gentleman has been engaged for years no change of politics was to be expected but from the late conferences of Mr. Erskine with Mr. Madison & other persons, who from some reconciliation between them will undoubtedly form his Cabinet, hopes may reasonably be entertained that they have become convinced that a change of system may make his Presidency much more comfortable to himself and more popular than the present course they are pursuing and which they candidly say cannot be much longer continued. The late letters received from France have exceedingly mortified them & strengthened their desire for a reconciliation with Great Britain. Among other measures brought forward by the Government Party in Congress which strengthens my hopes as to a change of conduct was a resolution offered to the House to exclude all foreign Seamen from Naturalization in the United States. This Resolution was received by the House and will form a clause in a New Bill for Naturalization now before Congress.

As far as respects Mr. Jefferson, the present President, though he has a full share of mortification, which the late letters from General Armstrong are calculated to produce, yet was he to remain in power, I do not believe that Mr. Erskine or any person with whom I conversed (and I had conversations with some of the most excellent characters in the District of Columbia, who are thoroughly acquainted with the parties) would have any confidence in a change for the better.

10.

This question is fully answered in the Report of the Committee of Foreign Relations and in the Documents laid before Congress both of which I transmitted from Washington.

11.

The cause of France is now abandoned by the Speakers on both sides the House. They are learning a new Lesson and though some of them recite it badly, they now disavow all friendly feelings towards her.

12.

When speaking of the means of annoying Great Britain no other ideas are ever suggested by the Advocates of the Government but the Non-Intercourse System or War. The friends of Great Britain in America are anxiously wishing that the orders in Council may be repealed and a commercial Intercourse opened; they do not know that their Government is itself, through Mr. Erskine endeavouring to effect the same object; they are alarmed at the prominent features of the measures their Government is pursuing and are afraid they will irritate our nation and shut the door to reconciliation. The Dispatches forwarded in the "Chesterfield" Packet have placed the facts of America in the hands of our Government.

This question is answered by reference to the late conference of Mr. Erskine and to those Dispatches which he assured me he had transmitted to Sir George Prevost.

The events in Spain and Portugal have had much effect on American politics; had Bonaparte succeeded in obtaining quiet possession of Spain and the Spanish Colonies had submitted to his sway, this Government would long since have pushed America into a war with Great Britain, though every sensible man in the Country viewed their own destruction as connected with the dominion of France over the Spanish Colonies by bringing so mischievous a power into their neighbourhood; the late events in Spain have saved this Government for the present from the mischievous effects of their own politics. It is highly to the honour of the Federal Party in this Country that they have continually rejoiced in the Spirit which the Spanish nation has shewn and that they receive with manifest exultation every account of their success; the most respectable of the Democratic Party appear also to wish them success, these people wish a Commercial Intercourse with Spain and Portugal and they are afraid if a reconciliation does not take place between Great Britain and America that the influence of our Government with Spain & Portugal will occasion their exclusion from the Trade of these Countries. The renewed commercial connexion of Great Britain with those Countries has had the best effect on America, in convincing them of the folly of their Embargo and the perfect imbecility of their attempts to injure Great Britain. It has also excited a strong fear for the safety of Louisiana least we should stimulate the Spaniards to retake a Territory they have been so shamefully swindled out of. I was present when in their speeches in Congress they expressed their strong fears that Sir George Prevost's Expedition was destined for that quarter.

M. Feranda has arrived at Washington accredited by the Spanish Junta, as chargé d'affaires to Ferdinand the VII He has presented his credentials to the American Government, but when I left Washington he had obtained no answer from Mr. Jefferson, whether he would be received or refused. Some of the Consuls under the old Government still remain in the States, not knowing what course to pursue. But by an arrival from Bordeaux of the 2nd of November, it appears that an Ambassador appointed by Joseph Bonaparte was at Bonaparte's Levee before he proceeded from Spain and was soon to proceed to America—Should he arrive it will place the American Government in an embarrassed situation.

Great apprehensions are excited for the safety of Louisiana—a part of the new Levee of 6000 men has been sent to that Quarter and an additional number sufficient to make the whole regular force lately sent amount to 2000 were in a few days march to Baltimore, where transports were taken up to transport them by water to New Orleans. It was supposed that Genl. Wilkinson who was at Washington was to go with them.

The best regular data to judge of the proportion of suffering of the respective States are to be found in the calculations contained in the Speeches of Mr. Quincy, Mr. Pickering, Mr. Hillhouse and Mr. Lloyd, all of whom have taken great pains to ascertain this Subject. These Speeches are among the Papers I have transmitted the pressure of this ill judged measure has been felt severely in every part of the Union. I think however the Eastern States which have been so largely concerned in Shipping and had by their Enterprise obtained the largest proportion of the carrying Trade, are the severest sufferers. And if our Government should not be disposed to let them out of their own Trap and the Government of America should continue the present system, not a doubt can be entertained but that a separation of the Eastern States will ensue. If the answer of our Government should not meet the wishes of the ruling Party they will endeavour to preserve the Union by plunging the Country into a War with Great Britain in hopes that a common danger will excite a unanimity they will find no other means of effecting.

If the Embargo and Non-Intercourse Acts were to continue as they have done the past year, Great Britain might countervail the non Importation system by prohibiting the Importation of all the Articles that Act permits—these Articles are all of the first necessity and many of the Manufactures they have established in the Country could not be carried on without these very articles, by means of which they are enabled to carry them on, but if the Non-intercourse System takes place and even War should not ensue, then no restrictive Acts would be necessary on our part.

The Embargo will not continue longer than the Spring or until the Non-Inter-course supersedes it. If the Non-Intercourse should take place as it respects both Great Britain and France it is still uncertain whether by repealing the Embargo Laws they will open the Trade to Spain, Portugal and other Powers they suppose friendly to them, as they in all their speeches in Congress say that the Belligerents would in this way indirectly obtain all the supplies the Non-Intercourse system was intended to withhold from them. That the motive which induced the American Government to impose the Embargo was a hostile one to Great Britain and a servile compliance with the wishes of Bonaparte no sensible man in America entertains a doubt. As meanness always provokes contempt, so the late letters of Mr. Armstrong have furnished this Government with an ample dose of it.

The whole Policy of Bonaparte has been to involve America in a war with Great Britain and had not the late changes in Spain have taken place he would before this time have effected his object, it was manifest to Mr. Erskine when I was in the States in the summer that all the measures were tending to that point, every chance of informations I had while in the country then led me to think that War with our Nation would at no very remote period be the result. The account of the Successes of the Spaniards arrived while I was in the States. I soon saw that the proceedings in Spain would disconcert all the Intrigues of the American Cabinet and probably be the means of ultimately preserving the peace of our respective Countries. If a reconciliation should take place much of it may be ascribed to this important cause.

I am at present satisfied that Mr. Madison and those who are to compose his Cabinet, do not at present think it will be for their interest to be at War with Great Britain. They consider themselves as sure of their offices for four years and I am convinced from many circumstances that they would at present prefer a War with France to a War with England. They are convinced that they must have a contest with one or the other and they seem to have become sensible that a friendly Inter-course with Great Britain will do them the most good and that a War with our Nation will do them the most injury. It leads me to think that plain common sense Ideas are finding their way into the American Cabinet & that they will finally expel the visionary theories with which Mr. Jefferson's head has been most copiously stored.

Mad as partisans are in this Country, I do not think that the majority of the Population wish a War with Great Britain; the warmest amongst them will frankly own they do not see any benefit they could obtain by it.

23.

The Dispatches transmitted in the "Chesterfield" are the best answer to this Enquiry. If they furnish to our Government sufficient ground to remove the Orders in Council reconciliation will ensue, if they do not, we shall probably be at War soon after the Spring opens.

24.

It will be seen by reference to the report of the Committee of Foreign Relations & the Documents, that nothing which America views as conciliatory has turned up since the last Session of Congress.

25.

If the present American System continues and War does not ensue it would be wise in our Government totally to prohibit all neutral Trade with our Colonies, if we find we can do entirely without their supplies. Their most intelligent merchants are trembling with apprehension lest the impolitic measures of their Government should drive our Government to it. Justice to Quebec, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia & New Brunswick require that our Government should as far as possible adopt this system and the rapid manner in which these valuable Colonies are progressing with the other immense resources of Great Britain must soon place all the Dependencies out of the reach of the caprice of America or any other Country.

The common regular Force of America amounts to about 4,000 men. This force has been chiefly employed since the Peace in the Garrisons on the Frontiers or in Forts situated at the Entrance of their principal Harbours. Congress last year passed An Act to add 6,000 men to the regular force of the country. Three thousand five hundred of these men have been raised. Recruiting Parties are employed throughout the States endeavouring to raise the remainder, but they meet with no great success and it is not probable that they will in another year raise the whole number. The 3,000 lately raised are the greater part undisciplined & it will take much time to bring them into military Order.

It was suggested before I left Washington that it had been in the contemplation of the Government to apply to Congress for an addition of 20,000 to the regular force of the Country. I do not however believe that this measure will be immediately proposed unless it should be to empower the Government provisionally to raise them, as a political manœuvre. They cannot easily raise in America any great body of regular Troops.

29.

Answered by the subjoined Table which is generally supposed very accurate.

The President has ordered 100,000 of the Militia to be selected, armed and equipped for actual Service to be ready at a moment's warning. This Draft has been generally complied with, but the general state of Equipment is very incomplete, indeed since I left Washington a Report was received at Boston that An Act was to be passed empowering the President to accept the immediate services of 50,000 of the Militia who would voluntarily enroll themselves for immediate service, but I am doubtful if even this object could be effected.

32.

One of the new raised Regular Regiments commanded by Colonel Symonds has march'd to the Frontiers of Canada, but except drafting there has been no movement of any part of the Militia. The persons which compose the Militia are of all parties and taken indiscriminately from all parts of the country.

34.

See List of Naval Force.

The Principal Naval Arsenals of the United States are at Washington, New York and at Charleston near Boston; there are smaller establishment at Charlestown, South Carolina, at Newport, Rhode Island and at Portsmouth, New Hampshire. There is also a naval Establishment at Gosport near Norfolk; there are considerable deposits of Naval Stores in all the States; some of them are in the capital seaports of the States, but in general they are at a distance from the Sea; there is a large Establishment about 10 miles on the road from Philadelphia to Baltimore; I passed another, where there is also an extensive manufactory of Arms in Springfield Massachusetts. There are considerable quantities of Arms manufactured in the State of Pennsylvania. There is a cannon Foundry at Harper's Ferry on the Potomac, one or two miles above George Town and a very extensive one carried on by a Colonel Hughes near the Ferry on the Susquehanna. These Foundrys have for more than a year been all employed in executing large Contracts for Cannon of all descriptions for the Government—they are still busily employed in the same manner, the Government are in short employing all the Manufacturers of Arms in the Country to increase as much as possible its warlike Implements. Men have been voted to man all their little Navy and Salt provisions for victualling the Ships have been contracted for at New York and other places.

In conversing, which I had a full opportunity of doing, with men of all Parties among them, on the measures America would pursue if a contest took place between our Countries, the universal opinion is that an Attack on Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia would immediately ensue and they consider all the Military preparations they are making as assigned for these ends. For, they say, France is out of their reach and they cannot attack her. Against these Colonies therefore alone all their military array is expressly pointed. The Conquest of Canada they contemplate as a matter perfectly easy and whenever they speak of it they build much on the disposition of the Canadians as friendly to them—they reckon also on a ready welcome from a number of Americans who have of late years become settlers in Upper Canada. And this last circumstance, at least, may well lead His Majesty's Government to consider whether it is politic to admit as settlers near the Frontiers men of this description.

They are more at a loss, as Nova Scotia is so much surrounded by Water, to ascertain the best mode of attacking it, but do not seem to doubt their ability to effect it. Men of all parties think, if a War should ensue, that the Conquest of these Colonies is certain. Precautionary measures of every kind are therefore highly necessary.

NO. 28.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

BOSTON, April 12th, 1809.

SIR,—If the letters which I have had the honour of writing to you have attracted your particular attention, it has probably not escaped your notice that, compared with the system marked out in my instructions, the matter of which my correspondence is composed is arranged in a manner rather loose & desultory. Two reasons will I trust satisfactorily account for this. I was desirous to transmit to you with the utmost speed a true picture of the public opinion on the most interesting and important topics and furnish all the facts and elementary matter I could collect for your own mind to combine and draw deductions from. Having in this way given you the benefit of your own judgment rather than of mine, upon the probable tendency of passing events, I have the satisfaction to believe that you are perfectly acquainted with the true state of public affairs and public opinion in the Northern States up to this period.

The Election of Mr. Gore the federal candidate is now ascertained to be effected by a majority of 3,000 votes, so that an insuperable barrier is opposed to a war between the Northern States and Great Britain. Since the plan of an organized opposition to the projects of the French faction was laid in the winter of 1808, the whole of the New England States may be said to have transferred their political power from the friends to the enemies of the Administration. The reason why the federal party is not stronger is, that the common people still have confidence in the pacific system to which Mr. Jefferson pledged himself at the commencement of his Administration. A very great number who would oppose a War adhere to the Administration because they consider that all the menacing and blustering was only a judicious trick to deceive England and obtain from her concessions on cheap terms. The leading Democrats fostered the delusion by every sort of artifice and misrepresentation while they endeavoured to persuade the populace that England alone was the cause of all the privations and restrictions which embarrassed and disgraced the country so that, while the democratic party affected to be exclusively bent on peace, they created amongst their followers an opinion that War was inevitable and to induce a general unanimity; they admitted that without an unqualified concurrence of all the States, War must be commenced without the prospect of advantage and probably end in disgrace. Had it been possible to carry on this scheme long in secret, it might have succeeded, but in a government composed of such base materials & requiring the concurrence of so many minds to carry it on, neither unity of action nor integrity of conduct could be found. It is an ancient proverb "that an ass laden with gold could find its way into the strongest city." The federal junto (as I shall call them by way of distinction) easily exemplified the truth of the proverb. By the aid of a small sum of money they found their way to the cabinet of Mr. Madison and unknown to him obtained copies of the Dispatches of the American Minister at Paris, from which were selected the letters afterwards published in a pamphlet, under the title of "Suppressed documents" a copy of which I sent to Mr. R——d. The notes and comments were written by a friend of mine, who is also author of "The Analysis" a work of singular merit and which has more than any other publication contributed to allay the ferment excited by Mr. Jefferson and his friends against England and demonstrates his partiality towards Buonaparte. By means like these, the alarm was spread among the thinking part of the community men of property who had every thing to lose, and men of talents who from principle hate the administration and the mob, county demagogues who compose it, soon ranged themselves under the direction of the few who first commenced a systematic opposition and pressing the chance of succeeding in open resistance and a final separation, to a War with England and an alliance with France, marked out for themselves the course which I mentioned in my letter of March 5th. In this determination they continue and as the elections in all the New England States have terminated in their favour, I am of opinion that, if the General Government should declare War upon the grounds which at present exist, not one of the five New England States would be a party in it. This is a short sketch of the state of public affairs in this section of the Union and of the principal events which have led to it. I have given it without sufficient regard to the order of time and purposely omitted the detail of the particular occurrences, the means employed and the individual exertion which occasioned the change of public opinion because they are already known to you by means of my former and recent letters.

In my last letter, under date of the 6th of April, I expressed an opinion that the General Government would resort to every expedient before they would venture to declare War. I will take the liberty to express my reasons for this opinion.

Had the majority of the people in the New England States, who at the commencement of Mr. Jefferson's administration were strongly in his interest continued to support the gentleman's measures, there is no doubt that Great Britain would only have the alternative of War or concession. But now the aspect of things is changed. A war would occasion an incurable alienation of the Northern States and surely those who would bring about a separation cannot be insensible of the situation in which the separate Governments would find themselves with respect to Great Britain. The Southern States are agricultural; Great Britain commercial, between them there would no longer exist the least rivalry. The cotton, rice, tobacco and provisions of the Southern States which are now carried by the ships of New England would then be carried by those of Great Britain; the wages of her mariners and the cost of maintaining them would be so much less that she could carry cheaper than the people of New England, while by her naval superiority and command of nearly all the trade of the West Indies, the Northern States would be compelled to cultivate with her the most friendly relations. Thus they would all become virtually dependent. For these reasons I have most fervently desired that the General Government would push things to extremities, while the nation is divided. But for these reasons I apprehend they will wait until the nation shall be unanimous at least I think it highly improbable that the Democrats of the Southern States should fight without any object, consistent in theory or valuable in practice and yet as their past conduct presents nothing to the view but a turbid and unnatural compound of folly, intrigue and Duplicity, it is extremely difficult to anticipate what course they will pursue. It would seem as if the spell by which the Tyrant of Europe has infatuated and weakened the powers of Europe had stretched its shadow across the Atlantic and rendered at least the Southern Section of these States blind alike to duty and interest. When I shall have ascertained with sufficient accuracy the number of democrats and federalists in the several Governments of the United States I will transmit it to you.

No. 29.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 289.)

Boston, April 26th, 1809.

Sir,—Since my letter of the 12th Instant, I have but little to communicate on local politics. I have not yet been able to ascertain with sufficient accuracy, the members of the respective parties in the Legislative Bodies in New England. In

New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island, the majority is decidedly federal. In Massachusetts the election of members of Assembly will be made next week and little doubt is entertained of a favourable result. In Vermont there is an annual session and the election is made in October. The executive branches of all these Governments are federal. The elections for congress in the Southern States indicate a change and afford reason to expect that the minority will be more numerous than Mr. Chittenden's letter stated it.

The correspondence between Mr. Erskine and the Secretary of State at Washington and the subsequent Proclamation of the President restoring the intercourse between the two countries you will have seen before this letter can reach you. This event is a source of great satisfaction to the federal party in New England because it promises an exemption from the evil they had most apprehended and justifies their partiality towards Great Britain, by proving her justice and sincere desire to preserve peace. The Democrats too affect to be pleased at it, as they contend that it demonstrates the efficacy and wisdom of Mr. Jefferson's policy. But the chief benefit of an accommodation of existing differences is that Buonaparte will no longer keep terms with the United States. Baffled in the attempt to exclude British Manufactures from the American Continent and involve the two countries in a war, it is extremely probable that he will think it most for his advantage to confiscate all the American property detained in France and declare War. Such an event would be productive of the most lasting benefit to the party & the interest of Great Britain in this country. The invidious occurrences of the rebellion, which the Democrats have kept alive for party purposes, would soon be forgotten in the resentments of the people against France and they would be soon ready to make a common cause with Great Britain against the common Enemy. While Great Britain waits for this natural, I might say necessary, result of the recent accommodation is it not obviously inexpedient to conclude a treaty? Experience proves that the democratic party cannot maintain their ascendancy but by giving continual excitement to the prejudices long entertained by a considerable portion of the people against Great Britain and recent events demonstrate that they would have acted upon this conviction. Now as they must see in an accommodation with Great Britain the loss of their popularity they will in this stage of the negotiation advance such claims to commercial equality as could not & ought not to be granted and which a contest with Buonaparte would compel them to relinquish.

From an intimate acquaintance with all the facts and circumstances which contribute satisfactory proof, I do not hesitate to say that, under ordinary circumstances, the democratic party would not meet a disposition on the part of Great Britain to establish friendly relations on a lasting basis, with corresponding feelings. In the present instance, they submit to a very hard necessity and are mortified and disappointed to find Great Britain before hand with Buonaparte in taking advantage of the provisions of the Non Intercourse Law and should they act with spirit at the next Congress, it will be only because they have drained the cup of conciliation to the dregs and finding Buonaparte insensible to past favours and deaf to entreaty, they may think it best to float with the tide of popular opinion, which will set strongly against him, unless he keep pace with Great Britain in lenient and conciliatory measures. Whatever pleasing prospects the present situation of things may open to view, I am happy to perceive that the exertions of the federalists will not slacken until the termination of the pending negotiations.

When I began my letter, I intended to make some observations on the treaty to which the recent measures are probably a prelude, particularly that part of it in which the boundary line between the territory of the two countries will be adjusted. Great pains will undoubtedly be taken by the American Government to arrange this matter in such a way as to obtain a portion of the fur trade and with it that influence over the savage tribes, which is now possessed by Great Britain. But this subject is amply discussed in a memorial of the North-West Company addressed to the Governor General of British America. Should you think it important to refer to that document, the original draft is in the hands of Mr. McGillivray.

No. 30.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

Boston, May 6th, 1809.

SIR, although the recent prelude to an accommodation between the two countries has greatly quieted the fears of the federal party and they now riot in an imaginary exemption from the evils with which Mr. Madison's known hatred towards Great Britain had threatened them and although this change in the political aspect of America may have lessened the interest which at a more critical period you may have taken in my exertions and communications I think it incumbent on me to transmit by the mail of each week or by a private conveyance, a sketch of passing events or such opinions as my own experience and observation supply. Being in some measure relieved from the labour of anticipating probable events and adopting precautionary measures from the necessity of keeping up a very extensive correspondence and the anxiety which was superinduced by the consciousness of my own inability to do all that might be expected, I now feel more leisure and freedom to expatiate in general politics, without incurring that responsibility for opinions, which at a more inauspicious crisis I was willing to assume.

On local topics I have nothing to add to my last under date the 26th of April and as the parade in the Government paper of Mr. Madison's impartial and sincere disposition to be on friendly terms with Great Britain is in my opinion calculated to awaken vigilance and distrust rather than inspire confidence and hope I shall in this letter take leave to analyse his motives.

I am not surprised at the conditional renewal of the intercourse between the two countries, because it was in a great degree made necessary by the last Act of the Congress but the change of language in Mr. Madison's paper (National Intelligencer) in relation to the two great belligerents is most extraordinary and unexpected. For several years has that paper (of which Mr. Madison was the principal editor) been devoted to the cause of France and uniformly inculcating hatred and exciting prejudices towards everything British except her traitors and deserters. Besides his speech on the British treaty in 1796 and subsequent attempt to confiscate debts due to British subjects; his commercial resolutions grounded on the idea of America useful as a colony to France in the same year; his conduct while Secretary of State and the whole tenor of his political Life form an assemblage of evidence which at least convinces me that he does not sincerely desire a treaty on a permanent basis, in which the rights of Great Britain would be recognized. It seems indeed scarcely possible that at fifty, a man should all at once get rid of his habitual animosities, be suddenly divested of that pride of opinion which his present situation enables him to gratify and to which he has pledged himself to adhere and, above all, that he should deprive his friends and supporters of the benefit of those prejudices which the common people entertained towards Great Britain and which have been the moving, the vital, principle of Democracy. Be that as it may, it is certainly very harmless to speculate on the probable motives which have led to this apparent change. Mr. Madison probably is influenced by a conviction that, in the present temper of the Eastern States, a war with Great Britain would produce a civil war, national bankruptcy; an insurrection of the negroes, the ruin of the southern states and dissolution of the Confederation he has perhaps profited by the mistakes of his predecessor and is determined to be the president of a nation not a faction. In pursuance of his original purpose he may have gone thus far in order to remove the general belief that he was under the influence of France and with a better grace and more plausible pretexts, quarrel with Great Britain in the progress of negotiating a treaty. If none of these will satisfactorily account for his conduct, perhaps it may be ascribed to a certain knowledge that he cannot preserve the neutrality of the States and that a war with Buonaparte is inevitable, in which case he cannot begin too early to win over the talents and virtue and property to the service of the nation, as the only means of saving it from a Despotism, as arrogant, rapacious and unfeeling as that of Rome over the Asiatic provinces or the hordes of warlike Moors over the wretched nations of Africa. If this be his policy, the federalists will all support him and he will be inevitably led to cultivate the most friendly relations with Great Britain and surely if providence has intended, by a combination of natural means, to counteract that dreadful revolution, which under a new form still desolates the fairest portion of the civilized world, none seems more easy, more congenial than an alliance between Great Britain & those countries where she has implanted her laws, her language and her institutions; who have grown to their present maturity by the protection she has rendered to their commerce & industry and whose future prosperity depends on the impunity which the British Navy may grant to their enterprises. Amidst all this hypothesis and conjecture one thing is very certain namely that Mr. Madison's party will not support him in any generous and manly policy with relation to England. With the exception of two or three men, they are a miserable set; they will temporise when great events call upon them for decision and be sluggish and inert, when the worst of possible things is inaction. They will cavil about the nature and extent of their duty to perform which effectually they have neither the inclination nor the understanding.

No. 31.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 298.)

Boston, May 15th, 1809.

SIR,—Since my last under date the 5th [6th] inst. nothing new or interesting has occurred.

The sudden change which has taken place in the feelings of political men in this country, in consequence of Mr. Madison's prompt acceptance of the friendly offers of Great Britain, has caused a temporary suspension of the conflicts of parties, and they both look on him with equal wonder and distrust. They ascribe his conduct to various motives, but neither believes him to be sincere. However the encreasing influence of the federal party, their talents, property and efficiency will furnish new motives to the president, to abandon the policy of his predecessor and to these, I confidently hope, will be superadded new causes of complaint against Buonaparte, who has uniformly declared "that he would have no neutrals." Should the passions of the Usurper in this instance predominate over his prudence and lead him to any acts of hostility, these States would be soon bound to Great Britain by the most indissoluble ties and every trace of partiality towards France obliterated. The federal party would then support the administration of Mr. Madison to the utmost of their power and with all their resources, indeed they have already pledged themselves to this effect, provided he will conclude a fair and honourable treaty with Great Britain & resent with spirit and energy the insults & injustice of France.

The last letters from Washington mention, that a dispatch is gone to France with an account of the recent steps towards an adjustment & the determination of the American Government to place Great Britain on a footing with the most-favoured nations.

Whatever may be Mr. Madison's motive for this apparent abandonment of the system of hostility towards Great Britain, in conformity to which his predecessor always acted and by means of which, they both obtained their power and influence, I must at least give him credit for acts, which as far as they go prove his sincerity; he has ordered the Governors of the several States to disband the Eighty thousand Militia & Volunteer corps and I saw a few days since an order from the Secretary of the Navy "to discharge the crews of the gunboats stationed in this harbour."

In addition to these he has partially withdrawn his countenance, & support from the paper called the National Intelligencer, because the proprietor of it choose to ascribe the recent accommodations rather to the efficiency of Mr. Jefferson's restrictive system, than his own impartiality and sincere desire to do equal justice to Great Britain & France.

This is the embryo state of the political relations of this country. Some time must yet elapse before it can assume the appearance of maturity. In the meantime the State Governments will be more under the control of the federal party.

No. 32.—JOHN HENRY TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 109, p. 301.)

SIR,—As soon as the result of the election in this state is ascertained, I shall be able to lay before you a correct view of the relative strength of parties in all the Northern States, including New York, which has "joined the league." The importance of the change in New York is incalculable and proves beyond all question that a faction anti-commercial and favourable to the projects of Buonaparte cannot long retain in their hands the political power of these States.

I now with the utmost confidence, founded upon a careful and extensive view of the power and resources of the two great parties, give my opinion, that a war with Great Britain, originating in causes which now exist, is scarcely a possible event and that whatever be Mr. Madison's real wishes or designs, he must adopt towards her a friendly and liberal policy. The tide of public opinion flows in her favour and the public agent who will not float with it must be overwhelmed by its waves. I hope it will be taken by the flood and permanent benefits derived from it.

Two months ago the State of New York was not marked among the allies of Massachusetts and every favourable change was exceedingly problematical, about that time (at the desire of the general committee in Boston), I went to New York had an interview with some leading men in that city and returned in four days. The distance is two hundred and sixty miles. I went in the mail coach in forty-two hours and returned in a packet by the way of Newport in thirty hours. The week which was occupied in this journey is the only one since my departure in which I have omitted to write to you (between the 13th and 20th March) and as it was an important part of the detail in which I have been occupied and its consequences altogether contingent, I have not thought it necessary to mention it before.

The election of members for the lower House in this State is going on and the result is a matter of much curiosity. By the constitution every town may send a representative for every 130 rateable poles it contains and the certificate of a Town clerk entitles an individual to take and retain a seat until the votes for Governor are counted and a committee of electors appointed. It is already ascertained that, for the express purpose of defeating the election of Mr. Gore, by miscounting and rejecting the votes in his favour, the democratic towns have returned more than the legal number of members to the House of Assembly. The only means to render abortive so daring a project is to march one of the Boston independent companies into the Assembly and expel by force those who have unfairly obtained seats, which I fancy will be done, should the democrats by illegal means obtain a majority.

However preposterous this anticipation may appear it is the natural and necessary result of the supreme Law of the Commonwealth. This modern Areopagus will assemble in a few days. The number will be about six hundred. The mode of their deliberations may be easily conjectured.

No. 33.—MAJOR GENERAL BROCK TO SIR J. H. CRAIG.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 117, p. 14.)

YORK, UPPER CANADA, Dec. 3rd 1811.

SIR,—I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your Excellency's dispatch, dated the 11th ulto, with the enclosures. My first care upon my arrival in this Province was to direct the officers of the Indian Department to exert their whole influence with the Indians to prevent the attack which I understood a few Tribes meditated ag^t the American frontier. But their efforts proved fruitless, such was their infatuation the Indians refused to listen to advice and they are now so deeply engaged that I despair of being able to withdraw them from the contest in time to avert their destruction, a high degree of fanaticism which has been for years working in their minds has led to the present state of things.

No. 34.—SIR GEORGE PREVOST TO LORD LIVERPOOL.

QUEBEC, 22nd January, 1812.

MY LORD,—An attempt having been made at Washington to misrepresent and vilify the British Government in America, as a Promoter of the hostilities which have occurred on the Wabash between the forces of the United States commanded by Governor Harrison & the Indians under the influence of a Prophet of the Shawanese Nation.

I have considered it consistent with my duty to repel with indignation & contempt this most malicious & calumnious falsehood in the most public manner. Therefore in addition to the evidence transmitted to His Majesty's Minister at Washington of the generous and magnanimous conduct of the British Government in North America far anterior to the late disgrace of the Americans, I have obtained from an able pen the letter herewith transmitted signed Philalethes, which I purpose circulating throughout the United States through the channel of the federal newspapers.

Your Lordship may rest assured I am making every preparation at this very severe season of the year possible to meet the threats of the American Government against the Canadas whenever the practice of them shall be attempted confident His Majesty's Government will afford me in the course of a few months the proportion of reinforcements and supplies the state of affairs may then render indispensable for preserving the integrity of British America.

No. 34A.—PHILALETHES TO THE EDITOR OF THE QUEBEC MERCURY.

QUEBEC, 18th January, 1812.

SIR,—There is no surer mark of the want of dignity and principle in a Government and of degeneracy in a People than the indulgence of a propensity carelessly to vilify and knowingly to misrepresent, the character of any nation, with which they may happen to be at War, or between which and themselves some unfortunate misunderstanding may have arisen from a temporary collision of interests.

The Government which has reason to respect itself will understand the respect that is due to others and the nation which is itself brave and generous will disdain gratuitously to impute baseness and treachery to another, merely because circumstances may have placed them in a state of opposition.

The practice of endeavoring to injure a Country by a daring allegation of false facts and a profligate resort to groundless accusations has been digested into a regular system by Buonaparte and his Minions.

By means thus shameless they have laboured to deprive a magnanimous enemy of the esteem in which she has so long justly been held by the whole Continent of Europe, to rob her of which is dearer to her than her existence, her honour; to deny her that manly frankness of disposition, that plain, direct and pure integrity and that good faith which form the basis of her natural character; and to ascribe to her these acts of atrocious wickedness, for the utter abhorrence of which she has ever been pre-eminently conspicuous. And this to Britain! generous even to a fault (politically speaking) towards her enemies; abounding in mercy to the vanquished; prompt at all times to raise the fallen, to support the weak, to spend her blood and treasure in the defence of those who have yet virtue left to struggle for the preservation of their independence, and the vindication of their rights!

But the infatuated Nations that have been unworthily induced to withdraw their confidence from the only Country capable, under Divine Providence of resisting the career of that wild and unprincipled ambition, which aims at subjugating the world, have paid the forfeit of their credulity, in blood and shame, deluded and miserable victims! bowed to the Earth beneath the intolerable oppression of the low born Despot whom, with enforced submission they so lately hailed as their Protector, or with ignominious dissimulation welcomed as their friend!

I have been led to these remarks, Sir, by observing that the opprobrious system of national slander, this new species of warfare, against which neither virtue, nor valour can always furnish an adequate defence has been transplanted with other noxious productions from the polluted soil of France to the political Hotbeds of the United States, where they have for some time been shooting and spreading with a sort of forced and unnatural exuberance.

That the British Government in North America has instigated the Indians to make war upon the United States and has actually furnished arms for that purpose has not only been frequently advanced in the public prints, but has been more than insinuated in official papers and roundly asserted in the speeches of their legislators.

If I had access to these vehement Declaimers, I would beg leave to say to them, Where, gentlemen, are we to look for the source of this unmeasured enmity to England? Is there any cause in nature that makes these hard hearts? If you really wish to go to war with us is it manly previously to vent your hostility in endeavoring to traduce our character? Do you not see that the unmerited reproach, that you would cast upon us, will recoil, with double force, upon yourselves? Is it politic, if you are bent upon fighting us to irritate a future enemy by unworthy artifices and fabricated charges, which must put his feelings to the rack? To labour to provoke a great and powerful people to forego their natural moderation and to rise into more than ordinary resentment by injurious and insulting invective? By accusation heaped upon accusation without consistency, without probability, without even the shadow of proof?

In England, if nothing will satisfy you but making her your Enemy, you would have an Enemy, generous as she is brave—do you desire to goad her to a war usque ad internecionem? You cannot do it; it is not in her nature. But let me inform you, gentlemen, that there is nothing that an Englishman so warmly resents, nothing he is so slow to forgive, as a calumny upon the character of his country, as an Insult offered to her Honour. But I feel an asperity rising in me, that shall not be indulged. Let me then calmly endeavour to convince you of your injustice.

Many very unequivocal symptoms of a hostile disposition having made their appearance among you, it became the duty of the King's Government in North America to look to the possible consequences; and in so doing the magnanimity and the humanity, which direct and ever have directed the proceedings of that Government, were most clearly manifested; how? in taking the earliest measures to PREVENT the very evil the occurrence of which you have so confidently imputed to their continuance. [connivance?]

It is a fact well known to every public man, at least in this Country, that at a period far anterior to your famous Battle of Wabash, or your more famous speeches in Congress, the British Government in North America gave the most pointed directions to the person holding the Civil and Military command in Upper Canada to dissuade the Indians from having recourse to arms for a settlement of their differences with your Government, and that in pursuance of these Instructions, Major General Brock, who had as early as the month of October last, succeeded to the Civil and Military Command in that province did use every exertion and did employ all the means within his power to restrain the Indians from any hostile proceedings against the United States, to withhold from them the means of committing such hostilities!

This, Mr. Editor, is what I should wish to say to our accusers. If they would listen to me, well:—if not, I might perhaps raise my tone and tell them that every subject of His Majesty is prepared to repel, with indignation and contempt, the charge of treachery, brought against his government, as a most malicious and most calumnious falsehood.

No. 35.—SIR GEORGE PREVOST TO LORD LIVERPOOL.

QUEBEC, 3rd April, 1812.

MY LORD,—Before your Lordship receives this letter you will probably be in possession of all the circumstances relative to Henry's treachery, as well as of the effect it has had, or is likely to produce, upon the Government of the United States; the official papers left to me by my predecessor furnished no other information of consequence upon this subject than what your Lordship will have found in the public prints, or in the communications you may have received from Mr. Foster; it may not however be unimportant to observe to your Lordship that from Mr. Henry's residence in this country and his Religion, from his thorough acquaintance with the Canadian Character and Language and above all from his deep resentment against its Government Bonaparte may be inclined to give him a favourable reception in France, with a view of keeping his Talents in reserve to suit the exigencies of the Government of the United States, in event of an alliance being formed between these Countries against England.

I have reason to expect the next measure of hostility which Mr. Madison will practise will be to cause to be laid on the Table of Congress a declaration of War against Great Britain; I have therefore deemed it expedient to address myself on the occasion to the General Officers in Command of Districts in the British American Provinces, recommending the utmost caution and prudence in their intercourse with the United States.

I have the honour of transmitting herewith an extract of my letter on this subject to Major Gen. Brock, that to Sir John Sherbrooke contains the same restrictions except as respects the Fort of Detroit. I hope my Instructions to those Officers will be found to accord with the sentiments & intentions of His Majesty's Government towards the United States at this period.

I have &c.,

No. 36.—SIR GEORGE PREVOST TO MAJOR GENERAL BROCK.

(Extract.)

QUEBEC, 31st March, 1812.

I have carefully examined Colonel Macdonnell's report upon the American Fort at Detroit written at your desire from the information he had obtained during a residence of a few days in its vicinity.

Whatever temptations may offer to induce you to depart from a system strictly defensive, I must pointedly request that, under the existing circumstances of our relations with the Government of the United States, you will not allow them to lead you into any measure having the character of offence, even should a declaration of War be laid on the Table of the Congress, by the President's influence, because I am informed by our Minister at Washington there prevails throughout the United States a great unwillingness to enter upon Hostilities and also because the apparent neglect at Detroit might be but a bait to tempt us to an act of aggression, in its effects uniting parties, strengthening the power of the Government of that Country and affording that assistance to the raising of men for the augmentation of the American Army, without which their ability to raise one additional Regiment is now questioned.

You are nevertheless to persevere in your preparations for defence and in such arrangements as may upon a change in the state of affairs enable you to carry any disposable part of your force offensively against the common enemy.

No. 37.—THE SECRETARY TO STATE TO SIR GEORGE PREVOST.

DOWNING STREET, 15th May, 1812.

SIR,—Before this dispatch can be received by you, you will doubtless have been apprised of the disclosure made by a person of the name of Henry to the American Government of certain documents relative to his employment by Sir James Craig, in the year 1809, on a service of a secret and confidential nature.

Whatever may have been the first impression which the Publication of Mr. Henry's Correspondence may have produced in the United States, I trust that no measure of an hostile tendency will be decided upon until His Majesty's Minister shall have had an opportunity of giving to the American Government that explanation which ought to have been required and received from him before the assertions of Mr. Henry were credited to their fullest extent and before the documents which he disclosed were laid before the House of Representatives.

I herewith transmit to you by the command of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, the copy of a dispatch which has been addressed by Lord Viscount Castlereagh to Mr. Foster, signifying to him His Royal Highness's pleasure in respect to the Language which he is to hold to the American government.

In addition to the explanation therein given of the conduct and sentiments of His Majesty's Ministers on this occasion, it is right that I should assure you in the strongest manner, that when I enclosed Mr. Henry's memorial in my letter to you of the 16th Sept., in conformity with official usage, when similar references have been made, it was by no means my intention that you should infer either that I admitted the statement given by Mr. Henry of his own services to be a correct one, or that I approved of the Instructions of Sir James Craig under which he acted.

In expressing my opinion of the ability shewn by Mr. Henry on the occasion mentioned in his Memorial, I referred exclusively to the mode in which it appeared that he had executed a service upon the nature of which I did not think it necessary to express an opinion at a time when more than two years had elapsed after the whole Transaction was closed.

Whatever might have been my opinion, I should have felt the greatest reluctance to commence my correspondence with the successor of Sir James Craig with any expressions implying disapprobation of the conduct of that distinguished Officer.

I might undoubtedly have taken that opportunity of cautioning you against every act, at which the Government of a friendly Power could justly take offence and I should not have omitted it if I had felt less confidence that your own Judgment and Discretion would render such caution from me unnecessary.

I shall conclude this Dispatch by expressing my firm hope and conviction that in making any arrangement for the Defence of the Provinces committed to your charge, even under the menaces of hostility and invasion, no measures will be resorted to by you from which the Sanction of His Majesty's Government must hereafter be withheld, or which, if disclosed to the world, could be cited as a proof of a want of good faith on their part towards a nation not at war with Great Britain.

No. 38.—SECRETARY OF STATE OF SIR GEORGE PREVOST.

DOWNING STREET, 15th May, 1812.

SIR,—Notwithstanding the irritation which may have been produced in America by the disclosure of Mr. Henry and the other existing causes of difference between the two Countries, His Majesty's Government are still disposed to hope that no immediate rupture with America is to be apprehended. Upon the receipt of any intelligence containing more certain Indications of Hostility such further measures shall be taken in this Country, with the view of enabling you to resist any attack that may be made upon the Provinces under your Government, as the pressing exigencies of the public service in other parts of the world may enable His Majesty's Government to adopt.

I feel confident at the same time that when the present circumstances of the Country & the active employment of so large a part of its disposable Forces are taken into consideration, you will not expect that the Forces under your command can receive any considerable addition by the Detachment of Troops from home.

In the event, or in the apparent certainty of actual hostility, you will consider yourself vested with the same general Discretion in taking measures for the defence of the North American Provinces, which was given to your predecessor, Sir Jas. Craig, under the same circumstances by the Instructions conveyed to him in Lord Castlereagh's dispatches.

I trust however that the expence which has been already incurred in strengthening the defences of Lower Canada will enable you to provide adequate means of resistance without making any considerable demand upon the Treasury of this Country.

It was my intention to have taken this opportunity of writing to you more at length upon the subject adverted to in this letter, but the affecting event which has so recently occurred, * and of which you will be doubtless apprized thro' other channels of information, compels me to defer for the present a mere detailed communication of the sentiments of His Majesty's Government.

I cannot however avoid repeating their earnest desire that you should continuously avoid any act which can have the effect of irritating the Government or the People of the United States, or can tend in any way whatever to accelerate the resort to actual hostility against this country.

No. 39.—REVOCATION OF THE ORDERS IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at Carlton House, the 23rd of June, 1812; present His Royal Highness the prince regent in council.

Whereas his royal highness the prince regent was pleased to declare in the name and in the behalf of his majesty, on the 21st day of April, 1812, "that if at any time hereafter the Berlin and Milan decrees shall by some authentic act of the French Government, publicly promulgated, be absolutely and unconditionally repealed, then and from thenceforth the order in council of the 7th January, 1807, and the order in council of the 26th of April, 1809 shall, without any further order be, and the same are hereby declared from henceforth to be wholly and absolutely revoked."

* This "affecting event" was, there can be no doubt, the assassination of Mr. Perceval by Bellingham in the lobby of the House of Commons.

And whereas the charge des affaires of the United States of America, resident at this court, did, on the 20th day of May last, transmit to lord viscount Castlereagh, one of his majesty's principal secretaries of state, a copy of a certain instrument, there for the first time communicated to this court, purporting to be a decree passed by the government of France, on the 28th day of April, 1811, by which the decrees of Berlin and Milan are declared to be definitely no longer in force, in regard to American vessels.

And whereas his royal highness the prince regent, although he cannot consider the tenor of the said instrument as satisfying the conditions set forth in the said order of the 21st of April last, upon which the said orders were to cease and determine; is nevertheless disposed on his part to take such measures as may tend to re-establish the intercourse between neutral and belligerent nations upon its accustomed principles; his royal highness the prince regent, in the name and on the behalf of his majesty, is therefore pleased, by and with the advice of his majesty's privy council, to order and declare, and it is hereby ordered and declared that the order in council bearing date the 7th day of January, 1807, and the order in council bearing date the 26th day of April, 1809, be revoked, so far as regards American vessels, and their cargoes, being American property, from the first day of August next.

But whereas by certain acts of the government of the United States of America, all British armed vessels are excluded from the harbours and waters of the said United States, the armed vessels of France being permitted to enter therein; and the commercial intercourse between Great Britain and the said United States is interdicted; the commercial intercourse between France and the said United States having been restored; his royal highness the prince regent is pleased hereby further to declare, in the name and on behalf of his majesty, that if the government of the said United States shall not, as soon as may be, after this order shall have been duly notified by his Majesty's minister in America to the said government, revoke, or cause to be revoked, the said acts, this present order shall in that case, after due notice signified by his Majesty's minister in America to the said government, be thenceforth null and of no effect.

It is further ordered and declared, that all American vessels and their cargoes, being American property, that shall have been captured subsequently to the 20th day of May last, for a breach of the aforesaid orders in council alone, and which shall not have been actually condemned before the date of this order; and that all ships and cargoes as aforesaid, that shall henceforth be captured under the said orders, prior to the 1st day of August next, shall not be proceeded against to condemnation till further orders, but shall, in event of this order not becoming null and of no effect, in the case aforesaid, be forthwith liberated and restored, subject to such reasonable expenses on the part of the captors, as shall have been justly incurred.

Provided, that nothing in this order contained, respecting the orders herein mentioned, shall be taken to revive wholly or in part the orders in council of the 11th of November, 1807, or any other order not herein mentioned, or to deprive parties of any legal remedy to which they may be entitled, under the order in council of the 21st of April, 1812.

His royal highness the prince regent is hereby pleased further to declare, in the name and on the behalf of his majesty, that nothing in this present order contained, shall be understood to preclude his royal highness the prince regent, if circumstances shall so require, from restoring, after reasonable notice, the orders of the 7th of January, 1807, and 26th of April, 1809, or any part thereof, to their full effect, or from taking such other measures of retaliation against the enemy as may appear to his royal highness to be just and necessary.

And the right honourable the lords commissioners of his majesty's treasury, his majesty's principal secretaries of state, the lords commissioners of the admiralty, and the judges of the high court of admiralty, and the judges of the courts of vice-admiralty are to take the necessary measures herein as to them may respectively appertain.

No. 41.—ADMIRAL WARREN TO MR. MONROE, SECRETARY OF STATE, U.S.A.

(Annual Register, vol. 54, p. 342*).

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, Sept. 30.

SIR,—The departure of Mr. Foster from America has devolved upon me the charge of making known to you, for the information of the government of the United States, the sentiments entertained by his royal highness the prince regent, upon the existing relations of the two countries.

You will observe from the enclosed copy of an order in council bearing date the 23rd of June, 1812, that the orders in council of the 7th of Jan. 1807 and the 26th of April, 1809, ceased to exist nearly at the same time that the government of the United States declared war against his majesty.

Immediately on the receipt of this declaration in London, the order in council, of which a copy is herewith enclosed to you, was issued on the 31st day of July, for the embargo and detention of all American ships.

Under these circumstances, I am commanded to propose to your government the immediate cessation of hostilities between the two countries; and I shall be most happy in being the instrument of bringing about a reconciliation, so interesting and beneficial to America and Great Britain.

I therefore propose to you, that the government of the United States of America shall instantly recall their letters of marque and reprisal against British ships, together with all orders and instructions for any acts of hostility whatever against the territory of his majesty, or the persons or property of his subjects; with the understanding, that immediately on receiving from you an official assurance to that effect, I shall instruct all the officers under my command to desist from corresponding measures of war against the ships and property of the United States and that I shall transmit, without delay, corresponding intelligence to the several parts of the world where hostilities may have commenced; the British commanders in which will be required to discontinue hostilities, from the receipt of such notice.

Should the American government accede to the above proposal for terminating hostilities, I am authorized to arrange with you as to the revocation of the laws which interdict the commerce and ships of war of Great Britain from the harbours and waters of the United States; in default of such revocation within such reasonable period as may be agreed upon you will observe, by the order of the 23rd of June, the orders in council of January, 1807 and April, 1809, are to be revived.

The officer who conveys this letter to the American coast has received my orders to put to sea immediately upon the delivering of this dispatch to the competent authority; and earnestly recommend, that no time may be lost in communicating to me the decision of your government, persuaded as I feel, that it cannot but be of a nature to lead to a speedy termination of the present differences.

The flag of truce which you may charge with your reply will find one of my cruisers at Sandy Hook, ten days after the landing of this dispatch, which I have directed to call there with a flag of truce for that purpose. I have &c.

JOHN BORLASE WARREN,
Admiral of the Blue and commander in chief &c.

No. 41.—JAMES MONROE, SECRETARY OF STATE, TO ADMIRAL WARREN.

(Annual Register, vol. 54, p. 344*).

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Oct. 27, 1812.

SIR,—I have had the honour to receive your letter of the 30th ult. and to submit it to the consideration of the President.

It appears that you are authorised to propose a cessation of hostilities between the United States and Great Britain, on the Ground of the repeal of the orders in council; and in case the proposition is acceded to, to take measures, in concert with this government to carry it into complete effect on both sides.

You state also, that you have it in charge, in the event, to enter into an arrangement with the government of the United States for the repeal of the laws which interdict the ships of war and the commerce of Great Britain from the harbours and waters of the United States, and you intimate that if the proposition is not acceded to, the orders in council (repealed conditionally by that of the 23rd of June last) will be revived against the commerce of the United States.

I am instructed to inform you that it will be very satisfactory to the President to meet the British government in such arrangements as may terminate without delay the hostilities which now exist between the United States and Great Britain, on conditions honourable to both nations.

At the moment of the declaration of war, the President gave a signal proof of the attachment of the United States to peace. Instructions were given at an early period to the late Chargé d'affaires of the United States at London, to propose to the British government an armistice on conditions, which, it was presumed, would have been satisfactory. It has been seen with regret, that the proposition made by Mr. Monroe, particularly in regard to the important interest of impressment, was rejected and that none was offered through that channel, as a basis on which hostilities might cease.

As your Government has authorised you to propose a cessation of hostilities and is, doubtless, aware of the important and salutary effects which a satisfactory adjustment of this difference cannot fail to have on the future relations between the two countries, I indulge the hope that it has, ere this, given you full powers for the purpose. Experience has sufficiently evinced that no peace can be durable, unless this object is provided for; it is presumed, therefore, that it is equally the interest of both countries to adjust it at this time.

Without further discussing questions of right, the president is desirous to provide a remedy for the evils complained of on both sides. The claim of the British government is, to take from the merchant vessels of other countries British subjects. In the practice, the commanders of British ships of war often take from the merchant vessels of the United States American citizens. If the United States prohibit the employment of British subjects in their service and enforce the prohibition by suitable regulations and penalties, the motive for the practice is taken away. It is in this mode the President is willing to accommodate this important controversy with the British government and it cannot be conceived on what ground the arrangement can be refused.

A suspension of the practice of impressment, pending the armistice, seems to be a necessary consequence. It cannot be presumed, while the parties are engaged in a negotiation to adjust amicably this important difference, that the United States would admit the right, or acquiesce in the practice of the opposite party; or that Great Britain would be willing to restrain her cruisers from a practice which would have the strongest tendency to defeat the negotiation. It is presumable that both parties would enter a negotiation with a sincere desire to give it effect. For this purpose it is necessary that a clear and distinct understanding be first obtained between them, of the accommodation which each is prepared to make. If the British government is willing to suspend the practice of impressment from American vessels, on consideration that the United States will exclude British seamen from their service, the regulation by which this compromise should be carried into effect would be solely the object of this negotiation. The armistice would be of short duration. If the parties agree, peace would be the result. If the negotiations failed, each would be restored to its former state, and to all its pretensions, by recurring to war.

Lord Castlereagh, in his note to Mr. Russel, seems to have supposed that, had the British government accepted the proposition made to it, Great Britain would have suspended immediately the exercise of a right on the mere assurance of this government, that a law would be afterwards passed to prohibit the employment of British seamen in the service of the United States and that Great Britain would have no agency in the regulation to give effect to that proposition. Such an idea was not in the contemplation of this government, nor is it to be reasonably inferred from Mr. Russel's note; lest, however, by possibility, such an inference might be drawn from the instructions to Mr. Russel, and anxious that there should be no misunderstanding in the case, subsequent instructions were given to Mr. Russel, with a view to obviate every objection of the kind alluded to. As they bear date on the 27th of July and were forwarded by the British packet Alpheia, it is more than probable that they may have been received and acted on.

I am happy to explain to you thus fully the views of my government on this important subject. The president desires that the war which exists between our countries should be terminated on such conditions as may secure a solid and durable peace. To accomplish this great object, it is necessary that the interest of impressment be satisfactorily arranged. He is willing that Great Britain should be secured against the evils of which she complains. He seeks, on the other hand, that the citizens of the United States should be protected against a practice, which, while it degrades the nation, deprives them of their right, as freemen, takes them by force from their families and their country, into a foreign service, to fight the battles of a foreign power, perhaps against their own kindred and country.

I abstain from entering, in this communication, into other grounds of difference. The orders in council having been repealed (with a reservation not impairing a corresponding right on the part of the United States) and no illegal blockades, revived or instituted in their stead, and an understanding being obtained on the subject of impressment, in the mode herein proposed, the President is willing to agree to a cessation of hostilities with a view to arrange, by treaty in a more distinct and ample manner and to the satisfaction of both parties, every other subject of controversy.

I will only add that if there be no objection to an accommodation of the difference relating to impressment in the mode proposed, other than the suspension of the British claims to impressment during the armistice, there can be none to proceeding, without the armistice, to an immediate discussion and arrangement of an article on that subject. This great question being satisfactorily adjusted, the way will be open either for an armistice or any other course leading most conveniently and expeditiously to a general pacification.

I have, &c.,

JAMES MONROE.

No. 42.—W. JONES TO CAPTAIN EVANS OF THE "CHESAPEAKE."

(Archives. series C., vol. 673, p. 185.)

NAVY DEPARTMENT May 6, 1813.

SIR,—I am much satisfied with the progress you have made in the equipment of the Chesapeake & hope this will find you ready for sea.

In this expectation the following outline is intended to designate your course which if pursued with vigour & vigilance, I am persuaded will result no less to your honour & advantage than to the advancement of the great objects of war. It is impossible to conceive a naval service of higher order in a national point of view than the capture & destruction of the Enemy's stores, ships with military & naval stores, destined for the supply of his armies in Canada & fleets on this station & the capture of transports with troops destined to reinforce Canada or invade our own shores. With this view no position can be better chosen than the range of the coast of Nova Scotia & the entrance of the Gulph of St. Lawrence & Straights of Belle Isle, along the coast of Labrador or around by the east coast of Newfoundland (as information & prospect may determine) to the coast of Greenland where the entire whale fishery of the Enemy being without protection may be speedily and completely destroyed.

By the time this could be accomplished the same route may be retraced home, so as to enter some eastern port in all the month of September. In this route you will find great resource & refreshment in the fish with which these seas abound as well as in that of the fishing vessels you may capture & destroy, moreover the moderate temperature & humidity of the climate will admit of a very moderate consumption of water.

The force of the Enemy now on our coast & the expected increase forbids a reasonable prospect of getting prizes safe into our ports during the summer months. The risk of recapture is so great that the public interest seems to demand rather the destruction of every prize than to weaken your crew by attempting to send them in, particularly these with military or naval stores. A question never can arise between the honourable patriotism of our gallant officers & the pecuniary interest they may be supposed to have in attempting to send them into port, when the doubtful chance of success & the very great advantage the enemy would derive from recaptures are considered.

The cruising ground herein designated also embraces a vast & valuable mercantile trade for the supply of the British Provinces & of the Indians also a rich return in furs & peltries.

The enemy will not in all probability anticipate our taking this ground with our public ships of war & as the enemy's convoys generally separate between Cape Race & Halifax, leaving the trade of the St. Lawrence to proceed without convoy the chance of captures upon an extensive scale is very flattering. It is of the greatest importance that our account of prisoners should be kept as full as possible & the returns regularly made to this Department in order that the exchange of our own gallant seamen may be effected without delay & that by the magnitude of the pledge in our hands the enemy may be induced from policy if not from disposition, to treat our citizens with less rigour than he is accustomed to do.

The fogs which prevail in the seas in which you are to cruise may be considered as forming an objection, upon the presumption that a superior enemy cannot be discovered until close on board, but admitting the fact, it is counterbalanced by the facility which it affords to a fast sailing vessel to escape from a superior enemy, that it conceals your own ship until an inferior in force and sailing is under your guns, that the [by] running close in with the land you are sure to have clear weather although the fog may be ever so thick two or three leagues off & that by taking a position off some known land fall usual for ships entering the St. Lawrence you may intercept them as they approach the land the moment they develope from the fog bank.

After all, vigilance and preparation are the only safeguards in any and every situation.

With these instructions you will proceed to sea as soon as the weather & the force & position of the enemy will permit & as the Hornet is now ready for sea, I shall furnish Captain Biddle with a duplicate of this letter & order him to pursue the same route with the same objects in view & to endeavour to join you off Cape Breton.

Wishing you a successful & honourable cruize.

I am, &c.,

W. JONES.

SAMUEL EVANS, Esq.

No. 43.—W. JONES TO CAPTAIN JAMES LAWRENCE.

NAVY DEPARTMENT, May 6, 1813.

SIR,—My last of the 4th inst. will have informed your of my intention to have ordered you to the command of the "Constitution" without reservation and the enclosed copy of a letter (note: This copy was not found) this moment received after I had sealed the cover of the enclosed letter to Captain Evans will explain to you the cause of the indispensable change of that determination.

Knowing your ardent desire for active service, I feel a pleasure in gratifying your laudable zeal & therefore desire that you will proceed immediately to Boston, take the command of the U.S. Frigate "Chesapeake" & proceed in conformity with the foregoing instructions which you will consider as if originally addressed to yourself. If in the course of your cruize you should derive such information of the force of the enemy, or other sufficient cause, as to render a strict observance of my instructions prejudicial to the public service you are at liberty to exercise your own judgment & pursue such other course as may in your opinion be best calculated to accomplish the important objects of your cruize.

Capt. Biddle will receive his instructions by this mail & may be probably in New York in 24 hours after. Perhaps you had better see him & confer upon the best means of ensuring his junction with you at whatever point you may determine upon.

Captain Evans will be ordered to the Navy Yard at New York, but you need not wait to be received by him.

I am, &c.,

W. JONES.

CAPTAIN JAMES LAWRENCE,

(Archives, series B., vol. 115, p. 252.)

(Extract.)

MONTREAL, 26th April, 1784.

SIR,—The Highlanders and others of my Regiment of the Roman Catholic and Protestant persuasions have applied to me through their officers, to request that your Excellency will be pleased to Indulge them to settle in separate Bodies for the Benefit of their religion.

No. 2.—GENERAL HALDIMAND TO SIR JOHN JOHNSON.

HEAD QURS, QUEBEC, 6th May, 1784.

SIR,—In answer to your letter of the 26th ultimo, I have to acquaint you that I have no objection that the men who served in your corps of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Religion should settle as distinctly as possible; it may be effected by changing the Lotts they shall draw, or in such way you shall think most likely to satisfy both parties, having attention to a strict observance of the King's Instructions for settling lands.

No. 3.—LORD SYDNEY TO LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR HAMILTON.

WHITEHALL, 24th June, 1785.

SIR,—Having laid before the King a memorial of Mr. Roderick Macdonell, stating that, at the solicitation of a considerable number of Scots Highlanders and other British subjects of the Roman Catholic Persuasion who, prior to the last war were Inhabitants of the Back Settlements of the Province of New York and to whom, in consideration of their Loyalty and Services Lands have been lately assigned in the higher Parts of Canada, he is desirous of joining them in order to serve them in the capacity of a Clergyman, in the humble hope that, on his arrival at their Settlement, he shall be allowed by Government an annual subsistence for the Discharge of that Duty. I inclose to you the said memorial and am to signify to you the King's Commands that you do permit Mr. Macdonell to join the above mentioned Settlers and officiate as their Clergyman and with respect to the allowance to be made to him, I shall take an early opportunity of communicating to you His Majesty's Pleasure.

No. 4.—MEMORIAL OF MR. RODERICK MACDONELL.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 24-2, p. 280.)

To the Right Hon. Lord Sydney, one of His Majesty's Principal secretaries of State, &c., &c., &c..

Most Humbly Sheweth,

That considerable number of Scots Highlanders & other British natives, who prior to the last War, were Inhabitants of the Back Settlements of the Province of New York, adhering strictly to their Duty & Allegiance, until being unsupported, they were overwhelmed by the numbers of the Enemy, then retiring thro' the woods to Canada, they served in the 84th Royal Yorkers & other Regiments upon the different Expeditions from that Province until the Peace, as Sir Guy Carleton, Lieutenant Governor Haldimand, Brigadier General Maclean, Sir John Johnson & other officers can testify.

That Lands have been lately assigned by the Commander in Chief to the above People in the higher Parts of Canada, but being of the Roman Catholick Persuasion, they are at a Loss for a Clergyman understanding their Language and having lost all their Property and reduced to commence new settlements in the woods, they are not in condition to support one.

That the memorialist being known and related to many of them, they have communicated Solicitations to him to go abroad & serve them in that capacity, in the humble hopes that from the above circumstances and considerations His Majesty's Government would be graciously pleased to give Permission to furnish him the means of defraying the Passage & Journey to their Settlement & to allow an annual Subsistence, as they are not able to afford it.

That accordingly the memorialist with satisfactory Documents of his Popularity and Character, having proceeded thus far from his Native Country and Settlement most humbly requests Your Lordship will be pleased to take the above Points into consideration, and to relieve the Exigency of that distressed and loyal Part of His Majesty's Subjects as far as to Your Wisdom and Goodness it may seem expedient and just.

No. 5.—BISHOP (ANGLICAN) OF QUEBEC TO MR. KING.

POWELL PLACE, Nov. 20th, 1794.

DEAR SIR,—I enclose duplicate of a letter which I sent for you with my Lord Dorchester by the Regulus.

I take this opportunity of mentioning to you a mistatement which escaped me in my letter to Mr. Dundas of the 15th of Sept., (see p. 385).—I said that "from Montreal to Kingston, a distance of 200 miles, there is not one clergyman of the Church of England, nor any house of Religious Worship except one small Chapel "belonging to the Lutherans, & one or perhaps two belonging to the Presbyterians." I should have said "nor any house of Protestant worship." For between Montreal & the Point au Baudet *, a distance of about 50 miles, where the people are chiefly Roman Catholics, I saw two Roman Catholic Churches (& I am since told by a priest of that persuasion that there are six more). The mistake in the expression arose from my having the Protestants exclusively in my mind, of whose situation alone I was then speaking. From the Point au Baudet to Kingston †, with the exception of a small body of Scotch Roman Catholics who have no Church, the Inhabitants are universally Protestants as they are also on the Bay of Quinté. The mistake does not materially affect the question, but I thought it right to state it to you; you will best judge of the propriety of mentioning it to the present Secretary of State. We do not yet hear anything of the instruments.

* That is in Lower Canada.

† In Upper Canada.

I am, &c.,

J. QUEBEC.

No. 6.—SECRETARY OF STATE TO LIEUT.-GENERAL HUNTER.

DOWNING STREET, 1st March, 1803.

SIR,—A Body of Highlanders mostly Macdonnells and partly disbanded soldiers of the late Glengarry Fensile Regiment with their Families and connections are upon the point of quitting their present place of abode with the design of following into Upper Canada some of the relations who have already established themselves in the Province.

The merit and services of the regiment in which a proportion of these people have served give them strong claims to any mark of favour and consideration which can consistently be extended to them and with the encouragement usually afforded in the Province they would no doubt prove as valuable settlers as their connections now residing in the District of Glengarry of whose Industry and general good conduct very favourable representations have been received here.

Government has been apprized of the situation and disposition of the Families before described by Mr. McDonnell, one of the ministers of their Church and formerly chaplain to the Glengarry regiment who possessed considerable Influence with their whole body. He has undertaken in the event of their absolute determination to carry into execution their plan of departure to embark with them and direct their course to Canada.

In case of their arrival within your Government I am commanded by His Majesty to authorize you to Grant in the usual manner a Tract of the unappropriated Crown Lands in any part of the Province where they may fix in the proportion of Twelve hundred acres to Mr. McDonnell and Two hundred acres to every family he may introduce into the Colony.

EDINBURGH, — March, 1804.

SIR,—In the letter I had the honour to receive from you in Nov. last you approved of the Idea I had suggested of keeping the Scots Catholics in Canada entirely under the spiritual direction of pastors selected from among their own countrymen and who shall have been educated in Great Britain; and you expressed a wish that I should proceed according to my intention to assume the charge of the Catholics of the County of Glengarry with as little delay as possible. The season being now at hand, I am ready to take my departure in the first vessel that sails from the Clyde for Montreal, or Quebec, & only wait for those letters which you were so good as to say you would give me for Governor Hunter. Should you or my Lord Hobart think proper to honour me with any particular commands, or instructions for that Province I would set out for London to receive them, without a moment's delay.

If government thought proper to defray the expense of a schoolmaster for that County I could bring with me from this Country a person every way qualified for that important charge.

I mentioned in my last how necessary it would be for me to have some assistance from Government for building a house, but shall leave that and every other indulgence that my exertions for my Country may have entitled me to entirely to yourself & to the favourable reports that Governor Hunter may chuse to make of my conduct.

I am, &c.,

ALEXANDER MacDONELL.

DOWNING STREET, 7th April, 1804.

SIR,—Circumstances have prevented the disbanded soldiers of the Glengarry Fencible Regiment from carrying into execution the resolution communicated to you in my letter of the 1st March, 1803, of proceeding in a Body to Canada. Mr. Macdonell, one of the Ministers of their Church, whom I then mentioned to you as having given notice to Government of their intention and who undertook to proceed with them, is still desirous of joining his countrymen who are already settled in the District of Glengarry within your Government. Should he execute this intention I am to desire that you will upon his application make as favourable an allotment of Land as may be consistent with the Regulations under which the Crown Lands are granted, and I make no doubt you will find Mr. Macdonell deserving of any protection and encouragement you may be enabled to extend to him.

No. 9.—LIEUT.-GENERAL HUNTER TO LORD HOBART.

QUEBEC, 20th June, 1804.

MY LORD,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of Your Lordship's dispatch No. 24 of the 7th of April last acquainting me that circumstances have prevented the Disbanded Soldiers of the Glengarry Fencible Regiment from carrying into execution their resolution of proceeding in a Body to Canada which your Lordship had communicated to me in your letter of the 1st March, 1803; but that Mr. Macdonell, one of the Ministers of their Church, who undertook to proceed with them, is still desirous of joining those of his Countrymen, who are already settled in the District of Glengarry, and authorizing me, upon his application, to make as favourable an allotment of Land to him, as may be consistent with the regulations, under which the Crown Lands are granted.

I shall have much pleasure in paying every attention to Mr. Macdonell, upon his arrival in this country; and I should also have been very glad to have seen the disbanded soldiers of the Glengarry Fencible Regiment settled in Upper Canada. That Regiment served some short time under my command in Ireland in 1798, when I found them to be a remarkably well behaved and well disposed set of people.

I beg leave to mention to your Lordship that your letter to me, upon this subject, of the first March, 1803, has never reached me and probably is your dispatch, No. 17, which, in my letter, No. 47, of the 12th March 1st, I stated to be missing.

MY DEAR SIR,—At the request of the Reverend Mr. Alex. 3 SOUTH STREET, MANCHESTER SQUARE, Monday, Dec. 16th, 1816.

MY LORD,—Having a letter to deliver to your Lordship from my Lord Sidmoreth & some important communications to make respecting His Majesty's Roman Catholic Subjects of Upper Canada & other British Colonies of North America, I beg to know when it may be convenient for your Lordship to honour me with an audience.

I have &c.

ALEX. McDONELL.

No. 14.—REV. ALEXANDER MACDONELL TO EARL BATHURST.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 323, p. 177.)

SOUTH STREET, MANCHESTER SQUARE, LONDON,
10th Jan. 1817.

MY LORD,—Presuming on Your Lordship's kind condescension & convinced by experience of the warm interest you take in the welfare of every class of His Majesty's subjects who merit the approbation of their Sovereign and His Government, I take the liberty of laying before your Lordship the following statement respecting His Majesty's Roman Catholic subjects of Upper Canada in hopes it will obtain your Lordship's favourable consideration & approval.

The Catholics of Upper Canada are about fifteen thousand in number & are spread over a great part of the Province, the Scotch Highlanders of that persuasion are principally concentrated in what is called the Glengarry settlement although a good many have dispersed themselves up the country as far as Kingston & from thence to the head of the Bay of Quinty.

To administer to the spiritual want of all these & to afford the necessary instructions to their youth would require at least six clergymen & eight or ten schoolmasters, who ought to be selected from their own countrymen professing the same religion, & speaking the same (the Gaelic) language with themselves.

Of all the methods that can be devised to preserve to the children, the loyal principles of their fathers, it is obvious that none can prove so effectual as implanting in their minds these principles, & carrying moral and religious instructions to them at an early age, in the emphatic language of their ancestors. Thus assured by the double barrier of their Language and Religion they might for a long time stand proof against the contagious politics of their democratical neighbours.

The encouragement held out last year by order of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, to public teachers (without any distinction of Religious persuasion) accompanying the Emigrants going to Canada, viz.: £100 sterling per annum & 200 acres of land to clergymen & £50 sterling per annum & 100 acres of land to schoolmasters, could be all that could be required or expected by the Catholics of that Province, for the people themselves would easily contribute whatever more might be necessary for the support of their public functionaries, & this bounty of Government could not fail to operate as an additional tie on the loyalty & gratitude of the former, and a powerful stimulus on the latter to make them exert themselves in the assiduous discharge of their important duty.

It is my intention to establish the principal School at my own place of Residence in the county of Glengarry, in order to be under my own superintendence & direction & for this school I wish to procure a few masters, in this country, of superior talents & learning, capable of educating Gentlemen's sons upon a more liberal and extensive plan than what would be necessary for the lower class of settlers. This would preclude the necessity of sending them to the United States or to the French seminaries of Lower Canada, as has been the case hitherto. Should your Lordship be disposed to consider an Establishment of this kind in so favourable a point of view as to merit the countenance and protection of Government, some aid might be afforded towards the support of it without any direct application to the public purse, either from the Provincial funds of the latter, which would require nothing more than a recommendation from your Lordship to the Lieutenant-Governor, to extend to this Catholic, the same allowance as the Protestant District schools receive from the provincial treasury.

Another part of this subject to which I would presume to draw your Lordship's attention is Female Education.

Boarding schools for young ladies in both the Canadas are kept principally by American women, & every book of instruction put into the hands of their pupils by these school mistresses are of American Manufacture, artfully tinctured with the principles of their Government and Constitution & holding up their own worthies as perfect patterns of every moral excellence, whilst our public & private characters are represented in the most odious & disgusting colours.

To arrest the rapid progress of this growing evil, & to rescue the minds of Catholic children at least from the insidious arts of those active agents of our enemies, no plan could promise more certain success than the encouraging a few English nuns or Religious women capable of imparting proper education & the necessary accomplishments to young ladies to go from this country to settle in Upper Canada. Or, if any objections should be made to Nuns, Secular women might be found sufficiently calculated for such an undertaking, but upon higher terms, nor could it be expected that these would pursue an object of this nature with the same perseverance as those who had relinquished every other prospect in life with the sole view of rendering themselves useful to their fellow creatures.

All the encouragement necessary for the Nuns would be a trifling pension from Government or the Jesuits funds for a few years until they could establish themselves in the country, a grant of a few acres of land for their buildings, Garden & walking ground for their scholars in the town of Kingston, or wherever they might find it most convenient to reside, & a grant of two or three hundred acres of the waste lands of the Crown in the vicinity of their place of residence, from whence they could provide themselves with fuel & other necessaries of life.

When I inform your Lordship that with the exception of the eight district Schools which are principally taught by clergymen of the established Church, the education of youth of both sexes in Upper Canada is exclusively entrusted to American teachers, & that this Education consists of the perusal of such works, as I have already alluded to, your Lordship will allow that the danger against which I would wish to provide is of a serious & alarming nature & I feel confident that to the liberal & enlightened mind of your Lordship no apology is necessary for my present application in behalf of a numerous description of loyal Subjects, a great proportion of whom have been for six & twenty years under my own guidance & spiritual direction & who during twelve years of that period bore arms in defence of their country.

I have only to add that in consequence of the countenance which my Lord Sidmouth was pleased to shew to me, & to these people in 1803, I have been enabled so effectually to direct to our own colonies, the destination of Scotch Catholics, who have been under the necessity of quitting their native country, that since that period not one of them has emigrated to the United States, altho' during the same space of time thousands of Scotch Presbyterians & innumerable Irish Catholics have found their way to that country, who would have proved excellent subjects in the British Colonies & that these were not only lost for ever to their native country but became its most formidable & inveterate enemies & swelled the ranks of the American armies in their late attempt to conquer the Canadas, as will be certified by every British officer employed during that time in these Provinces.

I have &c.,

ALEX. MACDONELL.

No. 15.—MEMORANDUM.

(Archives, series Q., vol. 323, p. 184.)

(Private.) (There is no date, place, or signature to this document.)

The Roman Catholic Bishop of Quebec exercises at present spiritual jurisdiction over the two Canadas, the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the Islands of Prince Edward, Cape Breton and Magdalen. It was represented last year to the See of Rome, that one person could not possibly discharge the duties of a Bishop over these distant & extensive Regions, & a proposal was made of which the Pope approved, that Upper Canada, N. Scotia, N. Brunswick & the Islands above mentioned should be severed from the See of Quebec, that each of the Provinces should be formed into a separate Spiritual Jurisdiction, & the Islands into one by themselves, & that a vicar apostolic, invested with powers to ordain priests, & give confirmation should be appointed to each jurisdiction.

The Pope having no knowledge of proper persons himself left the nomination of Vicars to those several districts to the Bishop of Quebec and there is reason to believe that the latter has within these few weeks past forwarded recommendations of such persons to Rome. There is no doubt that Doctor Plessis, who is a good man, an excellent Prelate, & as sincerely attached to the British Government as any man in the Canadas, would recommend for those situations, proper characters and loyal Subjects, but it is natural to think, that he would prefer Canadians if he found them sufficiently qualified. As by far the greater part of the Catholics in Upper Canada and in the Islands are Scotch Highlanders & the Catholics of Nova Scotia & New Brunswick principally Irish it is most certain that clergymen of their respective countries ought to have the spiritual direction of them. This has been the opinion of the different Governors who have been in the British Colonies for some years past & His Excellency Sir John Sherbrooke the present Governor General of the Canadas, has given permission to mention to His Majesty's Ministers, that he found by experience that Irish priests are most fit to manage Irish Catholics & that Scotch Clergyman only can possess the entire confidence of their Catholic countrymen.

Should Govt. feel disposed to take any steps in this matter it is not yet perhaps too late as it is probable some time may elapse before it be finally arranged in Rome.

It is self evident that appointments of this nature ought to proceed from Great Britain in order to have every possible tie upon the Colonies that could bind them to the Parent Country & in that case the Rt. Rev. Doctor Paynt of London, & the Rt. Rev. Doctor Cameron of Edinburgh appear to be the properest persons to have the recommendation of the Apostolic Vicars alluded to. In the present instance they might be referred to & the Rev. Paul McPherson at Rome would be a fit agent to manage the business there. It is further to be observed that the first appointments are of the greater consequence, as they may serve as a precedent & may establish a foundation for further claims to the same privilege & that any delay may occasion this opportunity to be irrecoverably lost.

MY LORD,—The chief object of my present visit to Britain, is to procure a few public teachers, to take out with me to Canada, & I am on the eve of setting off for Scotland to look out for qualified persons of that description, but as the encouragement to be held out to these must depend on the answer to the statement I had the honour of laying before your Lordship on the 16th curr. SIR—In compliance with your kind request, I send you the names of three Persons, whom by the permission of my Lord Bathurst, I promised to be appointed Catholic Schoolmasters in Canada, viz.: Richard Hammond, an Englishman & John Murdoch & Angus McDonald, Scotchmen.

Mr. Hammond is now here ready to take his Passage on the first Government ship that will sail for Canada; the other two are in Scotland & will probably sail from thence.

SIR,—When I had the honour of seeing you last, you were so good as to say you would send me an answer to the letter I addressed to My Lord Bathurst previous to my departure for Scotland in January last, on the score of Education of Catholics in Canada. In that Letter, I took the liberty to assert, that were the settlers in that colony perfectly able to Provide for their own Clergy & School Masters, it would notwithstanding be wise policy in Government to secure the Loyalty & attachment of those to whom the instruction of youth, & the spiritual guidance of the People are entrusted, by contributing to their support, and I acknowledge that I feel extremely anxious to have it in my power to afford to the Catholics of Canada a substantial proof of the Liberal Disposition of Government towards them, in order to do away the very unpleasant sensation which the publication of instructions hostile to their religion sent out to a Governor in Chief of the Canadas, made upon their Minds.

The good conduct of these under my charge, who form a body of Catholics in the upper Province, has hitherto uniformly merited the approbation of their King & Country; but as the danger of infection from the Democratical Principles of their Neighbours will necessarily increase in Proportion to their growing numbers & the Range of Country over which they will spread themselves, I consider it my duty to press on my Lord Bathurst & you, Sir, the necessity of furnishing the Means to secure them from that danger.

I have already stated, in the letter alluded to, that employing teachers who should be connected with Government, by their Interest as well as their Principles, appeared to me, as the Means best calculated for that important End, & I have now only to add, that such teachers ought to be, as far as circumstances could Permit, born Britons, or at least educated in the Principles of the British Constitution.

SIR,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your favours, both of the 19th & 20th inst & I beg you will accept my grateful thanks for the kind attention you have paid to my application in behalf of the people under my charge.

Please to assure my Lord Bathurst that I shall consider it the most gratifying duty of my life, to bear testimony of this instance of his Lordships liberality & good will towards the Catholic inhabitants of Upper Canada, & to press upon their minds how essentially they will forward their own interest by continuing to merit by their good conduct, as they have hitherto done, the approbation of their Sovereign & his Government.

My Lord Bathurst is, I have no doubt, perfectly aware that Catholic Clergymen are no less necessary in Upper Canada than Catholic Schoolmasters. I took the liberty of mentioning a circumstance, the last time I had the honour of seeing you, which renders the necessity the more urgent of getting a few Scotch Catholic Clergymen to this Province.

These I could wish to be appointed are the Rev. James Sharp, the Rev. John McDonald & the Rev. William Chisholm. If Government would but condescend to assist in enabling a few proper clergymen & schoolmasters to settle amongst the Catholics of Upper Canada, I will pledge my life for their loyalty & good conduct.

SIR,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your favour of the 6th inst., informing me that his Lordship Earl Bathurst has been pleased to order an allowance of one hundred pounds per annum to each of the three Catholic clergymen whom I wished to get out to Canada. I find myself, sir, greatly at a loss for words to express the grateful sense I entertain of this additional instance of his Lordship's liberality towards the Catholics of Canada, & I shall not fail to impress deeply on their minds the value of this important concession to them, at a moment when so many other urgent demands are made upon the public purse. I would indeed consider my own representation in their behalf unworthy of attention if I did not exert myself to the utmost of my power to render them grateful for the essential favours granted to them on this occasion, & anxious to preserve a continuance of the kind protection of Government.

I should be glad to know whether it will be necessary to those clergymen & Schoolmasters going to Canada to be provided with letters from the Colonial Office here, in addition to the instructions that have been given to the Governor of the Province respecting them.

Macdonell, Vicar General of Upper Canada, is humbly submitted.

The memorialist by means of the influence which his situation and discharge of duty enabled him to acquire, induced in the year 1791 several hundred of his countrymen who finding themselves turned out of their possessions in the Highlands of Scotland, in consequence of the system of converting small farms into large sheep walks were on the point of embarking for America, to settle in Glasgow and the neighbouring Manufacturing Towns and Villages, and by way of encouragement and forming a rallying point for them, went himself to reside in Glasgow, although with considerable danger to his personal safety, as no Clergyman of his persuasion had hardly ventured to stay one night in that Town since the mobs of 1780.

In 1794 when the infection of French principles was making alarming progress through every part of the United Kingdom, and all the Fencible corps raised in North Britain, with the exception of two, refused to march into England, the memorialist was deputed by the body of Catholics under his charge, to convey a loyal address to His Majesty, accompanied by an offer to embody themselves into a corps in defence of His person and Government, and to extend their services into any part of the British dominions where it might be found necessary to employ them, which being accepted, a Letter of Service was in consequence issued for Levying the Catholic Regiment of Glengarry Fencibles to serve in Jersey, Guernsey and Ireland, and their example in extending their service out of Britain was followed by all the Fencible Regiments that were raised subsequent to that period.

The Memorialist being nominated Chaplain to the Corps, attended it constantly for the space of eight years that it was embodied and shared in all its dangers and fatigues during the Irish Rebellion, while every other regimental Chaplain availed himself of the permission that was given of retiring upon four shillings a day, as the certificates of the commanding officer of the Corps and the secretary at War's letter of the 10th January, 1803 can testify.

After the reduction of the Fencible Corps while so many were emigrating to the United States of America, the Memorialist under the protection of Lord Sidmouth directed the destination of the disbanded soldiers of the Glengarry Regiment in 1804 to Upper Canada, where they settled themselves among their countrymen previously established in that Province and the Memorialist has the satisfaction to assert that owing to the same protection and the encouragement which he had received for his adherents, he was enabled so completely to divert the destination of the Scotch Catholics into the British Colonies, that from that to the present time, not one of them to his knowledge has gone to the United States.

The Memorialist on the eve of the late American War formed and submitted a plan for embodying the second Glengarry Fencible Regiment, which being approved of, that corps by his influence in the County of Glengarry was in a few months completed, the gallantry and important services of which contributed so essentially to the defence of the Canadas.

The Memorialist in order to impress by his example as well as exhortation on the minds of his flock the necessity of defending their Country, was himself during the whole of that war constantly in the Field, participating in the privations and fatigues of the private soldier and he had the honour of receiving not only the thanks of the different Governors and Officers commanding His Majesty's Forces in those quarters, but also the acknowledgment of His Royal Highness the Prince Regent, with an addition of Fifty pounds to his former salary, as a mark of the sense which His Royal Highness entertained of his exertions in defence of the Provinces.

The Memorialist on his arrival in Canada, in order to remove every cause of dissatisfaction amongst the Catholic inhabitants, found it expedient to do away the custom of levying Tythes upon them, which had been established by his predecessor, leaving it entirely in every man's option to give what he thought proper towards the support of his pastor, although he thereby very materially injured his own interest the Memorialist suffered also by damages during the War, which were estimated at about Five Hundred pounds, but unwilling to add to the heavy charges that were pouring in from all quarters against Government at the time and anxious to exhibit an example of moderation to others in a similar situation to himself, he accepted the inadequate sum of Fifty pounds as a compensation and granted full discharge to Government for his losses.

The Memorialist as Vicar General of Upper Canada has the charge and spiritual direction of all the Catholics in that Province, and is consequently obliged in the discharge of his duty, to travel from one part of the country to the other every year, which leads him to expense far beyond his present means, being only One Hundred pounds per annum from Government and the precarious contributions of his hearers.

The Memorialist therefore humbly submits to your Lordship's consideration, whether his zealous and unremitting exertions for six and twenty years in the service of his Country, the losses he has suffered and the difficulty of discharging his ostensible and important situation without more adequate means should be deemed reasonable grounds for making some addition to his present salary of One Hundred pounds a year.

The Memorialist wishes it to be perfectly understood that he considers what he actually receives or may receive from Government as a matter of favour and condescension and not right and that his attachment to his Sovereign and to his country is built upon the unshaken foundation of conscientious principle which cannot be strengthened by additional favours, nor weakened by disappointment.

The insubordinate conduct of the first company shown before leaving Bermuda; one of the men was actually shot for mutiny. The company mutinied on parade and the quarter master sergeant deserted, having first robbed his captain and other officers. At Hampton they dispersed in search of plunder, brutally treated peaceable inhabitants, so that they had to be withdrawn from the outposts and on the representation of their officers they had to be sent on board their ship; their continuous mutinous conduct; Capt. Smith, in command, has reported the men as desperate banditti, who he does not doubt will desert in a body on the first opportunity. Submits the necessity of having them sent away. Every effort has been made to conciliate them, but without effect.	44

Warren to Croker, dated Chesapeake, 19th May, 1813, sends letter from Barclay appointed to command one of the ships building on Lake Ontario, showing that every effort has been made for the equipment of the vessels in Canadian waters. The officers sent from his (Warren's) squadron he trusts must long ere this have reached their destination by way of New Brunswick. The guns, &c., to be sent by the "Minerva" up the St. Lawrence; they have already moved from Halifax to the Gut of Canso with transports, to push up the St. Lawrence as soon as the ice breaks. On the arrival of the 400 seamen from the United Kingdom, the flotilla on the lakes will be in a position to meet the enemy's squadron.

The Governor wishes that one or two lieutenants might be left to superintend the fitting of the rigging. Has therefore left the gunners with Lieuts. Gibbs and Inglis; orders given to pay strict attention to this and to proceed to Quebec by the same conveyance as the horses and to join their ship with all expedition.

Potomac.

Beckwith to ——. Letter of 28th May just received, (that letter is not here, the present letter begins "My Dear Sir," as if the correspondence was private). The enemy much better prepared than had been anticipated; it would be easy to plunder and destroy the houses and property of the scattered inhabitants, but he had refrained from doing so notwithstanding the torrents of abuse with which the American papers are filled; regrets that there was some reason for the outcry against cruelties committed by those French scoundrels at Hampton, but it has turned out that they had intended to desert to the enemy in a body, at the same time murdering Capt. Smith and such of his officers as interfered to check their horrid proceedings. Had sent them away rather than run the risk of so glaring an event as their deserting in a body. Those who had deserted entered the United States service half an hour after they joined the Americans. Warren is sending a plan of Norfolk. Its strength preventing any naval operation, nothing, Bathurst, may be satisfied, would justify a land attack, as the loss would have crippled two marine battalions for further services, besides, even if successful, being a direct infringement of his instructions. The landing at Hamp-

- ton was necessary, as the enemy were collecting troops and erecting batteries, which would have protected the gunboats from Norfolk and given them the command of the Hampton roads. Can say nothing as to the expedience of making the Chesapeake the scene of operations, but hopes that the alarm kept up has been of service to Prevost. Warren is writing to Bathurst and will no doubt fully explain his intentions. The two battalions of marines are healthy, and the detachment of the 102nd tolerably so. Page 40

The enemy have burned a ship at York intended to carry 30 guns. All hands since arrival have been actively employed in fitting the vessels. The superiority of the enemy's squadron, besides vessels nearly ready for launching at Sackett's Harbour. To check the advantages possessed by the enemy, is about to proceed to sea to meet them as the possession of Upper Canada must depend on the naval superiority in Lake Ontario. If successful, the superiority cannot longer be maintained without a reinforcement of seamen. 80

- August 10,
Cannon Street. Simon McGillivray to Bathurst. Sends extract from letter from Canada, whilst there is yet time to send reinforcements to the St. Lawrence before the close of navigation. The letter contains remarks from a loyal and intelligent man on the system pursued in Canada since the beginning of the war. The letter being confidential enhances, he conceives, its value. The comments of individuals may be liable to error, but he knows that the universal opinion coincides with the observations in the letter on the impolicy of forbearance by which the American forces on the frontier have been allowed to accumulate and to collect means for invasion which have made them so formidable. As an instance, Brock the evening before the battle of Queenston, at which he fell, wrote to a friend in Quebec expressing his decided disapprobation of the system of forbearance, by which he was prevented from crossing the river to destroy the means the enemy was collecting in his sight to attack him, complaining that his hands were tied up. Next morning he was attacked and fell, and with him fell the last hopes of the people of Upper Canada. Hopes that effective succours may be sent to Canada before the close of navigation; seamen for Lakes Erie and Ontario are particularly and indispensably required if Upper Canada is to be defended. 83

- August 10,

- Barrow to Goulburn. Transmits copies of letters from the Transport office and from Barclay, agent for British prisoners of war, for directions from Bathurst what answers are to be sent. 112
- Enclosed.* Transport Officers to Croker, 9th August, with copies of letters from Barclay. 113
- Barclay to Transport Office, 22nd. Transmits letter from American Commissary of prisoners. The President will not allow him (Barclay) to visit the American stations for prisoners, except on special occasions on giving reasons. The President asks only for the same regulations for the American commissary. It is for the Commissioners for transports to decide whether the American agents in England should be similarly restricted. The distrust and jealousy of the present American administration; this is not without reason as men of property and respectability are opposed to the measures of their government, so that the British agent and sub-agent are not to have an opportunity of communicating with those who are opposed to their policy. Encloses letter from General Mason on the subject of seducing British seamen into the American service. 114
- Barclay to General Mason, Commissary of Prisoners, 13th April. Acknowledges satisfactory manner in which Monroe and he (Mason) had informed him of the humane intention of Government towards the prisoners. He (Mason) is in possession of his (Barclay's) instructions, which show that the sentiments in them comport with those of the United States Government. Asks that permission be obtained for him to visit all the depots for British prisoners; for a list of all British subjects detained as prisoners of war, with names, &c.; for information if any are entitled to parole; besides the daily subsistence, he is to make each prisoner a daily allowance, which he asks leave to do; as prisoners may be carried in by French cruisers, asks that he be permitted to negotiate with the French officers for their exchange. 118
- Mason to Barclay, 19th June. The ship "Robert Burns" has been placed as a conveyance for prisoners and for Richardson's family, with whom arrangements should be made. If there are any prisoners in New York they shall be released and sent to his (Barclay's) order. With respect to prisoners taken by the French, he will do all he can to have them returned to England; they cannot be sent to Nova Scotia or Canada. The prisoners noted, may return by the "Robert Burns," on condition they shall only be landed in England. No aliens, except prisoners of war, to be allowed to embark in the "Robert Burns." 122
- Names of persons captured in the ship "Lady Johnson" by the French privateer "Carnet." 124
- Barclay to Mason, 20th June. Has received notice that the President will not grant liberty to the agent and sub-agent to visit the depots for prisoners; were regular depots established much of the inconvenience of this would be remedied, but so long as prisoners are landed indiscriminately it will be for mutual advantage for both countries that they should be visited by the agent or sub-agent. How are British prisoners to be supplied with clothing in Massachusetts, Salem being the only depot there, and prisoners are carried into a great variety of posts, with no one to supply their wants, and consider themselves neglected by their King and country and either enter the American service or escape into the interior of the country. The same thing applies to other States with seaports. Six British prisoners were at Baltimore in extreme want, whom he was unable to assist. The necessity of having depots; the rules guiding nations in time of war respecting prisoners, &c.

Mason to Barclay, 12th June. That means are taken to prevent the escape of prisoners or from their entering the American service. 133

Barclay to Transport Office, 24th June. Has been unsuccessful in obtaining the release of persons who were in the United States on their private affairs prior to the declaration of war, held as prisoners, whom the President refuses to exchange and has had them removed from their respective residences; suggests that a similar measure should be taken with respect to American citizens in Great Britain and Ireland, so as to obtain an exchange. Recommends the release of W. DeLancy, taken prisoner in the schooner "Antelope," as he belongs to a most respectable family. 135

Barclay to Transport Office, 25th June. Respecting the leave given to Richardson to sail in the "Robert Burns." Shall only give a special passport so that no responsibility may attach to the Transport Office to allow American prisoners to return. The refusal may bring the United States Government to reason. 139

Passport granted to Richardson by Monroe, Secretary of State, for the "Robert Burns," 3rd June. 142

Barclay to Mason, 9th June. Requests leave for persons, not prisoners of war, to take passage in the "Robert Burns." 144

Mason to Barclay, June (12th according to Barclay). Rules laid down by the President for the government of agents and sub-agents of prisoners. Shall send list of prisoners asked for. He is at liberty to furnish the prisoners with the daily allowance. No general arrangement can be made for exchange of prisoners taken by French cruisers. Asks for a list of American prisoners. 145

Barclay to Transport Board, 19th July. Is not allowed to enter New York, so cannot see to the embarkation of prisoners by the "Robert Burns." Is afraid that those allowed to embark may be taken out after the ship has dropped down from New York; a comparison of the list of those landed with the list of those embarked will show how many have been taken out. Recommends Richardson going in the "Robert Burns," and that he be paid a shilling a ration for the men mustered at Liverpool arrived in the "Robert Burns." 151

Transport Board to Croker. Transmits letter from Barclay, with copy of cartel agreement and their Lordships' observations. 209

Office.

August 15,
Admiralty.

Croker to Goulburn. Sends copy of agreement for a cartel entered into between Barclay and Mason, with accompanying correspondence. 153

Enclosed. Transport Board to Croker, 14th July. Transmit copy of letter from Barclay, with copy of agreement for cartel, and of letters respecting the detention of certain British prisoners, which appears to be objectionable. Ask for consideration of the documents. 155

Barclay to Transport Board, 20th May. Transmits copy of the cartel, to be ratified by the American Secretary of State and by the Admiralty, the ratification of the latter to be transmitted to the United States Government, but that may be delayed until Sir George Prevost's opinion be known. He is sending off the British prisoners as fast as cartels arrive; as soon as he has lists and receipts for American prisoners delivered, he shall proceed to a general exchange. Has written to the agents in the West Indies, Halifax and Bermuda, and also to Sir George Prevost on the subject. Understands that there is a disagreement between Prevost and the United States Government on the subject of exchange. Will not, therefore, make military exchanges till he hears fully from Prevost; is he to keep them distinct or exchange them indiscriminately? Has not yet received lists from the United States Commissary; shall send copy when these are received. British subjects principally merchants, who were in the United States on the declaration of war and remained beyond the six months' leave given them to depart, have been ordered to remove from the sea ports, where they resided, to 40 miles from tide water, and reside there on parole; some wished to return to His Majesty's dominions, others to return to their former abodes. With the latter he did not wish to interfere during war, but he asked the delivery of the former as non-combatants. The President directed the Commissary for prisoners to cease correspondence with him (Barclay), who was to communicate anything he had to say to the Secretary of State. Sends copy of letter to and answer from the Secretary of State, by which it will be seen that they are not to be treated as prisoners of war, but kept for retaliatory measures, should these be decided on. Considers his right to interfere, denied by the United States Government, justified by the terms of the warrant of his appointment. Has returned to Monroe a general answer, and that he had submitted the correspondence for consideration. It is for His Majesty's Government to treat Americans in the same way as British subjects are treated in the United States. He (Barclay) is not allowed to come to within two miles of New York City, it being considered a military post; he is not otherwise restricted and the limitation will not be attended with inconvenience. Has exchanged the officers and men of the United States sloop "Viper" for those of the "Peacock," and some others, to make the exchange equal. Page 156

Copy of the cartel for the exchange of prisoners. 163

Barclay to Monroe, 8th May. Points out the extent of his powers in respect to all British subjects detained as prisoners in the United States. 187

Monroe to Barclay, 12th May. The British subjects referred to can neither be classed as non-combatants or prisoners of war and, therefore, do not fall within the scope of his (Barclay's) appointment. 191

Observations on the cartel for the exchange of prisoners of war. Each article of the cartel is considered separately. 194

Admiralty.

Barrow to Goulburn. Transmits letter from Admiral Griffiths, relating to the severities exercised on British subjects, prisoners in the United States. 110

Enclosed. Griffiths to Commissioners for transport, 1st September. Owing to the large number of prisoners sent to Halifax, the prisons are crowded beyond what is consistent with health or security, has, therefore, sent to England 100 of them in the hopes that it may deter American seamen from serving in privateers; it would also show the American Government that prisoners will no longer be released till regularly exchanged. British subjects taken in arms in Upper Canada sent by the "Melpomene." In return for the severities exercised by the United States on prisoners of war, has ordered two American prisoners to be confined in gaol for every British prisoner thus treated. Sends correspondence between Barclay, Warren and Mason. The insecure state of the prison at Melville Island; has ordered repairs. Should the exchange of prisoners cease the prison must be enlarged. 111

Barclay to Warren, 14th July. Discusses the treatment of the British prisoners in the United States and the contradictions by the officers of that Government to the statements that enlistments had been made among them. Details given by Kellett of the men enlisted, with their names and those of the gun boats in which they were; believes, if the statement of Gibbons and Kellett were reduced to writing, some of the seamen would depose in support of the statements. Respecting the situation of the two men of the United States ship "Vixen" and of the four British prisoners sent to gaol in retaliation. Calls attention to the habit the Americans have of shutting up British officers and men when British subjects are taken in their service or when Americans have misbehaved and are confined; instances given. Suggests that the American system be followed and that double the number of Americans should be put in prison for the British they confine, and to try, sentence and execute every British subject taken in the service of the enemy. A few examples would remedy the practice of entering the American service, which if allowed to spread would be the ruin of the navy. Had recommended that exchanges should only be made man for man and he was astonished to see the arrival of all the prisoners from Bermuda, released on parole, unsolicited by the American Government. Prisoners are of too much value for this and it is an inducement for them to re-enter the navy or privateers, knowing that after a few weeks confinement they would be released; common sailors pay no regard to paroles; the day after they land they again go on service. British prisoners sent to Halifax, leaving only a few at Charleston, Savannah and New Orleans, for whose departure he is now in treaty. 114

Barclay to Warren, 3rd August. Will do all in his power to obtain the release of the men of his (Warren's) ship and of the "Plantagenet" but he does not believe the United States Government will consent to them being delivered in the Chesapeake; they may be permitted to be sent to Halifax. So many of their prisoners have been returned without exchange that the United State Government believe they cannot be subsisted and are sure of their speedy return, so that they are indifferent about an exchange; hopes no more shall be sent without his

(Warren's) orders at his (Barclay's) request. A cartel has arrived at Boston in which he shall send every prisoner, the moment he gets Mason's consent, but it is no easy matter to get an answer from him. Sends duplicate of letter respecting men of the "Vixen," &c. Officers confined on account of the confinement of Nichols of the "Decatur" privateer "matters arrived at a fine pass if we are not permitted to punish Americans who are guilty of crimes and their States are allowed to exercise this right."

Barclay to Mason, 27th July. Respecting the imprisonment of Barss (Brass in previous letter) on account of Nichols of the "Decatur" sent for trial. Account of the crime with which he is charged. 123

Barclay to Talbot of the "Victorious." Lightbody is exchanged; his detention was justifiable. The imprisonment by the United States Government of four men for two of the "Vixen" is incapable of justification. Has done all in his power to have them released; if not successful recommends retaliation. 127

November 3,
Admiralty.

Croker to Goulburn. Transmits copies of letter and enclosures from Warren, that 220 seamen had been sent from Halifax to the Lakes. 130

Enclosed. Warren to Croker 24th September. Sends details of the 220 seamen forwarded from Halifax to the Lakes. Has received a private application from Prevost for 300 or 400 marines; seeing the impossibility of receiving reinforcements from Britain, has sent the second battalion of marines under Malcolm, with Beckwith as Quarter Master General, for the troops under Prevost; hopes they will arrive in time to be of service. 131

Beckwith to Warren, 20th September. The want of a Quarter Master owing to the severe wounds of Myers and death of Gray; asks permission to go with the expedition to join the commander of the forces in Canada. 133

November 3,

Barrow to Bunbury. Transmits copies of letter and enclosures respecting the forwarding of troops to England. 135

In consequence of a letter from Sherbrooke regarding the independent companies of foreigners, he has ordered a detachment of 70 officers and privates to be received on board the "Shannon" and 100 to go in the "Marlborough"; the rest will be sent by a future opportunity, as their services may be wanted. 136

Sherbrooke to Warren, 18th September. Did not wish to send away the independent companies of foreigners without consulting Prevost. As he does not want them and as they are not wanted at Bermuda, leaves them to his (Warren's) disposal. 137

Hauchett to Barrow. Enclosed in Croker to Goulburn, 11th November, which see.

November 6,

Croker to Goulburn. Transmits application from Capt. Hauchett to be remunerated for the conveyance of Beckwith. Hauchett was informed that Beckwith was to furnish his own mess and that no allowance could be made on his account. The Lords of the Admiralty regret that after the distinct communication to Beckwith, he should have allowed Hauchett to defray the expense which he knew should fall on himself. Asks whether anything can be done under the circumstances. 139

Enclosed. Hauchett to Barrow, 5th November. Asks to be reimbursed for his expense for providing for Beckwith and suite. 141

McGill to Brickwood, 9th November, 1812. He has been appointed to the Council; asks him (Brickwood) to take out the mandamus and pay the fees, but will only accept on condition that he has precedence of the members of Council, appointed since Prevost assumed the Governorship. 143

November 10,
Foreign office.

1813.

Enclosed. Barclay to Hamilton, 3rd September. All the regular American troops have been withdrawn from the garrison, &c., and sent to the lakes; 10,000 of the militia of New York State have been drawn out, a part of them to be employed in the garrisons; the rest to go to Canada. The attack will probably be made on three points, Lakes Champlain, Ontario and Erie; their best officers have been selected and great exertions will be made; fears Sir George will not be able to meet the three divisions, but will be compelled to fall back to defend Lower Canada. Lowermost Canada will be safe this year, but if the Americans are tolerable statesmen, they will raise a large army next spring. It is to be regretted that the military force in the Chesapeake was not sent to Canada. The unpopular Acts of the United States Government; they are prepared to go all lengths; the only chance of their preserving a majority being success in Canada. Page 145

November 10,
Admiralty,

Barrow to Bunbury. Transmits copies of dispatches from Warren and enclosures. 147

Enclosed. Warren to Croker, 14th October. On receipt of letter from Prevost, dispatched the 1st battalion of marines, with the marine artillery and marine rocket-ship. Loss of the flotilla under Barclay on Lake Erie; there was no lack of skill or gallantry on the part of British officers or men. Has disposed of all the military force under his command, except a part of the 102nd, which he would return to Bermuda. Shall station a division of ships under Griffith to continue the blockade of Boston and Rhode Island and protect the Bay of Fundy. Intends to employ Cockburn with a squadron attending the Chesapeake, Delaware and off New York. 148

Prevost to Warren, 26th September. Thanks him for the prompt supply of seamen. Regrets that letter of 24th June did not arrive in time to send the reinforcement earlier; had the reinforcement arrived some weeks earlier, it would have prevented the disaster on Lake Erie. Owing to the want of provisions, Barclay was obliged, with his squadron, very weakly manned and imperfectly armed, to sail in pursuit of the enemy, to open communication with Long Point where provisions were stored. After an action of three hours, nothing has been heard of Barclay's fleet for two days, so that Procter is afraid it has either been taken or destroyed. Owing to the loss, Procter will probably have to retire from Amherst Bay. Presses strongly for a reinforcement. 151

November 19,

December 10, War Office. Palmerston to Bathurst. Was the circular of 1802 respecting allowances to the Deputy Judge Advocate, communicated with instructions to Prevost, sent to any and what other foreign stations? Page 164
- December 15, Quebec. Bishop (Anglican) of Quebec, to Bathurst. Calls attention to the change in the terms of the warrant for the allowance to the Rev. M. Plessis, from "the Superintendent of the Romish Church in the Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada," to "the Rev. J. O. Plessis, Roman Catholic Bishop of Quebec, pursuant to a dispatch from the Earl of Bathurst, dated 2nd July, 1813." Is withheld by respect from making any comment on the policy of the measure. 170
- December 24, Liverpool. H. F. Wood to——. Sends copy of a letter to Vice-Admiral Thornborough, which he has reason to think was not delivered. Has learned that Warren has declared the ports of Sunbury and Darien under blockade, but Frederica, St. Simon's and St. Mary's are not included, so that clearances can be obtained from these ports, though the vessels from them come out of the same inlet as the other two. A strict examination required. 165
- Enclosed.* Wood to Thornborough (?) Calls attention to the fraud committed by neutral vessels carrying American produce from the Southern States. 166
- December 24, Treasury. Harrison to Goulburn. Transmits Prevost's requisition for stationery. 172
- December 27, Admiralty. Barrow to Goulburn. Transmits copies of letter and enclosure from Warren. 173
- Enclosed.* Warren to Croker. As he was leaving to join the squadron off Rhode Island, he received the application (enclosed) from Prevost for a reinforcement of seamen; this it is out of his power to grant. Has already spared 220 seamen and every seamen and artilleryman of the marine, military stores and rockets attached to the squadron; these have arrived and will probably contribute to the defence of the Canadian frontier. Trusts that 400 seamen and a sufficient number of marines may be sent as they are required by the first week in May, and that three ships and three brigs may be built in frame during the winter to be set up at Long Point on Lake Erie and Matchedash Bay on Lake Huron; guns, men, sails and rigging will be wanted for these vessels. 174
- Prevost to Warren, 13th November. Requisition for seamen for the Lakes, &c. 176
- (A note of vessels building at Kingston and Isle aux Noix is attached to the letter).
- December 28, Treasury. Harrison to Goulburn. Transmits requisition for goods to complete the supply of presents for the Indians. 179
- December 31, Croydon. Brickwood to the same. As the time for manufacturing articles to go by the first ships for Canada is too short, asks him to forward the demand to the Treasury with as little delay as possible. 180
- December 31, Westminster. Acheson to Bathurst. Submits extracts from a letter from the committee of trade in Lower Canada. 181
- Enclosed.* Extracts, dated 16th and 23rd October from a letter from the chairman of the committee of trade at Montreal and Quebec, urging that a strong reinforcement be sent out and for a rearrangement of the boundaries, &c. 182

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 121). The strength of the enemy reduced at Fort George and Niagara, and that frontier, to strengthen Wilkinson for the attack against Lower Canada; Drummond instructed to have the army under the immediate command of Riall ready to act with promptitude when required to take advantage of the weakness or neglect of the enemy. Sends report of the capture of Fort Niagara on the morning of 19th December and the flight of the enemy from Lewiston on the approach of the corps under Riall. His admiration of the arrangements of Drummond and the brilliant manner in which they were executed. After the dispersion of the enemy's force at Lewiston, Riall's brigade pressed forward to Black Rock and Buffalo, and on the march took possession of the mills and rope walk of General Porter, one of the principal contractors for the United States army; an officer and a few men killed and an officer and eleven men of the Americans taken prisoners, but not a British soldier suffered. Riall's advance impeded by the destruction of the bridge over the Tonawanto creek; hopes to be able to report his success as the enemy is in great consternation. It having been necessary to employ the Indians, Drummond has been enjoined to restrain them from all excess or cruelties. The enemy set an example in his retreat from Fort George by burning the town of Newark, which has produced calamitous consequences to himself, transferring the war to his own territory. Hopes retribution may not again be required. Cochran, who carries the dispatches, carries with him a stand of colours taken at the fort of Niagara. 9

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 20th December. Details of the attack on and capture of Fort Niagara, with 27 pieces of ordnance, 3,000 stand of arms, ammunition, blankets, clothing, several thousand pairs of shoes, &c., besides 14 officers and 330 others taken prisoners; eight respectable inhabitants who had been dragged in as prisoners were released, together with some Indians. The number of the enemy killed was 65 and only 12 wounded, showing how irresistible a weapon the bayonet is in the hands of British soldiers. The loss on the British side was only 5 killed and 3 wounded. Regrets the loss of Lieut. Nolan of the 100th regiment, killed. The good services of Murray, Hamilton and the officers, non-commissioned officers and soldiers, who so gallantly achieved this most daring and brilliant enterprise. The services of the militia. Capt. Norton, the Indian Chief, volunteered and accompanied the troops. Recommends Elliot of the 103rd, Dawson, Fawcett and Martin of the 100th, Generals Riall and Vincent, Harvey, Deputy Adjutant General and the officers of his personal staff. Forwards American colours taken on the occasion. 14

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 126.) The necessity for a reinforcement of troops to meet the increasing exertions of the enemy. Had understood that his command was to be extended by the addition of four regiments, but the correspondence does not show this. His experience is that troops sent from England, even when coming direct, never arrive in time to give a decided character to the campaign. In order to diminish the advantage of the enemy, he has determined to order the second battalion of the King's regiment to proceed overland from Fredericton to Quebec. Sherbrooke's last letter stated that the four companies of the 98th had not arrived at Halifax on the 1st of December. They cannot, therefore, be brought to Quebec until the St. Lawrence is practicable. The harassing effect of the long line for defence has compelled him to bring the troops to winter quarters, to give them a short rest, enable them to re-equip themselves and return to the state of discipline to maintain the high character they had attained. 94

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 129). Dispatch received relative to establishing a naval force on Lake Erie, and to make an effort for the destruction of that of the enemy; had already directed Drummond's attention to this subject. His exertions for the preservation of Michilimackinac, to maintain communication with the Western Indians. Provisions sent but had been unable to reach, so that the garrison must have suffered, but there are potatoes and horned cattle on the island, and fish may be obtained. Measures taken to send by the Ottawa and by Nottawasaga Bay, a reinforcement of troops and a supply of presents for the Indians, stores and provisions. From the importance of the island, has selected for the command, McDouall of the Glengarry Fencibles, who is now in Upper Canada making arrangements. A builder and shipwrights ordered from Kingston to construct gun boats for the conveyance of the reinforcement and supplies. Is happy to find these measures have anticipated the wishes of government and that the misfortunes to the squadron on Lake Erie may be retrieved. Harvey, Deputy Adjutant-General, has carried final instructions to Drummond.

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 21st January. Plan given in detail for the destruction of the enemy's fleet on Lake Erie. An expedition against Detroit and the fleet there is proposed as the means by which the end can be obtained. For the defence of the Niagara frontier, thinks 1,200 men would be enough. For the attack on Detroit, which he estimates does not contain more than 500 men, he thinks, a force of 1,750 should be sufficient, made up of—

Has made every exertion to secure naval superiority on Lake Ontario; sends statement of the naval force on Lakes Ontario and Champlain; is assured that the vessels building will be ready to launch as soon as the navigation opens. Prevost to Bathurst (No. 134). Sends copies of letter from Wilkinson and answer. 138

Enclosed. Wilkinson to Prevost, 28th January. Is directed by the Executive of the United States to disavow the conduct of Brigadier General McClure, of the Militia of the State of New York, in burning the town of Newark, and as a proof of this sends copy of the order under colour of which that officer perpetrated the deed abhorrent to every American feeling. The authority to destroy the village was limited to the defence of Fort George. Thinks retaliation has been carried too far; it is imputed more to personal feeling than to a settled policy. The American Government will not resort to the destruction of private property except in the last extremity. 139

The order enclosed, dated War Department, 4th October, 1813: "Understanding that the defence of the Post committed to your charge "may render it proper to destroy the town of Newark, you are hereby "directed to apprise its inhabitants of this circumstance, and to invite "them to move themselves and their effects to some place of greater "safety." Signed by John Armstrong. 141

Prevost to Wilkinson, 10th February. His satisfaction at the receipt of the disavowal by the Executive of the United States of the action of McClure in burning Newark. If any outrages have been committed beyond just retaliation, they must be attributed to the influence of irritated passions on the part of the sufferers, which in a state of active warfare it has been impossible to restrain. It is as little congenial to the disposition of His Majesty's Government as to that of the Government of the United States to adopt any policy for the devastation of private property. Refers to proclamation for his determination, which he is happy to learn that any measures on the part of the United States Government will not oblige him to depart from. 142

Prevost to Bathurst, (No. 138). Has received dispatches regarding emigration from Scotland to Upper Canada; transmits Drummond's letter on the subject.

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 19th February. In relation to the Scotch emigration his decided opinion is in favour of the introduction of so valuable a portion of subjects into a country too much inhabited by aliens from the United States, many of whom are avowedly disaffected. Besides the addition to the population the ranks of the militia will be filled by a brave and hardy race whose desertion would not be apprehended. The want of provisions is an obstacle, but he recommends that these people should have every assistance on their passage and for a fair length of time after their settlement. A large supply of provisions and felling axes should accompany them, requisite implements, scarlet militia clothing, shoes, &c. The lands for them must be taken from those unappropriated as those confiscated from the persons who have gone over to the enemy are to be appropriated for sufferers by the war.

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 139). The expedition for the destruction of the vessels on Lake Erie abandoned on account of the mildness of the season. Movements of troops reported by Drummond towards the Thames. The re-occupation of that part of Upper Canada must tend to diminish the scanty resources of Harrison, whilst it adds in a slight degree to those of the British army. Notwithstanding the prospect of relief he has not relaxed his efforts to forward stores and provisions for the army and navy. The necessity for many depots for the supply of the forces over so extended a line, but obstacles have arisen from want of specie; a paper currency has proved an indifferent substitute, in consequence of the prejudice of Canadians, the frequent attempts of the enemy to imitate it and the introduction of forged army bills into the province by Wilkinson's army. The difficulty of obtaining supplies for the force; the proneness to desertion, in spite of capital punishment and the pains taken by the officers to make the men contented. The corps last sent out brought a very bad description of men; the 103rd comes under this description, having lost 51 men by desertion when in the enemy's country; the consequent apprehension that would attend carrying on offensive operations in the territory of the United States with a force numerically inferior to that of the enemy. Page 172

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 140). Wilkinson's army which on the 9th February, was on the frontier of Lower Canada, at the French mills on the Salmon river near St. Regis and at the Four Corners, retreated between the 12th and 16th February, after partially burning their block houses and barracks and destroying their river craft and bateaux, several hundreds of which had been frozen up, but removing the ordnance, part of their provisions and stores; two regiments have proceeded to Sackett's Harbour, the rest have gone to Burlington and Plattsburg, where Wilkinson has taken up his headquarters. At Burlington the United States force amounted to 4,000 men and at Plattsburg to about 5,000. The frontier troops were withdrawn by order of the United States Government owing to the difficulty and expense in supplying the troops with provisions and from their daily decrease from sickness and desertion. Expedition by Colonel Scott, of the 103rd, from Coteau du Lac and Cornwall over the ice to Salmon River, where it attacked the rearguard of the enemy, which made a precipitate retreat, about 100 sleigh loads of provisions and stores were captured and the destruction of the block houses, barracks and boats completed. Scott advanced to Malone and Madrid and within a few miles of Plattsburg and returned by the Four Corners to his post at the Coteau du Lac; 90 men were lost by desertion on the expedition. The intention of the United States government is to secure naval superiority on Lakes Ontario and Champlain; no exertion shall be wanting to frustrate this design. Has ordered a third ship of a large class to be laid down at Kingston, which is to be ready for launching by the middle of July, without interfering with the two ships to be launched when the ice permits. Requisition has been made on Halifax for the equipment of the vessels with guns and carronades. Arrival of 200 picked seamen from New Brunswick, who are now on their way to Kingston, the second battalion of the King's regiment from Fredericton has also arrived. The New Brunswick Fencibles are increasing, there being 300 men now at headquarters and nearly 100 recruits in Canada. Arrangements made to maintain Michilimakinak; a small establishment for constructing gunboats and bateaux is made on the Nottawasaga. Owing to the earlier opening than usual of Lake Huron, McDouall must be satisfied with 25 bateaux which, besides the artillery and two companies of the Royal Newfoundland regiment, will enable him to take five months' provisions and about half of the ammunition and ordnance stores proposed. Bullock, of the 41st regiment, commanding at Makinak, represents the distress of the garrison from want of food. The enemy are no doubt aware of the defenceless state of Makinak and of the advantage of an early attack; he is endeavouring to have the reinforcements and supplies there before them, as with the loss of the island the fur trade would expire. 177

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 148.) The session of the Provincial Parliament closed; sends copy of speech made by the Speaker on delivering the Army Bill Act, with a list of the Acts assented to. The amendments to the Army Bill Act will relieve the service from difficulties; to show the relief, sends copy of the last return from the director of the Army bill office of the bills then in circulation. The scarcity of silver and gold, but even the small quantity has been of service; hopes to receive a supply either from Halifax or the United States. No new Act of importance has been passed except the Army Bill Act; the amendments to the militia law were lost by a disagreement between the Council and Assembly. Revenue bills and other productive bills have been lost, by the Assembly having annexed exceptionable appropriations in which they knew the Council would not concur. Respecting the proceedings relative to the impeachment of Sewell and Monk; he attributes much of the opposition to those judges to the personal animosity of Stuart. By his influence and that of leading Canadians the resolutions were carried by a small majority, with only about half the members present. The address from the Executive Council and puisne judges will show the opinion entertained of the proceedings by the highest authority. Since his (Prevost's) arrival he has heard nothing till now against the character of the judges impeached. As the opinion of the Council was against the suspension, an opinion in which he agreed, he had no hesitation in addressing the Assembly in a speech of which he sends copy, which was followed by a violent and intemperate discussion, and a resolution was passed distinguishing between him and those called "evil disposed advisers." Appropriation of £2,000 to defray the expense of an agent to prosecute the impeachment, was one of those annexed to the revenue bill which caused its rejection. Stuart, it is understood, intends to proceed to England to support the articles of impeachment and, it is said, some of the party have subscribed money to pay his expenses. The Chief Justices have been furnished with copies of the impeachment and Sewell has obtained leave of absence to go to England for the defence should he be called on; he will embark by the first opportunity. Address prepared by the Assembly to the Prince Regent, which he has been asked to forward and to advance a sum for the expenses of the messenger, not to exceed £1,000 currency which the House will make good. Sent a written answer; copies transmitted and also furnished to the Council, which was refused access to the journals of the Assembly. Sends copy of the resolutions passed by the Council, the last of which must have arisen from a misapprehension by the Council of his intentions as he did not mean even to take into consideration the appointment by the Assembly to present the address to the Prince Regent. The appropriation of £1,000 was one of the causes of the rejection by the Council of the revenue bill and the Assembly in consequence of the rejection did not think proper to present the address, that it might be transmitted. The intemperate spirit manifested and the constant disagreements between the Council and Assembly have made him happy to recur to the sense of the people for the new representatives. The provincial Parliament will be dissolved by proclamation on the 31st and the writs made returnable on the 13th May. From the ineffectual opposition made by the English members in the last and preceding sessions few, if any, of them will be induced to offer again as candidates, so that nearly the whole of the next representation will be Canadian. Notwithstanding the measures of the late Assembly, he has no reason to distrust their loyalty. Many of them regret the loss of the revenue bill, and he hopes the next Assembly will make good the grants and give him their cordial support. Page 264

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 142). Had reported his permitting Winder to proceed to Washington and the reasons; he has returned to Quebec and is now in confinement as a hostage; encloses copies of letters received from Winder the day after his arrival. The negotiations for peace lead him to prevent a further effusion of blood; by acceding to an armistice he would preserve the Canadas during the negotiation; transmits copy of correspondence on the subject. Winder has not succeeded in his object of inducing the United States Government to relinquish the retaliatory system. Symptoms that a change is taking place in the disposition of the United States Government. 198

Enclosed. Monroe to Winder, 1st March, 1814. Sends extract from a letter from Elish J. Winter respecting the opinions of Adjutant General Baynes on the subject of an armistice, which he may show to Prevost. 202

Extract, dated House of Representatives, 7th February to Monroe, respecting the armistice. 203

Prevost to Winder, 22nd March. The conversation with Baynes, reported by Winter, was private and unauthorized, but he is inclined to give effect to the suggestion for a convention for an armistice to avoid the unnecessary effusion of blood and to meet the proposal of the Secretary of State will direct the Adjutant General to proceed to the headquarters of the United States army on Lake Champlain or elsewhere to arrange details, but the United States officers must possess the full powers which will be vested in Adjutant General Baynes, otherwise he may make proposals of a positive nature subject to approval by the Executive of the United States. 204

Winder to Monroe, 22nd March. Had shown to Prevost Winter's letter and sent him copies. To-day received His Excellency's letter, copy of which is enclosed. Is satisfied of his sincerity and that the favourable views of the United States will be met with corresponding sentiments. Had desired to know whether His Excellency could make an armistice extending to naval operations on the ocean, so that persons appointed by the United States might be clothed with corresponding powers. Will say nothing on the latter part of the letter, as he is too much interested in the question of prisoners of war and hostages not to be convinced (the word convinced is written correct in the letter) that the agent for the United States should be clothed with the most liberal powers. 207

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 143). The enemy concentrated a considerable force at Plattsburg. Wilkinson advanced to Chazy on the 19th and detached McCombe with a force in sleighs across the ice to Isle LaMothe and thence to Swanton. On the 22nd the corps took possession of Phillipsburg; Beckwith was sent against them with a force previously collected at St. John's and vicinity. He (Prevost) then left Quebec and on the road learned that the enemy had retired precipitately from Phillipsburg to join the main body near Champlain-town. On the 30th the enemy entered Odle Town (Odelltown) with three brigades under Smith, Bisset and McCombe, with cannon, etc., drove in the piquets on the road leading from Odelltown to Burtonville, which latter they attacked but were so well received that they did not persevere. The advanced brigades were directed upon the post at La Cole (Lacolle) for the result of which refers to report from Williams. In consequence of the sudden rise of water the enemy had difficulty in withdrawing their cannon and it is almost impossible for either party to make a movement. The troops brought forward to support those at Burtonville and Lacolle were obliged to wade through mud and water up to their knees; only the Indians could follow the retreating enemy. The loss of the American army exceeded 300; many of their officers its is stated, suffered on this occasion. 213 grants of land to the Glengarry Fencibles and Canadian Voltigeurs.

Had no intention in recommending the grants from the Crown reserve in the township of Sherrington for these men to receive a more valuable allotment than had been given to men serving in the army. The land had not been reserved owing to any superiority, but is of the same quality as the lands adjoining. His chief object in proposing to settle the men there was for the purpose of defence, the lands being near the lines and the men having served, and he desired to bring together as many hardy and useful settlers as possible within a small compass. Trusts the explanation may induce His Lordship to recommend that his proposal be granted. 326

due appreciation of the small and gallant band placed under his command by which the provinces have been defended. 329

Montreal. Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 154.) Sends copy of convention between the American Government and himself for a general exchange of prisoners, with the exception of 23 British soldiers put into close confinement as hostages by the United States and of the 46 American officers and non-commissioned officers closely confined in retaliation for the confinement of these men. Refers His Lordship to copies of letters transmitted by Monroe for information as to the beginning and progress of the negotiations and copies also of those by Baynes, adjutant general of the forces. In conformity to the convention nearly all the American prisoners have been forwarded to the lines and he is in daily expectation of receiving his own troops by the same route. 332
- Enclosed. Baynes to Prevost, 16th April. Reports, with remarks, the convention for the exchange of prisoners. 334

The original is among the Archives, series C., vol. 692 p. 222. A supplementary convention dated 16th July, is in the same volume 223, signed by Tobias Lear and Baynes; the latter was enclosed in a letter from Prevost to Bathurst, 18th July, the duplicate will be found in series Q. vol. 128, p. 671.

Monroe to Prevost. 19th March. As Barclay can conclude no arrangement respecting prisoners without reference to him (Prevost) believes it best to open direct communication. Winder is authorized to enter into an arrangement for the exchange of prisoners, including hostages. Proposes that before Winder enter on the negotiation he be declared exchanged; and a British officer of equal rank shall be exchanged for him. Four officers have been paroled for three months in return for the indulgence shown to Winder. If any of these officers be designated for exchange they may be retained. Sends sealed packet for Winder, containing his instructions and powers and containing nothing except in relation to the exchange. Should Winder be given authority to negotiate, the packet to be sent him, otherwise to be returned. 353

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 155). Had in consequence of a letter from Munroe (Monroe) American Secretary of State, directed Baynes to meet the officers appointed by the American Government to treat for an armistice; transmits copy of his report with other papers. No answer has since been received from the United States Government and measures for the prosecution of the war are pursuing with the same vigour as if there had been no proposal. 360

Enclosed. Prevost to Baynes, 29th April. In the belief that the negotiations at Gottenburg will lead to an adjustment of the difficulties between the two countries and not merely for a temporary cessation of hostilities, has, in conformity with the principles of the British Government, not the aggressor in the war, resolved on his (Baynes) proceeding to the village of Champlain to discuss the arrangements for an armistice with the officers appointed by the United States. 362

Baynes to Prevost, 1st May. He has met Pinkney instead of Winder; Pinkney has no authority to agree to an armistice except for a cessation of hostilities to be cancelled by either party on giving twenty days notice, a condition that cannot be acceded to according to his (Baynes') instructions. 364

Monroe to Pinkney, 11th April, authorises him to treat for an armistice. 366

Baynes to Prevost, 3rd May. Reports having met Pinkney, who had been substituted for Winder. Pinkney had no definite knowledge of the views of the United States Government and would therefore, confine himself to the letter of the instructions he had received. His objection to the terms proposed by Prevost, he urged, might not be considered a breaking off in the negotiations, as he felt confident that Winder would still be sent. Believes nothing more could be done for the present and had returned to headquarters. Judge Moore at Champlain stated that the proposal for an armistice had not proceeded from any report he had made of a conversation on that subject with him (Baynes). He had mentioned in a letter the liberal spirit shown respecting the exchange of prisoners and that he had no doubt that he (Prevost) would feel inclined to renew the armistice so improvidently rejected by the President, but that it could not be expected that any overture for an armistice would again originate with Prevost. 367

Pinkney to Baynes. 1st May. He is instructed by the Secretary of State to enter into an arrangement for an armistice and although he cannot say a conciliation would follow as a matter of course, yet he has no doubt the President sincerely desires the negotiations at Gottenburg may result in an honourable adjustment of differences. Page 371

Baynes to Pinkney, 1st May. The proposal in the first paragraph of his (Pinkney's) instructions corresponds with that from Prevost, and although a conciliation may not follow as a matter of course, the rupture of the negotiations at Gottenberg should be the sole ground for dissolving the armistice. 372

(For General Drummond's opinion of the motives for the proposed armistice, see Archives, series C. vol. 683 p. 1 and of Commodore Yeo's in the same volume, p. 19.)

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 156). Since the 31st March, the enemy has gradually withdrawn its force from the frontiers of Lower Canada, having placed garrisons at Plattsburg, Burlington and Vergennes, and has marched either to reinforce Sackett's Harbour, or to add to the army at Batavia forming to menace Riall's position on the Niagara frontier. McDouall has had 30 large bateaux built at Nottawasaga and has begun his descent to Lake Huron with provisions, ordnance, troops, &c., for Michilimakinak; so far as he can learn the enemy has made no preparations on Lake Huron or that a force has been pushed across Lake St. Clair or up the St. Clair River, to intercept the reinforcement for Michilimakinak or the supplies sent by the Ottawa River; hopes that McDouall has reached his destination before this and placed the post out of danger. The two new ships built at Kingston were launched on the 14th April and completely equipped, armed and manned. Had, therefore, determined to destroy the depots of provisions, naval stores and ordnance formed at Oswego for transport to Sackett's Harbour; transmits Drummond's report of the success of that expedition. The object being to cripple the enemy's resources for fitting out the fleets, had determined to do the same on Lake Champlain and instructed Pring to that effect, but he abandoned the attempt and returned to Isle aux Noix. The alarm caused by the appearance of the fleet. Prisoners report that two vessels would be ready for the lake in eight or ten days. A ship building at Isle aux Noix will make the fleet equal to that of the enemy. 374

Same to the same (No. 162). Reports the unfortunate result of an attack on the enemy's flotilla on Lake Ontario. Refers for details to Popham's letter to Yeo. The undertaking was entered upon contrary to Yeo's repeated warnings. Before this time, the loss will have been repaired by the arrival at Kingston of the first division of the officers and seamen lately landed; the second and third divisions have also passed on their way to Lake Ontario. Even with this reinforcement between 300 and 400 men are still wanted. Riall reports all quiet on the Niagara frontier; having no report of McDouall's proceedings since he left, believes he reached Michilimakinac safely and is fully prepared to defend it. 405

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 168). Reports the arrival at Michilimakinak of McDouall with the reinforcement of troops and seamen, the stores and provisions. The difficulties from the ice, gales, &c., could only have been surmounted by the zeal and abilities of the officers commanding. The hardships were enough to discourage the boldest, but all the boats arrived except one, whose lading was saved. Measures taken by McDouall to strengthen the defences. The works had assumed so formidable an appearance that he is under no apprehension from any attack that could be made. Nearly 200 Western Indians arrived at the fort under Dickson, a warlike race on whom reliance can be placed. The attempts of the United States on the Indians would have been successful but for the resolute conduct of Dickson and the seasonable arrival and distribution of presents. Other causes of their fidelity and the necessity of attending to their interests in any negotiations for a peace, otherwise they will become rancorous enemies. Transmits speeches at the Council held with the Indians at Michilimakinak. The importance of the island and fort of Michilimakinak, from its geographical position, &c., owing to the influence exercised by them over the Indians. How supplies shall be forwarded. 7

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 169.) Shortly after the disaster at Sandy Creek, Yeo relinquished the blockade of Sackett's Harbour and Oswego and did not deem it prudent to resume it after the arrival of officers and seamen from England; the enemy has thus uninterrupted communication with their ports on Lake Ontario, which facilitates the armament and equipment of additional vessels, which will place the superiority on the Lake in the hands of the Americans, until the month of September, when a new ship building at Kingston will be ready. The difficulty of transporting the necessary material, &c., renders it impossible to send forward the frames by any other means than those now in operation. The guns, etc., are anxiously looked for. Hopes on the arrival of the "Centaur" to be able to supply the new ships with thirty 32 pounders.

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 170). Dispatches received. Arrival of the 6th and 82nd regiments at Montreal; will push them forward with the 90th to Upper Canada. The Nova Scotia fencibles and the right wing of the 4th battalion of the Royals have also arrived, but not the left wing. Had the reinforcements arrived a month or six weeks earlier, when the squadron had command of Lake Ontario could have protected Upper Canada and prevented the advance of the enemy. Availing themselves of the weakness on the Niagara frontier, the enemy crossed at Fort Erie on the 20th with 6,000 men and compelled the garrison there of 120 men to surrender. Riall made an attack with 1,500 men, but from the disproportion of force, he was compelled to fall back on Chippawa with a severe loss. Sends general order with the only particulars he has, Riall's official report not being yet received. Trusts that the reinforcements he has sent will check the enemy's advance, until the arrival of the troops he is sending from Montreal will enable the Major-General again to act on the offensive, but so long as the enemy has the naval ascendancy that officer's talents will be exposed to a severe trial. As soon as the whole force arrives the secret instructions shall be obeyed, but until the complete command of Lakes Ontario and Champlain shall be obtained, he must confine himself to defensive measures; this cannot be expected before September. Transmits sketch of the Niagara frontier, with the last secret intelligence of the enemy's preparations near it and at Sackett's Harbour.

Prevost to Bathurst (175). Had informed his Lordship of the convention for the exchange of prisoners and sent copy of the agreement. He (Prevost) had at once executed the convention. Owing to the delay on the part of the United States a correspondence took place, and the President proposed a meeting to settle the objections. A definitive ratification was the result, with a supplementary article for the mutual release of the hostages. Sends copy of the ratification; having been assumed by Lear, the American negotiator, that orders will be immediately issued for the release of all prisoners not already sent to Canada or Halifax, he shall release the 46 hostages when these orders shall be complied with. 64

His influence over Milnes; his strong prejudices do away with the good effect of his local knowledge, especially against the Roman Catholic religion and its ministers. By his (Prevost's) liberality to the Catholic clergy he had strengthened their loyalty and zeal, for which he had incurred disgrace in the opinion of the Anglican Bishop. The talents of Young would have secured him the appointment of director to the Army Bill office, but for the representation of the merchants. Sends copy of letter respecting an address to be presented by Young, prepared by the Anglican Bishop of Quebec. 75

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 180). Had reported the arrival of the right-wing of the 4th battalion Royal Scots, the left wing has now arrived, having left the "Leopard" at Anticosti, where she is a total wreck; the troops and crew, with the greater proportion of the baggage, were saved. The 97th from Ireland has also arrived; the "Warspite" and "Ajax" are in the St. Lawrence with Powers' brigade from Bordeaux, consisting of the 3rd, 5th, 1-27th and 1-58th, and a brigade of artillery; three of the transports have reached Quebec, but owing to the prevalence of westerly wind, it will probably be the 20th August before the whole brigade can reach Montreal. Since his dispatch of the 13th (No. 172) nothing extraordinary is reported from Upper Canada; Riall with his remaining troops had retired to Fort George after the action of the 5th; having placed a sufficient force for its defence and a force in Forts Missisauga and Niagara, he proceeded to Twenty Mile Creek with 900 men, where he was joined by 600 from Burlington, under Col. Scott and some small reinforcements of Militia and Indians. The enemy were occupying Queenston Heights on the 17th. On the 15th the enemy was repulsed in an attack in force on Fort George. Drummond has been ordered from Kingston with reinforcements. The united force would then amount to—rank and file. These should be sufficient for offensive operations. Hopes to report a favourable result. 105

(By none of the returns is it possible to ascertain the exact number, so as to fill up the blank in the letter. In Prevost's secret letter to Drummond of 25th July the regiments are given but not the numbers.)

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 181). McDouall reports from Michilimakinak that the U. S. General Clarke had ascended the Mississippi and occupied Prairie des Chiens with a view to crush the South-west fur trade and to impose restraint on the Indians. The Winebago chief, Tête de Chien, has asked for help to expel the invaders; his high qualities. Aware of the bad effects of allowing the Americans to remain, McDouall has entered heartily into the views of the enlightened warrior. McKay sent in command of an expedition. McKay's force consisted of the Prevost to Bathurst (No. 182). Sends copy of secret despatch addressed to Drummond with suggestions for plan of operations in Upper Canada. Page 112

Enclosed: Prevost to Drummond, 25th July. His letter of 20th received, with four letters from Riall, Tucker and Evans. Suggests that on the arrival of reinforcements, troops should be detached to Lewiston to cut off the enemy's retreat by that route. The sooner he (Drummond) attacks the communication by which the enemy obtains supplies, the easier will be his task. Is in hopes Brown's army will not escape without retribution for the evils it has inflicted. Not to lose sight of the main object, the destruction of Sackett's Harbour. 113

August 5,
Montreal.

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 183). Having learned of the crossing the Niagara by the enemy and the reinforcements, he pushed forward the troops from Lower Canada not immediately required to oppose Izard on the Richelieu frontier to reinforce the right division, to which Drummond had repaired before his (Prevost's) wishes on that subject were known. Transmits accounts of the meritorious conduct of the Generals and troops on the 25th of last month, to which solicits the Prince Regent's consideration. Arrival of Couran with a wing of DeWattville's regiment on the 29th, the remainder of that corps with the 6th and 82nd regiments were fast approaching York. The ships "York" and "Vengeur" are in the river and the transports with troops from France are arriving at Quebec. 116

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 27th July. Left York on the 24th and arrived at Niagara next morning. Troops pushed forward to meet the enemy posted at Street's Creek. A force under Tucker to dislodge the enemy at Lewiston, but the American troops had retreated before his arrival. The 41st and 100th sent back to form the garrisons of Forts George, Missisauga and Niagara. He (Drummond) advanced with 800 men to join Riall's force at the Falls. On a report that the enemy was advancing in force, he pushed on and joined Morrison's column as it reached the road leading to the Beaver dam over the summit of the hill at Lundy's lane which he found occupied by the enemy, and the woods filled with light troops. The advance of Riall's division having begun the retreat upon Fort George, he countermarched them and formed other troops in rear of the hill, with two 24 pounder brass guns a little advanced of the centre; the Glengarry Light Infantry on the right of the incorporated militia and the detachment of the King's regiment on the left of the great road. The whole front was almost immediately closely engaged and the enemy obtained temporary possession of the road during which time Riall was wounded and made prisoner. Incidents of the battle during the darkness. Two of the enemy's guns captured, but one of his taken by mistake so that only one gun has been gained. Shortly after nine o'clock the enemy renewed the attack, but was everywhere repulsed. The enemy's attempt to carry the hill was continued till midnight, but he suffered so severely that he retreated with great precipitation to his camp beyond the Chippawa; this he abandoned next day, throwing the greater part of his baggage, camp equipage and provisions into the rapids, burning Street's mill and destroying the bridge at Chippawa; he then retreated in great disorder, followed by light troops in pursuit. The enemy's loss cannot be estimated at less than 1,500 men, including several hundred prisoners. Generals Brown and Scott are reported to have been wounded; his whole force was engaged, never rated at less than 5,000 men; his

(Drummond's) force for three hours did not exceed 1,600, the reinforcements under Scott did not increase it to more than 2,800 of every description. Calls attention at some length to the good conduct of the officers and troops, whose services he particularises. Page 119

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 184). Has just learned that Chauncey's Squadron was coming out of Sackett's harbour, probably to proceed to Niagara to co-operate with Brown, but will arrive too late to be of service to the American army there. It is perhaps intended to take on board troops for Sackett's Harbour, to be reinforced there and to attempt to cut off the communication between the two Provinces. The transports with troops from Bordeaux are approaching Quebec; arrangements have been made to push the troops forward without delay, but it will be impossible to collect all the troops in the neighbourhood of Montreal before the end of the month (August). This is of less consequence as the fleet cannot be ready to co-operate before the 15th of next month. Vermont having shown a disinclination to the war and as it is sending in specie and provisions he will confine offensive operations to the west side of Lake Champlain. 137

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 186). Express from Sault Ste. Marie reports the destruction of the establishment on 23rd July by a fleet of gun boats proceeding to attack Makinak. Severe firing heard on the 24th and 25th in that direction, but Makinak was not considered to be in danger. A large fire seen was supposed to be from the burning of the village below the fort. The North-west Company's canoes with furs returned to Fort William, on hearing of the enemy being on Lake Huron. Canoes sent by the Ottawa with provisions were met within four days paddling of Makinak; they retired to a place of safety till the result of the engagement could be known. Sends copy of letter written by McDouall a few days before the attack on his post. 145

Enclosed. McDouall to Prevost, 20th July. His anxieties from the scarcity of provisions, aggravated by the influx of Indians from various quarters; explains the causes of the demand for provisions and for Indian stores, &c. The judicious manner in which he and Dickson have distributed the presents to the satisfaction of the Indians. Trusts Drummond may be enabled to supply provisions to last till June next, to provide against being blockaded. Indians reported an attack is meditated for next month; the works are now very formidable, but the enemy may be induced to attack from the garrison being weakened on account of the expedition to Prairie des Chiens. 148

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 187). The enemy's squadron left Sackett's Harbour on the 4th with reinforcements for Brown's army, which were landed on the 6th below Fort Niagara. The fleet is now blockading Kingston. The command of the lake enables the enemy to perform in two days what it takes troops from Kingston 16 to 20 days of severe marching; their men arrive fresh, the others fatigued and with an exhausted equipment; the distance to the Niagara frontier exceeds 250 miles, part of the way being impracticable for the conveyance of supplies. The right division has been placed beyond the fear of material want before Yeo takes the Lake with his augmented fleet. The difficulties in the way whilst Kingston is blockaded. Had returned from an inspection of the frontier posts; he was accompanied to Isle aux Noix by Admiral Otway and Lord James O'Brien, whom he desired to impress with the importance of supplying the flotilla on Lake Champlain with seamen and stores from their ships. The new ship cannot be ready before the 15th of next month; the troops from Bordeaux will have reached their points of formation by the 25th of this month except Kempt's brigade destined for Kingston. The correspondence with Drummond will show the state of affairs on the Niagara frontier. Couran disabled by a fall; another Major-General shall be sent to take his place.

Drummond to Prevost, 4th August, Camp before Fort Erie. Sends report of Tuckers's expedition against Buffalo and Black Rock. In consequence of this movement the enemy has strengthened Black Rock, so that the next attempt must be made in considerable force. Description of the works at Fort Erie of which he had obtained a good reconnaissance. Has determined not to assault till he has proper battering guns which he has sent for; with these and what he has, believes he can compel the enemy to surrender or make a sortie which can only terminate in his defeat. Should an opportunity offer to attack the fort in any other manner he shall avail himself of it. Has sent off a party to reconnoitre; should the report be favourable he may attack on two points on the arrival of the right wing of DeWatteville's regiment. Capt. Dobbs, R.N., is here with 30 seamen; his services.

Prevost to Drummond, 13th August. Had anticipated the suggestion respecting Kingston. His pain and mortification at the conduct of the troops under Tucker. From the exertions made by the enemy for the defence of the position chosen, commends his caution in preparing measures for an attack; hopes the fire of his batteries will have all the effect expected. The return of Chauncy to Sackett's Harbour leads him to hope that the 6th and 82nd will have no difficulty in joining him (Drummond). With such a reinforcement he will be competent to resist any attack.

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 190). Launch of the "Confiance" at Isle aux Noix; she is to mount thirty long 24 pounders and may be ready to take the lake on the 15th of September, but the United States have built a similar vessel at Vergennes, thus retaining the naval superiority on Lake Champlain and cramping the movements of the land forces into the State of New York. Cannot tell exactly when the first rate will be launched, at Kingston, but it will not probably be before the middle of September. The most pressing service of the fleet, when ready, is to convey troops and provisions to York and the Niagara frontier, before the navigation closes and to bring to Kingston the exhausted troops, sick, &c. In letter from Drummond respecting supplies, it will be seen there is cause for anxiety. The resources of the Upper Province being exhausted a large supply must be thrown in before navigation closes. Two-thirds of the army are supplied with beef by American contractors, principally of Vermont and New York, so that Congress may take steps to stop this. Encloses report from the Commissary General, showing the difficulties of obtaining supplies. 183

Prevost to Bathurst (private). Does not apprehend the evil consequences anticipated from the divisions between the two houses of the legislature; the loyalty of the House of Assembly; the difference with the Council arising, upon points of privilege and of a personal nature and not from a desire on the part of the Assembly, to embarrass Government. It was only by conciliating the Canadian interest he could hope to carry his measures and had therefore given his attention to cultivate the good will of this class; his success; the charges against these members may be true as regards a few, though he doubts it, but are unfounded as respects the majority, whose loyalty is proof against seduction. The quarrel between the two houses may, if continued, materially impede the public service. To add to the present Council is necessary and he will be prepared to submit the names of several who will give it more weight. To make the office hereditary would only excite more jealousy. 208

burg; as it advanced the American Army abandoned its entrenched camp on the Chazy, which he seized and occupied on the 3rd, and next day advanced the left division to the village of Chazy, without opposition. On the 5th it halted within eight miles of Plattsburg to which it advanced next day in two columns, the right led by Power's brigade, the left by Brisbane's. Retreat of the enemy; capture of Plattsburg; leaving only the gun boats. The defences of the enemy on the south branch of the Saranac, with a flotilla at anchor out of gun shot from the shore. The co-operation of Downie, recently appointed to command the fleet, was asked for and batteries erected. The flotilla seen steering for Plattsburg on the morning of the 11th, when a force under Robinson was ordered to advance on the enemy's works and to force the ford of the Saranac. Kingston. Prevost to Bathurst (No. 199). The blockade of Kingston discontinued; the want of provisions caused by the vigilance of the cruisers. The large ship "St. Lawrence" will, it is expected, be ready to take the Lake on the 15th or 16th, the squadron will then proceed to Niagara with a small proportion of the supplies. Yeo declines to take reinforcements as he may be brought to action by Chauncey, but when he has ascertained that the United States fleet is in Sackett's Harbour for the winter, he will be disposed to take an extensive supply for the Niagara frontier and to remove the sick and disabled thence, and from Burlington and York, provided a change of weather does not make the navigation hazardous. He (Prevost) has, in consequence of this risk, ordered the 90th regiment by land to York. It is too late now to attempt the reduction of Sackett's Harbour, as the naval ascendancy lately acquired can be made no otherwise useful than in relieving the wants of the troops on Niagara frontier and at York, and Sackett's Harbour being now a place that can offer considerable resistance, exertions must be made during winter for the construction of gun and mortar boats and craft for the conveyance of a large body of troops, and he has so arranged with the Commodore. During the occupation of Fort Erie by the enemy it would not be prudent to form a naval establishment on Lake Erie, nor expand the force while provisions continue to be scarce in Upper Canada. The equipment and armament of the "St. Lawrence" having engaged the transport, the supply of provisions at Kingston is not sufficient for the two divisions during the winter, he has called on Lower Canadians to continue their zealous exertions in bateaux for a few more weeks. It has been decided to establish a military post and naval dockyard in the neighbourhood of Matchedash Bay to secure the naval supremacy on Lake Huron. "The only course practicable for the conveyance of the stores and other requisites of vessels in that unfrequented country is from York to the shore of Lake Simcoe, and from thence across that sheet of water to Matchedash River, descending it and passing through a wilderness for about forty miles until you come to Lake Huron. No transport can be attempted until Lake Simcoe is sufficiently frozen to admit of burthens upon it." Has called Drummond's attention to this important object. Page 303

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 6th October. Reports that the enemy has formed a strong encampment opposite Queenston; probabilities of an attack, which must be made quickly if at all. His arrangements. If the enemy attacks Fort Niagara he will find its recapture not to be easily effected. Scarcity of provisions. 308

Prevost to Drummond, 11th October. Regrets the inconvenience he encounters from want of provisions; is making every exertion to remove his apprehension. The "St. Lawrence" will be ready in two or three days, and with the rest of the squadron will sail for Niagara with the first fair wind. Sends return of the supplies he may expect; in addition to these supplies the squadron has six weeks' provisions. The enemy's fleet has disappeared; the "Montreal" has gone on a reconnaissance; on the result of this the commodore will conclude his arrangements; the 90th is held in readiness to embark or to proceed by land as circumstances may direct. Should the enemy's squadron remain in Sackett's Harbour, Yeo intends to order three vessels from the head of the Lake to transport reinforcements and supplies. 311

Prevost to Drummond, 11th October. The secret intelligence sent by Kempt had prepared him (Drummond) for Izard's movements; his preparations are judicious. Is inclined to believe the movement is for the relief of the militia and not for offensive measures at so unpromising a time of the year. Believes the reinforcements to be intended to hold Fort Erie as a set off to Fort Niagara, not to be submitted to quietly. Nothing shall be left undone to remove his alarm on account of provisions. 314

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 200). The reinforcements to Buffalo and Lake Erie placed Drummond with his scanty resources and reduced force in a critical position. Owing to the impracticable state of the roads for the movement of men and provisions, he can only hope for relief from Yeo's exertions. Chauncey's fleet in Sackett's Harbour to await the result of the superiority his (Prevost's) force had obtained on the Lake and to assist in defence of the place; Yeo had consented with reluctance to take on board the 90th with stores, etc., for Niagara and has promised to return as soon as possible with the sick and disabled of the right division and convey a much more ample supply of provisions previous to the close of navigation. The probability of an early attack on Drummond, who is prepared. The armament, etc., of the "St. Lawrence" has absorbed nearly all the summer transport; this and the transport of the supply of provisions to the right division postpones an attack on Sackett's Harbour. The belief of the naval commanders that the war is to be decided by the fleets, instead of by co-operation with the army, has led to applications for transport being regarded as hampering the movements of the fleet and endangering its safety. Suggests establishing a transport service by the construction of small vessels at Kingston. Page 316

Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 201). Has given Kempt leave of absence; he can give His Lordship much valuable information. The nature of the information he can give. Yeo's fleet in sight, returning from Niagara. The enemy's fleet shows no indication of resuming offensive operations before the close of navigation: has, therefore, called on Yeo to proceed as expeditiously as possible with a reinforcement and provisions for Drummond; so that he may be able to force Brown to retire to the American side of the Niagara. 321

Kingston.

Same to the same (No. 202). Report brought by Yeo, that on the evening of the 21st an express arrived at Niagara bringing word that the enemy was blowing up Fort Erie, that the American army was retreating and that Izard had crossed the river. A dispatch from Drummond contradicts the report and that the enemy has no intention to relinquish the position unless forced to do so. 324

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost; 26th October. Dispatches received &c., the ungarded state of the enemy, as if inviting attack. Brown has crossed the river and is reported to have gone in the direction of Sackett's. Prevost to Bathurst (No. 210). Dispatches received; his concern at his being apprised that the expectations of the Prince Regent and of the country would be seriously disappointed if he had allowed the campaign to pass without offensive measures. The failure on the part of the naval armament at the very outset. The certainty of defeat had he attempted land operations independent of the fleet. Naval superiority on Lake Ontario was obtained at too late a period to be of further use than to relieve the right division on the Niagara frontier from its difficulties. Contending demands of Vice-Admiral Cochran for marines for Halifax, and of Yeo for the same for Lake Ontario; has sent the 1st Battalion of the 27th (800 rank and file) to Halifax in command of Power. Prevost to Bathurst. (No. 213). Reinforcement of the right division; retreat of the enemy from Fort Erie after blowing up the works; the reinforcements could not come in contact with the enemy, who are on their own shore seeking winter quarters at Buffalo, Batavia and Nine Mile Creek. An expedition against Burlington, of 1,000 Kentuckians, passed Moravian town; Indians and regulars to attack the force. Refusal of Yeo to co-operate in an attack on the right bank of the Niagara, grounded on the lateness of the season and the uncertainty of the weather endangering the fleet. Drummond and Yeo have determined to form a naval establishment on Lake Erie; believes it to be impracticable. Has urged the consideration of the proposed establishment at Penetanguishene. Sends copy of correspondence. 434

Enclosed. Drummond to Prevost, 5th November (extract). Has given up the intention to return to Kingston and will remain on the frontier till the close of navigation; his view is directed to the right bank of the Niagara, not to Fort Erie, and with the co-operation of the navy he would not despair of the destruction of Izard's army; without that co-operation it cannot be done. Prevost to Bathurst (private.) The growing importance of the naval service in Canada. Suggests sending a rear admiral to take command of the lakes, leaving Yeo on Lake Ontario, and selecting proper officers for the other lakes. The rear admiral's powers should not be confined to one lake, but he should have superintendence over all and be instructed to co-operate with the commander of the forces. 459

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 215). The progress and termination of McArthur's expedition, with a horde of 1,500 mounted Kentuckians armed with rifles, tomahawks and scalping knives; the defeat of their attempt to cross the Grand River and their retreat towards the Thames. Their principal object was the destruction of the mills, and to force their way to Fort Erie to join Izard. In their advance and retreat their progress was marked by plunder, without regard to private property. If they had not been checked they would have effected the ruin of the whole country. 462

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 218). Close of campaign on the Niagara frontier. The spirit, gallantry, patience and perseverance of the troops brought it to a conclusion so honourable to the right division. The plan of subjugation formed by the American Government from having acquired the naval superiority of the Lakes and from the numerical superiority of their forces, was completely frustrated by the skill of the generals and the valour of the troops, so that the American army had to surrender the narrow strip of British territory on which they stood, and to retire to their own shore. The arrival of a horde of Kentuckians; their retreat has closed the campaign. By a letter and enclosure from Yeo, it will be seen that the naval establishment of Penetanguishene is in operation. He (Yeo) and Drummond soon discovered how impracticable it would be to construct at Turkey Point the two vessels proposed by Yeo. He is now employed in putting together one of the frigates brought out last autumn, but her armament and equipment have been appropriated for the "St. Lawrence," so that all required for her and for the naval establishment on Lake Huron must be sent from Montreal. The irruption of the Kentuckians has added to the difficulties of forming a naval establishment on Lake Erie, but the evil has not been so extensive as to prevent the cantonment of troops at Turkey Point and Long Point, where they are to be employed in constructing blockhouses on the site of the proposed dockyard to form part of a more formidable defence. 492

Enclosed. Yeo to Prevost, 26th November. Sends report on the progress at Penetanguishene. He intends to build a 44-gun frigate, to be armed with 24 and 32 pounders. A vessel is engaged carrying guns, &c. She will proceed to York, where Collier will take charge of the armament and outfit. The two schooners have gone round to Penetanguishene to cut timber. 497 navigation. It is "highly necessary an officer should see his enemy before he makes up his mind he is to be beat by him." Page 106

Prevost to Yeo, 7th April (extract). Has desired Drummond to communicate the contents of secret letter respecting an armistice proposed by the United States Government and sends statement from Sackett's harbour respecting the United States fleet to assist his judgment. 107

Yeo to Prevost, 13th April. Does not think the United States fleet will have the advantage at the beginning of the campaign and the British fleet was never so competent to engage the enemy. Discusses the relative strength of the two fleets. "These considerations induce me to be decidedly of opinion that were your Excellency to accept of the proposed armistice it would neither conduce to the credit of His Majesty's Government or the honour of his arms, whilst it would enable the enemy to gain time for the launching and equipping more ships; augmenting and concentrating his forces and bringing them to bear (should a rupture of the armistice ensue, a measure, I fear, from the known enmity and insincerity of the American Government, too likely to occur), with redoubled force against us." 108

Statement of the forces of His Majesty's fleet on Lake Ontario, as it will appear in the spring of 1814. 112

Prevost to Admiral Cochrane, 11th May. Reports the steps taken towards an armistice. The successful result of the attack on Oswego. Sailing of Pringle from Isle aux Noix to reconnoitre and to destroy, if possible, the enemy's ships building at Vergennes. Yeo's next object will probably be the depot of provisions on the Genesee River and at Sodus. Has had bateaux built at Nottawasaga Creek and sent off with provisions, &c., to strengthen McDouall at Michilimakinak. 113

Admiralty. Croker to Bunbury. Transmits letter, with enclosures, from Cochrane, reporting retaliatory measures in consequence of the disgraceful conduct of the American troops in the wanton destruction of private property. 138
- Enclosed.* Cochrane to Croker, 18th July. The readiest way of inflicting retaliation on the United States for the wanton destruction of private property is to bring home to the supporters of the Government which authorizes this unnatural system of warfare a full share of its dreadful calamities. 139
- Order to the officers of the navy to destroy and lay waste such towns and districts on the coast as may be assailable, in view of the conduct of the American army towards His Majesty's unoffending Canadian subjects. "This order to remain in force until I receive information from Sir George Prevost that the Executive Government of the United States have come under an obligation to the injured and unoffending inhabitants of the Canadas for all the outrages their troops have committed." 141

- Prevost to Cochrane, 2nd June. Asks him to assist in inflicting such punishment on the United States as shall deter them from outrages on private property. 146

Sends copies of letters from the Military Secretary, relative to fitting the dispatch vessel and sending assistance to the fleet on Lake Ontario; has obeyed all the orders, except in procuring ten extra seamen to defend the "Mariner." Half of the crews are now with Yeo's squadron. Did not feel authorised to expend £110 for crimps to procure the ten men, as neither the senior officer nor Major Glasgow would give an order to incur such an expense. The extra defence of the "Mariner." The June convoy not arrived; all unoccupied transports shall be returned, but it is probable a number must remain in Quebec all winter. 383

- Downie to Upton; 1st September. The "Confiance" must soon be before the enemy, yet she has not a lock to any gun or carronade on board. Asks for a supply. 159
- Downie to Prevost, 7th September. It will be a day or two before the "Confiance" can be ready, but it will take that time to reach Chazy, where he shall be happy to receive further communications. 160
- Prevost to Downie, 8th September. Has sent Coose, his aide-de-camp to give him (Downie) correct information of the disposition of the enemy's naval force. Only waits his (Downie's) arrival to attack Macomb; the destruction of the enemy's fleet is his (Downie's) share in the first instance; if that fleet runs away, there must be a consultation as to ulterior movements. 161
- Downie to Prevost, 8th September. He is advancing to Chazy as fast as the wind and weather will permit. His ship is not ready and it is his duty not to hazard her before an enemy which will be of superior force. Will anchor at Chazy till his guns are ready. 162

Prevost to Downie, 9th September. Has postponed his advance till the squadron is ready; the evils of delay; the enemy's fleet unmanned. Page 163

Downie to Prevost, 9th September. Will weigh anchor about midnight and get to Plattsburg about dawn; will attack the enemy's fleet if there is a chance of success. Relies on assistance from the troops. Has applied for a company of the 39th, the flotilla being short-manned. 165

Prevost to Downie, 10th September. In consequence of his letter expects him to be rounding Cumberland head at dawn, the troops are held in readiness to storm the works when the naval action should begin. Ascribes his disappointment to the change of wind. 166

Robertson to Pring, 15th September. Sends return of the killed and wounded on board the "Confiance." The expectation held out to the crew that the enemy's works should be stormed when the action began; their refusal to fight owing to the want of co-operation on the part of the army and the gun boats keeping at a distance owing also to the state of the "Confiance" and the danger to the wounded of being drowned from her leaky condition, he agreed to the surrender. The whole fire was ordered to be directed against the "Confiance." 167

Pring to Yeo, 17th September. The disappointment of the squadron at the want of co-operation on the part of the land force. Downie urged by Prevost to make the attack on the promise that the land forces would act against the enemy at the same moment. It was confidently expected that the enemy's gun boats would be driven from the shelter of the forts, but the failure of the land attack prevented the attempt from being crowned with success. If the works had been stormed even after the action terminated, the squadron could have been saved. 170

Enclosed. Yeo to Croker, 24th September. Sends copies of letters from Pring and Robertson. It appears that Downie was urged and his ship hurried into action before she was in a fit state to meet the enemy. The fleet should not have been sent into the bay; it could not have assisted in storming the batteries; had that been done first, the enemy's squadron would have been forced to quit the bay and give the British squadron a fair chance. 173

From the absence of their crews on Lake Ontario, they are rendered useless and Government is responsible for hire of the vessels (£7,821 5s. per month), and for the loss of any of them caused by a deficiency of their hands on their return voyage. Send also copy of letter from Kempt to Hancock of the "Liffey" respecting transports waiting for convoy at Quebec; the answer has not yet reached. 393

Enclosed. Kempt to Woodruff, 26th October. To assemble the masters of the transports and to assure them that their employing a notary would not alter his determination relative to the destination of their ships. The masters must keep their vessels ready for sea all the month of November, and if the convoy should sail from Quebec without them, they must proceed to Ship Harbour in the Gut of Canso and wait for a convoy to Halifax. 395

Kempt to Hancock of the "Liffey," 29th October. Represents the immense expense that will be incurred if a convoy does not sail on the 15th November. There are now 64 transports in the St. Lawrence above Quebec and 15 laid up from half their crews being on Lake Ontario. January 31, Mark Lane (London.) Committee of merchants to Bathurst. Transmits copies of papers relating to Canada. The necessity for early and decisive measures to protect the part of Canada which remains unconquered and to recover the part of the upper province which has been over-run. The chief object of the war was the conquest of Canada, the Americans expected little difficulty doing so, but their first defeats taught them to adopt more powerful means in the last campaign, which have only been too successful. Although their attempts on Lower Canada have not been attended with the accomplishments of their wishes, yet their acquisitions in Upper Canada have given them advantages which will stimulate them to persevere. The importance attached by the President of the United States to the alienation of the Indians from the British Government. The committee believe that without their assistance Upper Canada, which is so thinly populated, cannot be defended. Harrison's attack on Michilimakinak and St. Joseph was successful, would cut-off communication with the Indians of the interior and destroy the fur trade, especially that carried on by the North-west Company, so that the Indians would be compelled to apply to the enemy for a supply of the necessaries of life. The necessity thus shown for an immediate reconquest of Upper Canada; whether that should be done by constructing a naval force on Lake Erie or Lake Huron, the Committee do not presume to decide, but a naval superiority must be obtained and preserved on Lake Ontario. The enemy's naval force there has been, except one ship, formed since the war and every exertion is to be made this winter to increase it. The advantage on the British side of that Lake for building ships owing to the greater depth of water, and stores, seamen, &c., could be sent from Britain. The trade requires that there should be a naval preponderance on the Lakes as well as on the Ocean. The Committee desires an interview with His Lordship to discuss the important questions indicated. 75

John Morrison to Torrens. Had proposed to Carleton in 1782 to raise from 3,000 to 5,000 negroes, with whom he would drive the rebels from the Carolinas, Georgia and Floridas. Carleton did not accept the proposal and before his answer came about 600 offered their services and at the evacuation of Charleston they were sent to the West Indies. Proposes now to send two or three West India regiments into the Carolinas and Georgia with a proclamation offering freedom to all negroes who would join His Majesty's arms; they would be of more service than 20,000 troops in Canada, would compel the Americans to come to terms and to render back the lands which they obtained in 1783, to which they had not the least pretension. At the end of the war, waste lands in Upper Canada could be granted to the negroes, who would form a strong barrier against the Americans. 495

Simon McGillivray to Bathurst. Sends extract from a letter from the agent at Montreal of the North-west Company reporting the wreck of some of the United States Navy on Lakes Ontario and Erie. This gives a chance for communication being preserved for another season. Every thing has been put in the best state of defence should the enemy venture on Lake Superior next spring. Government communications with the Indian tribes of the interior is practicable by way of Fort William; trusts there is still time to preserve it. In an interview or if allowed, in writing, he could point out measures for securing the communication. 271

tee, besides the past conduct of the North-west Company towards the servants of the Hudson's Bay Company, would require that sufficient security be given for the good conduct of the North-west Company, whose partners and servants may be allowed to come down to the sea port. The great pecuniary advantage to the North-west Company from the short route as compared with the circuitous passage by Lake Superior, the Hudson's Bay Company should have such compensation for carrying the goods of the North-west Company to a market, as may under all the circumstances of the case be considered just and reasonable. Inglis, Ellice & Co., and McTavish, Fraser & Co. to Goulburn. Copies of correspondence with Hudson's Bay Company received. In reference to the charges against the North-west Company's men, refer to the Criminal Courts of Lower Canada for charges of outrages committed by the Hudson's Bay Company's men; it is, however, impossible in a country so remote to prevent violence; their anxiety to suppress this; the appointment of Magistrates for that purpose. Do not apprehend any danger to the property of the Hudson's Bay Company from their people passing through; fear more disturbance from the victims of Selkirk's agricultural speculations on the Assiniboine. Desire details of the charges for encroachments on the Hudson's Bay Company's lands, as they could have proved the slight grounds for the accusation. The North-west Companies have built forts on all the water communications between Lake Superior and the Pacific; the Hudson's Bay Company have an equal right to the whole country as to the lands they granted to Lord Selkirk in fee simple. The sacrifice the North-west Companies have made by their forbearance and the Hudson's Bay Company would now require them to abandon a trade of five times the extent of theirs (the Hudson's Bay Company's) that their assumed exclusive interests might not only be protected but benefited by the difficulties occasioned by the calamities of war. Asks him to draw Bathurst's attention to the memorial enclosed. 276

- Enclosed.* Yeo to Prevost, 6th January. Recommends building three frigates and two heavy brigs at Isle aux Noix; this will compel the enemy to keep a large naval force on Lake Champlain and prevent him from applying all his force at Sackett's harbour. Prevost to Bathurst (No. 232). Refers to dispatch No. 214 for an account of the difficulties of transport, &c. Has recommended to the Legislature the proposal by Robinson for a canal to LaChine, which has been adopted and £25,000 voted by the Assembly. A bill to that effect will, he believes, pass both Houses. 71

Quebec.

Same to the same. Arrival of Murray, who has communicated a letter addressed to him, but of which he (Prevost) is the subject. It is the first notice he has had about his conduct at Plattsburg, and it is adding unnecessary poignancy to the unexpected blow that it should be conveyed through a third person and an officer so much his junior. The statement that the revocation of his commission as Governor is not a mark of the Prince Regent's displeasure, but it will be difficult for the world to make the distinction. Does not presume to decide how far the measure is of sound policy, but it tends to diminish the confidence of the people in His Majesty's Government. 73

March 13,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 233). Has received copy of the treaty of Peace signed at Ghent on the 24th December. Had received from Baker on the 1st March, a notification that ratifications had been exchanged at Washington on the 17th February. Has proclaimed the peace and a cessation of arms. In communicating the intelligence to Drummond, had called his attention to the articles relating to the Indians; meeting to be held with them; presents to be distributed with a liberal hand as it will be some time before traders can be among them. In regard to treaties with Indians who have been acting with the enemy the instructions sent shall be strictly attended to. 75

Enclosed. Copy of speech to be delivered to the Indians. 78

March 15,
Quebec.

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 234). Does not think it necessary now to press the passage of a bill to extend the provisions of the former Army bill Acts; the anticipations of the benefits from the issue of Army bills have been fully realized. Calculations of the cost, &c., specie wanted to liquidate the bills in circulation, of which he sends a statement. 80

Enclosed. Account of the amount of Army bills in circulation, dated 27th February. 84

Quebec.

Prevost to Bathurst (No. 235). Sends observations on the proposed settlement of disbanded soldiers. There are six townships east of Lake Champlain on the frontiers, containing 82,000 acres ungranted and three to the west with 29,000 acres. Objections to settling those to the east; believes that an unsettled country on the frontier is a better protection than any population that could be placed there. Recommends the banks of the St. Francis for the establishment of settlers. The arrangements that must be made for the first establishment and the supplies that must be given to the settlers. The disappointment to be expected; "under no circumstances is a soldier likely to become a good farmer and "there is still less hope to be entertained where he is sent to make "his first essay in a wilderness encompassed with difficulties and called "upon to exercise the severest and most continued labour with little "assistance." 86

1815. March 19, Quebec.	Provost to Bathurst. Recommends that Freer, his military secretary should be kept on pay till the 24th August, to close up the account of the Army bills.	Page 94

March 27, Quebec.	Prevost to Bathurst (No. 237). The legislature closed on the 25th instant. Transmits copy of speech, of the address from the Speaker of the Assembly on delivering the money bills and list of Acts assented to. The peace having enabled him to dispense with the services of the militia, the Assembly has voted £20,000 for its future establishment and for giving a certain sum to the officers of the disbanded battalion and annuities to wounded militiamen. The expired Militia Act has been renewed for another year. The bill for the canal from Montreal to LaChine has passed both Houses, with an appropriation of £25,000 for the work. The benefit of continuing the Army bill Act; the Assembly passed one accordingly, but it was lost in the Council. The revenue Act has, however, been passed this session; this being sufficient, he had reserved the assent to another revenue Act; has also reserved Act to give a salary to the speaker, sends copy and strongly recommends its adoption. The loyalty and general harmony of the two Houses, the only interruption being in the case of Ryland, but the matter was happily settled.	112

Has in the meantime suspended Sewell. 173
Enclosed. Report of the Executive Council recommending that Sewell be suspended. 174

 Sewell to the Commissary General, 25th March. Denies that he was guilty of libellous publications; the only document he published on the affair at Plattsburg is recital of facts as reported by the troops on their return. No one can dare to say that that article is libellous, &c. 184

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 5). Transmits correspondence on the subject of the restoration of the island of Michilimakinak to the American government. Received on his arrival letter from Baker transferred by Prevost respecting the restoration of places captured from America, but to procrastinate till he could receive the commands of government. Has instructed McDouall accordingly. Sends sketch of Lake Huron, showing the relative situation of Michilimakinak, St. Josephs, &c. Page 18

Enclosed. Memorandum by McGillivray delivered to Prevost on the 28th March, 1815, respecting the exposed state of the frontier on the troops being removed from Michilimakinak. 20

North-west Company (by John Richardson and W. McGillivray) to Drummond, 20th April, 1815. The agitation of McGillivray at hearing of the intention to give up Michilimakinak, as by the late treaty the Indian trade is on the point of annihilation unless the stipulation to preserve the Indian rights is meant to exclude military posts and custom-houses of either nation from their limits; requests Drummond to defer the delivery of Michilimakinak until he shall receive positive directions by name to deliver that post and not by general words conveying the order by implication. The surest way to avoid giving the Americans a pretext for being offended is to do what is just and right towards "ourselves and Indian allies," for there is no instance of an unnecessary concession being made to the States that did not engender the demand for a greater sacrifice. Quote the words of two articles of the treaty as leaving doubt, the articles being contradictory to each other and the last overriding the first. It should, therefore, be made a condition that, if the British force be withdrawn from the island, it shall not be occupied by a force from the United States and that no military or civil authority of any kind should be exercised there from the time of evacuation until the decision of the commissioners. In this view St. Mary's, not the north side of the detour, should be the temporary post until the decision is arrived at. Where there are doubts the error should be on the safe side in dealing with such a government and people as Americans, as if this opportunity be lost another shall never occur again. It should at least be settled, if the island is to be given up, that there should be no American custom-house whilst the British garrison remains there. 25

Harvey to Richardson and McGillivray, 24th April. Drummond is not convinced by their letter and memorandum, but out of regard for their interests and those of the Indians he has directed the officer in command to take such measures as will delay the surrender of the post for a period to give Drummond an opportunity to communicate with His Majesty's government. Asks them to forward speedily the communication transmitted for Macdouall and invites them to make such representations to the King's government as they may think necessary. Macdouall has been instructed not to permit the establishment of any custom house on the island so long as it is occupied by a British garrison. 32

Harvey to W. McGillivray, 15th April. Drummond has instructed him to send copy of letter to Macdouall and extract from letter to Prevost, respecting the restoration of Michilimakinak and requests the North-west Company would advise with Macdouall as to the best situation for a post. This may be done by letter or by a confidential agent. 34

W. McGillivray to Harvey, 17th April. Thanks for Drummond's protecting care for the interests of the North-west Company, by giving them an influence in the selection of the post to replace that at Michilimakinak. Sends copy of his ideas on the subject communicated to

Prevost (see p. 20). Much good management will be required to satisfy the Indians and as they cannot be approached empty handed, the supply of Indian presents should be very liberal; the supply originally intended should be augmented and sent forward by the first schooners. The rights of the Indians should be as in 1811, and if the post at Prairie des Chiens be occupied by the Americans, as was never before the case, that deprives the Indians of some of their privileges. Page 35

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 6). The construction and repair of barracks in the Canadas appertained hitherto to the Royal Engineers, but during the war owing to the demands on the Engineers for defensive works, etc., this branch was transferred to the Quarter-master General's department. On the return of peace the barrack branch was ordered to revert to its original department. Transmits letter from Lt.-Colonel Nicolls and recommends that as the Engineer department cannot continue this work in event of a renewal of hostilities with the United States, that the barrack department should assume the management of everything relating to the barracks. 38

Nicolls to Drummond, 13th April. Calls attention to the general order that the construction and repair of barracks is to revert to the Royal Engineers. The injurious effect of this on the Royal Engineers, as during war they cannot properly attend to this duty. He had hoped that the system of leaving their management to the barrack department would have been continued. 40

Quebec.

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 7). Calls attention to the case of the sufferers during the war and sends copy of a letter to the Adjutant General of the forces appealing to the well established benevolence of the commander-in-chief on behalf of these men. 42

Enclosed. Drummond to the Adjutant General, 18th April. Has received applications from soldiers, natives of Canada and British North America, proposed to be sent to Europe for their discharge praying to receive their discharge in Canada even on condition of forfeiting their pension. He has no authority to discharge them, but he feels for the hardship that the sacrifice of the bounty implies and has given them leave to remain until the result of an appeal to the commander-in-chief be known. If the appeal be allowed, asks that the mode of paying the pensions be distinctly pointed out. The case is harder in contrast with the liberal provision made by the provinces for payment on the spot to militia soldiers whose wounds or services give them a claim. 43

Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 15). In reference to the procrastination in the delivery of Michilimakinak encloses correspondence, orders to deliver up the post, etc. Had desired Baker to send information respecting the order that the military force of the United States is to remain on the same establishment as at the conclusion of hostilities, a measure not improbably connected with the extraordinary intelligence recently received from Europe. The loss of the "Penelope" and the non-arrival of the January, February and March mails leave him without any accounts from England adding to his anxiety. Has sent vessels to the relief of the "Penelope." It is reported that 40 men but no officers were drowned and that the ship has gone to pieces. Several transports have arrived but none bring any intelligence except arrangements for the removal of troops; the number left, if these are taken, will be insufficient for the defence of the provinces. 104
Enclosed. Harvey to McDouall, 4th May. The new post should be at the west end of Manitoulin Island, as it possesses an excellent harbour. Capt. Collier is accompanying Capt. Payne; his services will be of great assistance. It is proposed that the restitution of Makinak is to take place simultaneously so that he is to make every possible exertion to evacuate the island and post of Michilimakinak, and to apprise the commanding officer at Detroit when he is ready to deliver it. 107
- Drummond to Baker, 4th May. Sends copies of letter from the commanding officer in Upper Canada respecting the simultaneous restitution of Michilimakinak and Malden. He is anxious for the evacuation of the Detroit frontier, owing to the state of the relations with the Indians and the necessity of issuing provisions to them. In consequence of the commanding officer in Upper Canada having suspended the evacuation of Fort Niagara, he has again ordered its immediate evacuation. 109

The other regiments shall be embarked as soon as they can be assembled.
Is afraid there may be delay for want of transport. The dispatches he Moray, who was a passenger. The vessel, with every article on board, has been lost and 40 of her crew drowned. 125

May 25, Same to the same (No. 21). Has received copy of representations Quebec. from the Hudson's Bay Company of their apprehension of hostilities from the American nations in the neighbourhood of the Red River. The vagueness of the information in Lord Selkirk's letter to the company.
Owing to the jealousy between the two companies he shall take no steps that can be construed into affecting a question between them. 128

May 25, Same to the same. Has received letter that the number of settlers to June 6, Same to the same (No. 27). Return of Heriot from the river St.

ungranted lands there to form a compact settlement. The difficulty arises from the improvident grants, which leave whole townships unsettled; proposes a court of escheats to remedy this. Grantees on the St. Francis have consented to an exchange, so that the lands given up may be settled. Sends copy of the instructions given to Heriot. 139

- June 8, Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 30). Sherbrooke has offered to send to Quebec a division of the Royal staff corps arrived at Halifax, of whose arrival he has no instructions. From the advantage of such assistance in the construction of the canal between Montreal and La Chine and in the improvement of the water communication with Upper Canada by the Ottawa and Rideau, he has requested Sherbrooke to forward the detachment. 151
- June 9, Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 29). No instructions were given to send the civil branch of the ordnance with the companies of Royal Artillery; believing this to have been an unintentional omission, he has sent two divisions of clerks and conductors, and has directed a proportion of the commissariat department and medical staff to embark also. 150

- June 10, Quebec. Same to the same (No. 34*). The brevet appointment of Lieut.-Col. in the army to Major de Courcy, on account of his having been appointed to command a battalion of embodied militia termed the Canadian Chasseurs, induces him to report his recommendation to give the brevet rank of Lieut.-Colonel to Major Foster and of major to Capt. Glew. The battalion of incorporated militia of Upper Canada and the Chasseurs were similar, except that the former were enlisted and received a bounty. The advantage of retaining for that battalion the name of militia. 196

Same to the same (No. 39). Received shortly after assuming the government of the Province a strong representation from the Lord Bishop of Quebec of the ruinous situation of the Cathedral and of its daily dilapidation for want of timely repair, along with copy of estimate for its repair. This amount being considerable he had directed another estimate to be made, but both are higher than he feels warranted to incur. Refers to Prevost's estimate of 23rd June, 1814, and asks that a sum be voted for the cost, amounting by the present estimate to £2,000. 217

Enclosed. Copy of estimate of 23rd June, 1814. Amount £6,797 9s. 10 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., with certain modifications which would apparently reduce the cost to £3,437. 219

Desires to establish a seminary with teachers from Britain, to be superintended by himself, but cannot do so without assistance from government. Bland, a Canadian of British parents, has come with a proposal for the improvement of fire arms, which was tried on a pistol, but to avoid delay he has not kept him for further experiments but has shipped him by the "Newcastle" with the promise that if his plan be approved of he should be well rewarded; if not he should at least be paid his expenses and be enabled to return to this country. The plan is not perfect, but it can be improved if the principle be understood. 273

Enclosed. Ryland to Drummond, 1st July. Transmits certain documents in relation to the elections on which the charge against him is founded; the motive is one of political malevolence to punish him for his votes in the Legislative Council and to deter him from pursuing the line of conduct which his duty dictated. August 15,

Same to the same (No. 56). Michilimakinak, fort and island, was restored on the 18th ult. The new post on Lake Huron has been decided on. Directions have therefore been given to erect barracks and other works on the western extremity of Manitoulin Island instead of re-establishing the old post at St. Joseph's. It will be necessary to place the post of Amherstburg in a suitable state of defence, Fort Malden being now totally useless. The fort at Missisauga point must also be enlarged for the protection of Niagara and neighbourhood. When constructed it was laid out on so circumscribed a scale as nothing but deficiency of means could justify. Had ordered the proposed alteration and repairs to be completed, and the expense on the old and useless fort George to be discontinued. Kingston being the principal naval establishment in the Upper Province, the completion of its defences is a matter of magnitude; those at Isle aux Noix and Fort Wellington on the St. Lawrence should be kept in due repair to prevent the enormous expense, were they to fall too far into decay. Commodore Owen has set out to ascertain the most suitable site for a naval establishment on Lake Erie. Page 5

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 57). Prevost has transmitted letter that the Prince Regent consents to his receiving the £500 voted by the Assembly for the purchase of a service of plate. Cannot feel himself warranted in directing the sum to be issued without the concurrence of the Legislative Council. A check was placed on the issue of a small sum in Upper Canada by the Council and he has since been cautious. 8

Drummond to Bathurst. Had applied for information to the North-west Company, that would the better enable him to provide for the security of the lives and property of the settlers on the Red River. The plan of sending military protection to Selkirk's settlement is impracticable from the enormous expense and the first effect would be to involve the country in an Indian war. The mischievous consequences likely to arise from Selkirk's selection of an agent who calls himself governor and from whom no moderation can be looked for in his intercourse with the North-west Company, which is so necessary for mutual protection from Indians and famine. The invasion of rights mutually complained of is a matter to be decided by law. 11

Enclosed. Maitland, Garden & Aulgeo, 29th May. Transmits extract from letter from Selkirk respecting military protection for the Red River. 14

Selkirk to Maitland, Garden & Aulgeo, 22nd March. Application has been made to the Secretary of State for military protection; the governor has been directed to inquire into the circumstances. The nature of the force required and the route it might follow. Part of the force at Prairie des Chiens might be sent. 16

Harvey to Maitland, Garden & Aulgeo, 8th June. Acknowledges receipt of letter addressed to the military secretary, sends copy of communication it is proposed to address to McGillivray; how far, do they think, would the letter produce the desired effect. Drummond asks for communication of the documents in their possession. 18

Harvey to McGillivray, 8th June. Directions have been received to examine into the truth of a report that the Indians are preparing to attack the Red River Settlement, instigated, it is reported, by servants of the North-west Company. Information asked for on the subject. The North-west Company, will be held responsible for an outbreak of this kind, whether the attack has been instigated by servants of the company, or proceeds from the malignity of the Indians themselves. 19

Maitland, Garden and Aulgeo to Harvey, 12th June. Acknowledge receipt of copy of the communication proposed to be sent to W. McGillivray; believes that to be the proper method of obtaining security. The question whether or not the colony [of Red River] is in danger can be determined by the nature of McGillivray's answer. Send the documents previously mentioned, to be returned. 22

W. McGillivray to Harvey, 24th June. Denies positively that there is any foundation for the report that the North-west Company were instigating the Indians to destroy the settlement at the Red River. Enters into details of the transactions between the North-west Company, the Hudson's Bay Company and the Selkirk settlement. Page 29

Speech of Grandes Oreilles, Chippawa chief, 19th June, 1814. Testifying to his friendship for the North-west Company. 47

McGillivray to Harvey, 6th July. Express arrived from the Indian territory reports that Miles McDonell continues his violent conduct, but the people of the North-west Company do not submit to injustice as they did last year. Is afraid of unfortunate consequences. 51

Harvey to Maitland, Garden & Aulgeo, 12th July. The answer of W. McGillivray would have removed any impression of a plot on the part of the North-west Company against the Selkirk settlement had any such existed. The danger will arise from the conduct of Miles McDonell who, besides arrogates powers which could not be given to the agent of any company or individual. The question of these powers has properly been referred by the North-west Company to the courts. Copies of the documents they sent have been transmitted to the Secretary of State. 53

Proclamation by Miles McDonell, 18th January, 1814, that the Hudson's Bay had ceded to Selkirk a tract of land (boundaries given), with regulations for the government of the territory. 55

Notice to the North-west Company, 21st October, 1814, to quit the premises at the forks of the Red River within six months. 58

Statement of the Hudson's Bay Company as to the method they are adopting to raise provisions in the territory by giving grants of land in freehold. 59

Selkirk to the Hudson's Bay Company, 14th February, 1815. Reports the hostilities of the North-west Company to the Red River settlement. and the means they are taking to excite the Indians. 68

Statement of the Hudson's Bay Company, no date, marked No. 9. Explaining the embargo laid on the North-west Company's dried provisions as a matter of precaution only. 75

Miles McDonell to Selkirk, 25th July, 1815 (extract). Reports the attack made by the North-west Company on the settlement; the people and property protected by Indians; arrival of McLeod and five or six men who can look after the crops till the arrival of reinforcements. He (McDonell) kept prisoner till the North-west Company take him to Montreal. Spencer is also a prisoner. The probability of the settlers making charges of ill usage as they are now in the hands of the North-west Company. Hears that they are to be settled on Matchedash Bay on Crown lands to be obtained for them. 77

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 58). Refers to his report of 15th May, of having placed several of the 10th Royal Veterans with their families as settlers on the communication between Fredericton and the St. Lawrence. Has sent a detachment of the same corps to assist settlers on the Drummond to Bathurst, (No. 59.) Favourable report from McDouall of the situation of the new post on Lake Huron. (See 15th August, No. 56, p. 5 of this volume.) Its excellent harbour, convenient site for the town and much better soil in the neighbourhood than was first reported, with timber for ship building, the nature of the defences. Were it not that Michilimakinak is the key to the country of the Western Indians there is little to regret in giving it up. The island on which is the new post, now called Drummond Island, must be purchased from the Indians; shall send a requisition for the goods required to meet the cost. There is an indication on the part of the United States to violate the treaty in so far as regards Indian territory and forces are openly sent to establish posts. Under pretext of calling a numerous council of Indians to make peace, the intention seems to be to destroy the tribes who will not surrender their territory. Asks for instructions. The American officer commanding at Michilimakinak, it is reported by McDouall, admits that the United States are debarred by treaty from "occupying Indian territory or from constructing forts upon it which they did not possess before the war, but that still it was determined "upon and should be done." Has communicated with Baker at Washington on the subject. 81

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 61). Suggests as a good plan of settling the waste lands, that the provincial corps on their reduction, in consequence of a general peace, instead of being disbanded should be continued on the establishment for one year to be immediately placed on Crown lands to be granted to them at the expiration of the year in fixed proportions. The officers would thus remain with the men for a time and their influence would have a good effect. Provisions, stores &c., to be under the commissariat. Many are artificers so that the land would soon be cleared and houses erected. Most of the men and officers are natives of the country, so that an excellent militia would be supplied, and he would recommend that those who settle should have their arms and accoutrements. Other advantages. The men who do not choose to remain could be employed during the year in opening roads, &c.

Arrival of transports with settlers; Quebec. the disadvantage of their late arrival; they have been forwarded to Upper Canada without loss of time, which province they had selected. Is uneasy at the non-arrival of the "Eliza" with settlers from Greenock. Favourable reports received of the progress of the settlements in both provinces. They have begun at three points in Upper Canada. 1. In the county of Glengarry. 2. On the Rideau, to open a communication by that river from the Ottawa to Kingston. 3. On the Bay of Quinté. In Lower Canada the establishment on the St. Francis is succeeding well. Early information should be given if it is intended to send a large body of settlers in spring so that arrangements may be made. 93

October 29, Same to the same (No 70). In accordance with the application from Capt. Enclosed. Loring to Heriot, 23rd October. Desires information as to the postal arrangements, from Montreal to Kingston, Kingston to York, thence to Niagara and Amherstburg, with the arrangements for intermediate places, the manner in which the mails are conveyed, etc. The revenue will more than pay for the expense of proper arrangements; unless these are made Drummond will be obliged to re-establish the military express at great expense to government. 173

Heriot to Loring, 24th October. In consequence of the exorbitant terms asked for by contractors for carrying the mails twice a week he had employed the couriers already in the post office service to carry the mails under a written contract for one year, with security. Monday is the post day at Kingston and Montreal; the mail leaves Kingston in the evening, reaches Brockville on Tuesday, Cornwall on Wednesday, and Montreal on Thursday; between York and Kingston two couriers are employed at £171 a year each, and the postmaster at York has been directed to have a weekly courier to and from Niagara. The postmaster at Amherstburg has declined resuming the situation since the war; the letters to and from that place in summer were so few that a courier was employed only once a month in winter (sic). Must observe the instructions as to economy. His personal losses from the default of former postmasters in Upper Canada which he has been unable to recover. 175

Loring to Heriot, 25th October. His statements not satisfactory; increased facilities would give a larger revenue, and from the slovenly manner in which the mails are carried no confidence is felt in their security, and the traders and inhabitants make use of every private opportunity to send their letters, by which the principal support of the service is lost. Drummond disapproves of leaving the arrangement for conveyance of the mails between York and Niagara to the postmaster at York and for the appointment of a postmaster at Amherstburg; these should be directly taken charge of by the deputy postmaster general. The great importance of mails to Amherstburg. The instructions as to economy are not to be observed in a manner injurious to the interests of Upper Canada. 177

Heriot to Loring, 27th October. Regrets that his letter of the 24th is not satisfactory. His attempt to increase the facilities by expending the whole revenue was prevented by the postmaster general. In the appointment of postmasters, he is obliged to rely on the recommendation of the senior postmaster in each province. 179

Horse Guards. Frederick (Duke of York) to Bathurst. Has investigated the unfortunate occurrence at Dartmoor prison. The firing on the prisoners may have been at first justified by their turbulent conduct, but its extent must be attributed to want of steadiness in the troops and of exertion on the part of the officers. It did not arise from animosity to the American prisoners, but to want of experience on the part of the militia, rather than to the want of inclination to afford protection to prisoners of war. The conduct of the troops calls, however, for severe animadversion. Sends copy of admonitory letter addressed to the commanding officer of the Somerset militia, which he trusts will make a deep impression on the officers and men. 51
- Enclosed. Calvert to Bathurst, same date. Transmits copy of letter addressed to Major General Brown, commanding at Plymouth and in the western district. 53
- Calvert to Brown, same date. The Prince Regent cannot attach blame to the first steps taken to put an end to the revolt in Dartmoor prison, and the firing over the heads of the prisoners who had mutinied showed an indisposition to proceed to extremities. But the subsequent conduct of the troops in firing after resistance had subsided has caused the Prince Regent a degree of grief and concern which it is difficult to express; this is to be communicated to the troops in the most solemn manner. The Commander-in-chief animadverts on the neglect of the officers in not having been instantly on the spot on the alarm being given. Had they done their duty, it is probable that some of the unfortunate consequences of the tumult would have been avoided. 54

North-west Company to Goulburn. Call attention to the extraordinary proceedings of Selkirk and the Hudson's Bay Company and to their assumption of power; the dreadful consequences to be expected from its exercise. The unfounded claim of the Hudson's Bay Company to the possession of the lands watered by rivers falling into the Bay, which have been occupied by Canadian traders since the conquest, in succession to their French Canadian predecessors. Four fifths of the trade on the territory claimed by the Hudson's Bay Company have been carried on by Canadian subjects, and the Hudson's Bay Company have only extended their trade by following the discoveries of the Canadians in the interior. The only posts which they can claim are those on the shores of the Bay and probably the only situations over which their exclusive privileges extend. Even if they had acquired by their charter the full extent of the privileges they claim, these privileges must long since have lapsed by the demise of the charter and the non-fulfilment of its terms. Since the interference of Selkirk in the affairs of the Company these dormant rights have been scrutinized, with a view to ruin His Lordship's rivals in trade and for the promotion of schemes of monopoly. It is intended to appoint judges and juries to try causes between the Hudson's Bay Company and their opponents, who had never acknowledged this jurisdiction and do not now feel more disposed to do so. The consequence will be resistance by arms and bloodshed, in a situation 3,000 miles from the chief governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, where it would scarcely be practicable to enforce even acknowledged law. The characters of the persons appointed by the Hudson's Bay Company render them unfit to administer the laws. The councillors and sheriff may possibly be able to read and write but they possess no other qualifications for these offices. Selkirk having obtained the majority of the votes, the other proprietors and directors are powerless; it was thus Selkirk acquired such an immense extent of territory. Suggests that a suit for ejectment be brought, so that the land might revert to the Crown. Asks him (Goulburn) to represent to Bathurst the situation in which the Canadian traders and their servants (about 2,000 persons) will be placed by the proceedings of the Hudson's Bay Company and to pray for the interference of Government to prevent the exercise of the assumed judicial power. Violence has occurred on both sides, but they enclose copy of Selkirk's instructions by which it appears that Selkirk supposes the charter authorizes the company to make war and "right and recompense" themselves by hostilities against persons interrupting their trade. His present intentions are more favourable to the Canadian traders than the instructions, as it is proposed first to obtain a judgment from his dependents before seizing, whereas by instructions a seizure was to be made at once. The disputes between the two companies before Selkirk's undertaking were of perpetual occurrence but of no consequence, and had usually subsided before they were inquired into. Sometimes crimes were committed, but the trials for those at Montreal have had a proportionate effect. Selkirk's attempt to colonize Assiniboia has led to more serious difficulties by arousing the jealousy of the Indians. Would be happy to concur with the Hudson's Bay Company in any feasible plan for restraining violence, but this can only be done by placing the territories under the Canadian courts, to which they properly belong. The difficulty of finding suitable persons to administer justice and the question of expense are points for government to determine. Page 356

Enclosed. Selkirk to Wm. Hillier, 18th June, 1812. Instructions as to his conduct when in charge of the post; he is to act with firmness and moderation. If attacked he is only to act in accordance with the law of self-defence; to assert the right of the Hudson's Bay Company to the territory, warning the servants of the North-west Company to leave it, seizing any timber they may have cut, destroying their buildings, and seizing their fishing nets. To use shilalas (sic) in preference to fire arms, which may teach the voyageurs to keep at a respectful distance. 366

Committee of Merchants to Bathurst. It is reported that the commissioners from the United States are anxious for a commercial treaty. The opinion is held that the safest policy is to leave the trade with the United States to municipal regulations. If a treaty is entered into, all United States vessels should be excluded from the harbours, &c., of British North America, and the citizens of the United States be prohibited from fishing within certain defined limits. The importance of these proposals to the shipowners, merchants and manufacturers of Great Britain. The motives for narrowing the privileges of intercourse between the United States and the sugar colonies apply with greater force than during the late war. Page 394

Simon McGillivray to Bathurst. Writes in consequence of Selkirk's labours to excite suspicion against the North-west Company of exciting the Indians against the Red River settlers. Sends copy of confidential letter addressed to his brother by the Adjutant General and of the answer. Refers to other correspondence. Was and still is in hope that impressions unfavourable to the North-west Company are removed from his (Bathurst's) mind; the charges are entirely unfounded. The assistance rendered by the North-west Company to the settlers completely refutes the charges. The company's provisions seized by Miles McDonell recovered by the company's servants in part, a portion being left with McDonell. Offers of the Indians to assist in their recovery refused. Denial of the calumnies of Selkirk repeated. His belief that the Indians will destroy the settlement very different from the charges that the North-west Company was instigating them to do so. 372

Enclosed. Harvey to W. McGillivray, 14th June (confidential). Statement of the charges made by Selkirk against the North-west Company; is there any ground for believing that the Indians contemplate the atrocity alluded to? 380

Same to the same. Regret the misinterpretation put on their letter of the 28th ulto. "coast of the Pacific and from the coast in the countries between the sea and the Rocky Mountains." They did not ask for Bathurst's opinions on a commercial speculation, but if they cannot obtain protection they must abandon the undertaking. Page 390

December 6, Hudson's Bay House. Berens to Bathurst. Sends letter from Colville, with documents; the facts stated by him are fully corroborated by letters from the governor and other officers. The instructions to the governor of Canada did not reach him in time to send up troops last summer, and as there is little probability of his having heard of the return of the settlers, he may not consider it necessary to act on these instructions; asks that they be repeated. Muskets issued for the protection of the settlers have been seized by Cameron for the North-west Company and probably sent to Canada; asks that orders be sent to have these arms restored. 272

Other information and depositions follow to the same general effect. Freeling to Goulburn. Berens to Bathurst. In answer to the report of the total dispersion of the Red River settlement, much later reports have been received by way of Hudson's Bay than that which could have reached Canada. By Colville's letter it appears that after the dispersal of the settlement in June, a party had left the north end of Winnipic on the 7th August, to the number of 50 or 60, and about 90 new settlers who had arrived at Hudson's Bay at the end of this month had also gone to Red River. The order to send military assistance might have been received too late this year, but if orders are immediately sent there would be no difficulty in dispatching a small detachment of troops as the Hudson's Bay and North-west companies are in the habit of sending many men and large quantities of bulky goods several hundred miles beyond Red River. Should there be difficulties of which he is not aware in sending troops from Upper Canada, they might be sent hence in the ships of the Hudson's Bay Company, which sail in May. These might not arrive in time to prevent threatened hostilities, but troops from Upper Canada, could arrive in sufficient time. Were, however, the governor of Canada instructed to express the high displeasure at the unwarrantable proceedings of the North-west Company, it might have the effect of preventing the recurrence of the evil and the North-west Company could inform their partners and agents of the intention of government (if such is the case) to send military protection to the settlement. The powers given by the charter to the Hudson's Bay Company are sufficient in ordinary cases, but not to protect the settlers against the attacks of armed men, so that he feels it his duty again to ask protection for the settlers within the company's territories. Should this be refused and that the settlers must defend themselves and call on the neighbouring Indians for help the result can only be looked forward to with apprehension. The Hudson's Bay Company can at least have the satisfaction of knowing that no blame can be attributed to them, as they have taken every means to press the subject on Government. 322

Address to the Prince Regent (in English), for the preservation of the present constitution and the retention of Prevost as governor. 20

Memoire (in French) in support of the petition to the Prince Regent. (Called "address" in the English copy). The inhabitants regard the constitution as the most capable of giving them happiness, but complain of its mal-administration, all the places being filled by the old subjects, called English whatever their nationality and by a few French Canadians devoted to them, so that the House of Assembly, largely composed of French Canadians, is regarded as a foreign body, and the members treated as rebels against government so that the division has become national, the English party forming the government and the majority of the Assembly being supported by the mass of the people; thus throughout the country there are two parties, as in the legislature. The French Canadian Catholics are treated by the vulgar part of the English party in the most revolting manner and their attachment to the constitution is made a pretext to represent the little confidence that can be placed in the Canadians. The governors, who know them only through the reports of the English party, could not help sharing their prejudices, which were no doubt communicated to the Mother Country. Their sufferings under the late governor (Craig); the governing party has an interest in making them appear to be disloyal, the effect of which is only evil. This course has a tendency to make Canadians regard the constitution in a sombre and odious light, the improper constitution of the courts of justice and their imperfect administration, leading to arbitrary and uncertain decisions. The governor cannot show himself the least favourable to the Canadians without exciting the hatred of the government party; the means for communication between the governor and Assembly is only by a prejudiced councillor, who desires to support the views of his party, which he has often joined either from a spirit of rivalry or by chance. Were this system changed misunderstandings between government and the Assembly would be removed, and the Assembly would no longer be excited and irritated, a state of feeling which passes to the outside. It is suggested that the place of councillor or other honourable office should be given to those who have most influence in the Assembly, the only means by which they could maintain these positions. It is to be presumed that the two parties would unite and national divisions would cease. The insinuation that the Canadians are disloyal because they look to the interests of the country is as false as to charge the Scotchman or the Englishman with disloyalty because he is chiefly interested in Scotland or England, as the case may be, and that he is not capable of filling offices of trust. The Canadians are more concerned for the interests of the Mother Country than the old subjects. If the country passed into subjection to the United States they would no longer have a country to look to, but would become submerged, unable to protect themselves or their religion, which would only render them odious to the other sects which abound in the United States. Fathers could on their death bed only think with horror of leaving their families under such domination. So long as the country remains under the British Empire, they have no such dangers to fear. The English party encourages the Americans to come in, having the same manners, religion and language in order to free themselves from the French Canadians, whom they regard as a foreign people, and many of the officers are interested in bringing Americans to settle on the lots granted from the Crown lands. The only hope the Canadians have is that their interests and those of the Mother Country for the preservation of Canada are identical, believing that the absorption of the Canadian population would mean the extinction of the domination of the Mother Country, and that the loss of the political life of the Canadians as a people would be the loss of the political life of the country as a British colony. Fitzgerald to———. Has tried to ascertain the object of those who are preparing to leave the kingdom and the means provided for their passage, and can only find that the vessels at Ross are employed to procure hands for the Newfoundland fishery. Knows of two brothers who are going to Newfoundland for a year, intending after that to settle in the United States; nine-tenths have the same intention and he does not see how the emigration to the United States is to be stopped if the people go to Newfoundland for a year. Has no doubt that persons are concerned in engaging men direct for the United States with a bounty, although he cannot discover them. He has consulted the Roman Catholic clergymen and requested them to exhort their parishioners not to be seduced; they had not seen the advertisements although they had heard of them. Cork and Dublin are to be the ports of embarkation; a vessel may probably be also sent to Waterford. The superabundance of population in Leinster and scarcity of employment make the people eager to grasp at any prospect of removal. Wishes government would devise a plan for employment, similar to the Highland canal, for instance, set out to prevent emigration from the north of Scotland. If desired shall send plans of that canal and of the break-water at Plymouth. 266

Campbell to Goulburn. The number of those for whom deposits are made to this date, is 80 men, 73 females above 16, and 230 children under 16, a total of 383. They are anxious to embark and are beginning to be discontented that the vessels are not arrived. Has taken every precaution to keep the settlers back till the ships arrive, but many see no newspapers and cannot hear till it is too late; suggests that as these people arrived on the faith of the vessels being here, other tonnage may be engaged, as in private emigration; where ships were detained, even if by contrary winds, the justices awarded maintenance till the ships arrived and the emigrants were put on rations. Selkirk he understands, with others, is collecting emigrants in the north. Desires to know if government intends to hold out the same encouragement next spring, and would consent to send vessels to the north and western islands, as, if known, this would suspend the resolutions of many to go with private adventurers, but in that case every thing should be arranged some months before the sailing of the vessel. Campbell to Goulburn. Has intimated, as advised, that the transports may shortly be expected in the Clyde, to receive part of the settlers and to supply rations for the remainder until the arrival of vessels for their reception. A difficulty has arisen as to lodging and maintenance, as by the letter from the Transport Board, rations are to be given to the settlers who do not sail in the first two transports, whereas Bathurst intends the settlers shall receive rations from their arrival to their embarkation. On account of complaints this becomes an urgent consideration. The Lord Advocate apprehends there is a necessity for an immediate relief in money, otherwise the settlers may be instigated to clamour and mischief. The rates that might be allowed. Memorial sent by settlers to the Chancellor of the Exchequer. No communication received as to the passing of their tools. Announcement made that no more applications would be received. Deposits have been made for 108 men, 90 women, 276 children, a total of 474 souls. The anxiety as to the tonnage allowed to each. was at first received with prejudice, but it has been found that it contains much truth. The inclination to proceed to Canada did not, except in rare instances, arise from a spirit of adventure, but from necessity due to various causes among a people tenacious of remaining on the soil. Opposition to the plan of emigration on the part of the great proprietors; his efforts to remove this. The distinction between the Lowlands and the Highlands requires a modification of the laws. The change of tenure after 1745 has not wholly destroyed the feudal system, which it may not be convenient to obliterate, as in some places its spirit is found to operate in a very high degree. Suggests that small stills might be legalized, as the people would willingly pay for stills within the reach of their operations and capital. The spirit of clanship that exists as shown in the military service. The publicity of the plan of emigration has not, as alleged by some, unsettled the minds of the country, the Scotch being a thinking people who deliberate upon all subjects and few of the applicants appeared to have relinquished their bread in Scotland to seek it in a foreign clime. If the same plan is to be continued next year the public should be at once apprised, owing to the inconvenience that arose from the late intimation and the delay in the arrival of the transports. If the plan is to be abandoned, the same immediate notice should be given to remove suspense and to allow of arrangements being made. The greater security for the defence of Canada from the emigration of the Highlanders than from the mixed mass in the low country. Besides many Highlanders are already in Canada, whose presence there is a strong motive to the emigration of their relations left behind. The numerous applications from various parts of the country supply a reason for continuing the plan. The question of a port of embarkation is of importance, for the Clyde is not central except for the Lowlands and the chief difficulty the Highland settlers have experienced is the travelling overland with their families to the port of embarkation. The embarkation might easily be arranged at different places and a rendezvous fixed on. The Highlanders are beginning to be anxious about the arrival of the transports; asks to be informed whenever accounts are received. General remarks. Page 216

January 27, Orger to ———. The memorial of Thomas Barwis, late of the dock-Tower Street. yard at Kingston, has been sent to Bunbury, Under Secretary of State ; asks his good offices to obtain a speedy and favourable report. Page 388

February 12, Sewell to Gordon. The advantages of having Canadian Army bills
Bryanston authorized by an Act of the Imperial Parliament: If he can find a suit-Street. able man to be teacher of the Grammar School at Quebec, would the £200 a year voted under Craig's administration be available for his salary. Mr. McGill, a Legislative Councillor, left £10,000, a house, &c., as a beginning for a college. If government did not establish the college in ten years after his death, the money was to go to some persons whom he named. Can any measure be taken to save this legacy? If an annual sum were added the college might be founded. The Jesuit estates were originally granted by the Crown of France for education. Could the amount not be taken from them? 608

February 24, O'Connor to Bathurst. Had been refused permission by Prevost to re-London. sign the appointment of acting naval commissioner of the Canadas when selected by the Admiralty for a command afloat. Prevost promised that his claims would be recommended and he was to receive the same salary as his successor. His services and the difficulties he had to overcome. Prays for payment of the difference of salary, amounting to £700. 390

February 25, Same to Goulburn. Bathurst seems favourable to his application for Strand. payment of his claims for the balance due him as naval commissioner in Canada. As he leaves next month, cannot see Prevost, but refers to official communication on his services, drawn from Prevost's own observation. 389

February 27, Prior to Castlereagh. Sends petition to be presented to the Prince Dublin. Regent. 396

Enclosed. Petition, stating the offices he has filled. Would go to Canada with his family and take about 400 young men of good character were he to be appointed to a position of trust, with a sufficient income and lands, &c., to the people with him, so as to form a permanent settlement. 397

February '27. Lord Somerville to Liverpool. Asks that specimens of a plant found by Whitlow, better adapted than hemp for the purposes to which it can be applied may be inspected. He (Whitlow) does not wish to make a monopoly of the plant and its uses, but to repay him, asks for a grant of land in

Upper Canada, where he can put his discovery in practice for the use and benefit of his country. Its approval by the officers to whom it has been submitted. Page 572

The above letter was enclosed to Bathurst in an undated letter, in which Whitlow's case was submitted. If a grant be given, certain payments should be made by Whitlow by means of a number of plants annually to be placed in the hands of capable cultivators in England and Ireland and some sent to Russia. Approves of the manner in which Whitlow proposes to settle the land should he obtain a grant. He (Somerville) has it in his power to ascertain the value of the production, through the captains and mates of fishing smacks, six of which are his property, who can watch the decay and destruction of the article, an advantage not possessed by the most able ropemaker. 573

March 2,
Quebec.

Sir George Murray to Bathurst. Has, by the arrival of the King's messenger with the ratified treaty from Washington, been enabled to inform His Lordship of his arrival and of his having communicated to Prevost the confidential letter of 13th December. No later letters have been received by the King's messenger. He and Owens suffered little inconvenience in the journey from Halifax. By a little exertion this communication may be made more practicable than it has been. Proposes to go to Upper Canada. 350

March 3,
Penge Place.

Selkirk to Bathurst. The application by the Hudson's Bay Company for military protection has been misunderstood; it is not a mercantile question, but a measure for the protection of the lives of the inhabitants threatened by the Indians. Has no desire to have the North-west Company punished, but only to take precautions against the design to extirpate the settlement. If the North-west Company have such a design, they are the last who should be consulted as to the measures to be taken to defeat it. The military force if sent could not be used for any sinister purpose, even if the Hudson's Bay Company had any such in contemplation. If any question of right arises that must be settled by the tribunals. The groundlessness of the charges of illegal proceedings on the part of the Hudson's Bay Company. The different constitutions of the two companies, offering to the North-west Company temptations to violence from which the others are exempt. This and the other subjects of the letter are discussed at length. 577

March 6,
Paris.

Fitzroy Somerset to the same. A French gentleman has called with maps, but does not think he is the one mentioned in Hamilton's letter; desires instructions. 585

List of the maps (in French). 587

Rev. John Simms to Goulburn. His son, a farmer, proposes to go to Canada, if he had the prospect of a livelihood; his qualifications and good character; his wife and two children and probably a younger brother would go with him. 589

March 11,
Fort Augustus.

Allan McDonell, on behalf of other proposed emigrants, to Campbell. Being unable to pay the deposit required before embarkation for Canada, they send memorial to be presented to the Prince Regent, in case he cannot himself grant the privilege asked for. Hopes he will mediate on their behalf and answer as soon as possible, so that those who can advance the money may be prepared, if their request is denied. 352

Enclosed. Memorial to the Prince Regent. The obstacles to their taking advantage of the encouragement to emigrate. 1st. The shortness of the time; 2nd, their inability to pay the deposit required from circumstances stated. Ask that the payment of the deposit be dispensed with on them furnishing security that they will remain for two years on the lands allotted to them and for life, unless they should be called out for military service. Also ask that the time of embarkation be prolonged till the 16th June. 354

Somerville to Bathurst. Has received reply from Whitlow's agent; he reports that Whitlow does not think the land grant adequate; a patent must, therefore, be granted, and he (Somerville), shall try to associate men of a superior class in the patent, so as to give a liberal direction to the monopoly. 591

- May 18,
Kensington. Young to Goulburn. Calls attention to his memorial, the consideration of which has been delayed. Asks for an additional leave for twelve months. 657
- May 19,
Brompton. Sarah Tunstall to Bathurst. Applies for a passage to Canada for herself and family. She is the daughter of the late General Christie; her husband was garrison chaplain of Montreal for 29 years. 627
- May 20,
Montreal. Procter to the same. Understands that it is intended to lay before Parliament the proceedings at the court martial into his conduct, in the expectation that it would elucidate the causes of the disasters on Lake Erie and its shores. The investigation was confined to too limited a period of his command and therefore sends extracts from the official correspondence showing his early anxiety for an investigation, shall also send copies of and extracts from letters in the official correspondence with the Commander-in-Chief whilst he (Procter) was in command of the Western District and Right Division of the army, which he entreats may be laid before Parliament. A duplicate of this was sent dated 5th or 6th, the date being uncertain. 406
Enclosed. Procter to Drummond, 14th December, 1813. Has been expecting the investigation into his conduct, which he sought. The order of the 24th ultimo, conveys a severe censure and he, therefore, asks for a speedy and public investigation. 408
Procter to Drummond, 14th January, 1814. Has received notice of the refusal of Prevost to have a public investigation of his (Procter's) conduct, whilst the Right Division was under his command, on the plea of so many officers being absent. This has not escaped his consideration and he had forborne his demand as long as possible, but the order of the 24th of November last left him no option, as he can no longer be useful till he has cleared his reputation. 409
Same to the Duke of York, 14th January, 1814. Requests that a public investigation be held on his conduct, which has been refused by Prevost. 410
Baynes to Procter, 21st May, 1814. Prevost has received orders to assemble a general court martial for the investigation of his (Procter's) conduct. 412
Brenton to Procter, 19th September, 1814. The court martial shall be assembled on a date to be fixed when his (Procter's) witnesses are known and the charges when prepared shall be notified to him, 413
Procter to Brenton, 22nd September, 1814. Is happy to learn that the court martial will assemble at no distant period. Would have preferred that the investigation had included the whole of his conduct during his command. 414
Brenton to Procter, 27th September, 1814. Transmits the charges for the investigation of his conduct in the retreat of the Right Division in September last (1813). No charge being made against his conduct previous to that time, no investigation has been considered necessary. 415
May 20,
Portsmouth. Samuel New to Goulburn. Asks leave to take his wife's father and mother with him to Canada; they are advanced in years and wholly dependent on him. His wife and (her) sister, who were indisposed, could 1815.

not embark at Deptford. Asks that they be allowed to sail in the "Tyne" from Spithead. Page 373
- May 23, Leicester. Thomas Lee to Sidmouth. Is willing to proceed to Canada, and can bring other families; asks for information respecting allowances to the families. 325
- May 23, Glasgow. Memorial of intending settlers who had disposed of their effects and had come to the port for embarkation at the time announced, pray for the repayment of the expenses they have incurred in consequence of the non-arrival of the vessels. 367
- May 25, Ardross. M. Mackenzie to Bathurst. The redundant population prevents him from improving his property. Asks for a grant of eight or ten thousand acres on which he could dispose of those who are now a burden, but who would be of great use in Canada. Their confidence in him would induce many to emigrate, who had refused previous offers. 369
- May 27, Holles Street. Putman to the Duke of Kent. Has written to Sewell, now at Bath, that Bathurst wishes to see him; has no doubt he will be in town on Monday. 401
- May 30, Gray's Inn. Trunant to C. C. Smith. Recommends Thomas Horner for employment on the commission to settle the boundaries between Great Britain and the United States; states his qualifications. 628
- May 31, Quebec. Baby, Perceval and Perrault to de Bonne. Enclosure D in Bishop of Quebec to Bathurst, 26th June, which see.
- June 1, Kensington. Young to Goulburn. Has received intimation that the prayer of his memorial cannot be granted. Advances additional arguments in its support. 659
- June 4, Galway. Henry Scott to Bathurst. Asks for particulars of the encouragements to be given to people intending to reside in Canada. Sends particulars relative to himself and family. 599
- June 5, Montreal. Enclosed. Particulars. 600
- Procter to Bathurst. In consequence of a report that the proceedings of the court martial are to be laid before Parliament, sends copies of official correspondence to be laid before Parliament, for the satisfaction of the Prince Regent, of both Houses of Parliament and the public and for his own justification. 417
- (The letter is a duplicate of that of 20th May, slightly varying in the wording, and enclosing additional correspondence. The date is either the 5th or 6th of June, but it is doubtful which.)
- Enclosed.* Schedule of official correspondence between Prevost and the general staff and Procter, whilst the latter was in command of the Right Division. 419
- The letters follow but do not exactly agree with the schedule nor follow in the same order.
- A 1. Freer to Sheaffe, 19th December, 1812. Prevost directs him to restrain as far as possible the Indians it may be necessary to employ. Prevost is averse to employing regular troops with Indians, and Procter is to be recommended to caution on that head. 424
- A 3. Prevost to Procter, 1st March, 1813. Is unable to afford him the reinforcements asked for nor is there any prospect of obtaining more troops from Europe. The reinforcement of Indians with an augmentation of militia should enable him to surround Harrison with a cloud of warriors supported by a small and select band of regulars and militia, who would arrest his supplies and reduce his army to a state of distress. The services required of the Indians are to be explained distinctly to Norton and Roundhead, as well as the extent of co-operation he (Procter) can afford them. The officers of the Indian Department are to restrain the Indians, so that there may be no stain on his achievements, Capt. McDouall, one of the aid-de-camps is sent to obtain information of his (Procter's) situation. 425

A 4. Prevost to Procter, 7th May, 1813. The enemy succeeded in getting possession of York on the 27th ult., obliging Sheaffe to retire to Kingston, but there is every prospect that this triumph of the enemy will be of short duration. A reinforcement of 450 picked seamen with officers has arrived for service on the Lakes and will proceed immediately to Upper Canada; this, he hopes, will enable the ascendancy on the Lakes to be regained; is also strengthening the posts in Upper Canada, and will supply him (Procter) with what he needs when his wants are made known, so that he may confidently rely on his exertions to repel attacks. Page 428

A 5. Prevost to Procter, 14th June, 1813. Congratulates him on the success of his defence on the 5th of May; has sent directions to Vincent to supply his wants. When the goods for the Indians arrive they shall be forwarded without delay. Has not received acknowledgment of receipt of instructions to annoy the enemy on Lake Erie, in retaliation for the taking of York. The arrival of Barclay with a small reinforcement of seamen should enable him to check the enemy's attempt to obtain the supremacy on Lake Erie. Is anxious to receive a statement of his marine force. Attached is a scheme to forward two companies of the Royals and a detachment of the 104th for the right division. 429

A 6. Prevost to Procter, 20th June, 1813. Has directed de Rottenburg to push on the remainder of the 41st to Amherstburg, with the other reinforcements and supplies. He is to co-operate with the navy to crush the enemy's endeavours to obtain the ascendancy on Lake Erie. He is to persevere in the judicious exertions which distinguish his command. 431

A 7. Prevost to Procter, 11th July. Was pleased to learn by letter to McDouall of the arrival of Dickson at Mackinac. Had supplied his wants as far as possible and besides the articles sent in charge of Chambers and McLean, shoes, trowsers, &c., had been sent. Ordnance and naval stores must be taken from the enemy on Lake Erie. Has no doubt Barclay will be willing to play that game. The whole of the 41st is placed in his command. The goods for the Indians are not yet arrived; shall purchase 200 guns for them in Montreal and forward with powder and ball. 432

A 8. Prevost to Procter, 12th July, 1813. In consequence of the letter to McDouall acknowledged yesterday, his wants had been supplied as far as possible. Repeats the contents of the previous day's letter. Some petty officers and seamen shall be sent by Yeo on the first opportunity. 434

A 9. Prevost to Procter, 23rd July. Approves of his resolution not to retreat. Yeo will forward as many petty officers and seamen as can be spared, but is afraid the number will fall short of his (Procter's) expectations; will try to obtain more from Quebec, exclusively for the service of Lake Erie. Has the best hopes of his success, and shall not fail to assist him as far as is consistent with what is due to the other parts of the command. 435

A 10. Baynes to Procter 18th June. Copy of abridged note. His requisitions shall be complied with as far as practicable. DeRottenburg is to assume the command of the centre division. List of the troops to join at Amherstburg. He (Procter) is to send a few gunners to Michilimakinak and a captain to relieve Roberts on account of his health; no one can be found to relieve him in his own corps, the 10th Royal Veteran battalion. 436

A 11. Freer to Procter. Having been appointed prize agent, asks for a return of the stores and other effects captured. The Indians are to have a share; the chiefs are to rank as subalterns and the warriors as privates. Has written to Nicoll for such information as he can furnish. The ordnance and ordnance stores, shall be a second issue when their value is ascertained. 438

A 13. Prevost to Procter, 22nd August. Regrets his having committed himself to a hopeless combat in accordance with the clamours of the Indian warriors. As he must be aware of the limited force to defend an extensive frontier, he must not count too much on his (Prevost's) disposition to strengthen the right division. The 2—41st has been ordered up, but it is uncertain when it may reach Amherstburg. A Captain, non-commissioned officers and 18 gunners are to reinforce him from Lower Canada. Two of the three troop ships which arrived with de Meuron's regiment have gone to Halifax with 500 American prisoners of war; the other is laid up, three fourths of the officers and men being ordered for service on the lakes. The first lieutenant with 50 or 60 men, is at Kingston to be forwarded to Amherstburg; this is to be communicated to Barclay. Desires him to send frequent reports on the state of the western district. Has changed his head quarters from anxiety respecting his (Procter's) situation, but hopes that the excellent description of his troops will enable him to overcome the enemy's numerical superiority. Yeo's experience with the enemy's fleet should convince Barclay that he has only to dare and he will be successful. It will give him satisfaction to learn that cordiality exists between the two services, that the well disposed are conciliated and that the Indian warriors are ready to assist.

Page 439

A 14. Freer to Procter, 25th August. Letter to the Adjutant General received and opened. To strengthen the staff, Prevost has appointed Lieut. McLean, 41st regiment, to be his (Procter's) aide-de-camp, his rank not qualifying him to be Brigade Major, to which position Captain Hall, Canadian fencibles, is appointed. The flank companies of the 100th regiment to proceed to Long Point, to be relieved by the 2—41st; he (Procter) is to endeavour to persuade 500 Indian warriors to accompany Dickson to join the centre division. The officers and men of the "Dover" are probably by this time at York. Hall, of the provincial marine, discontinued by Barclay, is appointed superintendent of the dock yard and naval stores at Amherstburg; Barclay's authority does not extend to annulling appointments and none should be made without the general officer's sanction.

441

A 15. Freer to Procter, 26th August. Talbot is to proceed to the head of the Lake to meet the seamen and forward them to Barclay, who Prevost trusts may then be able to meet the enemy. Twelve 24 pounders are to be landed at Burlington Bay to arm the "Detroit." Barclay is to report his arrival at Long Point and when he will be ready for the carronades.

444

A 16. Freer to Procter, 2nd September. Presents for the Indians have arrived safe at Quebec. An assortment sent by the Grand River to Michilimakinak; another will be sent to the head of Lake Ontario to be forwarded to Amherstburg. Letter received; every exertion shall be made to supply Barclay with seamen.

445

A 17. Prevost to Procter, 6th September. Has received word of the enemy's fleet having left the station at Amherstburg, probably for Long Point. March of Hamilton with the flank companies of the 100th; hopes he will arrive in time to organize the militia. Drury of the "Dover" expected at Kingston, with 5 officers, 40 seamen and eight marines; will try to obtain a larger proportion of them from Yeo and forward them. Has always expressed his confidence in his (Procter's) success, and circumstances confirm this opinion. Is glad to hear of the good understanding between him and Barclay and having conciliated the well disposed. If a doubt of this, owing to the receipt of any anonymous letter existed, it has been dispelled. There is no time now to ferret out the villain. The sudden appearance of Armstrong and Wilkinson at 1815.

Sackett's harbour has hurried him back here (Kingston). The 2—41st is expected at Kingston, whence it will proceed in two divisions to York.

A 18. Baynes to Procter, 16th September. His wants have been foreseen and provided for, but the embarrassment on account of the want of transport will not be relieved till the Lakes are again open to the armed vessels. The contest between the two squadrons has been procrastinated beyond all calculation. Yeo is now at anchor within the Bay of Quinté, to land some seamen, wounded in a desultory engagement; no decided action yet. Prevost will see Yeo before he sails; the necessity of decisive measures on Lake Ontario; has been pressed to supply the wants of the centre and right divisions. Prevost has strongly urged the reinforcement for Barclay. 54 officers and seamen and eight marines are here (Kingston) and will proceed with the squadron to the head of the Lake. Part of the supply for his (Procter's) wants is now on the way, the rest will be forwarded if conveyance can be found and the channel opened. Major General de Rottenburg to be informed that the head-quarters are to be removed to Montreal. 448

A 19. Freer to Procter, 16th September. Prevost regrets the inconvenience from want of specie; the arrangements made for a supply. How the officers of the Indian Department are to be paid. Sends invoices of presents for the Indians forwarded this morning. Drury and officers and seamen of the "Dover" are on board the flotilla waiting for a wind to proceed to the head of the Lake with supplies for the right division and then to proceed to join Barclay on Lake Erie. 451

A 20. Baynes to Procter, 18th September. Had announced that the headquarters were removed to Montreal. The Major General commanding is to consider how far it is prudent to contend against the increasing difficulties with which the centre and right divisions have to struggle. The want of a decisive action between the two squadrons on Lake Ontario, which keeps the army in a state of inaction, leaving it in its present critical condition; on the result of that action depends ulterior measures of the army, which cannot take offensive proceedings without the co-operation of the navy. It would not be prudent to fall back as that would cause the loss of wavering friends and be destructive to the Indian alliance. Should a retrograde movement become necessary, it should not be resorted to until previously well weighed and considered and all necessary arrangements made. The advanced divisions are not to be encumbered with baggage; the removal of the sick and invalids is to be provided for. Every available point is to be defended and no retrograde movement made except at the last extremity. This applies especially to the navy, which must be sacrificed to the last atom rather than be allowed to fall into the enemy's hands, nor anything that could be useful to him. Enjoins the most entire cordiality between the centre and right divisions, between which communication is to be constantly kept open. De Rottenburg has been directed to open all dispatches addressed to Prevost, so that his (Procter's) wants may meet with prompt relief. Yeo's third cruise attended with no advantage; he sails again this evening. If deemed eligible Fort George to be attacked before de Rottenburg leaves his position, whose defects, &c., have introduced disease and desertion. To send such relief as he can to McPherson of the 10th Veteran Battalion. 453

A 21. Freer to Procter, 19th September. Sends copy of letter addressed to Yeo; the squadron sailed on Thursday with a convoy of transports having supplies for the right and centre divisions. O'Connor, commissioner of the naval yard, is on board one of the fleet; he is to land at Burlington Bay, and proceed to Amherstburg to make himself acquainted with the strength and resources of the naval yard at the latter place; he is to lay down a ship to be built during the winter, suited to Lake Erie, and to keep pace with the enemy's operations. Dickson has arrived at Kingston; he is to wait for presents for the Indians, take a supply by canoes, the rest to be forwarded by bateaux.

Page 458

A 22. Prevost to Yeo, 19th September. The peculiar position of the centre division, investing a force vastly superior in numbers in a strongly entrenched position. To the local disadvantages are added disease and desertion; he is to proceed with his fleet to the head of the Lake, and consult with de Rottenburg as to a combined attack to dislodge the enemy from Fort George; should the attack be impracticable, de Rottenburg is to evacuate his position and to be assisted by the fleet, which is then to attempt to acquire the naval superiority, Barclay to be impressed with the necessity of gaining superiority on Lake Erie. Transports to be employed on Lake Ontario in conveying supplies to the right and centre divisions.

460

A 23. Prevost to Procter, 23rd September. Has learned of the loss of the fleet, and of part of the heavy ordnance and troops. Presumes that the fleet was ordered out in consequence of the extreme distress for provisions. Approves of the precautionary measures he has taken. Refers him to a letter written by the Adjutant General for his sentiments on the movements of the right division in case he should be obliged to relinquish the territory he has so long ably defended. Has reliance on his measures in consequence of the loss of the fleet.

462

A 24. Freer to Procter, 4th October. Has already written of Dickson's leaving with provisions for Michilimakinak; desires him (Procter) to send provisions as there is a possibility that Dickson may not succeed in carrying up those he has. Authority given to repair at the public expense such mills as may be necessary to secure a supply of flour.

464

A 25. Freer to Procter, 6th October. Sends memorandum for a report for Prevost's consideration. The memorandum relates to the defence of the St. Clair river; the advantages of Penetanguishene as a harbour and place for building ships and the necessity for a stronger garrison to Michilimakinak.

466

A 26. Prevost to Procter, 6th October. Apparently the whole fleet is in possession of the enemy, which is confirmed by Perry's official report, now transmitted. It would have been satisfactory to have learned his reasons for urging Barclay to meet the enemy before the arrival of the seamen, which would have enabled Barclay to meet them on less unequal terms, especially as he knew of their approach. Shall in the meantime, do him the justice to believe that he acted from the best motives. Approves of his making a stand on the Thames and relies on him to conduct the retreat so as to give the enemy no decided advantage. Recommends him to observe conciliation with the Indians and to promise them presents, a large supply of which has arrived. Is happy to find he preserves the unbroken spirit of a British officer, which will, he trusts, with the valour and discipline of the troops, extricate him from his difficulties. No reinforcements shall be sent unless he urge the measure, as that would add to his embarrassment respecting provisions. DeRottenburg, in consequence of a demonstration towards his left, has sent the two flank companies of de Watteville back to Kingston.

469

A 27. Freer to Procter, 23rd November. Warrants will be issued for his staff pay.

471

A 28. Barclay to Procter, 13th June, 1814. In answer to reported charges that harmony did not exist between the military and naval forces of the right division, fully and unequivocally denies their truth.

B 1. Procter to McDouall, 14th May, 1813. Has received only half the 41st regiment. If Prevost's promises had been fulfilled he could have ensured the safety of the flank for some months at least. Tecumseth and his people are settling between the River Raisin and Detroit; the Pottawatomies, twenty miles higher up; and the Ottawas on the River Rouge. This will render the conquest of this territory difficult, if not impossible, if he can have a due proportion of regulars, which cannot be dispensed with. Page 473

B 2. Procter to Prevost, 14th May. The capital of the province being in possession of the enemy, has written direct. In expectation of meeting the enemy before his reinforcements arrived, he had determined to attack. Owing to preparations and untoward circumstances, he could not reach him until three weeks after the time proposed. From heavy rains it was not till the 1st instant, the fifth day after arriving at the mouth of the Miami, that the batteries could be opened. Illness early deprived him of the services of the only artillery officer, and the enemy was so intrenched as to render unavailing every effort of the artillery, though well served and judiciously placed by Dixon. The fortunate result of an attack on the enemy on the 5th inst., aided by the whole garrison, and a reinforcement. At first the enemy took the batteries and some prisoners, but after a short and severe contest he retired. Except those from the post, the rest must have been mostly killed or taken. The good conduct of the 41st, who charged and routed the enemy near the batteries. Mention made of the services of Captains Muir and Chambers, and Lieutenants Bullock and Le-Breton, as well as of the Indian chiefs and warriors. Cannot ascertain the number of prisoners with the Indians; has sent off 500 to the River Huron, near Sandusky, and proposed an exchange, which has been referred to the United States government; estimates the loss of the enemy, in killed and prisoners, at from 1,000 to 1,200 men. The critical position he would have been in had the enemy's reinforcements arrived. Had not the option of remaining on the Miami, as the day after the enclosed letter (No. 7) was received, half the militia had left and the rest declared their determination not to remain longer and the Indian chiefs counselled a return, as they could not prevent their people from returning to their villages, as was usual after a battle, with their wounded, their prisoners and plunder. Before the ordnance could be withdrawn, he was left with Tecumseth and fewer than twenty chiefs and warriors, showing that an Indian force is neither disposable nor permanent, though occasionally a powerful aid. Has brought off all the ordnance, part of it embarked under the fire of the enemy. The service though short has been severe. Services of the officers (named). Sends embarkation returns, exclusive of Indians who numbered about 1,200, sends also returns of the killed, wounded and prisoners; has given the rank of major to six captains of the line. The necessity for reinforcements of regular troops. 474

There were enclosed in this last letter:—

- (1). Agreement for an exchange of prisoners between Procter and Harrison. 480
- (3). Procter proposes to exchange Kentuckians for Indians. 481
- (4). Harrison refers the proposition to his government. 482
- (2). Return of prisoners taken from the enemy at the battle of the Miamis. 482A
- (5). Embarkation returns of Procter's army. 482B
- (6). Casualty return of Procter's army. 482C
- (7). Militia officers to Warburton, 6th May, 1813. From the necessity of sowing their crops, the militia are obliged to return to their homes. 483

B 3. Procter to Baynes, 14th May. The want of camp equipage and of money to pay the men and the Indian department; clothing also wanted, as well as other necessities. No blame can be attached to the commissariat or to the officers of the 41st. Page 485

B 4. Procter to Myers, 23rd May. Is glad to find that the sixth Company and the staff are to be sent. When he receives the remainder of the 41st, he hopes to be relieved of the necessity of calling out the militia or any part of it. Chambers will report the wants in the dockyard; gunboats are idle for want of hands, good use of them might have been made in intercepting supplies for Harrison. Artificers might be spared from York and Kingston. An ample supply of powder should be sent. Cannot send pork to Makinac, only a few barrels here, and the cattle too lean for meat. Asks respecting goods for the Indians; the Indian arm will, he hopes, be strengthened by system and a good supply of provisions and stores, of which there is a deficiency. His growing hopes; if not successful he will endeavour to deserve it. Flour, corn and tallow on board the "Hunter" for Makinac; shall not send the veterans till next opportunity, as the place is in want of provisions more than of men; hopes then to be able to send pork also. Regrets that promotions should be made in the district without reference to him. 486

B 5. Procter to Prevost, 4th June. Sends duplicate by Boucherville. Harrison is in the same state as he was left in, waiting for reinforcements or the result of operations on the Niagara line. Unfortunate circumstances render him more independent on the Niagara line than should have been the case. Full information can be given by Boucherville and McLean the bearers of the letter and duplicate. 489

B 6. Procter to McDouall, 16th June. Congratulates him on his attack on the 6th instant. The enemy indebted to the flitilla for their late successes. Hopes for seamen from the lower Lakes, though fully aware that the enemy are not idle at Sackett's Harbour or Presqu' Isle. Barclay trying to ascertain their real state. Is surprised the enemy has not appeared on the Lake. The necessity of striking the first blow, to which he (Procter) owes everything. Barclay has written earnestly to Yeo for seamen. If he (Procter) had a regular force, he could give an impulse to an Indian force, that would enable them to feed on the enemy, at present the Indians are not half fed and would leave if they were not warm in the cause. The want of men and of Indian arms and goods, &c., is so serious, that the enemy must derive great advantage from that alone. Surely Couch need not have kept them so entirely without money and meat. Is, however, full of hope that he can stand his ground, trusting that every aid and supply will be sent as soon as possible. How the supplies could be sent. Nichol could direct the transfer. A commissariat officer sent to meet the 41st on the Thames and boats for their conveyance. His last letter from Dickson was dated 22nd March; he was expected in June. The enemy's emissaries are taking advantage of circumstances and have detached some of the Indians, who are sending wampum to Harrison; hopes to remedy this and to punish individuals. The necessity for troops to give confidence and restrain the evil disposed. Delay in the arrival of Indians; will counsel them to take a few of Harrison's cattle. Feels no small confidence that he will receive supplies from him (McDouall). 490

B 7. Procter to McDouall, 19th June. The necessity for the rest of the 41st; had understood they were on the route; the reluctance in the Niagara district to send him regulars. Had informed the Indians that 400 troops were on the march; the bad effect of a disappointment. His anxiety to hear from Dickson. He (McDouall) will have plenty of Indians without more being sent; there are some fine fellows among them whom he (Procter) may miss. Is very anxious to have the new vessel in the water where she will be safer; every effort should be made to send seamen before the vessels at Presqu' Isle are ready, but the cry has been always against sending men here. The consideration shown him (Procter) will be apparent in sending (name omitted) who brought his baggage but left the provisions and the baggage of the 41st to be destroyed or to fall into the hands of the enemy. The bearer is waiting for this scrawl; most of the horses are completely done up from the bad roads.

B 8. Procter to McDouall, 29th June. Arrival of Dickson at Makinac on the 11th. Grant has brought in 72 head of cattle, he having been sent by Vincent for the purpose. An effort must be made to procure a supply of meat, but that cannot be done without troops, for the Indian force is not disposable, though he hopes it may be made so. The Indians seldom get anything but bread. Guns, ammunition and bread wanted for the Indians. Neither the troops nor departments can be paid, if money is not regularly sent. The "Detroit" will be launched in a fortnight; could lend her guns if she had seamen. Believes that Barclay is now making some attempt on the enemy; he may expect to lose some men.

494

B 9. Procter to McDouall, 4th July. The non-arrival of reinforcements has prevented the district from being in a state of security, which the destruction of the enemy's vessels at Presqu' Isle would have effected. That might easily have been done a short time since; it will now be a work of difficulty; he could also have supplied himself with provisions at the enemy's expense. He will not willingly attack Presqu' Isle except he has the whole of the first battalion. Complains of the detention of troops at Niagara to suit the convenience of individuals. The 41st has lost all its books, which were very complete, so that the loss of every register and document is irretrievable. The total want of artificers in the district is very injurious. Hopes Dickson will be sent if he can be spared; he would be a powerful assistant. The treachery of the inhabitants in the settlement on River Raisin will, he is afraid, prevent him from preserving it; they sent information to the enemy that nearly enabled them to cut off a party of Indians. Harrison, he understands, has a strong party of horse, and when the ships are ready it is intended to attack in various quarters. The enemy certainly paid a visit to the River Raisin settlement, where he (Procter) would have a post if he had the means.

496

B 10. Procter to Prevost, 4th July. Is sensible of his (Prevost's) attention, but complains of the detention at Niagara of troops ordered. Had they arrived he could have secured the safety of the dock yard and post of Amherst, by the destruction of the enemy's vessels at Presqu' Isle; it is not yet too late if the 41st were at once sent to Long Point. There was an error with respect to the provincial marine, which does not rest with him, as he had notified Sheaffe of the changes necessary. Is confident of the most cordial co-operation from Barclay, whose arrival lessened his anxiety. Sends letter from him (Barclay) whose desire is to have some more of the Royal Newfoundland regiment, his greatest reliance being on that part of the corps which is serving as marines. The want of artificers in the district, apprehends that part of the 41st is to be detained at Niagara to serve as artificers. Hopes this will not be sanctioned, as in his district there are scarcely means to construct even a blockhouse. Dickson was at Makinac on the 11th ultimo but whether he is coming here or is gone by Lake Huron to York he (Procter) does not know; the weather has been much against him but he has fully succeeded with the Indians. Harrison has arrived with a body of horse at Fort Meigs; he is to advance through Michigan, whilst the flotilla lands troops on the Canadian shore. Each of the corvettes seen by Barclay is equal to the "Queen Charlotte"; there were eleven vessels in Presqu'Isle. From the treachery of the inhabitants of the River Raisin, he will no longer be able to save the territory. The service greatly impeded by the scanty and irregular supplies of money. Arrival of a vessel from Makinac, other two not far behind. Dickson should be here shortly. If Yeo sends sailors something will be done. Want of arms and ammunition. The enemy's cavalry has been as far as the river Raisin; the Indians afraid of cavalry. The inadequacy of his troops has prevented him from having a post there. Page 499

B 11. Barclay to Procter, 29th July. There is a want of stores of all kinds, especially of iron, which have been demanded long ago. Has sent abstract of former requisitions. The "Detroit" may be launched in ten days, but cannot be ready for service till stores and guns are sent and there is not a seaman to put on board her; the ships are manned with a crew, part of whom cannot speak English, none of them seamen and they are few in number. The enemy has two corvettes in a forward state at Presqu'Isle, which they can soon man in much superior force to anything his exertions can get ready to oppose them. Has no doubt that Yeo will send such seamen as he can spare, but not in sufficient numbers until a supply can be got from England or Quebec. Good shipwrights wanted, those here being ignorant of their profession. If a party were sent, vessels injured in action could soon be repaired and rendered effective. In the meantime such repairs have to be postponed. In spite of all the difficulties the "Detroit" will be ready to receive her guns and men when they are sent up. 502

B 12. Procter to Prevost, 13th July. Barclay to sail with his vessels to Long Point to embark Evans and 100 men of the 41st. If the enemy's vessels are still in Presqu'Isle he is to endeavour to keep them there till assistance can be sent, which can be soon done if sailors are sent immediately as there are guns to arm the "Detroit," until those intended for her arrive. She will be launched in two days, when she will be in greater security than on the stocks. Were 100 seamen pushed on that would probably secure the superiority on the Lake, at all events enable the fleet to appear on it. Is already weakened on shore, but should seamen arrive, he shall send more soldiers on board to supply the deficiency. His mortification that his Indian force is not disposable and he must yield to their desire to go to the Miami instead of to Sandusky. The reinforcements reluctantly afforded have been so tardily sent as largely to defeat the purpose. Has no hope of aid from the centre division; 300 seamen are wanted for the vessels on the Lake. 504

B 13. Procter to Prevost, 11th July. Sends copy of letter from de Rottenburg; his surprise and concern on reading it. Is fully confident of receiving aid from His Excellency (Prevost) but he is so situated that these intentions are of no avail. The Major General cannot at present assist in the upper Lake until he secure the command of the lower, after which, he says, the command of the upper Lake could be recovered; dissents from his opinion. Had the force ordered been sent to him, he could have destroyed the fleet at Presqu'Isle, thus securing the command of the Lake and benefiting the centre division. If the command is lost it will be difficult to recover it. Dickson might have been landed on the enemy's flank or rear. Has never thought of a retreat, the very attempt at which would make the Indians enemies nor should he conceive the province to be lost in event of disaster on Lake Ontario. Complains of the delay in forwarding reinforcements. Shall make an attempt on Sandusky; cannot attack Presqu'Isle without the remainder of the 41st. Barclay goes to Long Point for Evans; if he meet the enemy, there must be an engagement; if the vessels are not ready, he will endeavour to keep them in the harbour. The number of soldiers he has been obliged to put on board the vessels. Page 506

B 14. DeRottenburg to Procter, 1st July. Notifies him (Procter) of the arrangements for retreat in case of disaster to the fleet on Lake Ontario. 508

B 15. Procter to Brenton, 13th July. Sends information that Whitmore Knaggs, on parole, was taken in arms in the settlement on the River Raisin, called Frenchtown. He belongs to the Indian Department; his house was plundered by the Indians, according to the example set by Hull, the effrontery of whose people equals their want of principle. Knaggs is a dangerous man and has twice attempted assassination. 510

B 16. Procter to Prevost, 9th August. Owing to the conduct of the Indians has been obliged to go to the Miami, contrary to his judgment. After remaining two days, finding that the Indians were returning to Detroit and Amherstburg, he moved to the lower Sandusky, with as many hundred Indians as there should have been thousands. The unsuccessful assault on the fort on the demand of the Indians, who if refused would have gone off; but who ran away from the fire of the fort which they had demanded leave to assault; had, therefore, drawn off his force after the assault; sends embarkation and casualty returns. The loss, though severe, is less than could have been expected. The Indian force is not to be relied on and only useful when the troops are independent of it. The Indians surprised and cut to pieces on a plain near Sandusky; their dread of cavalry; the service that could be rendered by a troop of the 19th Regiment. Another officer of artillery wanted. If the wooden defences of the enemy could be burned, Harrison's army must have been destroyed long since. The enemy's vessels out of Presqu'Isle so decidedly stronger that Barclay had to return to Amherstburg to get the new vessel ready for sea, which will be in eight or ten days, when she will want hands. The unsatisfactory manner in which the forces are sent, when opportunities are lost by delay. The enemy in great numbers at Presqu'Isle and reinforced at Fort Meigs. Harrison has arrived at his headquarters, near lower Sandusky. Must look for the enemy from two quarters, whom he must oppose with his small force. The enemy may probably land at Long Point, gain the rear of the centre division, and affect his (Procter's) supplies, 150 sailors would have obviated this evil. The enemy can soon establish himself in force on the River Raisin; he would have had a post there, if he had had the means. Entreats for more troops. If the enemy can establish himself on the territory, it will operate strongly against him (Procter) on the minds of the Indians; can only rely on the troops. Has not desponded nor does so now, but thinks it his duty to state the inadequacy of his force. 511

B 17. Procter to Prevost, 18th August. Return of a small vessel, which reports having seen the enemy's fleet, twelve vessels. Supposes they are establishing themselves on the Bass Islands, which form Put-in Bay, which he would have occupied, if he had had the means. If he had seamen he could place the "Detroit" in security, which he cannot now do; entreats for means to continue the contest; he does not expect the least assistance from the centre division. The fleet drops down to the bar, as the best place to meet the enemy's vessels; should a landing be attempted it will not be possible to avoid an action, though without seamen and the enemy's vessels well manned. Is trying to dispose of the Indians to the best advantage. Will do his duty and heartily hopes for more assistance. 516

B 18. Procter to Baynes. Want of officers of the staff; shall endeavour to select an officer to relieve Roberts, of the 10th Veteran Battalion, whose conduct he trusts will meet with approbation. His local knowledge, and that of the Indian character is much increased. Increase of his regular force wanted, so as not to depend on the Indians. The Tuscaroras would not have attacked Bishop, but for the smallness of his force, it is to be regretted that the Indians have begun to act in a hostile manner, the only remedy is a greater force of regulars; the Indians follow each other at times unaccountably and there are some in the United States of the same nations on whom the enemy are using every means to operate, the small quantity of presents giving the enemy an advantage and the opinion of deRottenburg agrees with his, that they move off when most wanted. He has manned the fleet, armed the "Detroit" and looks for an attack on two quarters by the enemy in considerable numbers, whom he must meet with a small and divided force, the enemy having more thousands than he (Procter) has hundreds of regulars. A supply of seamen would give a fair prospect. The benefit from the order for the distribution of presents. Page 518

B 19. Procter to Baynes, 22nd August. Thanks for the handsome manner in which he is informed of his promotion. 521

B 20. Procter to Prevost, 26th August. Had informed Barclay that 50 or 60 seamen were on their way. (A marginal note says that only 42, including petty officers, and some not able seamen, were sent). The service that would be rendered by pushing them on, there is peculiar need of them. The miserable description of the crews, except 25 with Barclay, and not enough to work the vessels. The harmony between him and Barclay, who has besides the Newfoundland regiment, 150 of the 41st, better soldiers could not be, but they are only landmen. The little trust to be placed in the Indians. As long as Barclay is without seamen, he should avoid the enemy. All his (Procter's) ordnance is on board except the field. In event of disaster to the fleet, the arrival of seamen could be of no use; they should be pushed on even by dozens, and he shall have conveyances ready. The fleet once manned, and one flank secured, the Indians may be induced to move to the centre division. The enemy's fleet reconnoitered ours lying off Hartley's point, three miles below Amherstburg and anchored off the settlement 20 miles below Amherstburg. Boats are collecting in numbers at the island. 521

B 21. Procter to Prevost, 29th August. The enemy's fleet quitted the station it seemed to have taken for the purpose of covering a landing, supposes it has gone to Long Point. Every effort is making to have the fleet effective especially in training the men to the guns, but the supply of officers and seamen is very inadequate. The provincial marine scarcely better than that on Lake Ontario, which it has been found necessary to lay aside. The arrival of Barclay was fortunate. There are only 24 seamen on board the fleet and he should have been averse to send soldiers on board had it not been for the presence of officers of the Royal Navy. The cordiality between the army and navy and no dissatisfaction among the well disposed inhabitants except for the want of seamen. Every inducement will be used to get the Indians to go to the centre division, but it is dangerous to weaken the force before the fleet can meet the enemy. Unless considerable quantities of Indian goods arrive within a month the consequences will be serious. Entreats that more seamen may be sent. 524

B 22. Procter to Brenton, 31st August. Is unable to send money to Roberts, that sent by Couche being inadequate to his necessities. 526

B 23. Procter to Freer, 3rd September. The evil effects of the want of money for the pay of troops and other expenditures. 527

1815.

(In the schedule the date is given as the 3rd, in copy of the letter certified by Capt. Procter it is the 13th. There seems to be no doubt the 3rd is the correct date.)

B 24. Procter to Freer, 6th September. States at some length the deplorable effects of delay in sending presents for the Indians. Page 529

B 25. Procter to Prevost, 13th September. Reports the defeat and capture of the fleet on Lake Erie; cannot maintain his position as by this disaster the enemy will be enabled to turn his flank and is arranging to fall back on the Thames. The management of the Indians will be a delicate affair. Is endeavouring to form depots at convenient distances and to erect block houses on ground overlooking Turkey Point; these can be built expeditiously by the aid of the militia, who are expert axemen, and can be maintained against any body of the enemy. If drawn off from the Thames before the Indians are settled there, they will regard this as desertion. Can still make the enemy uncomfortable, although with the fleet he lost his ordnance and one third of his regular force; still thinks he can drive the enemy out of the district. Regrets the absence of Dickson, whose exertions in bringing on the Indians would be beneficial. Barclay's assurance that he would do his duty, and his request that if he did not survive this would be reported. The action must have been a severe one. The aggravation from the fact that Presqu'Isle could have been destroyed when Barclay lay off that place. The creation of a navy by the enemy. The superior situation of Turkey Point to Amherstburg for a dock yard. 530

B 26. Procter to Prevost, 21st September. The enemy's fleet discovered standing into Carrying Bay, between Sandusky and Miami and four vessels discovered at Put-in-Bay, with lower masts in and two rigged vessels, one of which chased the canoe which was reconnoitring. Expects an attack from the enemy. The sick, the women and children are on the Thames, as well as the stores; the little remaining ordnance is sent off, except the field, some of the shot must be disposed of, not to fall into possession of the enemy. Has determined to fall backward and make a stand on the Thames, as the enemy in his present position could cut-off his supplies. Has brought the Indians to reason, many will accompany him and many have arrived with their wives and children. The enemy is in advance in considerable force accompanied by their small vessels and gun boats. The hazard of fighting on the other side where his retreat could easily be cut off. Has no salt pork or salt and little flour, so that his rear must be open to supplies or he must fail from want of them alone. Sees in a letter from Harvey that it is intended to make him responsible for the loss of the fleet. 534

B 27. Procter to de Rottenburg, 23rd October. Has, through Tecumseth, satisfied the Indians. Reports his movements towards the Thames and his plans for making a stand at Chatham; his inability to occupy the narrows of the Sinclair (St. Clair) as he had intended, was induced to take post at Dover, where ovens had been constructed and there was shelter. Attack by the enemy and retreat of the Indians to Moraviantown, which made it requisite to destroy the vessels and stores brought from Amherstburg, and others that could not be removed. Had his instructions been carried out there would have been no want of food. The unfitness of the boats; in the retreat the Indians and troops took different sides of the river and the boats became exposed to the fire of the enemy and fell into his possession with several men, provisions and all the ammunition, which enabled the enemy to advance on both sides of the river. Made a stand in a wood below Moraviantown. His defeat and escape. The troops had not the confidence in themselves they usually had and which would have produced a different result. The conduct of the enemy's cavalry was marked by peculiar cruelty to the families of the Indians. Page 536

B 28. Procter to de Rottenburg, 16th November. Has paid attention to the wants of Michilimakinak; repeats information given in a previous letter. Reports the affair at Moraviantown and subsequent retreat. 542

B 29. Procter to de Rottenburg, 16th November. Sends extracts from letters from Bullock, who relieved Roberts at Mackinac; arrival there of Dickson on the 22nd ulto.; it is not probable that Mackinac will be attacked this winter. 547

June 5,
Glasgow.

Alexander McNab to Campbell (?). Prays, for himself and others, for allowance for food and lodgings to the intending settlers, who are detained waiting for vessels in which to embark and for an allowance in Canada for the loss incurred by want of cultivation of their land, owing to the delay. 370

June 26,
Quebec.

Bishop (Anglican) of Quebec to Bathurst. In consequence of the resentment of Prevost respecting a memorial by the Executive Council and his threatened representations as to the conduct of the members, sends copies of correspondence to show the nature of the transactions. 551

Enclosed (A). Bishop of Quebec to de Bonne, 24th April. Reports his conversation with Prevost in regard to the memorial, which he (Prevost) held to be hostile to him, charging that undue influence had been used to obtain signatures and that his (the Bishop's) servant and de Bonne had been employed for this purpose. Harper, the messenger, was employed to get the signatures and it was stated that he was drunk and that Cochran, the Secretary, had copied part of the memorial he carried. 553

(B). Cochran to Prevost, 2nd April. Denies that he read the memorial surreptitiously. It was brought to him by the messenger, who asked him to read it. 556

(C). Members of Executive Council to the Bishop of Quebec, 5th May. Assert their right to make a representation to the Prince Regent on the state of the colony, especially as Prevost did not consult them; if they had not done so, they would have violated their oath. They defend the manner of the address, which they could have prepared as a Council, but not being called together, they were obliged to sign it individually. It was unanimously agreed that His Lordship (the Bishop) should be asked to prepare the address, to which he agreed after some solicitation. How the address was discussed, settled and sent to the Colonial Secretary for presentation to the Prince Regent. As to Cochran's statement, they are yet to learn under what system it is honest for a confidential messenger to deliver up a paper to any one, or correct and honourable in Cochran to receive it. How they feel at the charge by Prevost that they were duped into signing, &c. 557

(D.) Baby, Perceval and Perrault, members of the Executive Council, to de Bonne (in French) 31st May. Their approval of the address which they had signed without any undue influence being used. 562

De Bonne to the Bishop, (in French), 15th June. Cannot understand why the gentlemen who signed the letter of 31st May, now transmitted, preferred this mode to that unanimously adopted to testify to His Lordship the formal denial of Prevost's assertion and resenting his insulting imputations. Defends his own course and characterises Prevost's charges against him in his conversation with the Bishop as false, calumnious and reckless, the constant attack upon the measures of his predecessor and his friends being to lower them and elevate himself; it being easier for him to be the hero of the mob and dregs of the people than in his own station, but unfortunately his intrigues have taken effect in places but little suspected. His (de Bonne's) age and attachment to his King and country should place him above all suspicion. Suspects that the actions of Prevost arose from the craft with which he had intimidated the Assembly after exhausting his blandishments. The idea that after showing his independence he could let himself be seduced by a servant—makes him blush. However disagreeable it may be to give a direct and formal contradiction to a person of the rank of Prevost, he must do so. He never received any message from His Lordship by a servant, nor did he solicit any one for his signature, either at His Lordship's instigation or otherwise. Suspects that in the conversation, smarting under the animadversions on his civil and military measures and his unexpected recall, Prevost's mind was in a state which scarcely left him the control of his observations or the choice of his words. Sewell to Gordon. His elation that certain charges by the Assembly against him have been disallowed, but others, apart from those brought because of the advice he has given to governors, have not been also specifically disallowed; thinks this ought to be done by the Prince Regent. Encloses letter to Bathurst only to be delivered if he (Gordon) should think it judicious to do so. 612

July 24,
Bath.

Same to Bathurst. Calls attention to the defects in the order-in-Council, disallowing the complaints of the House of Assembly against Monk and himself, in similar terms to those used in letter to Gordon of same date. 615

- September 14,
George Street. Prince to Becket. Is disposed to settle in Canada; what grant of land would be given him; would it be in the neighbourhood of a navigable river? 404
- September 21,
Three Rivers. Short to Owen. Not having heard, is afraid his last letter has miscarried. The arrival of emigrants, the necessity for better arrangements if they are to be retained, owing to the high wages paid in the United States. Government must support the settlers liberally, but in such a manner that the expenses will return to their source. 604

- November 20,
Liverpool. Same to Goulburn. The American ship "Trident" not sailing for a fortnight, shall avail himself of an earlier opportunity should one offer. 651
- November 27,
Chaplain General's Office. Owen to Bathurst. Encloses letter from Short, missionary at Three Rivers; his worthy character. His habits might induce his Lordship to consider his opinions on an important subject. The difficulty in emigrating to uncultivated lands is to provide for immediate subsistence, and the facility of passing to the United States is a temptation to people hampered through their own imprudence or inevitable difficulties. The comprehensive view of government to judge if all practical precautions have been taken. 393
- November 30,
Sloan Street. Jane Lynd to Goulburn. Desires to know if any answer has yet been received to her memorial. 346

1815.
November --, Sewell to Montague. Calls attention to the question of education. Shall be gratified if permitted to wait on the Attorney and Solicitor General to discuss the points raised. Page 618
- December 1,
London. John Norton to Goulburn. Explains the nature of his memorials. The first part is to avoid the misrepresentation that as the five nations have no government, a grant to them as a body gives an equal claim to all and a right to none. It comprises the individual rights of the people of the Grand River. The other, the measures necessary for the collective rights of the aboriginal tribes bordering on Canada as a community protected in their natural rights by the Crown. Reason why the Confederated tribes may remain unconnected with the civil government and be under the direct protection of the King, attached to the military commanders as a power directly proceeding from him. The lands hitherto occupied by the Wyandots, or Hurons, and the Ottawas falling within the territories of the United States, it becomes necessary they should obtain part of the lands formerly possessed by their ancestors until driven out by the Iroquois. A few missionaries and instructors having lands for their support, would be an establishment of permanent benefit. 376
- December 1,
London. Same to the same. Applies for full confirmation of the grant of land on the Grand River, and that the same may be divided to the different families of which the confederated tribes are composed. Prays also for compensation for the losses sustained by the Moravians and Munsey Delawares after the affair at Moraviantown. 379
- December 1,
London. Same to the same. Is desirous to rescue the Hurons, Delawares, Ottawas, Chippewas and others in the vicinity of Upper Canada, from the power of the United States, and proposes that a tract of land may be allotted to them along the shores of Lake Huron (the boundaries described), and that they may be placed under the immediate protection of His Majesty, and attached to the commander of the forces, and the generals under him. Suggests that the issues of clothing, etc., may be made only twice a year, in April and September. Asks that permission be granted to go to the assistance of Indian allies distant from Canada, should they be attacked by the United States. 381
- December 4,
Chester. Jones to Bathurst. Shall exert himself to procure 500 labourers, with their families, from North Wales, to colonize the Niagara frontier, if due encouragement is granted, but his residing there must be optional. 327
- December 6,
Vere Street. Norton to Goulburn. Sends the memorandum submitted to Prevost in February, 1814, with his answers. The quantity of land disposed of on the Grand River; to preserve the rest proposes that it shall cease to be a common and be specially appropriated to faithful chiefs and warriors. 383
- December 12,
Vere Street. Same to the same. Not having heard since he sent the memorandum, had called to explain anything that might be necessary. 385
- December 21.
London. Same to Torrens. Has seen three patterns of rifles at Tatham's; the first two might be deemed a peculiar mark of distinction to a few leading chiefs; the others would be prized by the warriors. 386
- December 21,
Brussels. Moncrieffe Willoughby to Bunbury. Proposes a plan for obtaining settlers for Canada from the Nertherlands. 652
- December 25,
Liverpool. John Wilson to Goulburn. The delay caused to his sailing by the "Trident" being driven ashore in a gale. Shall lose no more time than he can help. 655

- Duke of Kent to the same, 15th May, 1797. Shall as suggested communicate to Prescott his (Connolly's) ideas on the attempt on the Spanish possessions in the Illinois; cannot himself communicate directly with His Majesty's Ministers as he must avoid every appearance of interference. His anxiety to see him (Connolly) employed, &c. 8
- January 21,
Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (confidential). Had recommended to Sir George Prevost, for reasons given, that Norton should be allowed to retire from the Indian department with a pension of £200 for life and £100 to his widow in event of his death, so that his influence over the Indians might be secured. Not finding that Prevost had brought this to the notice of any department now recommends to submit this proposal to the favourable consideration of the Prince Regent. 10
A duplicate of this letter is marked (No. 93).
- January 22,
Quebec. Same to the same, (No. 92). Is unable till next spring to obtain estimate of the expense for rendering the Ottawa and Rideau navigable and of constructing the canal between Montreal and LaChine. Recommends, like his predecessor, the employment of a civil engineer to superintend and that from 300 to 400 men accustomed to such work shall be sent with the necessary tools, &c., on account of the scarcity and high price of labour. It would be desirable that the work should be completed in the coming season, but is afraid that cannot be done. Recommends that grants of land should be made the workmen who are willing to settle. 12
- February 10,
Quebec. Same to the same (No. 94). The provincial Legislature opened on the 26th of January. Sends copy of speech and addresses. 15

- February 12,
Quebec. Same to the same (No. 96). There is little prospect of obtaining from the inhabitants of Quebec any amount worth consideration toward repairing the Cathedral, nor is there any local fund applicable to that purpose. Authority might be given to draw on the Jesuit Estates, the revenue of which, amounting to more than £4,500 annually, has hitherto been transferred to the military chest. This is the proper source for such repairs, and for supporting places of worship of the established church in the province. Page 30

Enclosed. Bishop (Anglican) of Quebec to Drummond, 1st February. Reports that nothing worthy of consideration can be obtained from the City of Quebec, to be applied to repairing the Cathedral. 32

February 12,

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 97). The difficulty of placing settlers on Crown reserves owing to the nature of the instructions to substitute reserves in the same township. Asks that this be modified, so as to allow of substituting reserves to be taken in adjacent townships. 35

February 12,
Quebec.

The same to the same (No. 98). Sends estimate for the expense of erecting a suitable magazine for the fort on Point Henry, at Kingston. 37

Enclosed. Nicolls to Foster, 7th February. Report respecting a bomb proof magazine required for the fort at Point Henry. 38

Quebec.

Estimate. The amount is £1,313 7s. 9d. 39

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 99). On the ratification of the treaty of peace with the United States, when Michilimakinak was to be restored to that country, McDouall found it necessary to show the Western Indians strong tokens of their great Father's satisfaction at their conduct and as the presents had not arrived he was obliged to purchase, the goods to be paid for partly by a return of similar goods, partly by cash to the amount of £1,500. For the same reason he (Drummond) has been obliged to purchase to the extent of £500. Asks for the sanction for these proceedings. 41

February 13,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 100). Sends return of the officers of voltigeurs on its reduction. Stean has resigned as lieutenant and adjutant of the 49th, in the hope that he will be allowed half-pay as granted to a paymaster of the line, recommends this from his exertions as secretary and store-keeper of the establishment of new settlers. 43

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 101). Strongly recommends the purchase of the land at Cataraqui Point, about two miles and a half above Kingston, for the erection of fortifications. 46

February 14,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 102). Reports a destructive fire on the 27th ult., in the garrison, by which the armoury, armourer's work-shops, ordnance and camp equipage, provost and part of the artillery barracks consumed, and a great quantity of arms and stores deposited therein destroyed. The board of officers reports that there were no grounds to impute the cause of the fire to design. It is to be lamented that smiths' shops and work-shops were allowed to be in the same building. This is the third alarming fire since September. Sends report of the proceedings of the board of officers, returns, &c. 48

February 14,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 103). Recommends that the camp equipage and militia clothing required by letter from Fowler, in charge of the Quartermaster General's department, should always be in store, but leaves the decision to His Lordship. Recommends, however, that the 6,000 great coats asked for should be sent as soon as possible. 50

Enclosed. Fowler to Drummond. Recommends that a supply of camp equipage, great coats, and militia clothing should be sent. 51

Quebec.

Drummond to Bathurst. (No 104). His satisfaction at his conduct being approved of in not acting on the vote of one branch of the legislature for the £5,000 to Prevost. A bill was introduced this session "for appropriating a sum of money for the purchase of a service of plate to be presented to Sir George Prevost," and was passed in the Assembly but rejected by the Council. 53 1816.

February 18,
Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 105). Has referred the memorial of Mrs. Jane Lynd to the commissioners for managing the Jesuit Estates, who report that her request cannot be granted without essential injury to the revenue of the estates hereafter. Page 54
- February 26,
Quebec. Same to the same (No. 108). Has prorogued Parliament, sends copy of his speech. 69
Speech. 70
- February 27,
Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 106). According to instructions to withdraw the detachment of Royal marine artillery and any other detachments of marines in Canada, he has ordered the two companies of Royal marine artillery to assemble at Quebec for embarkation. There will be no detachments of marines left in the country but those serving with the navy on the Lakes. 55
- February 27,
Quebec. Same to the same (No. 107). Owing to the proceedings of the House of Assembly he had been compelled to dissolve it. The proceedings to renew the charges against the Judges dismissed by the decision of the Prince Regent; sends copy of resolutions on the subject. The bad effect on the province of the dissolution, as the Assembly had been in the habit of passing only temporary laws and was evidently resolved to attend to no business until they had brought forward their charges against the Chief Justices. Attempt on the part of the House to appoint a law clerk in violation of the prerogative, and to employ him (Christie) as their printer and the press formerly used by "Le Canadien" now in the hands of the most violent and factious members of the Assembly was to be used by him. Reports the observations of Sherwood and of Papineau and other members. The intrigues to gain over the county members and efforts to influence the legislature. 56
Enclosed. Resolutions of the House of Assembly on the impeachment of Sewell and Monk, Chief Justices. 67
- March 1,
Quebec. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 109). Progress of Drummondville on the St. Francis; the families settled have passed the winter without ill effects from the climate. The number of children requiring a school, the inability of the settlers—chiefly discharged soldiers—to build one; has contributed £50 to the subscription for this purpose originated by Lt.-Col. Heriot; recommends that the settlement should be provided with a church and minister. The poverty of the settlers prevents them from building a church. Asks that the expenditure, if not more than £1,000, be sanctioned for the building, and that a military chaplain be appointed. 71
- March 1,
Quebec. Same to the same (No. 110). Has received information of the appointment of Major General Wilson to succeed him. His desire to be relieved could not be overcome by the appointment, which appeared to be only temporary; had he been aware of its being intended that it was to be permanent, he would have devoted his energy to secure the welfare of the government, and have endeavoured to arrange for the settlement of his affairs, and being joined by his family. Asks consideration to the period when the command devolved upon him, when no necessary arrangement could be made, and he had not been able to see Sir George Prevost, whereby he lost the information that could thus have been obtained. The embarrassing situation in which he had been placed by the sudden removal of the troops. The objects he had in requesting leave of absence have been, in great measure, defeated by the delay. Wilson not yet arrived; shall wait for the opening of navigation, and proceed by the St. Lawrence on his arrival. 74

Drummond to Bathurst (No. 135). Has, as instructed, warned all officers on the frontier posts from entering into political correspondence with civil or military authorities in the United States. It was impossible to avoid such correspondence on the giving up of posts; it might have been avoided at an earlier period but for the rancorous enmity of the American inhabitants, and even of the authorities who might have shown a better example. Copies of all the communications are sent

He has not the qualifications to bring forward the same corps again; he has, however, always done his duty as a zealous and brave officer. 320

Heriot to A. W. Cochran, 11th June, 1816. Duchesnay was an active officer, possessing much zeal for the service, "but from my knowledge of the fact I can by no means allow that he was the principal in raising the corps." Shall take no steps in regard to transferring the Jesuit Estates to the Royal Institution for the advancement of learning till the return of the Bishop of Quebec and the Superintendent of the Romish Church, both absent on their visitations. Is desirous also for further instructions in answer to Wilson's letters. 3

Enclosed. Report of a Committee of Council on the suspension of Stephen Sewell. 5

July 13,

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 7). Has received dispatch, transmitting, for consideration, copy of letter from Drummond respecting the claims of Vassal, adjutant general of militia in Lower Canada and the services of the sedentary militia. Sends copy of letter from Drummond's secretary, showing that a decision had been arrived at in Vassal's case from which he saw no reason to deviate and as the services of the militia had been acknowledged and rewarded by Prevost, he sees no reason to urge their case upon government. 38

Enclosed. Loring to Vassal, 7th August, 1815, His Excellency does not consider his claim for additional pay to have any foundation. 40

Quebec.

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 3). Sends copy of correspondence with McDouall, commanding at Drummond Island. Has instructed him to repress, by every means in his power, the hostile disposition of the Indians towards the United States and has communicated this to Bagot, Minister at Washington. He (Sherbrooke) will spare no exertions to induce the Indians to abstain from acts of hostility. 7

Enclosed. McDouall to Sherbrooke, 19th June. The impossibility of carrying out orders in consequence of the long delay in the receipt of dispatches. If the post is to be occupied for purely military purposes, desires to know how far the authority of the commanding officer extends to maintain order and sobriety. It would be desirable that the commanding officer should be made senior justice of the peace. The endeavour to secure the purchase of the island from the Indian proprietors. The missing papers cannot be found. Regrets that the purchase of presents to reward the bravery of the Indian chiefs has not been approved of. He and Lieut.-Col. McKay will each pay half of the cost. Page 9

McDouall to military secretary, 19th June. Arrival of 400 Indians and expected arrival of a much larger number. The confederacy to oppose the Americans building forts on the Indian lands. The suspicion of the Indians that the Americans aim at their final extinction. The difficulties of the situation; suspicions of the Americans and the misrepresentations that will be made of the giving of the ordinary presents. 12

McDouall to military secretary, 17th June. The sudden reduction of the garrison, the influx of the Indians and the defenceless state of the post render the erection of a block house necessary, more especially from the ferment among the Indian tribes from the intentions of the Americans to erect forts on their lands with their consent or by force, if the consent cannot be obtained. The Indians are bent on resisting the measure as contrary to the treaty of peace. The chiefs of the greatest talent cannot divest themselves of the suspicion that their complete subjugation, if not entire destruction, will be the consequence of the accomplishment of the American measures. Further arrivals; the indignation of the Indians at no promise of assistance being given. His awkward situation; the Americans at Makinac make use of every art to add to the discontents of the Indians, threatening and cajoling them by turns and uniformly concluding with the boast that they had driven their English father from amongst them and would shortly drive him to the other side of the Big Salt Lake. The little powder given does not please the Indians, but is blazoned over the United States as supplying them with the means of war. The violent measures at Makinac, seizure of all the furs belonging to British traders, &c.; the effect on the Indians of British traders being prevented from going amongst them. Shall, in this state of things, occupy the heights for the proposed fort with the smaller guns with a temporary cover. The timber for the block house is already on the ground. The injurious consequences of delay in the receipt of dispatches. Sends estimate of the expense for the block house and stockade. 15

Estimate. 21

Addison to McDouall, 15th July. He is to discourage hostility on the part of the Indians towards the United States, which the British government will neither countenance nor assist in. Their complaints shall, however, be attended to and represented, which will be a more likely way to obtain their reasonable objects than by acts of indiscreet hostility. His Excellency will approve of the construction of the block house. 22

Hall, military secretary, to McDouall, 4th July. The proposal respecting the block house will be laid before His Excellency, who is daily expected. He is to avoid controversy with the American government; should disputes arise, an account should be sent to headquarters, so that they may be dealt with through the regular channels. 24

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (separate). Has received the instructions given to Drummond to dissolve the Assembly. Such a step will only aggravate the embarrassment. In such delicate circumstances a governor might find means to carry on the public business without coming to extremities. Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 5). Has, in accordance with instructions to Drummond, communicated with the commissary general on the purchase of Stuart's property at Cataroque point. Stuart's letter is enclosed refusing to abate anything of the price; has, therefore, directed the completion of the purchase at £1,000 currency, the acquisition of the property being considered essential for the public service. The sale of the wood will probably not amount to the sum expected, but he will take care to dispose of it on the most advantageous terms possible. 33

Enclosed. Robinson to Addison, 22nd July. Andrew Stuart declines to abate the price of his land at Cataroque point in Upper Canada; waits further commands. 35

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 11). The judges of the King's Bench having been informed that it is the Prince Regent's pleasure, they should receive an increase of salary, a question has arisen whether this is to be given from the date of the dispatch or of their application. The judges had earlier intimation of the increase than that in the dispatch to the governor; recommends their case for favourable consideration. Enclosed. McDouall to Sherbrooke, 7th August. Sends copies of Indian speeches delivered at a Council. The violation by the United States of the treaty which was to secure the Indians in all their privileges, &c., as admitted by the Americans themselves when they did not claim the restitution of the fort at Prairie des Chiens, because it was in the Indian country; and they have since tried to purchase land for a fort, offers for which had been rejected. The attempt to take possession by force is a glaring violation of the treaty; this the Indians are determined to resist and he has little doubt the United States are trying to goad them into a war. The exclusion of Indian traders is regarded as even worse than the building of forts, as the place of these traders cannot be supplied, many lives being lost among the Indians every year for want of clothing, but there is no remedy as the right to trade was given up by the late commercial treaty, a clause of which the Americans know the full value. He dreads that if, besides this, the building of forts is permitted, the Indians from being friends, seeing themselves abandoned, will become bitter enemies. Next to cutting off the Indians the exclusive monopoly of the fur trade is the favourite project of the Quebec. intend to resign as suggested, but if another situation were found for him out of the Canadas has no doubt he would exchange for that. Thanks for His Lordship's exertions to secure a well qualified solicitor general. 309

- December 19, Same to the same (No. 66). Has been taking measures to lessen the Quebec. expense for settlements. The want of surveyors to lay out the lots has caused delay and the consequent issue of provisions beyond the time originally intended. Before other settlers are dispatched a notice of the numbers to be expected should be sent. No emigrant should be allowed to leave Great Britain after the first week in June, so that they might arrive in time to make some progress towards settlement. On the Rideau settlement there is still room for about 1,500 emigrant families, but the land is not yet surveyed; by contracting for the surveys the difficulty might be overcome. The assistance to emigrants will be paid out of the military chest; the civil arrangements will rest with the provincial government of Upper Canada. To secure compactness the Crown reserves which interfere should be granted to the settlers and an equivalent taken elsewhere. Sends estimate of the expense attending the settlement of each emigrant family. A year's provisions certain should be given to each settler with a discretion to extend it to eighteen or twenty months, which has been found necessary with few exceptions.

Baker to Dixon, 24th July, 1815. Transmits copy of note from Secretary of State of the United States respecting the restitution of the United States establishment at Columbia River. "The claim of the United States rests solely on the words of the treaty, their title to any possessions on that coast never having been recognized by Great Britain." 6

James Monroe to Baker, 18th July, 1815. Applies for restitution of the post at Columbia River, in terms of the treaty, asking for a letter to that effect to the British commander there. 7

Baker to Monroe, 23rd July. Having no communication from his government, cannot give the letter asked for; refers him to Admiral Dixon. 8

March 23,
Foreign Office.

Hamilton to Goulburn. Sends for Bathurst's information copy of note from the American Minister, with enclosures, relating to interference by the British commanding officer and the magistrates of the western district in the jurisdiction of the United States, on the murder of an Indian by an American, and the measures taken by the American governor of the territory. Asks what explanations should be given. 214

Enclosed. John Quincy Adams to Castlereagh, 21st March. Complains of the conduct of the British officers, Colonels Nicolls and James, in stirring up the Indians to hostility against the United States, contrary to the terms of the treaty and the wishes of the British government, the officers holding out threats of revenge by the Indians for acts committed on United States territory; the fear of their proceedings leading to war. Trusts that such orders may be sent as will leave no doubt on the minds of these officers that the intention of Great Britain towards the United States is peace, which can be preserved only by mutual respect to each other's territory. Calls attention to the impolicy of maintaining large armaments on the Lakes. The United States government will agree to keep on the lakes no other armament beyond what is necessary to collect the revenue, should Great Britain agree to the same. The army kept up by the United States is not greater than the force maintained in Canada and Nova Scotia and there can be no declaration of war except by an Act of Congress. The mutual disarming on the lakes will, it is hoped, be regarded as a further guarantee of peace. 215

Colonel James to Governor Cass, 5th October. Reports the shooting of an Indian in a canoe near Grosse Isle, by a shot from a boat containing eight or ten Americans; an inquest will be held to-morrow. It is unnecessary to point out the custom of the Indians under the circumstances. 222

General Cass to James, 5th October. He will cause inquiry to be made as to the alleged murder of an Indian and if the case can be proved the guilty person will be punished; it was unnecessary to refer to the Indian custom of retaliating, the courts of law will do justice. 223

Cass to James, 7th October. The killing of the Indian was in consequence of his having presented a gun at McComb; it arose out of the predatory practices of the Indians which, if not checked, will lead to more disastrous consequences. The Indian having been killed within United States territory, no British officer has the right to require information on the subject. 224

James to Cass, 21st October. Forwards copy of a letter from the deputy superintendent of Indian affairs; he (Cass) will no doubt order restitution. 225

Caldwell to James, 21st October. The Americans have stolen eight horses and a colt from Stony Island, belonging to the Kickapoos. The Prophet asks that application be made for their restoration. Last summer the Indians stole a number of horses from the other side which were given up. Page 226

Cass to James, 26th October. Can take no notice of Caldwell's letter owing to the nature of its contents. The complete control of each nation over the Indians and all others in the respective territories; the Indians must, therefore, apply to the government under which they live for redress of injuries. Personally he may explain that three horses were taken from Stony Island, which were believed to be the property of people in the territory and were followed by others. One was found to belong to a citizen of Detroit; the others were ordered to be returned to the Indian owners, when they should come to claim them. 227

Proclamation by the magistrates of the western district, offering a reward of $500 for securing the murderer of the Kickapoo Indian; dated 18th October. 230

Counter proclamation by Cass that the alleged murder was committed on United States territory and the person accused must be tried by the tribunals of that country. 231

Horse Guards. Duke of York to Bathurst. Enclosed. Memorial from Vassall. 166

Enclosed. Owen to Croker, 25th February. Applies for a clergyman and a convenient place of worship at Kingston, as for want of religious instruction, the people are falling into barbarism, and the seamen have no means of keeping alive the moral lessons they may before have learned. 11

Hamilton to Goulburn. Transmits copy of note from J. Q. Adams, with documents relating to the sale in the West Indies and Halifax, of slaves taken during the late war, under promise of freedom, with copy of answer. 233

Enclosed. Castlereagh to Adams, 30th April. The vague information contained in the depositions respecting the negroes affords no means of investigation, except in the case reported by Pat. Williams and those of C. Ironmonger and P. Hall; into these inquiries have been making and it is hoped the United States Government will assist in procuring the presence of Pat. Williams as a witness on a charge of felony against Wood, of Nassau, and the captain of the "Moselle" founded on his deposition. The British government are so anxious for the punishment of the crime, if proved, that it will undertake to pay all the expenses of the witness and remunerate him liberally for his absence from his native country. With respect to the other cases said to have taken place in Bermuda and Halifax, he (Castlereagh) cannot understand how an individual would advertise publicly that he was about to be guilty of a felony and that too in a colony where slavery is not recognized by law. With respect to the slaves taken on board the "Wilhelmina" the construction put by Adams on the decree of the court of vice-admiralty is erroneous, as their condemnation to the King is the legal mode of preventing their continuance in slavery. All other cases shall be investigated and he (Castlereagh) is satisfied it will be shown that so far from being treated as slaves the negroes are enjoying all the rights of freemen. 234

Adams to Castlereagh, 15th March. Sends list of affidavits respecting the sale of slaves in the West Indies and Halifax, taken from citizens of the United States. The United States government was willing at the conclusion of peace to have allowed the question to drop, it is now brought forward not to cause irritation but by desire of Lords Liverpool and Castlereagh to clear the character of British officers and to fix the blame on those to whom it was justly applicable and to bring them to condign punishment. In the original allegation the name of no officer was mentioned, the names of several are given in the present documents. Presumes with respect to the invitation to the slaves to leave their masters that the production of the proclamation will be sufficient. If after full investigation it shall be found that no sales of such slaves took place, the United States government and the persons who made the charge will concur in declaring that the impression under which it was made was erroneous, but the investigation should have the concurrence of both governments. The decree of the vice-Admiralty court at Jamaica appears to establish a case of slaves captured as a prize and the other documents show instances of sales of negroes taken as prizes. A list can be furnished of slaves taken during the war, and it is for the British government to show how they were disposed of. The local authorities of the places to which the slaves were taken have interposed obstacles to inquiries. 238

Decree of vice-Admiralty Court of St. Jago de la Vega. 242

Deposition of Caleb Jones, respecting negroes carried off by British soldiers. 244

May 14,
Horse Guards. Torrens to Goulburn. Transmits letter from Bouchette. The Duke of Kent was mistaken in supposing that the Duke of York would make the request in favour of Bouchette. - Enclosed. Torrens to Wilson, 16th May. Has received dispatch with copies of correspondence. Transmits extract from letter to General Lord Charles Somerset in reference to his pressing for the immediate removal of his predecessor; Somerset had a stronger position than he (Wilson) had, to demand the supercession. Drummond was correct in the stand he took, and in refusing to allow him (Wilson) to leave, which would have been contrary to the objects of his appointment to the staff. 177
- Torrens to General Lord Charles Somerset, 1st September, 1814 (extract). Had it been supposed he would have interfered with the command of his predecessor before he had left, instructions would have been given to prevent this inconvenience. 179

July 6,
Admiralty.

Same to the same. Transmits copy of letter from Sir Edward Owen to Drummond respecting the boundary line at the Long Sault and the establishment at the Grand River; also preferring Isle aux Noix to St. John's as the naval station.

32

Enclosed. Commodore Owen to Drummond, 16th June. The boundary line at St. Regis is sufficiently correct to leave no probability that it needs to be removed. Recommends making an establishment for Lake Erie on the Grand River. The naval establishment for Lake Champlain should be at Isle aux Noix instead of St. John's, but the works now on the former do not give the necessary protection.

42

Capt. Owen to Walker, deputy naval storekeeper, 31st December. Censures his method of arranging for transport, which he attributes to want of reflection, not to want of zeal. Points out considerations which may prevent the recurrence of the measures taken.

44

Edward Laws to Captain Owen, 9th February, 1816. Statement showing the large profits made by contractors for transport; recommends that the deputy naval storekeeper hire the trains, but if a con-

Enclosed. Owen to Croker, 21st February, 1816 (extract). Recommends the offer of Henderson to establish iron works at Gananoque. There are other offers, but these offers all require monetary help from government. 53

The Act. 269

July 17,
Foreign Office.

Hamilton to Goulburn. Transmits dispatch from Bagot, with correspondence on the subject of deserters on the Detroit frontier being permitted to enter the American service. 272

Enclosed. Bagot to Castlereagh, 4th June. Had represented to Monroe the fact of more than twenty deserters having been enlisted into the American army at Detroit, and the impropriety of the practice. Monroe said it was a direct breach of the general orders of the War Department. Had intimated to Monroe that a formal remonstrance would be sent; transmits copy of the note. 273

Lt. Col. James to Harvey, 2nd March. Sends partial list of men who have deserted and been enlisted in the United States army. Many deserters from that army have offered to enter the British service, but have all been refused; the care taken to discourage desertion from the United States army. 275

Bagot to Monroe, 24th May. Calls formal attention to the practice of enlisting deserters into the United States army, as inconsistent in any circumstances with the friendly relations of two neighbouring countries, but more especially the admission of these men into corps within sight of the regiments they had so disgracefully abandoned. Believes attention has only to be called to the practice to induce the United States government to prevent its recurrence. Calls attention to the practice on the part of the British commanders of refusing to receive United States deserters and compelling them to leave the frontier within twelve hours. Page 277

Enclosed. Correspondence, namely, Bagot to Monroe, 10th May (280); Bathurst (should probably be Castlereagh, and is no doubt an error in copying the documents for transmission to Goulburn) to Bagot, 20th November. 1815 (281); Monroe to Bagot, 15th May, 1816 (283); same to the same, 30th May (284); Bagot to Monroe, 24th May (286); Bagot to Castlereagh, 4th June (287). 280 to 287

July 27,
Halifax.

(The persons in question were delivered over to the British authorities.) Rear Admiral Griffith to Croker (No. 54). In consequence of notification from Bagot of negotiations with the United States respecting the fisheries, he has withdrawn in the meantime his instructions to the cruisers, so as not to interfere with the negotiations. 107

Enclosed. Hamilton (Foreign Office) to Croker, 20th May. Bagot has received powers to negotiate with the United States respecting the fisheries. The Admiralty is requested to send instructions to the naval officers to obey such orders as they may receive from Bagot. 109

Griffith to Croker, 16th June, 1815. The "Espoir" has been ordered to watch American vessels fishing in the St. Lawrence, and the "Jaseur" to look to those fishing off Nova Scotia, and to inform them that as fishing privileges have been abrogated by war, they are to desist from fishing under pain of seizure and confiscation, and foreign vessels are to be seized when found in ports and harbours of these districts unless they have entered them in distress. 110

Goulburn to Croker, 21st June, 1815. Sends copies of dispatches from Bathurst to vice Admiral Sir R. G. Keats. 111

Bathurst to Keats, 17th June, 1815. By the treaty of 1783, the United States fishermen had the privilege of fishing within British jurisdiction and of using the shore for the purposes connected with the fishery; these privileges have been abrogated by the war and not renewed by the present treaty. The fishermen of the United States are not to be interfered with on the Grand Bank of Newfoundland or at sea, but they are to be prevented from using British territories for purposes connected with the fishery. If, however, they have through ignorance formed establishments as before the war, which could not be suddenly abandoned without considerable loss, they are not to be interfered with during this year, unless they attempt to carry on a contraband trade, but it must be explained that they are not to expect a continuance of the indulgence during any future season. 112

Bathurst to Keats, 17th June, 1815. As the season is late, some fishermen may still arrive from the United States; against them the principle of exclusion need not be enforced. They are, however, to receive the same warning as was given to those who were engaged previous to his arrival. 115

July 29,
Admiralty.

Croker to Goulburn. Sends copy of letter from Board of Ordnance, relative to order by Wilson for depositing at Quebec the ordnance stores for vessels on the Lakes, asking that Bathurst give orders for their being forwarded to their destination. 75

Enclosed. Crew to Croker, 14th August. To prevent the expense of landing at Quebec stores intended to be sent to Kingston for ships on the Lakes. 76

Croker to Goulburn, 26th August. Sends correspondence respecting the employment of ships of war to prevent smuggling and to use them for the conveyance of troops and stores; there does not appear to be any objection to the employment of the ships for the transport alluded to. 78

Owen to Croker, 1st June. Sends correspondence with the lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada and with the administrator in chief. The position of the officers of the navy on the Lakes; his desire to stop jobbery in the transport of stores, &c. 79

Owen to Drummond, 20th March. Calls attention to the policy of the commissariat in respect to transport, which encourages settlement on the American side; if vessels are required he would take the responsibility of building them rather than to purchase from the Americans, as they can be built at least as cheaply on the Canadian side. There have been no losses in the transport by His Majesty's ships, but the transport of stores from Nottawasaga requires some better arrangement; is ready to apply all His Majesty's vessels to this service. Capt. Bouchier has not yet sent report on the road from Burlington, 80

Bouchier to Owen, 2nd March. In answer to inquiry from the commissariat respecting transport, has recommended the purchase of a vessel from the Americans. McDouall complains of losses in the transport of stores, and recommends a radical change. Discusses the advantage of a road from Burlington for transport from Lake Ontario to Lake Erie. 83

Drummond to Owen, 13th April. Has directed the commissary general to send information respecting the schooner said to have been bought in the United States for transport, which he considers to be impossible, as he did not give it his concurrence. Has desired the commissary general to communicate his (Owen's) offer for the transport of stores, &c. 86

Robinson to Foster, 13th April. No vessel was built for the commissariat; the contractors for transport may have had one built, but with that he could not interfere. Has directed the commissariat officers to avail themselves of Owen's offer, provided the officers of the ships of war will sign receipts or bills of lading. 87

Owen to Drummond, 21st April. Even if the vessel for transport was not directly ordered by the commissariat, has not changed his mind on the impolicy of having the vessel built in the United States. There was no need to make the stipulation as to signing receipts for stores sent by His Majesty's ships, they are signed by the master not by the captain. 89

Owen to Gore, 27th May. Thanks for the opinion of the Attorney General as to the right of the vessels of both nations to navigate the Lakes and that the search of public vessels is illegal. That only the collector of Customs has the right to visit vessels on the Lakes gives a new feature to the naval service. Shall transmit the opinion and His Excellency's decision. Page 91

Owen to Gore, 21st March (extract). Asks for authority for the naval officers to assist in preventing smuggling, such as is the case in the United Kingdom. 93

Bourchier to Owen, 2nd March (extract). Hopes that the government will hold all the land for four miles up the Grand River; the bad character of many of the settlers, with no magistrate nearer than 40 Mile Creek; has acted as one, which he believes he has a right to do; asks for advice. 95

Gore to Owen, 14th May. Sends opinion of the Attorney General; the civil authority is sufficient for the support of the revenue laws. 96

Croker to Goulburn. The Lords of the Admiralty prefer the entrance of the Grand River for the principal depot and naval establishment on Lake Erie; deepening the river or constructing a mole may be left to the chief engineer. Refers to Bathurst the report from Owen on the fall of water in Lake Erie and the propriety, in consequence, of building a pier in Mohawk Bay. 99

Enclosed. Commodore Owen to Croker, 31st August. On the subject of the fall of water in Lake Erie and the propriety of building a pier in Mohawk Bay, which is an object of the greatest importance. Has already stated its advantage and described the situation he thought favourable; has built a hut and placed a careful person to watch the rise and fall, the effect of bad weather and winds in summer and of the ice in winter. Sends copy of letter to Bourchier, with sketch. Remarks on the class of vessels required, the collection of materials, &c. 100

Enclosed. Bagot to Castlereagh, 4th July. Sends note from Monroe. 304

Monroe to Bagot, 12th June. In reference to the alleged enlistment of British deserters, instructions have been sent to McComb, command-

Page 305

September 24, Joseph Planta, jr., to Goulburn. Transmits dispatch, with enclosures, from Bagot respecting the enlistment of British deserters in the army of the United States. 306

Enclosed. Bagot to Castlereagh, 12th August. Transmits copy of note from Monroe, on the subject of enlisting deserters. 307

Monroe to Bagot, 20th July. Sends copy of letter from General McComb that no deserters have been admitted to the United States service; if any have gained admission it has been without his sanction and against his intention. Inquiry shall be made to ascertain if any have been admitted. 308

McComb to Monroe, 20th June. There has been no recruiting since the war, but as substitutes are allowed, deserters may have crept in by that means; more stringent rules have been passed. The perfect harmony that exists between the officers on both sides. 309

September 25, Joseph Planta, jr., to Goulburn. Sends dispatch from Bagot, with enclosures, relative to the hostile disposition of the Indians in the United States. 311

Enclosed. Bagot to Castlereagh, 12th August. Sherbrooke has reported the hostile disposition of the Mississippi Indians towards the United States, on account of the building of forts contrary to the treaty of peace. Has communicated the report to Monroe and the steps Sherbrooke is taking to allay their excitement, assuring them they would get no military assistance from Great Britain. Monroe asserts that only one fort is to be built, that at Green Bay, where there has always been a fort. Is afraid that the fears of the Indians are too well founded, and that this fort is only part of a larger system. 312

Sherbrooke to Bagot, 15th July. Reports the hostile disposition of the Indians towards the United States, and the steps he has taken to allay the excitement. 314

McDouall to military secretary, 17th June. The defenceless state of the post at Drummond Island; the ferment among the Mississippi Indians, it having been intimated to them that the United States intend to build forts on their lands, with or without their consent. The fears of the Indians that their extermination is intended. The anger of the chiefs at the evasion of the question of their being supported by Great Britain. His embarrassment caused by the silence imposed on him. The Americans at Makinac are making use of every means to increase the discontent of the Indians and the moderate quantity of powder given to them will be blazoned forth as supplying them with the means of war. The violent measures taken at Makinac and the determination to exclude British traders from the Indian territory; the indignation of the Indians when this shall become known. Has occupied the heights with the small guns. The uncertainty of correspondence. 315

McDouall to military secretary, 19th June. The delay in the receipt of letters prevents the carrying orders into immediate effect. The difficulty of purchasing the island and the obstacles thrown in the way by the Americans. Regrets that Sherbrooke did not approve of the purchase of the few swords, sashes and epaulets, to be presented to the Indian chiefs as a mark of the estimate of their zeal and bravery; he and McKay will each pay half of the cost. 321

McDouall to military secretary, 19th June. Arrival of 400 Indians, chiefly Sioux, the number will, before long, amount to 1,500. Believes there is a strong confederacy of Indians, which will be no easy conquest for the Americans. The delicate position in which he is placed owing to the presence of this Indian army. The expectation of the Indians to be supported in their claim to the lands secured to them by treaty, which the Americans are trying to violate. Their horror at the idea of British traders being excluded; will act with circumspection; the presents given to the swarm of Indians, with which they are not satisfied, will resound from one end of the States to the other, as an incentive to them to go to war, and that they are being furnished with the means.

Hall, military secretary, to McDouall, 4th July. The letters relating to the erection of a block house and to other subjects will be laid before the governor general on his arrival. He (McDouall) is not to correspond directly with the authorities of the United States; matters in dispute should be communicated to the governor general, who will correspond with the United States through the resident minister. 327

Addison, military secretary, to McDouall 15th July. He is to do all in his power to discourage in the Indians their hostile disposition towards the United States. They are to be persuaded, if possible, to return peaceably to their homes; to be explicitly told that the British government will not assist them in acts of hostility, but any complaints they have to make will meet with immediate attention, which will be a more likely means of obtaining their reasonable objects than by means of unreasoning hostility. The commander of the forces will approve of the construction of the block house. 328

September 27, Torrens to Goulburn. Sends letter, &c., from Sherbrooke recommending an allowance to de Watteville for his passage from Quebec for the favourable consideration of Bathurst. 189

September 30, Hamilton to the same. Transmits copy of dispatch from Bagot, with Foreign Office. enclosures, respecting the reduction of the naval armament on the Lakes. 330

Enclosed. Bagot to Castlereagh, 12th August. Reports the conference held with Monroe on the proposed reduction. 331

Alleged arrogant conduct of the British on Lake Erie, extracts from the "Pittsburg Mercury." 337

Bagot to Monroe, 26th July. The Prince Regent will cheerfully adopt the spirit of Mr. Adams's suggestions as to the reduction of the naval armament on the Lakes, but is unacquainted with the particular arrangements which the United States government would propose to make for this object. 341

Monroe to Bagot, 2nd August. It being stated that Adams has not given the precise proposal for the reduction of the naval armaments on the Lakes, the President proposes the following arrangement, one vessel to each government on Lake Ontario, not exceeding one hundred tons burden, with one 18 pound cannon. He also proposes that on the upper Lakes there should be two vessels of like burden and force and on Lake Champlain one vessel not exceeding like burden and force; all other vessels to be dismantled and neither party to build or arm any other vessel on the shores of these Lakes. Other conditions. 343

Bagot to Monroe, 6th August. Is not authorized to agree as to details and shall send the proposal to his government. Shall, however, give effect to any arrangement which can be made for suspending the construction and equipment of armed vessels on the Lakes. 346

Monroe to Bagot, 12th August. Proposes that the regulations stated in his former note be adopted provisionally and if this is agreed to, an order will be issued to carry these arrangements into effect. If he has not power to do so, asks him to send list of British naval force now on the Lakes, with an assurance that its further augmentation shall be suspended and the United States government shall issue an order to confine its naval force strictly within that limit. 348

Bagot to Monroe, 13th August. Cannot make any agreement, even provisionally, as to the exact manner in which the respective forces on 1816. the Lakes shall be limited, as reference must always be made to the arrangements of a peace establishment and to the ordinary services of the provinces. Has not a correct statement of the naval force in commission; shall procure and send it, and in the meantime all further augmentation shall be suspended. Page 350

- January 10,
Treasury. Lushington to Goulburn. In reference to recommendation from Drummond relative to the destitute situation of the widows and families of many of the officers of the militia of Canada, and especially the case of R. Richardson, who has been severely wounded, recommends that he be allowed a shilling a day, but the Legislature of Canada should provide for this. If there are difficulties in the measure Bathurst should have a sum entered in the next estimate to provide for it. 81
- January 10,
Hudson's Bay
House. Pelly, Deputy Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, to Bathurst. The remote situation of the Red River settlement a strong argument for military protection against violence; the small population would have been more than doubled had the settlers been protected. They suffered hardships at the beginning, but as soon as they began regular cultivation they had a large surplus of produce which was the principal cause of the inveterate hostility shown. The conspiracy of the North-west Company to destroy the settlement has been openly charged by the Hudson's Bay Company, which is the guardian of the peace of the territory granted by charter. If accusations are made against the Hudson's Bay Company's servants they should be communicated, to be refuted if false or the ill-disposed punished if true. The cases of Miles McDonell and his sheriff are in train of regular legal decision. Had sent such documents as it was thought would be sufficient; sends now other depositions and a letter from a partner of the North-west Company to the agent at Montreal, informing him of the intention to open hostilities "against the enemy at Red River" and at the Red River he gave out that he held the King's commission and appeared in uniform. The careful investigation shows the deliberate design to destroy the settlement in which design the outrages originated. Asks that the opinion of counsel may be obtained as to the powers of the company to enforce order, which would prevent outrage and remove doubts industriously promulgated. 183

Enclosed. Mann to Mulgrave, 24th April, 1816. Transmits copies of letters, &c., from Nicolls, by which it appears that all the works of defence have been stopped. The defensive works at Quebec and Kingston are indispensable and can be carried out without the general plan which depends to some extent on the result of the commission on the boundaries. Sees no objection to the employment of the officers of engineers in superintending the proposed canal and surveying the country. Page 52

Nicolls to Mann, 5th January. Sends copies of communications from Drummond, by which the distribution of officers of engineers must be differently arranged. Calls attention to the importance of the works at Quebec, Missisauga Point and Fort Henry. Everything will be done to facilitate the work on the canal between Lower and Upper Canada by the Ottawa and Rideau rivers, that to LaChine being for the benefit of Montreal should be treated as a civil measure. The direct passage from Quebec by the north side of the island of Montreal appears to be the natural military route being much shorter and more secure and can be rendered safe and commodious at an expense trifling when compared with that by Montreal and Lachine. 54

Foster to Nicolls, 1st January. In consequence of orders (extract sent) from Bathurst, all works of defence in the Canadas are to cease. Drummond will, however, send instructions respecting the works at Point Henry. 57

Bathurst to Drummond, 10th October, 1815 (extract). The Prince Regent's gratification that Michilimakinak has been restored to the United States according to the treaty. Until the boundaries are formally recognized all works of defence in Canada are to cease. Plans should be sent for approbation for any works that may be considered indispensable. 58

Nicolls to Mann, 23rd December, 1815. Sends returns. Remarks on the fortifications. Calls attention to the propriety of relieving the young officers of engineers of duty which could be performed by the other departments leaving them free for higher employment. The importance of strengthening works of defence. 62

Red River Colony again broken up by the violence of Semple and his people, who fired on a party of Indians with provisions for the North-west Company. The Indians returned the fire, and rushing upon them, killed Semple and his whole party, about 20 in all, except one man, who escaped wounded. Miles McDonell, who had set off with the early canoes, hearing of this, returned to St. Mary's, where he met Selkirk with the deMeuron men, whom he had engaged. Does not think he will proceed, as in the present temper of the Indians the whole would be cut off or starved. Ill fortune of the Athabasca expedition. About 19 starved of hunger, the rest threw themselves on the mercy of the North-west Company's posts for subsistence. The people and property seized at the North-west Company's post at Lower Red River by Colin Robertson were sent by him to Hudson's Bay post before the conflict. 230

January 6,
London. Norton to Goulburn. Thanks for the satisfactory answer by Bathurst respecting the Five Nations. A special confirmation by the Prince Regent of the grant of land to the Five Nations would be peculiarly gratifying. The land belonging to the Cayugas and Onondagas was ceded to the United States by the treaty of 1783. The money to be paid for it is given to the part of the tribes who remain in the United States to the detriment of the others. The tract of land proposed as a place of settlement for the Wyandots, Delawares and other tribes in the vicinity of Canada is at present possessed by the Wyandots, sometimes called the Missisaugas, who since the settlement of Upper Canada have been considered the proprietors of the land between the three lakes. It was from them all the land granted to settlers was bought; the right to a much larger extent has been extinguished and the Missisaugas are willing to admit their brethren of other nations as joint proprietors. Those he wishes to concentrate there number upwards of 1,500 men or about 8,000 souls, the better to ensure their preservation. Page 345

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 70). Report received from commissioners for the special inquiry respecting the Indian territory, that Selkirk had resisted the execution of a legal process of arrest, and that, under cover of a transfer of property at Fort William, he was removing the goods of the North-west Company into the Hudson's Bay territory. The commissioners are afraid the North-west Company may call on the Indians to help them to prevent this measure. They desire to be allowed to proceed again, hoping to reach Fort William during winter to prevent the evil consequences of Selkirk's acts, and have also asked for military assistance, which he (Sherbrooke) has found it impossible to grant. Asks for instructions, and for the Acts, etc., respecting the Hudson's Bay Company. 3

January 2,

Myers to Gore, 19th November, 1816. The governor general (Sherbrooke) has received still stronger orders to retrench. The expenditure for settlement must, therefore, be restricted. 34

Gore to Sherbrooke, 11th November, 1816. Owing to the exhausted state of the public chest, there are no funds for the expenses of surveying for settlement on the Rideau; asks for a warrant for £1,500 to meet the expenses of the surveyor-general to 30th June. 36

Myers to Gore, 23rd November, 1816. The governor general cannot order the advance of £1,500 asked for. 38

Extract from letter from Ridout, surveyor general, 10th June, 1816, respecting the accounts due for surveying. 43

Sherbrooke to Gore, 28th December, 1816. Since his (Sherbrooke's) arrival, he had understood that the expense of surveys was defrayed from provincial funds; this belief is established by the correspondence and refers to letter from the surveyor general in further proof of this. Under the circumstances, he will defray the expenses from the 1st July last, leaving the question of the liability to the decision of the ministry. Regrets the hasty conduct of the Council in ordering the dismissal of all the surveyors. Page 44

Enclosed. Gore to Sherbrooke, 20th December. Sends minute of Council respecting settlement, in which he hopes he (Sherbrooke) will concur. 64

The minute referred to. 65

The extraordinary course taken by the Council in respect to the townships on the Rideau placed at the disposal of the commander of the forces; does not propose to discuss this conduct, but desires to have the grants to the settlers confirmed on them producing a certificate from the military officer empowered to deal with the subject. Discusses the question of lots to the superintendents and agents and the ferry established by Oliver, for which he charges exorbitantly. All the land surveyed has been appropriated, and any overplus land must be swampy or not susceptible of improvement. 69

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 99). Encloses report on Considine's proposal for navigation between Montreal and LaChine, which has no chance of success. The importance of the canal to LaChine; were a civil engineer sent out has little doubt the legislature would vote £25,000 additional. If government relinquishes the work, the canal would no doubt be built by private persons by subscriptions for shares. 281

Enclosed. Romilly to Henderson, R. E., 21st March. Report on Considine's plan, which may be useful where the distance is short, but bears no comparison to the utility of a canal. 284

hibited on account of the duty on British goods, from assenting to it; it was previously allowed as a war measure, but it has been found so beneficial and so little onerous that it would be matter of regret should it be given up. A similar Act has long existed in Nova Scotia, and he is so impressed with its advantages that he hopes for instructions to sanction such an Act. Page 371

Sherbrooke to Bathurst. The Roman Catholic Bishop is anxious for an answer to his communication, dated 15th May, 1812, a duplicate of which is now transmitted. Importance of retaining the influence of the Bishop and clergy, but there are obstacles, as the Bishop holds of the See of Rome solely, in contravention of the Act of 1774 and of the Royal instructions. These, however, have never been acted upon, nor could be without exciting discontent in the country and alienating the affections of the Roman Catholic clergy. 373

Enclosed. Memorial of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Quebec (in French) praying to be recognized civilly as Bishop. Panet to be recognized as coadjutor; other privileges asked for by the Bishop. 376

Quebec.

Same to the same (confidential). Thanks for having sent so clear an expression of his sentiments on the political state of the province, and that should the Assembly bring forward fresh charges against the Chief Justice, every facility should be given for an investigation. No attempt has been made to detach Stuart from the party with which he is connected. To do away with the want of confidence in the Executive Council, proposes that the Speaker of the Assembly be a member; only suggests this, however. 392

P.S.—As no law situation can be offered Stuart, asks that a solicitor general be sent. 395

Quebec.

Has received dispatches and instructions respecting the disbandment of the 104th regiment and the settlement of the officers and men who may desire to remain in Canada or any of the other provinces. Measures are being taken for the reduction on the 24th of May, and grants shall be given to those who wish to settle, to whom two months' pay shall be issued on their arrival at their destination and arrangements made for rations for one year. Orders shall also be given for the purchase of agricultural implements. 396

April 22,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 109). Has had information of a letter from Gore respecting the Indian department, being received by him (Bathurst). If he consulted only his own feelings, he would recommend the control of this department being reinvested in the civil governor, as it is the most perplexing of all the duties devolving on the military commander, yet he could not conscientiously report that the commander of the forces was not the best fitted for the charge if he shall continue to furnish the supplies from the King's stores and pay the department. The impropriety of the civil governor having independent control of the King's stores; if he has, how could the commander regulate his estimates? Further objections to Gore's proposals. 398

April 23,
Quebec.

Same to the same (private). Feels assured that His Lordship is sensible of the inadequacy of the force now stationed in Canada. Shall endeavour to carry on the duties with the small portion of troops allotted for these purposes. 402

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 112). Has received orders to organize the militia to make up for the reduction of the regular troops; his disappointment at the condition of the militia. The law respecting them has expired, and the present law is only temporary. Has communicated with Gore on the state of the militia of Upper Canada and will give him all the assistance possible. 4

Asks for his Lordship's opinion. 54

 July 17, Quebec. Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 136). Arrival of discharged soldiers in great distress, with their wives and families. They have been supplied with provisions and sent to the settlement. The impropriety of sending such people, many of whom from age and infirmity are unable to earn a living.  July 25, Quebec. Same to the same (No. 142). The report that outfit money had been discontinued has led to inconvenience as he had expended part of it before he was informed that it was not now given. September 4, Quebec. Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 152). M. Roux, Superior of the Seminary at Montreal, has asked leave to bring into the province four young priests from France to take the place of the others who have become old and infirm. The measure is approved of by the Roman Catholic Bishop, who cannot train enough of young Canadians for the priesthood to supply the vacancies. Can see no objection if a judicious selection be made. Page 4

- September 13,
Quebec. Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 157). Transmits copies of letters from the commissioners to the Indian territory and from Selkirk. 32
- Enclosed.* Coltman to Sherbrooke, 15th July. After difficulties and delay Selkirk has at last consented to deliver up the property of the North-west Company at the forks of the Red River; this has partly been carried into effect. Both parties have agreed to sign an order to be transmitted through the Indian territory for the execution of the proclamation. The peaceable disposition of Selkirk as shown by his actions and especially as he allowed a very valuable cargo on board the Athabasca canoes to pass undisturbed at the time when accounts were received of violence being committed on the Hudson's Bay servants in the very country from which the canoe came. The necessity for a force being provided to maintain order. On this point encloses letters from Selkirk and recommends that a small body of the King's troops shall be left for the preservation of the peace, which would be a check on the colonists and a defense against the natives. Will detain Mr. Mair with a detachment; provisions will be supplied for the winter by the Hudson's Bay Company. The extenuating circumstances in regard to the conduct of Selkirk and of the sergeant. Page 33

Fletcher to Sherbrooke, 31st July. Sends letters brought by Simon McGillivray whose canoe has been broken in the rapids. Smith, who acted as deputy sheriff, has been liberated on bail by Coltman after a rigorous imprisonment of twelve days at Fort Douglas. Encloses the notice sent by the two companies ordering a mutual restitution of all property seized by either. Selkirk's protest at the end of it shows the views he entertains of his purchases at Fort William and Lac la Pluie. Sends papers received from Governor Vincent, showing the notions the Hudson's Bay Company hold of the nature and extent of their charter. Arrival of Shaw and McGillivray, who report a band of Sioux arrived at the forks of the Red River, declaring they were the precursors of a very large body coming by the invitation of Selkirk. Messrs. Shaw and McGillivray are apprehensive of serious consequences on their arrival. Is preparing to join Coltman. 38

Selkirk to Coltman, 15th July. Has learned of the intention to constitute a legal armed force to preserve peace, &c., which is consonant with his wishes; agrees that it is the most suitable establishment to secure the object in view, but objects to the expulsion of officers of de Meuron's regiment from any station of command. Is aware of the reason, but the charges from which it arose are unfounded, and were propagated by the North-west Company. Neither he nor the deMeuron officers had any intention to resist the warrants, and there being security for their personal safety, they would proceed to take their trial at Sandwich or York, if their accusers go so far; doubts if they ever intended doing so, the object being to obstruct the prosecution of the business of the Hudson's Bay Company. The unfortunate state of the law in the territories, by which a person accused would have to go 1000 miles to answer the charge. The dreadful consequence of this, if all the gentlemen named in the warrants were obliged to go at once for their trial as the orderly behaviour of the late Swiss troops is due to their confidence in the officers under whom they served so long in the army, and the enmity of the North-west Company may lead to an outbreak should they be absent. He has evidence of this enmity against the Red River settlement, not sufficient to amount to legal proof, but enough to show the necessity for precautions. Hopes therefore that at least one of the gentlemen of the late deMeuron regiment may be left in authority whilst the others proceed with him (Selkirk) to Upper Canada, and requests that Captain Matthey be the one left. Repeats his request for a military force. 41

- November 26, Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 175). Has received dispatch authorizing Quebec. the change of clergy reserve lot in Drummond, to permit of the close settlement of men of the 104th regiment, the advantages to settlers of a compact neighbourhood and a change in laying out the crown and clergy reserves would lessen their difficulties. To remedy the trouble caused to industrious settlers by the continued absence of some holders of land, he has resolved to re-locate this land after a reasonable interval. A smaller quantity than 100 acres would not be a sufficient inducement for a man with a large family. Preparations necessary for the reception of emigrants; the propriety of changing the present disposition of crown and clergy reserves. This year 5,000 emigrants arrived, some of whom having authority to obtain land, had allowed those not so furnished to participate in land with their fellow passengers. They arrive prepossessed in favour of Upper Canada, and being destitute it is impossible to settle them on the remote settlement of the Rideau. Has succeeded in placing about 150 families of emigrants near an established settlement. The clergy reserves placed at his disposal are in remote situations so that the land is often refused by emigrants. The bad effects of the system by which inhabitants take possession of the best lands to the detriment of the intending settlers, by which many are lost, the lead ore miners being amongst the number. The satisfactory management by the settling department; the injury the service has sustained has been explained by the enclosed letter. The correspondence with the government of Upper Canada has been so uncomfortable and applications so unsuccessful that he wishes the entire control of the military settlements to be left in the hands of the commander of the forces, the patent grants to issue from the government of Upper Canada on proper certificates being given by the military officers. 149

Samuel Smith, administrator, to Sherbrooke, 20th October. The surveyor general's report was so general that it could not be submitted to the Council. After deducting the lands in the Rideau settlement exclusively reserved for the military, there remained on 31st July 132,623 acres Crown reserves in the townships for the settlement of reduced troops and European emigrants. Is afraid he cannot propose an Act to enforce the rejection of petitions for Crown reserves not acted upon. The claims of the Council not likely to be abandoned. Some of those indicted at Montreal have given themselves up for trial, among whom are Grant and Cadotte charged as accessories to the murder of Keveney. Selkirk and the officers of the late de Meuron's regiment admitted to bail and now expected at Montreal. Coltman proposes to return to Montreal in hopes to moderate the spirit of both parties. 146

- February 25, Foreign Office. Hamilton to Goulburn. Sends copies of letter and enclosures from Stratford Canning on the subject of emigration from Switzerland to the American colonies. 84
- Enclosed.* Stratford Canning to Castlereagh, February —. The redundancy of population in Switzerland led first to service being taken with foreign princes and subsequently manufacturers had supplied employment. The failure of both of these led to emigration, and the stagnation of trade has caused many to pass to France, others to the north of Europe, but the greater number have gone to Holland to embark for the United States; many of these expeditions have been obliged to stop for want of means to proceed, some have returned to Switzerland. Of those who went to the United States, many have been obliged to bind themselves to work out the cost of their passage by labour after their arrival or in other words to sell themselves to slavery for a longer or shorter term. Encloses a form of the contract usually entered into. So widespread is the desire to emigrate that the Swiss government has published a caution against the danger of embarking in so hazardous an undertaking without sufficient funds, although the Swiss government is not adverse to the principle of emigration and is disposed to guide, but not to check the movement. Were His Majesty's government to deem it consistent with the colonial policy to receive the Swiss emigrants into the settlements of British North America, a proposal to that effect would be embraced by many with gratitude, and most if not all of the Swiss governments would afford every facility for its execution. The description of people to be expected and the arrangements to be made for their reception. 85

- Canning to Castlereagh, April 8. Has communicated to the President the dispatch showing that the British government did not object to the principle of emigration, although unable, then, to give it effect. There seems to be a disposition to assist Bernese subjects, but not to act on this without fuller information. Asks if he can be furnished with information as to places of settlement, etc., to be communicated, although not strictly in an official manner, the number who are going elsewhere lead him to believe that few would go to Canada, unless persons with capital would establish settlements there. It has been stated that the government of the Canton of Berne might be induced to encourage individuals of respectability and capital to enter into an enterprise of this sort. Baumgardt to Bouchier, 5th September, 1816. He is not to issue orders to board and search vessels of the United States. 13

Baumgardt to Bagot, 5th September. Admits that so far as he can see Bouchier had exceeded his power in searching American vessels, but points out that the complaint did not proceed from the master or owner of the vessel searched, but from passengers, men of a class apparently anxious to blow up every trifling occurrence into a flame. The United States follow the same rule as was the case with the vessel complained of, one of their vessels having followed one from Niagara to search her for deserters. The true aim of the reports is to maintain the claim to Bois Blanc Island and Malden, the latter of which is as much a British port as Kingston, and if the United States vessels objected to being boarded in the port of Malden, they had two wider channels to choose where no right of boarding was assumed. These channels have been surveyed by Owen, who has sailed down the western channel with the largest schooner. Is not acquainted with the circumstances except from reports, but is convinced the report about a field piece being used is a fabrication. Encloses a purely official answer. The people they are dealing with are possessed with local knowledge, and for every step they (the British Government) recede, the United States will advance two. 15

There is no law to prevent the land reverting to the Crown being regranted in free and common socage instead of in seigneurie but the abolition of the droit de quint assigned by Dorchester as provincial revenue, without the consent of the legislature or without an equivalent, would be an infringement of the pledge given by government. 162

De Wyss to Canning, 21st August, (in French). Asks for information as to the places where the Swiss would be enabled to settle, what assistance the British government would give them to bring them to their destination, and the advantages and relief they would receive at the settlements. He presumes their passage would be paid as was done in the case of the Scotch and Irish. He has no doubt that not only farmers and robust artisans would be received in the new settlements, but also whole families, seeing that no other emigration would suit Switzerland. It is only after receiving such information that he and his colleagues could hope to engage the government to favour emigration and the formation of a settlement in Canada. 137

No order for one to Lieut.-Col. Thos. Clark can be given on a general recommendation, as the medals being for specific actions, to give one to Clark would induce confusion. 44

London.

McTavish, Fraser & Co. and Inglis, Ellice & Co. to Goulburn. Send memorandum, embracing objects to be enforced by orders from government to ensure peace in the Indian territory, till a legal decision on the respective claims of the two companies is arrived at. They do not suggest any measure respecting persons charged with criminal offences, but repeat the request that all the partners be not ordered to attend the trial. It will be mercy to Selkirk himself, as it will lessen the claims for damages he must incur for his unfounded prosecutions. Besides former information, they now report that a detachment of de Meuron's soldiers has been sent with a warrant to arrest Grant, the North-west partner, at Fond du Lac, and to seize the property under his charge. This post is far within the United States territory, and United States citizens are interested in the property. Other partners within reach of Fort William have been seized, so as to cut off the communication of the North-west Company with the interior. Other charges against Selkirk. They approve of Sherbrooke appointing commissioners, and ask that a military force may be added, so that their decisions may be enforced, as, if Selkirk succeed in interrupting the communication of the North-west Company for the ensuing spring, any appeal to Government would be too late to remedy the evil. Selkirk has derived benefit from his proceedings, which have been so outrageous as to render them almost incredible, so that the precautions which would have been sufficient against a reasonable man were useless against a man who disregards all proper considerations. It is difficult to refrain from characterizing the conduct of Selkirk without being exposed to the charge of exaggeration, were the charges not supported by facts. Page 313

Enclosed. Deposition of Robert Cowie, respecting the attack on Fort William. 325

February 6, Hudson's Bay House. Berens to Bathurst. The governors, &c., of the Hudson's Bay Company are ready to join in such measures as are most likely to prevent the recurrence of outrages on the Red River. Cannot issue orders to Selkirk, as he is not their servant and does not hold their commission. The relation between them is shown by the correspondence. The nature of Bathurst's proposals. 201

List of correspondence, which follows. 206

(1.) McTavish, Fraser & Co., Inglis, Ellice & Co., and Alexander McKenzie to Mainwaring, governor of the Hudson's Bay Co., 3rd June, 1811. Submit the project for an arrangement between the North-west Company and the Hudson's Bay Company. 207

(2.) Hudson's Bay Company to McTavish, Fraser & Co., &c., 26th June, 1811. Contradict the assertion that the deputy governor of the Hudson's Bay Company censured their own servants. Regret the occurrence of hostilities, whoever is to blame. The propositions of the North-west Company are inadmissible, but the basis at the end of the letter may lead to a satisfactory arrangement, provided a solution may be found of the difficulty of preventing another company from occupying the ground relinquished by the North-west Company; all the concessions by the Hudson's Bay Company would be valid against it (the H. B. Co.), but the reciprocal concessions would be valueless. The practical knowledge of the North-west agents may perhaps find a remedy. 211

(3.) McTavish, Fraser & Co., &c., to the Hudson's Bay Company, 4th July, 1811. They can see no difficulty in keeping out a new company, should an agreement be entered into. Doubts as to the sincerity of the Hudson's Bay Company; the desire of the North-west Company to live on amicable terms with the traders of the Hudson's Bay Company. 215

(4.) Hudson's Bay Company to McTavish, Fraser & Co., &c., 24th July, 1811. Should a guarantee be given that new competitors will be kept out, the most important difficulty to an agreement would be removed. The basis of the limits must be taken from the charter of the Hudson's Bay Company. 219

Other documents on the same subject, namely:—

(5.) McTavish, Fraser & Co., &c., to the Hudson's Bay Company, 6th August, 1811. 223

Buchanan to the same. Reports the steps he had taken to send British subjects to the Canadas and Nova Scotia. The policy of sending those who, from a residence in the United States, had been enabled to appreciate the blessings of the British constitution. The open sale in New York city of lands in Upper Canada should be counteracted by British settlers being sent in. Will develop all these circumstances in his report. Hopes that before long his expenditures will cease, as it is arrangement not expenditures that is needed. To check imposition, had informed every settler that aid afforded by the office must be repaid before a grant of land could be made; this had not kept back any desirable settler. - April —. E. McDonell to Bathurst. States the points on which he desires to give his ideas respecting the defence of Canada. (1.) The topography of Canada. (2.) The inadequacy of the present militia system and consequent necessity of a radical change. (3.) The insufficiency of the present Indian arrangements. Statement of reasons for believing the United States ruling powers are actuated by a desire for conquest or usurpation, or both; the population stands ready armed and the sale of lands in Canada would pay the expenses of the campaign, besides the conquest enabling the United States to disband their army. The unprepared state of the Canadas, the militia law in Lower Canada being abrogated and in Upper Canada being of the most antiquated character. The nature of a war owing to the character of the territory, &c. 375
- Memorandum respecting the Canadian militia, in minute detail. 386

Proofs of Selki k's determination to accomplish his purpose against the North-west Company. The violation of the proclamation by men of deMeuron's regiment being forwarded to the assistance of Selkirk; sends affidavit on the subject. The order of Bathurst to send him and other partners to be tried in England has not been acted on, if received, as they are held to bail to be tried in September in Canada. If the order has not been received it can be reiterated before September, as it would be more satisfactory to have the trial in England, as there could be no doubt of the impartiality there, Selkirk having unjustly accused the judges of Canada of partiality and misconduct. The delay in promulgating the order to send the prisoners for trial to England may be due to one of several causes. Page 333

Had reported that he had stopped giving pecuniary aid, as Canada may speedily be settled without expense to His Majesty's government. The importance of Upper Canada; will submit observations on incorporating it with Lower Canada with a commissioner for settling Upper Canada instead of a lieutenant-governor. Its importance is well known in New York and as he knows the designs and hopes of the United States government, he sees their complete discomfiture in Canada. 45

His belief that the peace with the United States will be short and his reason for the belief, from their enmity to and jealousy of Great Britain. Same to the same (secret and confidential). Transmits report from the Executive Council on which he called for and received the reports of the law officers of the Crown. Transmits the reports of the Attorney and Solicitor General and copy of explanatory letter from the Attorney General, with copy of the separate report by the Advocate General. Draught of commission to be issued for the trial. 18

Uniacke, Attorney General, to Chief Justice Sewell. Whilst he thinks the commission as draughted will stand on strong grounds, he does not think it should issue unless it is intended to put the right of trial for impeachment permanently into the hands of the Legislative Council. 27

Extract from the minutes of the Executive Council. By resolution the Council recommends that the subject of the trial of the impeachment of Justice Foucher be referred to the Secretary of State. 69

March 28, Quebec.	Sherbrooke to Goulburn. By some inadvertence, an extract from Bathurst's dispatch relative to the measures to be taken against Selkirk, which was given to Coltman, fell into Selkirk's hands, of which he has kept a copy, and proposes to make use of it. He (Sherbrooke) does not see how any injury can be done by it to government.	169

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 198). Issued in the beginning of February a special commission for the trial of servants of the Hudson's Bay Company, or adherents of Selkirk, charged with offences in the Indian territory. The special commission was necessary on account of the suspension of one judge and the withdrawal of other two when cases affecting the North-west Company are to be tried. True bills found chiefly against servants and partners of the North-west Company, but the cases had to be adjourned till 4th May, owing to the regular term of King's Bench having arrived. Contradictory findings of grand juries in the cases of the servants of the Hudson's Bay Company and adherents of Selkirk have led the Crown officers to stay proceedings and to report that no impartial trial could be had at Montreal; the prisoners and witnesses were, therefore, removed to Quebec, but the trial could not be brought to a conclusion there either. Sends report made by the Crown officers of the proceedings. Selkirk requested the Crown officers to make use of the services of his counsel; sends reports of the Crown officers giving reasons for declining Selkirk's offer. Agrees with the opinion of the Crown officers, but sends, as an act of fairness, Selkirk's protest against the decision and a copy of the reply of the Crown officers. 194

Enclosed. Attorney and Solicitor General to Cochran, 27th March. Will accept the assistance of Selkirk's counsel by receiving any information they may possess, but they cannot allow them to take any part in conducting the prosecution. 199

Attorney and solicitor general to Cochran, 2nd April. Report the proceedings at the trial of Reinhart and McLellan and its adjournment. Recommends a special commission. 200

Same to the same (No. 200). Transmits copy of a report of a special committee of Assembly on the estimates; cannot sanction the alterations recommended without authority and sends his opinion on them. The objections apply to the salaries of absentees, to pensions and to sinecures. Discusses these points and agrees as to the propriety of abolishing sinecures, but doubts the policy of allowing the Legislature to pay the clergy, even if it was inclined to do so, which he believes to be improbable. Page 217

Reports on bills by George Pyke, Advocate General. 237-240
Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 202). Had submitted to arbitration the question of the adjustment for the exchange of property for the acquisition of St. Helen's Island from Grant. Encloses agreement to which he has acceded, with the exception of the clause at the end. Has signed the legal deeds in presence of the Attorney General. The rent of the hospital mentioned in the deed of arbitration being too high, he has directed the Commanding Royal Engineer to hire one at a lower rent; will submit estimate for building a hospital on the Island of St. Helen's. It would have been satisfactory to have the sanction of the Treasury to the exchange, but there was not time for this. The exchange is considered advantageous. 244

April 28,
Quebec.

Report of the arbitrators agreed to by Sherbrooke, with the exception of clause that Grant is to be reimbursed if he is charged with the droit de change on the Recollet property. 247

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 203). Transmits plan and estimate for a fort and barrack at Missisauga Point on a more reduced scale than that transmitted by Drummond on 12th April, 1816. The ruinous state of the barrack at Fort George; refers on this point to report in letter of 16th December, 1816 (No. 68). Has therefore, desired Durnford to prepare a plan and estimate. Hopes, if the measure is approved of, that directions shall be given to the lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada as to the land to be exchanged for military purposes. 251

April 29,
Quebec.

Same to the same (No. 204). Has received advice that the sum of £500 had been granted by Parliament to enable the people of St. John's in Lower Canada, to complete a church. As it had been completed before the advice was received, shall not now draw for the amount. It will be seen by a letter from the rector to his (Sherbrooke's) secretary that no provision is made for the residence of the rector; recommends, therefore, as the amount will be sufficient for that, and for the purchase of a bell, that the amount be appropriated for this purpose. 253

Enclosed. Rector (W. D. Baldwyn) to Cochran, secretary, dated, May, that no provision has been made for parsonage and bell, and asks that the £500 voted be granted for these purposes. 255

Sherbrooke to Bathurst (No. 205). A project was submitted to him for raising a subscription for the erection of a church and the establishment of a missionary at Red River. As Coltman recommends it as likely to be advantageous to the partizans and engagés of the contending parties, he (Sherbrooke) had given it the sanction of his name and personal contribution, but has not given it a formal sanction on the part of government. The funds to be left to the direction of the Roman Catholic bishop. The priests selected have already left this; sends copies of credentials and instructions. 256

Enclosed. Credentials (in French) dated 20th April, 1818, of Joseph Norbert Provencher and Nicolas Joseph Severe Dumoulin, priests. 258

June 1, Quebec. Same to the same. Owing to the absence on sick leave of Ogden, the suspension of Foucher and the withdrawal of Mr. Justice Reid from trials of the North-west cases there is great danger of delay or of total failure in the administration of justice. Recommends that Pyke be nominated for the first vacancy on the Bench, his qualifications for the office. Had first offered the situation to the Attorney General who had declined it. 407

Sends copies of his dispatches to Prevost, announcing the capture by storm of Fort Niagara and the entire destruction of the enemy's stores and works on the Niagara frontier, including the village of Buffalo, after a sharp contest at Black Rock, in which the enemy was routed with considerable loss. Release of 8 respectable inhabitants unjustifiably dragged from their homes with some Indian warriors of the Caughnawaga and Six Nation tribes. The enemy's loss was 65 killed and only 12 wounded, showing how irresistible is the bayonet in the hands of British soldiers. Calls attention to the services of the officers and men. 10

- March 20,
Kingston. Drummond to Bathurst. The legislature met at York on the 15th of February and was prorogued on the 14th March; the best understanding subsisted between himself and the other branches. Transmits copies of the speeches at the opening and closing of the session, with answers and schedule of Acts passed. Some of the Acts, namely, those suspending the habeas corpus Act, for the more effectual trial of treason and treasonable practices and for declaring certain persons aliens and vesting their estates in the Crown, will check the spirit of disaffection which undoubtedly prevails; there are many whom it may be found necessary to detain. It is only justice to say that by far the greater portion of the inhabitants are well disposed and many have shown their loyalty by service in the field. Those who have shown an opposite disposition are chiefly people from the States who have crept in and settled on lands purchased from individuals; trusts this practice will be guarded against. The appropriation of a considerable portion of the revenue to improve the highways will be of advantage to the service. The Act for the incorporation of the militia volunteers not having been successful, has been modified; regrets that it should be necessary to

	The address.	54
March 31, Kingston.	Drummond to Bathurst. The embarrassment to the civil government since the destruction of the public buildings at York. In 1804 an Act was passed providing £400 a year to defray the expense for a legislative building and public offices at York, but that Act was repealed last year and the accumulated fund and surplus revenue were granted for the war. Asks for authority to incur the expense for proper buildings for the residence of the person administering the government and for public offices as soon as the position of affairs would admit; the estimated cost is £10,000. Has by direction of Prevost made Kingston his principal place of residence and rented a house at £300 a year, which he has directed the Receiver General to pay.	59
April 2, Kingston.	Same to the same. Transmits extract from the proceedings of the Executive Council on the petition of Claus to be restored to the U.E. list, so as to entitle his children to exemption from patent fees on grants of land. Recommends the case of Claus, owing to his services and losses, to favourable consideration.	61
	Enclosed. Extract. The Executive Council requested permission to grant to each of the children of Claus, at the age of 21, or marriage, 1,200 acres of land free of all fees.	63
April 5, Kingston.	Drummond to Bathurst. Had found martial law in respect to the procuring provisions for the garrisons of Kingston and Prescott to be in force in the Midland, Johnstown and eastern districts, owing to the unwillingness of the inhabitants to furnish supplies, although the most liberal prices had been offered. Owing to the unpopularity of the measure, and winter approaching when produce is generally brought to market, he had revoked it. Vote of censure passed by the Assembly on de Rotenburg for having resorted to what they held to be an unconstitutional measure, but from necessity he (Drummond) had been obliged to recur to it from the impossibility of obtaining the necessary supplies for the garrisons. Has directed the officers collecting the supplies to use the greatest moderation and the magistrates in each district, in full assembly to fix upon a fair price for every article furnished. As he (Drummond) may also be censured at the next meeting of Assembly, desires to know if the charge by the Assembly of the measure being unconstitutional can be substantiated, or, if he should continue to enforce it, whether he would have the support of His Majesty's ministers.	65
April 6, Kingston.	Same to the same. The impediment to the public business from the reduction in the number of the Council by death and ill-health; asks for the appointment of two or three members. Can only recommend Wm. Campbell, one of the Judges of King's Bench, whose appointment would be an acquisition to the Council.	68

Drummond to Bathurst. From the insufficient number of clergy, there being only six of the Church of England and one of the Church of Scotland, asks authority to obtain four more with the usual allowance of £100 a year. Previous to the war itinerant fanatics, enthusiastic in political as well as religious matters, were in the habit of coming from the United States, and from the scarcity of clergymen they were cordially received and thus disseminated their noxious principles. Has authorized the Bishop to endeavour to procure the number of clergymen required. Page 81

Same to the same. Transmits copy of dispatch sent to Prevost of the capture and destruction of Fort Oswego, with the small craft, guns and naval stores, which the enemy had collected for the equipment of their new ship. Enclosed. Same to Prevost, 7th May. Reports the capture of Fort Oswego, giving details of the operation. 91

(The original of Drummond's dispatch to Prevost is in series C. of the Archives, Vol. 683, p. 105, followed by return of the killed and wounded of the troops signed by Harvey (p. 113); nominal list of the killed and wounded officers and seamen of the squadron, signed by Lawrie (two copies pp. 114, 115); return of the same, numbers only, showing killed, 3 seamen; wounded, 2 captains, 1 lieutenant, 1 master and 7 seamen; total, 3 killed and 11 wounded (two copies pp. 116, 117); memo. of stores, &c., captured (p. 118).)

Drummond to Bathurst. Refers to letter of 5th April respecting the measures taken in regard to martial law for procuring provisions for the troops; that he had given it up and then been forced to recur to it. Prosecutions are about to be entered against the officers and agents of the commissariat, employed in collecting provisions under this law. The governor general (Prevost) has ordered the law officers to defend any suits that may be brought, but from the composition of the juries he is afraid of the result, especially as the parties from whom the supplies were procured had refused the most liberal offers. Has already requested instructions on the subject of martial law, the propriety of which has been questioned by the Assembly which has declared it to be unconstitutional. 99

Same to the same. After the capture of Fort Niagara, Black Rock and Buffalo, he was under the necessity of repairing to York to meet the Legislature, and was detained there till the 18th March, when he returned to Kingston and gave his whole time to concert measures for the safety of the province; the command of Lake Ontario is the principal hinge on which that depends, and he strained every nerve to place the fleet in a condition to meet the enemy, by furnishing Yeo with every assistance that could be given by the troops. The "Prince Regent," 58 guns, and the "Princess Charlotte," 44 guns, were completed and ready for sea, while the enemy's fleet was still in port and not in a fit state to come out for some time. Believed this a good opportunity to capture Sackett's Harbour, which, if it did not put an end to the war, would cripple the enemy in all quarters as far as Fort Erie, and by uninterrupted transport across Lake Ontario, would enable him to strengthen Amherstburg, so as to lay the foundation for another naval force on Lake Erie. The capture of Sackett's Harbour with the fleet he did not consider a work of much difficulty, and so early as 27th April, he communicated his desire to Prevost, asking for a reinforcement from him of 800 or 1,000 regulars, a number he was unable to send, so that the enterprise had to be abandoned, and he turned his attention to the destruction of stores and provisions at Oswego. The favourable result of this has been already reported, so that the American fleet has been retarded beyond measure in obtaining the degree of strength requisite to force the British squadron. He only now learns that in a few days their fleet will leave Sackett's Harbour. The blockade, kept up by Yeo till the capture of a portion of the naval fleet in an ambuscade at Sandy Creek, contributed to retard the enemy's naval preparations. By exertions in the interior, the enemy's fleet has been placed in a formidable state of superiority, so that Yeo must remain at Kingston till the ship on the stocks is launched. Shall give every assistance to Yeo to have the vessel completed.

Page 106

Enclosed. Same to Prevost, 27th April. Letter of the 23rd received; he had by his letter of yesterday (the 26th; this letter is in Series C., vol. 683, p. 52; the part relating to Sackett's Harbour is at p. 55). shown that he had anticipated His Excellency's views with regard to Sackett's Harbour. Repeats that 4,000 troops are needed, as the enemy have been strengthening the defences with block houses and men. Had consulted with Yeo on the subject, who agreed with him as to the force required. Sends statement of the force he can raise, so that a reinforcement is needed. Advises an attack also on Oswego, where the destruction of the enemy's stores would cripple the movements of the United States fleet.

112

"Statement of the force and means which it is assumed can be collected in Upper Canada for the attack on Sackett's Harbour." 115

The statement gives the regiments, &c., the totals from each post being:

Prevost to Drummond, 30th April. He (Drummond) would require 5,000 troops and it is impossible to send the reinforcement needed without stripping Lower Canada of means of defence. It is by wary measures and occasional daring enterprises that the character of the war has been sustained and from that policy he is not disposed to depart. From a presumption that the government of the United States is sincerely desirous of an armistice in the firm belief that the negotiations at Gottenburg will terminate in peace, he has appointed an officer of rank to discuss at Champlain articles for a suspension of arms; this renders an offensive movement inexpedient until he (Drummond) shall hear further. Does not fully believe Constant Bacon's deposition, but Riall is fully prepared against any enterprise. Yeo is to see the letter but it is not to restrain him from operations until the armistice shall be announced.

Same to Bathurst. The capture of the squadron on Lake Erie and the defeat of Procter led the disaffected in the district of London, under a notorious partizan leader of the enemy, to commit depredations on private property and carry off the loyal inhabitants, their chief object being to disorganize the militia by seizing their officers and sending them to the enemy. A small band of loyal militia of the district of London organized, attacked and defeated the marauders, killing, wounding, and taking prisoners a number, the rest escaping to the United States. A special commission was appointed for the trial of the miscreants in the London, Niagara and Home districts. Of 17 tried out of 70, the rest having escaped to the United States, 15 have been convicted and sentenced to be executed on the 20th. The Chief Justice and Acting Attorney General Robinson recommend that leniency be shown and that justice mixed with mercy would produce the example desired. Has, therefore, respited seven of the least guilty to be committed to perpetual banishment. Transmits copies and extracts of the communications from the Chief Justice and Acting Attorney General with lists of the prisoners reprieved and to be executed.

Enclosed. Acting Attorney General Robinson to Capt. Loring, 18th June (extracts). Reports the proceedings at the trial of the prisoners and recommends leniency in dealing with them.

129

Chief Justice Scott to Drummond, 28th June (extracts). Reports the result of the trials and recommends that the sentence of death should not be executed on the whole of the prisoners.

132

The same, 5th July. The punishment of a few would, he thinks, have a more salutary effect, than that of many.

135

Same, 8th July. The prisoners tried belonged to the district of London or of Niagara. One, at least, out of these districts should suffer the punishment of the law. The infliction of the sentence of capital punishment has been so infrequent in the province that the feeling will be more profound and the effect lasting. Has applied for protection in the removal of the prisoners in the case of an attempted rescue.

137

List of prisoners reprieved. Samuel and Stephen Hartwell, Isaac Petit, Jacob Oberholser, Garret Neel, John Johnston, Cornelius Harvey.

140

List of prisoners to be executed. Aaron Stephens, Benjamin Simmonds, Noah Hopkins, Dayton Lyndsay, George Peacock, Isaiah Brink, Adam Cryslar, and John Dunham.

Drummond to Prevost, 19th September. Details of the repulse of the enemy's sortie from Fort Erie. 187

(The casualty return is in series C., vol. 685, p. 213.)

Drummond to Prevost, 21st September. Owing to sickness and the want of camp equipage, has ordered the troops to fall back about a mile in rear of their present camp, which owing to the long continued rains "is like a lake in the midst of a thick wood." The new position will, besides, if the force is attacked give an open field for defence. It is reported that a column of the enemy has been seen moving towards Tycehorne's. Should he detach a strong column on that road and attack in force in front, he (Drummond) will be a good deal embarrassed as his effective number is considerably under 2,000 fire locks. The greatest part of the sick and all the encumbrances are now far on their way to Chippawa; hopes to be able to move next day to Black Creek. The critical state of the frontier from sickness, want of provisions and the increasing force of the enemy. The enemy has induced its militia to cross to Fort Erie and there are now 3,000 of that force there, exclusive of the regular force of nearly the same number; he (Drummond) has not been able to get as many hundreds (of militia). Has ordered Kempt to send up the Canadian Fencibles, or any other corps of the centre division fit for the severe duty, to relieve the exhausted corps. The remains of the King's regiment and the battalion companies of de Watteville's to reinforce the forts. The destruction of the earth-works caused by the constant rain. 195

Same to the same, 10th October. The strenuous efforts made by the enemy to force back his (Drummond's) force from the frontier; it is the enemy's design to cover his troops at Fort Erie during the winter. The probabilities that the attack will be made by way of the Grand River or Long Point. His embarrassing position should this be the case, as he would have to detach men from the small force he has to meet Izard's attack. Details of the change of distribution of the troops. The vessels under Dobbs have been carrying the sick to York and to Forty Mile Creek; his cordial and zealous co-operation. Page 199

Drummond to Prevost, 11th October. Probable attack on Chippawa Creek and the preparations for defence. With a force of 2,800 he would be strongly induced to attack double his number, should the enemy afford a favourable opportunity by dividing his force; the lowest estimate of the enemy's force is 8,000; deserters state it as high as 10,000, that a vast number of boats are to be employed and that 12 pieces of artillery are already embarked. The vast preparations and the numerical inferiority of the British force have induced the inhabitants generally to abandon their homes and property. Cannot induce the militia or Indians to come forward. The little help to be expected from the squadron, any reinforcement would be too late "to take any share "in the contest which I fear this gallant little division will shortly have "to maintain against treble its numbers." 204

Same to the same, 15th October. Advance of the enemy on Chippawa Creek; artillery fired all day, but no attack made. The enemy retired at sunset to the camp at Street's Grove. If he had the 90th and another strong regiment he believes he could strike a blow that would not only give immediate tranquillity but go far towards finishing the war in Upper Canada. Should reinforcements and provisions not arrive, the naval commander would in his opinion, have much to answer for. 208

Same to the same, 18th October. The enemy displayed columns of infantry during the whole of the 16th in front of the position at the mouth of Chippawa Creek, but did not venture within range, or give any annoyance. About one o'clock on the 17th the enemy's troops disappeared and it was ascertained had retired from the camp at Street's Grove to Black Creek where they camped. Had not yet ascertained the cause of the retrograde movement; spies and deserters report that the position at the mouth of the Creek was stronger than the enemy expected, added to the intelligence of the approach of the fleet, which must have been seen off Genesee some days ago, the wind not being favourable, and being reported to General Brown, would account not only for his retreat but for its precipitation, provisions having been left and some camp equipage burned. Two boats sent to Schlosser for provisions returned to Street's Grove, not knowing of the retreat; one of these was taken, which contained fresh meat, bread and spirits for at least a brigade. That the enemy does not intend to leave the frontier is evident from the events of this day (18th), when a large force was reported to be moving up Black Creek, in the direction of Cook's Mills on Lyon's Creek. Sent the Glangarry Light Infantry and seven companies of the 82nd, and on being informed that the enemy had passed Cook's Mills, sent the remaining three companies of the 82nd and the 100th regiment, with orders to Myers to feel the enemy closely, which he shall attack if not too strong. Orders have been sent to burn Brown's bridge on the Chippawa, and as the enemy cannot, he should think, bring guns, he will be found to have committed himself by this movement, unless he retire in the course of the night. If the report that only one brigade, not exceeding 2,000 men, has been moved to Cook's Mills be confirmed, he shall add the 6th to the other troops, and attack in the morning, leaving de Watteville's regiment to maintain the position against the remainder, (6,000), which he should have no difficulty in doing. Has received report from Fort George that the fleet (five sail) was in sight. Has desired Harvey to write to Yeo for some of his marines in addition to the troops

he has brought up. Unless the squadron bring up a strong reinforcement, it will by no means relieve the difficulties of his situation. Page 211

Drummond to Prevost, 20th October. Report of the retreat of the enemy's force from Cook's Mills, without destroying the mills which might have been done on public grounds. The commanding officer (Bissell) has been very cautious about burning or plundering, probably admonished by the retaliation at Washington and on the coast. Cannot tell what the enemy's army may do next, but his (Drummond's) preparations leave him far less anxious on the subject of being able to repel all the enemy's attempts than on his first approach. Strength of the position. Has been unable to communicate with the squadron owing to violent winds. His disappointment at half the 90th being left to struggle through the dreadful roads between Kingston and York. Earnestly recommends sending up two effective regiments besides the 90th, one to be sent to Burlington and the other to Fort George to relieve the Royal's, King's, 41st, 89th, 100th, 103rd and de Watteville's regiments. 216

(The refusal of Yeo to supply marines on the ground of unduly weakening his squadron, dated 19th October, is in Series C., vol. 686, p. 84, and a letter from Drummond to Prevost, dated 23rd October, same volume, p. 85, details the proceedings subsequent to the retreat of the United States army. A general order for the distribution of troops is at p. 92.)

Drummond to Prevost, 5th November. In answer to Prevost's desire that he should make a movement against Fort Erie, points out that it would be neither prudent nor politic to do so at present, for reasons given, but in deference to his (Prevost's) desire shall remain till the close of navigation to watch for an opportunity before going to Kingston. His own view is towards the right bank of the Niagara, not Fort Erie, and by naval co-operation to effect the destruction of Izard's army; without this co-operation, however, it cannot be attempted. To consult with Yeo and the commissioner, he shall go to York and return to this frontier unless it should be rendered unnecessary by the evacuation of Fort Erie or the refusal of Yeo to co-operate. From letter to Yeo it will be seen that he landed the troops hastily on shore and went off to York with the nine-pounder brigade, ordnance, provisions and other stores; they might almost as well be at Kingston as at York. Will send further information when he gets to York. The importance of sending sappers and miners. The least effective of several of the regiments embarked; hopes Yeo can take others. Regrets to part with the 41st, as he thinks in spring it will be a strong corps. The reduction of issues will be great and actual efficient numbers little reduced. Enough, he hopes, will remain for service before the ships return from Kingston. Information respecting the murder of Capt. Francis sent, that a representation might be made to the United States government, as any representation to the General commanding could only be referred to it; has called on Talbot for a detailed statement. Calls attention to the violation of the convention for the exchange of prisoners and to the shameful treatment of the officers and men of the 41st. P.S. Had deferred sending off the letters till the return of Fitzgibbon, sent to ascertain if the enemy had evacuated Fort Erie. That officer confirms the report, the enemy evacuated Fort Erie after destroying the place. This only strengthens his resolution to go to York to have an interview with the commander of the squadron. The outrages committed by the United States Army demand a severe retaliation. Recommends that the necessary communications be made to Cochran, unless His Excellency prefer that it should be inflicted on the opposite frontier a service which his (Drummond's) division is perfectly equal to perform. 221

January 2,
Kingston. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 72). Recommends that a pardon be granted to Edward McSwiney, under sentence of death for the murder of Andrew Fuller. The earnest loyalty of McSwiney who refused to accept his freedom at the hands of the enemy, although under sentence of death, and when all the other prisoners in gaol made their escape. Drummond to Bathurst. In consequence of the meritorious conduct of the incorporated militia of Upper Canada, has been induced, with a view to add to their numbers, to increase the bounty. Is sanguine that the effective number will shortly be augmented to 600. The severe losses both in officers and men during the last campaign, but a respectable bounty of £10 should attract recruits. The services of the corps as light infantry, &c., reported. Proposes to clothe the corps as rifles instead of in red. Asks also two stands of colours with the word "Niagara" on them and on their appointments as an honourable testimony of their gallantry. Has appointed Major Foster to act as Lieut.-Colonel and Capt. Glen of the 45th to be Major. The qualification of the two officers given in detail. 6
- February 10,

York. Drummond to Bathurst (No. 4). A bill is in advanced progress for placing at his disposal £9,000 for procuring recruits for the incorporated militia, and £1,000 to provide colours for the regiment and furniture for the officers' mess. This is a proof that he had not said too much in favour of the young corps and of the estimation in which it is held by all ranks. The presentation of colours would, therefore, be regarded as a flattering proof of His Majesty's approbation, and the appointment of two field officers of established reputation be esteemed as a further

 March 11, Lambeth. Same to Bunbury. Encloses his proposal to Bathurst of same date, respecting settlers from the Highlands of Scotland. There is a determination to emigrate to the United States, unless steps be taken to encourage and direct it to British possessions. Has offered his services knowing the confidence felt in him by the people. 242

Sends copies of his speech and addresses in reply and schedule of Acts passed. The liberality of both Houses towards the defence and security of the province. The sum of £20,000 voted for roads will be of great benefit, and had the war continued would have contributed much towards the security of the province. 29

- April 22, Castle Street. Anthony Hamilton to Goulburn. The satisfaction of the society for the propagation of the gospel in learning that provision was to be made for four additional clergymen for Upper Canada. Desires to know if it is still the determination to submit this to parliament, or if the Bishop of Quebec may be told that it shall be done next year. The Bishop of Quebec hopes to ordain two young men, with the view to the appointment of a missionary by the Society of Upper Canada, but in this view they must be disappointed, if the intentions of government are not carried into execution. 260
- April 25, York. Murray to Bathurst (No. 1). Has taken the oath to administer the government of Canada as the senior officer of the forces. The only instructions he has received are contained in a general order dated at Quebec, the 4th instant. Has, however, perused a copy of communication from Lord Liverpool to Brock, of 9th April, 1812, and of dispatch from him (Bathurst) to Prevost of the 8th December, of the same year. Has taken the title of provisional lieutenant-governor, instead of president, the latter being applied to a civilian already having a seat in the council. 67

- May 22,
Princes
Street. Gore to Bathurst. Transmits memorial from the Chief Justice (Scott) for leave to retire. The necessity of having a pure administration of justice. The inferiority of the provincial bar. The attachment of British lawyers to their native courts makes it hopeless to expect suitable persons to preside over the judicial department of Upper Canada, unless encouraged by the prospect of an eventual retirement. This is provided for in Lower Canada; the beneficial effect of such a measure if extended to Upper Canada. The fund created for the purposes of justice may not be sufficient, including a retirement, but he can hold out no hope of the legislature being induced to provide for officers appointed from Great Britain. The high character of the Chief Justice. 103
- Enclosed.* Memorial from Thomas Scott, Chief Justice. 106
- May 30,
Princes
Street. Gore to Bathurst. Has received letter relative to reporting the most eligible place for the seat of government in Upper Canada and that Kingston appears to be better calculated for that purpose than York. Expresses no opinion on the expediency of the measure but points out the hardships that would be caused by the change. On the removal from Niagara (Newark) to York, then a wilderness, the officers received allotments of land which by the expenditure of money have become valuable; were York abandoned these would become of little value. Trusts therefore that if the officers are obliged to make a third establishment that compensation may be granted. Asks for instructions if he is to establish himself at Kingston, whilst the councillors, judges and others are at York, whence they must come if the civil administration is to be carried on. 108
- Enclosed.* Memorandum of the civil officers of the Government of Upper Canada established at York. 111

Robinson to Bathurst (No. 1). Sends account of the points that have most interested him since his appointment to the civil and military command on the 10th of June. The settlement of land is at present confined to the limited service men; it is the intention first to settle them on the lands adjoining the Rideau and then on those on the Trent. A communication should be established between Montreal and Kingston by way of the Ottawa and Rideau to prevent the communication by the St. Lawrence being interrupted in event of another war. Sends letter on this subject from a surveyor employed to estimate the expense. The settlement of the lands will obviate the difficulties of transport, &c., anticipated formerly. Wishes to reserve the lands of Glengarry in the Eastern district for the new settlers expected from Scotland. The importance of the lands on the Trent, Lake Simcoe, &c., by which a safe inland communication could be made from the Bay of Quinté to Lake Huron. The importance of reserving intermediate lots to persons of influence, the evil effect of profuse grants to persons who never saw the land and have no interest in the country. Another evil is the want of roads in consequence of these large tracts of uncultivated lands and especially if these lands are in the hands of a magistrate who will not enforce the assessment. Reports on the iron works at Gananoque, so-called, although they are thirty miles from there. Proposals of the proprietors; coal reported to be in the neighbourhood. Commodore Owen and Sir Robert Hall in favour of putting the iron works in operation. If coal is discovered a furnace should be erected at the dock yard (Kingston), and the result would be a saving of three-fourths of the expense. 73

Gore to Bathurst (No. 1). Arrived on the 21st; will report shortly on the condition of Upper Canada after three years of war and invasion.

York.

Same to the same (No. 2). The colony was labouring under no irreparable injury from the war at the date of his arrival. The frontier between Lakes Ontario and Erie shows the horrors of the species of war which the enemy waged against individual property, but except there and in the district of London, the injury has been compensated by the military expenditure. In fact, he might affirm that the general prosperity was greater than before the war. Irregularities in the civil department caused by attention to the military duties. Vexatious suits at law for acts done under martial law checked and the irritation will probably soon subside. The neglect to settle the pay of the militia is more resented; has directed the paymaster general of militia to have the accounts closed. The dissatisfaction of the militia at the smallness of the grants of land made for their services; recommends an increase, and that the reason for each grant be embodied in the deed. Trusts that the acts of the commission on losses and the judicious distribution of the funds to relieve immediate distress will give universal satisfaction. The rush of people from the United States; means taken to check it. Delay in the settlement of emigrants from Europe; refers for instructions the question of settlements for people from the Red River; rations have been ordered by Drummond for the infirm and for the women and children, the men are employed at remunerative wages.

October 24,
York.

Same to the same (No. 4). Transmits letter from Col. Talbot and return of grants in townships mentioned in Talbot's letter. Sends reports of the Executive Council; should these be adopted asks for instructions so that Talbot may be relieved of apprehension that lands settled under his superintendence will be granted to other persons than those he recommends. Does not know a better plan for the improvement of the country than that laid down for the road through the western district. The settlement duties are so onerous that he does not think any person would undertake them for a less grant than 200 acres. 124

Enclosed. Talbot to Gore, 25th September. Calls attention to the want of roads through the district and the object being unattainable on account of an inconsiderate reservation made by Russell, extending more than 60 miles styled School Reserves. Refers to his (Gore's) determination to have the land surveyed from Long Point to Amherstburg for a high road, the land to be laid out in 200 acre lots, each grantee to make half the road in front of and across his lot. In 1811 this was nearly completed, when he (Gore) left, but had since been nearly frustrated by order of the surveyor general and by grants of land to the deputy paymaster general, to a clerk in the president's office and to a Presbyterian clergyman who had lived in the United States for several years whose conduct during the war was seditious, and since the peace he had sold the land and returned to the United States. The obloquy he had incurred on this account, it being known that he had been placed in charge, although he was not consulted in respect to the grants referred to, for which deeds were given without conditions of residence or settlement duties although both were imposed on the actual settlers placed there by him, whose labours for three years are lost and the province will suffer the injurious effects for a length of time. He is particularly concerned about the grant to the Presbyterian clergyman which possesses an excellent mill seat, which he (Talbot) had appropriated to a millwright of very ingenious and industrious habits. Owing to frequent changes in the persons administering the government, there is no security for his fulfilment of his duties of superintending and placing settlers, unless he is furnished with sufficient power to fulfil his engagements with the settlers. Has been heard before the Executive Council and refers to the proceedings. 126

Halton (Secretary to Gore) to Talbot, 7th October, 1815. The Surveyor General has been directed that no locations should be allowed on the land committed to his (Talbot's) superintendence for the road through parts of the London and Western districts, but by his recommendation subject to the approval of the lieut.-governor. No subject of the United States of America will be permitted to settle on the lands subject to his (Talbot's) superintendence. 147

- Halton to Talbot, 13th October. The lieutenant-governor being joined to the Executive Council cannot of himself ensure grants of 200 acres to the settlers placed by him (Talbot) in the London and Western districts. Orders have been issued to grant only 100 acres to common applicants, so that a specific authority would be required to issue grants for 200 acres for the settlers under his (Talbot's) direction. He is not to consider the permission formerly granted to empower him to place settlers in the district, except on the road specified in the report of the Executive Council of 15th February, 1809, but he will forward the letter of 25th September and the surveyor general's report to the Secretary of State with a recommendation to secure 200 acres to the settlers on the road. - December 20, Gore to Bathurst (No. 6). In addition to the increases recommended by Drummond to the clerks in the public offices, those omitted by him, namely, the secretary's clerks should be put on the same footing. Is not aware whether Drummond's recommendation for this addition was transmitted before he left for Lower Canada, and therefore, sends copy. 59

- Enclosed.* Drummond to Bathurst, 25th March, a duplicate, see at its date.
- December 26, Major General Robinson to Bathurst. Proposes to settle lands on the Bay of Quinté, now held by the Indians. 299 Bristol.
- December 27, Gore to the same (No. 7). The Indian department is paid out of the military chest, under authority of civil governor; his alarm at the great increase of the peace establishment since the last return. A sudden change would be unadvisable from the system administered by the military officers. Sends establishment at the time he left York in 1811, and at the present time. Does not object to the salaries of the officers, but calls attention to the payment of pensions not sanctioned. Reports especially on that of John Norton, who was not an Indian but a native of Scotland, who acquired the language so perfectly as to pass for one, and was employed as an interpreter till 1802, since which time he has resided amongst the Indians at the Grand River, where he has obtained an influence incompatible with the subordination of the tribes. The impression this impostor made on Prevost led to his being given the uncontrolled management of several Indian tribes, and his consequent insolence and insubordination; his dismissal, with a pension to himself and wife; the pernicious effects of the policy of rewarding misconduct. The Indians continue in a state of irritation against the United States; they must be soothed and not goaded if it is desired to avoid causes of contention with the Americans. A collision on the subject of a murdered Indian has taken place at Amherstburg; has sent for a report before corresponding with the resident Minister at Washington; the impropriety of diplomatic correspondence being conducted from the military posts. Gore to Bathurst (No. 8). Correspondence with Drummond respecting Indian affairs having been carried on unofficially, he had thought he might be exempted from transmitting it. He had found himself compelled to resist the method of purchasing Indian territory in the province by the military authority. The importance of purchasing the island had led him to order the Indian department to furnish the means to satisfy the Indians. His desire to avoid collision with the military command.

Enclosed. Drummond to Gore, 9th December, 1815. To establish a military post on the westernmost of the Manitoulin Islands, had directed a purchase to be made of the whole of that island. Asks that presents may be issued to be used for entertaining visiting Indians. The goods required for payment shall be sent from Quebec. Regrets that he (Gore) had discontinued the Indian express, which he (Drummond) had established; but for this express the means of communication would have been conducted at an extravagant expense.

Gore to Drummond, 26th December, 1815. As he (Drummond) considers it advisable to establish a military post on the westernmost part of the Manitoulin Islands, and that he has given orders to purchase the whole island, he (Gore) can have no hesitation to order a supply of presents for the visiting Indians. States explicitly that the administration of Indian affairs is in the hands of the civil government, and the purchase should have been made as directed by the royal instructions, but he desires to avoid all interference and shall, therefore, give directions to issue from the Indian stores such articles as may be applied for by McDouall. The discontinuance of the Indian express is supplied by the regular post, and any requisition for a special courier shall at once be complied with.

Same to the same, 11th December. His satisfaction that the arrangement for new settlers is approved of. The attempt to get the proprietors on the Rideau townships to exchange for other land will be fruitless; he will do what he can, but is not justified in making it an act of government. The cordial acceptance of the explanation in regard to the Indian department is gratifying; changes in the department.

9

Same to the same, 2nd December. Had discontinued the express before his (Drummond's) letter was received, and as the postmaster had informed him of the establishment of a post at a similar interval, had not rescinded his order. Should a more frequent communication be thought necessary he shall give orders to that effect.

11

Same to the same, 22nd December. Calls attention to the pensions to the widows of officers in the Indian service and to Captain Norton, payment of which he had delayed until he had received word from him (Drummond), the instruction being that no pensions were to be paid without an order from the Treasury.

13

Same to the same, 5th November. The pleasure with which he acquiesced in the measures proposed for the settlers. The delay in settling Lord Selkirk's people causes them no inconvenience. Calls attention to the transfer of the administration of Indian affairs to the civil governor which appeared to have been forgotten. Complaints of the commissary interposing obstacles to the payment of the officers or paylists approved of by him (Gore). To prevent inconvenience shall issue warrant on the Receiver General, which can be cancelled, when payment is directed in the usual course.

16

Drummond to Gore, 25th November. Is pleased to find how readily he concurred in the measures for placing the new settlers from Europe. Is concerned to find that there is no place where they can be settled collectively; it would be advisable for this end to try to induce the settlers in the townships on the Rideau to exchange for lands in some other part of the province. If this cannot be done, he proposes to place most of them in the townships of Plantaganet and Alfred. Acknowledges that the management of Indian affairs is in the hands of the civil government; he disagrees with such a policy, but must conform to it and shall give orders that there shall be no interference on the part of the military officers. His reasons for believing that Indian affairs were in the hands of the Commander-in-Chief. Page 20

Gore to Bathurst (No. 8). In carrying out the instructions to constitute a board to ascertain the losses sustained by individuals during the war, it was found necessary to appoint a competent secretary. and Kemble was selected, to whom it was agreed to pay a guinea a day; trusts this agreement will be sanctioned. 32

February 23,
York.

Same to the same. The selection of lands for the establishment of settlers from Europe has been discovered to be an obstacle to the just fulfilment of the promise to the children of loyalists. Had provided for a number of settlers to limit the accommodation to the demand, but the agents appointed by the commander of the forces pressed for further appropriations without any return of numbers. His zeal to second the views of His Majesty's Government to establish a communication between the St. Lawrence and Ottawa, by way of the Rideau, to secure an intercourse with Lower Canada, without exposure, in case of hostilities. This was rejected by the agents in favour of diffused settlement, at the inclination of the emigrants, but on receipt of his (Bathurst's) dispatch of 10th October, Drummond decided to consolidate the settlement on the Rideau, and he (Gore) had agreed with the Quartermaster General to purchase from the Indians a tract of land west of the Rideau for a range of townships. This arrangement appears to meet the desire of the commander of the forces, and he (Gore) hopes that no further change may be made. Is anxious for this, so as to secure so desirable an inland navigation and the consolidating of the settlement. 34

Enclosed. Minute of Executive Council of 4th November, 1815, respecting the settlement of emigrants. 38

Gore to Drummond, 23rd February. Reports the arrangements made for settlers. The township of Seymour cannot be used for this purpose. His Majesty's Government wishes for a consolidated loyal population upon the communication between the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa by the Rideau; proposes to place at his (Drummond's) disposition for settlement, a range of townships in rear of Burgess and Elmsley; has ordered survey of townships to be called Bathurst, Drummond and Beckwith; has done this without waiting to extinguish the Indian title in which he apprehends no difficulty. Hopes the arrangements may be approved of, so that he may satisfy the claims of the descendants of the loyalists. 42

Same to Bathurst (No. 11). Transmits memorial in behalf of the officers of the incorporated militia and recommends that its prayer be granted. The distinctions given to the Lower Canadian Voltigeurs have left a deep impression which is likely to be effaced by an attention to the memorial. Recommends besides that the organization should be preserved as the men of the corps are connected with all that is loyal and influential in the Colony. 50

March 20,

Same to Bathurst (No. 13). Has differed in opinion with Drummond as to sending presents to the Indians on the Mississippi and refers the question for His Lordship's decision. The extreme jealousy of the United States as to intercourse with the Indians in their territory causes risks of the presents being seized in transit. The department reports that it was not customary to send presents to these Indians even in time of peace. 73

Enclosed. Same to De Watteville, 10th March. Had intimated to the deputy superintendent general of Indian Affairs that all correspondence with United States officers is discouraged, and that all interference on behalf of individual traders at American posts is disavowed. Questions respecting titles of land are to be settled by the laws of the country in which they are situated. No presents are to be sent to the Indians in the United States, but when they visit posts they are to be well treated and presents given them. 75

Same to Drummond, 19th March. Had answered De Watteville before receipt of his (Drummond's) letter of the 2nd. Regrets the difference in their opinion, but does not feel at liberty in the state of the relations with the United States, to send presents to the Indians on the Mississippi in time of peace. Shall transmit the correspondence to the Secretary of State for directions. 77

Drummond to Gore, 2nd March. The promise made to the Indians outside of the limits should be kept; he has no desire to foment discord between these people and the United States, but the reverse; their faithful services, however, deserve recognition. Page 79

Willson to Drummond's secretary, 11th January, 1815. Sends general accounts of dutiable articles, which have passed Coteau du Lac upwards from 1st July to 31st December last. Gore to Bathurst (No. 19). Transmits address on the subject of an appropriation of Crown lands in aid of the amount granted for the establishment of schools; the sum of £6,000 was voted for the establishment of elementary schools in the townships or parishes; he will follow this up with an appropriation of 200 acres when the establishment has taken effect in any township, if that is not prohibited. Part of his plan was to obtain further legislative support to the district schools already established by law, but this failed, thus depriving him of £500 which had been voted toward the support of ten young candidates for Holy orders who would have received instruction under the direction of Dr. John Strachan, whom, it was intended to place at the head of the higher seminary, with the distinction of principal. The importance of the object; urges that the sum be granted from the disposable revenues of the Crown leases until the legislature confirms its previous good intentions. Gore to Bathurst (No. 20). The suppressed feeling respecting the distribution of medals to a certain class of militia officers is alive and painful. Transmits memorial from the Quartermaster General of Militia on the subject. Can say nothing of his military merits, but can speak of his talents, zeal and ability in the legislature, and has been assured that he showed the same qualifications in the field. The disappointment at the new distribution of medals may have the worst effects; a new call for a report of proper subjects would cover the past neglect. 131 in presence of Lieut. Col. James. The speech he considered to be a complete fabrication, the language of James and not of the Shawanese King, making charges of his (Caldwell's) inattention and neglect of the comforts of the Indians. A proper examination would refute the charges; Lieut. Graverot was ordered to make the translation that was given to Sir Frederick Robinson. His (Caldwell's) attention to the wants of the Indians has been constant, which will be acknowledged by the Shawanese King and all the other chiefs. Charges Col. James with taking complete charge of the Indian department and curtailing their allowance to starvation point, with the result that the Indians committed depredations, as the Prophet had said would be the consequence. He (James) distributed the stores at Burlington partially and forced the store for that purpose. His (Caldwell's) refusal to sign the returns of issues, of which he was not informed, is the foundation of the charges against him. Asks that returns may be made of the issues ordered by James to distant tribes without any authority. Charges against James of neglect of the sick and of his refusal to wait to supply the Indians who had been delayed by his own neglect. General charges against James.

Drummond to Gore, 25th November (extract). Will give directions that there shall be no interference on the part of the officers with the Indian Department. 168

Gore to Drummond, 16th March. His refusal to restore Caldwell was exclusively on his (Drummond's) personal declaration of his unfitness. His (Caldwell's) letter enclosed is of a nature to excite inquiry, but he (Gore) has no power to question Lieut. Col. James. Would be glad to let the whole matter be buried in oblivion and to recommend Caldwell for half pay. 170

Drummond to Gore, 3rd April. Has sent copy of Caldwell's letter to James, to give that officer an opportunity of answering it. The style of Caldwell's letter is such as to preclude the possibility of him (Drummond) recommending him for a pension, and he has already half pay as a reduced captain in Butler's Rangers. 172

Gore to Claus, 17th January. He is to communicate to the officer at Amherstburg, Drummond's orders prohibiting interference by the military officers with the Indian department. As the past interference was by Drummond's orders in ignorance that the management was exclusively in the hands of the civil government, he is only to inquire as to the disposal of the stores. The inquiry is to be minute and any misconduct of the superintendent or storekeeper is to be reported fully for his (Gore's) information. From Drummond's personal conviction of Caldwell's incapacity, he must be informed that another person must be appointed to the duty. The delicacy required in dealing with the Indian tribes whose residence is within the United States. Rules as to the issue of provisions, &c. 174

April 27, York. Same to the same (No. 24). Has had no confirmation respecting the removal of the seat of government to Kingston. Considerations for and against remaining at York. There is no accommodation at Kingston. 179

April 28, York. Same to the same (No. 25). One of the reserved Acts is to augment the wages of the representatives from $2 to $4 a day and to transfer the payment from the constituencies to a warrant on the Receiver General. Would not have objected to the increase as the increase barely meets expenses since the depreciation of the dollars, but an attempt to change the mode of payment was more than once rejected. The increase to be paid by the constituencies might have a good effect by securing respectable inhabitants as representatives who would engage not to claim their wages. Page 182

Answer by Gore. 190

York.

Gore to Bathurst. The legislature has granted £2,500 in aid of the civil list, which removes the chief obstacle to the gratification of Chief Justice Scott's wish to retire on a pension. He had been obliged to resign the chair of the Legislative Council, which had been given to Powell, to whom £400 of a salary had been provided to maintain the table which custom had imposed, but he had not accepted the salary. Urges that Chief Justice Scott should be allowed £800 a year to enable him to retire. The valuable services of Powell; cannot say why his claims were postponed to those of others; the appeals against his judgments have always been decided in accordance with his decisions. His services in other capacities recommend him to succeed to the chief justiceship. 191

Enclosed. Scott to Gore, 21st March. Resigns his office of speaker of the Legislative Council; the fatigues attending the discharge of his other duties compel him, from old age, to relinquish them. 195

April 29,
York.

Gore to Bathurst (private). Introduces and recommends Powell. He may be consulted on questions relating to the claims of the militia; to the Indian department; to the management of the school lands and to the management of the rents of the Clergy Reserves; on all of which Powell's information may be useful. 196

Same to the same (No. 27). In accordance with an address of both Houses in presenting a bill to declare tythes not receivable in Upper Canada for the support of a Protestant clergy, transmits bill to be laid before Parliament to that effect. The Bishop of Quebec explicitly declares they cannot be collected under the statute, but the contrary opinion is so generally held that it is inexpedient to organize parishes and induct parsons till a declaratory negative passes into a law. 202

Enclosed. Memorial from the Council and Assembly transmitting a bill relative to the right of tythes in the province, which, it is requested, may be forwarded to be laid before the Imperial Parliament. 204

Gore to Owen. Enclosed in Gore to Bathurst of 23rd May, which see.

May 21,
York.

Gore to Bathurst. Has received dispatch asking for information as to an allotment of land made in the township of Lincoln. Has referred the matter to the Council, as the correspondence of Sir Frederick Robinson in 1814, was not left either at Kingston or York. 208

May 23,
York.

Same to the same (No. 30, second of same number). Captain Owen has applied for a deputation to each of the commissioned officers serving on the Lakes to assist in the execution of the revenue laws; reasons for refusal. 210

Enclosed. Same to Owen, 14th May. Sends opinion of the attorney general in respect to proposal for enforcing the revenue laws. As the Lakes are open for navigation to the United States and the civil authority is sufficient to support the revenue laws, he must decline to give officers of the navy authority to enforce these laws. The inconvenience complained of by Captain Bouchier (Bourchier?) has been remedied by the appointments of magistrates, and he cannot sanction any person acting as magistrate without a regular commission. Thanks for examination of the model of the bridge to connect Kingston and Fort Frederick, but he does not think the legislature would vote so large a sum for the partial convenience of Kingston and its vicinity. 212

Case for the opinion of the Attorney General respecting seizures or searches on the Lakes in Canada by the navy. 214

Bourchier to Owen, 2nd March (extract). The bad character of the people on the Grand River; there being no magistrate he has been acting in that capacity. 216

Capt. Owen to Gore, 21st March. Sends extract from letter from Bourchier; asks that he be given unquestionable authority to act as a magistrate. The benefit the country would derive from empowering the naval officers to check smuggling. Sends model of a bridge to connect Kingston with Point Frederick. The importance of the work. The expense might be reduced by making it a toll bridge and it would enable government to sell to advantage all its present town lots. Commodore Owen ordered a burial ground to be enclosed at Point Frederick for naval and military corps. To have it consecrated the ground must be made over to the Church of England, and as that might interfere with the designs of government, he shall take no further measures on the subject. 218

May 25,
York.

Gore to Bathurst (No. 31). Dispatches received. Sends report on the subject of the purchase of a tract of land on the Bay of Quinté from the Indians; shall send further information when received. Recommends, if it is decided to purchase the land, that instructions be given not to grant more than 200 acres there to one person, with settlement duties to be performed before the deed is issued. Drummond has placed settlers from Europe and disbanded soldiers on the Rideau; he has not interfered, and has no means to meet the expense; has sent the dispatch on the subject of the water communication from Quebec to Kingston to the officer commanding the forces. Could not obtain an exchange of the lands granted to Stanton, as he had sold them to a merchant. Talbot purchased the lots on which the settlement was made and pre-ented them gratuitously to the settlers; suggests that the money be repaid to Talbot. Hale's brother has not answered letter about Hale's land; on the arrival of the latter at Quebec an exchange shall be proposed to him. Should difficulties be raised the proper legal steps shall be taken to vitiate the grant. Page 224

Gore to Bathurst (No. 32). The transfer of the control of the Indian department from the civil governor to the military officer commanding, announced by a military order from Drummond. Complaints of Drummond removing officers of the Indian department without an investigation; asks for protection and support against this assumption. 229

Enclosed. Same to Sherbrooke 31st May. Reports his being advised by a military order from Drummond of the transfer of the control of the Indian department; thinks he was entitled to a different mode of communicating this change than by a military order. Was struck with the haste of Drummond's order and the change it contemplates, as respect for His Excellency (Sherbrooke) should have prevented him making changes in a department committed to the charge of the commander of the forces in both provinces. The good services of lieut.-col. Cameron who has been dismissed from his office without warning. Believes he is justified in delaying to direct Cameron to deliver over his papers, or in letting an innocent man be sacrificed without an appeal. 233

Drummond to Gore, 13th May. States that it was resolved by government to transfer the control of the Indian department from the civil to the military authority. Transmits copy of the general orders for his (Gore's) information. Has appointed Alexander McDonell assistant secretary of the department in room of Colonel Cameron, Provincial A.D.C., as it would be incompatible for him to hold both situations under the new regulations. Cameron to be directed to hand over the papers to his successor. 237

July 6,
York.

Gore to Bathurst (No. 33). Had received directions to pay Dr. Strachan £350, which the Council recommended should be done out of the clergy reserve in the township of Cornwall; the whole of the receipts in that district would not pay the interest on Dr. Strachan's claim; asks, therefore, that it may be paid from the general fund of the clergy reserves in the province. 241

July 7,
York.

Same to the same (No. 34). Has forwarded dispatches of 8th January to Drummond, he (Gore), being uninformed of the communications from government to the officers administering the government of Upper Canada on the subject of a water communication from Quebec to Kingston; the dispatch being returned, he (Gore) submits that the commanding officer be instructed to advertise for the completion of the several parts of the work by contract, or that he (Gore) may be furnished with the plans to enable him to carry into effect His Lordship's commands. Applied to Sir Frederick Robinson for copies of correspondence with His Lordship; sends copy of answer. 243

Enclosed. Robinson to Gore, 7th July. Cannot send copies of correspondence as all his papers have been sent to New York. 245

York.

Gore to Bathurst (No. 37, second of same number). Had communicated the dismissal of Cameron and sent copy of letter to Sherbrooke, now sends copy of answer. Having failed to obtain justice asks for His Lordship's protection, as he was the means of withdrawing Cameron from his business to take a situation for which he is well qualified; asks for authority to pay Cameron £182 10s. annually, till he is otherwise provided for. There was no need for Sherbrooke to request that there should be no delay in executing the order for transfer as he had ceased to interfere the moment he received the military order. 298

Enclosed. Sherbrooke to Gore, 16th July. Drummond having left it would be difficult to inquire into the motives which led him to issue the order referred to. If the instructions from Bathurst have not been already acted upon, requests that there may be no delay in doing so. 300

July 31,

Gore to Buchanan. Enclosed in Gore to Bathurst of 2nd September, which see.

August 5,

Same to Bathurst (No. 38). Sends copy of letter from Sherbrooke refusing to issue money from the military chest for the civil service of Upper Canada. Is he to authorize the Receiver General to draw bills on the Treasury, or is the commander of the forces to be directed to continue the usual supply. 302

Enclosed. Sherbrooke to Gore, 17th July. Has sent a warrant to pay £2,500 towards the civil expenditure of Upper Canada, but as he has referred to the Treasury the question of supplying the civil from the military chest, he does not consider himself at liberty to make any further issue. 304

Gore to Bathurst (No. 40). Has transmitted report of the Council on a grant of lands to Capt. Loring. Asks for a copy of letter from the Treasury referred to in dispatch of the 6th of June, as it had not been put into the envelope with the dispatch. 307

September 2,
York.

Same to the same (No. 41). Is gratified at the appreciation of the services of a meritorious officer; feels confident that he (Bathurst) will not sanction the removal of others without a charge. The manner in which Caldwell and Cameron were removed has shaken the confidence of the people in the colonial administration. Points out the evils caused by the transfer of the Indian department to the control of the military authority and remonstrates strongly against the measure, giving instances of its bad effects. 308

September 2,
York.

Same to the same (separate). Sends copies of two letters from Buchanan, Consul at New York, with reply to the first letter. 315

Enclosed. Buchanan to Gore, 8th July. There are numerous applications from British subjects in New York for a settlement in Upper Canada. A previous governor was, he understands, adverse to receive British subjects from the United States, but that was on account of their disaffection. The present applicants are of a most desirable class. Prefers the men who have recently emigrated and made trial of the United States to those who have not had such experience. A great number who are anxious to go are of the working classes who require some aid towards their removal. Will any be afforded? 316

Gore to Buchanan, 31st July. It will afford him satisfaction to meet his (Buchanan's) wishes, but he does not feel at liberty to accept persons, to whatever nation they belong, who have resided in the United States during the war. Any persons he recommends shall be received as common settlers, but until he communicate with Sherbrooke cannot say if they can be settled on the same footing with emigrants sent out by government. The common settler will receive 100 acres of land paying £5 14s. 1d. sterling of fees. The settlers sent by government receive rations for six months and certain implements of husbandry but do not receive their deeds till the expiration of three years and the performance of settlement duty. 319

Buchanan to Gore, 17th August. The thousands of disappointed emigrants who desire to leave the United States for Canada. The applications have been so numerous that he has asked leave to take up a few vessels to send the deluded emigrants back to England, Scotland and Ireland. Has power to send back British subjects but in so limited a way that the hope of checking the evil would not be produced. Wishes to direct the emigrants from the north of Ireland to Canada; they generally have some property, are industrious and numbers will follow from their report. Has already granted passports to a few of this description. Has recommended only those in whom he has confidence. 321

Gore to Bathurst. Claus, as agent for the Six Nations on the Grand River, has drawn for £551 4s. 11d., the amount of the dividends due 1st July last. 365

September 9,
York.

Same to the same (No. 42). Gives an account of the seizure at Fort William by the Earl of Selkirk of the partners of the North-west Company and of their papers. Last spring Lord Selkirk's settlers took forcible possession of an establishment on the Red River belonging to 1816.

the North-west Company, and sent the superintendent trader to Hudson's Bay to be transported to England. In a quarrel between the settlers and natives or half-breeds, it is reported that more than 20 of the settlers were killed and the rest forced to abandon the settlement. Mutual accusations as to the first aggressors, but that cannot be determined. At the first settlement by Lord Selkirk no serious differences arose, but since His Lordship's attempt to establish a settlement on the Red River, contentions have been frequent and many lives lost, and the parties are becoming more inveterate against each other, so that it is apprehended the Indian tribes may be instigated to take part involving the government of Upper Canada in the dispute. Fort William having been considered in the Indian territory, he would not have presumed to interfere had Selkirk not apprehended the traders under his own warrant as a magistrate of the western district of Upper Canada. The judges are absent on duty and the attorney general is retained by Selkirk, contrary to his (Gore's) wishes. The prisoners passed through York guarded by armed men late of de Meuron's regiment. Shall report the judge's opinion when the prisoners have been brought before him by habeas corpus.

November 20, Same to the same (No. 42, second of that number). Has at the York. request of Sherbrooke, visited the Rideau settlement; the probable success of the settlement must depend on the continued supply of provisions. Has so represented to Sherbrooke. His expenses have been defrayed by warrant out of the funds granted by the provincial legislature in aid of the civil administration. 369

Enclosed. Same to Sherbrooke, 15th October. Has visited the Rideau settlement; the privations of the settlers; the necessity for continuing the allowance of provisions. 371

November 25, Gore to Bathurst. Transmits the application of Boulton, attorney-
York. general, to succeed to the vacancy on the Bench; objections to his appointment stated in letter of 25th September, 1810, still remain in force, but apply more to his present appointment, than to that which he solicits. Questions arising out of the provision that persons leaving the province during the war should be treated as aliens, require that the attorney general possess the full confidence of the public. Recommends Robinson to that office on the appointment of Boulton to the Bench, and that Henry Boulton be solicitor general; his qualifications. 375

Enclosed. Application from D'Arcy Boulton, 21st November. 378

November 25, Gore to Bathurst (separate). Refers to letter of this date, in which

December 7, Same to the same (No. 43). In consequence of Sir Robert Hall,

December 23,
York.

Same to the same (No. 45). Was not aware when he wrote his dispatch recommending Cameron to receive ten shillings a day till provided for after his dismissal from the Indian service, that the act of injustice complained of resulted from the order of His Majesty's government. His appeal, however, was against the order appointing McDonell assistant Secretary vice Cameron, on which order McDonell acts and receives pay. Is not ashamed to press again Cameron's claim. Without his (Gore's) wish, the Assembly had provided for an aide-de-camp to the governor and he (Gore) had pressed Cameron to accept the office. Under the new regulations the position on the Indian department could not be held with the other. What is complained of is, that Cameron was dismissed from a permanent position on the ground that he held another appointment which was temporary and precarious, without offering him any choice. Renews, therefore, his solicitation for some provision for Cameron. 382

December 24,
York.

Same to the same (No. 46). Would have issued warrant on the Receiver General for £2,060 11s. 6d. currency, advanced from the army extraordinaries for the repair of Elmsley House, but unless some means are adopted to supply the deficiency hitherto supplied from the army extraordinaries, the Receiver General cannot meet the current charges. He might call upon the legislature to pay for the repair, did it bear a proportion to the original cost, when it was in a better state than when received from the military in whose service the depredation occurred. It is now used as a residence for the lieutenant-governor, but is not suitable for a permanent residence for the head of the government. 386

December 26,
York.

Same to the same (No. 47). In consequence of the bad state of the government press he had given directions for the purchase of new type at a charge of £251 7s. 6d. currency, which has been paid by an order on the Receiver General. 388

Enclosed. Report of the Executive Council, 8th August, on the state of the printing press, and recommending that a new printing press and types be purchased. 389

- September 1,
York. Dickson to Goulburn. Had been received with the kindest attention by Gore, who will lose no time in forwarding the patents for lands granted to him (Dickson) and the officers and men serving under him. Was grieved to find that the lieut.-governor had not the power to give the presents to the Indians; they cannot understand this and in their present temper and the difficulty of intercourse with Lower Canada, it may be attended with bad consequences. Has the hope that a method will be discovered of transacting this business without constant reference to Quebec. Will inform the Indians of the government's kind intentions, which he hopes will take effect next summer. 133

- September 25,
London. J. B. Robinson to Bathurst. The order for payment of his salary is only for the half, being a deviation from the rule hitherto observed in his own and other cases. Asks that an order be issued for payment of the whole. 138

(Gore) so that he is unable to give directions about his affairs in Upper Canada. Complains also that packets are sent to him, with heavy envelopes containing no letters but for which he is charged heavy postage. The evidence shows that Gore is the author of this paltry trick. The risk of losing Upper Canada should Gore be continued as Governor.

A. P. S. states the unfavourable opinion held by Gore of Powell, whom he now recommends for Chief Justice. Encloses his petition to the House of Commons.

148

Kingston. trator from the time of his arrival at Quebec, not being aware that it did not become payable until Drummond had left. Shall refund the amount.

173

October 15, Auldjo to Bathurst. Finding that the name of Ensign W. B. Peters Finsbury Square. had been struck off, no application for his half-pay having been made for seven years, sends certificate dated 25th June, 1816, and prays that payment may be ordered of the half-pay by virtue of the certificate.

November 3, Firth to same. Has received letter from Goulburn, written by His Norwich. Lordship's direction that the proofs offered do not warrant the supposition that Gore intercepted his letters or burdened him with packets of papers. The evidence was circumstantial but convincing. Urges corroborative proof. Asks that the facts be represented to Gore who, if innocent, will be eager to redress the grievances. His efforts to preserve the constitution in spite of popular clamour; it is not too much to expect protection from the persecution of a colonial governor. He desires to give instructions as to the disposal of the remaining wreck of his property, but his letters are intercepted. He has an order for 1,200 acres; asks that these be granted to him free of fees and desires to have special directions sent to Gore to give these in a favourable situation, as otherwise they would not be worth accepting. Sends specimens of blasphemy and sedition circulating among the lower orders.

November 18, J. B. Robinson to the same. Again applies for payment of his full Craven Street. salary as solicitor general.

November 21, Firth to Goulburn. Has received letter with Bathurst's offer to for-Manchester Square. Lord Sidmouth and important communications to make respecting the Roman Catholic subjects in Upper Canada and other British Colonies in North America, asks for an audience.

(No doubt Bishop McDonell, the first Roman Catholic Bishop in Upper Canada, appointed Bishop of Kingston in 1826).

December 20, Cawthorne to Goulburn. Is William Bond, who held a situation in Wyerside. Upper Canada in 1807, still living?

227

December 23, Gore to Loring (?). Sends extract from dispatch from Bathurst rela-
York. tive to a grant of 700 acres, respecting which an explanation is required.

Enclosed. Bathurst to Gore, 1st October (extract). In consequence of a report of the Executive Council on a grant of 700 acres to Loring, he must surrender the land without delay and repay Flummerfelt the money paid by him. If he refuse, other steps may have to be taken, measures must be taken, to prevent the alienation of the land. Page 232

Loring to the same, 28th December. In reply to letter and extract, would be ready to meet the wishes of government to reinvest the 600 acres remaining to him. But as the letter and extract point to his rectitude of conduct he must postpone the surrender and the return of the $500 paid by Flummerfelt, until it could be shown whether anything of an improper nature can warrant Bathurst's severe animadversions. There need be no fear of alienation, it was only because Flummerfelt had improved part of the land himself, that he sold the 100 acres at Flummerfelt's own valuation. Being ignorant of there being any question respecting his grant, asks for copies of Sir Frederick Robinson's dispatch and of the report of the Executive Council, as well as the names of those who made statements on which that report was founded. Thanks for his (Gore's) delicacy in the matter, but he (Loring) believes a public hearing is the only method to bring calumny to light and subject the authors to punishment. 233

December 25,
Kingston.

The same to Bathurst. His reason for not at once surrendering the grant; asks for copies of correspondence and other papers and asks for a fair hearing respecting the transactions of which he had been kept in complete ignorance. 237

December 27,
Whitehall.

Lack to Goulburn. The Lords of Trade desire to have copy of an order of the Legislative Council of Upper Canada relative to duties on articles from the United States. 229

No date.

Halton to Mrs. Saltren (extract) sent to Drummond. On the claims of Col. Givins. 6

L. T. Besserer to Goulburn. His disappointment at not receiving the grant of Grande Isle, as promised. Had incurred expense to have it settled to the advantage of the communication between Quebec and Halifax. There is no settlement of Acadians on the Island; they are settled on the banks of the St. John, opposite the island and only cut the hay on it from natural meadows. Requests that his expenses be repaid or that he be granted other islands. 131

Gore to Sherbrooke. Enclosed in Gore to Bathurst of 27th January, which see.

Same to Bathurst (No. 52). Submits correspondence between him and Sherbrooke on the subject of the settlement of reduced troops and emigrants between the St. Lawrence and Ottawa. Regrets the disturbance to the cordial co-operation of the two authorities and refusal of Sherbrooke to supply the usual assistance from the military chest, except as a temporary loan. The precautions taken to prevent abuses. The difficulties arising from inexperienced men being employed. The original settlement of reduced troops and loyalists in 1783 and 1784 was performed by the surveyor general's department with no aid but what the settlers afforded.

Enclosed. Same to Wilson, 15th July. Had received letters and ordered surveys in the vicinity of the Rideau; the surveyor general represents that agents for settling emigrants and discharged soldiers have deviated from the regulation by which a great increase of expense occurs. The necessity to have the proper vouchers with the accounts. Remarks on rations; arrangements for settling the accounts.

Sherbrooke to Gore, 17th July. Has complied with requisition for £2,500 for civil expenditure in Upper Canada, but cannot do so in future till the pleasure of the Treasury shall be known. (An extract is at page 102.)

Same to the same, 3rd August, 1816. Wilson has forwarded his (Gore's) letter. Is satisfied with the prospect of the completion of the survey of the new townships on the Rideau; its importance. Shall be happy to co-operate for the attainment of this object. Regrets that any difficulty has arisen or that additional expense is likely to be incurred from the interference of the superintendent of settlement; asks for particular acts of interference and a copy of the instructions, so that he may investigate the charges. The good character of Rogers; desires to have specific charges. Measures shall be taken for the issue of provisions. The superintendent shall be ordered to desist from interfering with the instructions received by the surveyors.

22

Gore to Sherbrooke, 20th August. Sends the surveyor general's instructions to the surveyor laying out the new townships and report on the subject, which show the additional expense incurred. The surveyor suggests placing two or three pickets on the side lines to guide the settlers and surveying a road between every five lots. Asks for a copy of the instructions of the superintendent, so that he can direct the surveyor without further reference to him (Sherbrooke). Sends copy of letter to Bathurst, and regrets that from want of funds he shall be compelled to withdraw his assistance in settling the banks of the Rideau. The constant opposition of Rogers in the Assembly, but he does not wish him removed without affording him an opportunity of defending himself if accused.

27

43

49

Ridout to MacMahon, 27th August. Transmits copy of letter from Sherwood, stating that he had discharged his surveying party on the 10th instant for reasons given.

51

Sherwood to Ridout, 12th August. The superintendent having taken direction of the survey, he (Sherwood) does not consider himself any longer responsible, and has therefore discharged his party at Perth on the 10th instant. Page 52

Gore to Sherbrooke, 11th November. Reminds him of promise, and asks that in accordance therewith he may cause the sum of £1,500 to be issued for the discharge of the accounts of the surveyors. 54

Myers to Gore, 23rd November. Writes on behalf of Sherbrooke, who is sorry he cannot advance the £1,500 wanted for the surveys of the new settlements to 30th June, a date previous to his (Sherbrooke's) arrival. His assurance was only for advances for future services, for which he will make advances as liberal as the limited means at his disposal will permit, on the faith of repayment from the provincial funds of Upper Canada; orders have accordingly been given to the secretary at Perth. His Excellency understands that lands sufficient for all the persons now on the Rideau will shortly be surveyed, when the surveyors, at least those from Lower Canada, should be discontinued. 56

Same to the same, 19th November. Sherbrooke has received still stronger letters from Bathurst than before on the subject of retrenchment; he must, therefore, contract the assistance to the new settlements in Upper Canada. A statement of the expense has been laid before His Excellency for surveys on the Rideau; the state of the military chest will not authorize advances to nearly that amount, unless there be an early repayment. The statement shows the expense to be £10 16s. per day. 59

Gore to Sherbrooke, 16th December. The limited means at his (Gore's) disposal; the withdrawal of the assistance from the military chest since his (Sherbrooke's) accession has deprived him of a large part of these means. The accounts for the survey on the Rideau he had supposed would form part of the expense of the Quartermaster General's department, in carrying into effect the settlement of the reduced troops; hopes to be able to pay them, but will be unable to defray the cost since that period and unless the advance be made from the military chest, the persons employed will have just cause to complain. 61

Same to the same, 16th December. By advice of the Executive Council, all the surveyors employed in the province have been dismissed, there being no funds available for their payment. 64

Same to the same, 20th December. Transmits minute of the Executive Council in respect to the transfer of the direction of the settlement of the reduced troops to the commander of the forces. Calls attention to the increased expense, the charge for which must be defrayed at York. Believes that he (Sherbrooke) will approve of the withholding the grant in certain cases as recommended. 66

Minute of Executive Council of 18th December. The land surveyed being sufficient for the settlers, recommend that no further surveys be made, but that additional land required may be taken from the Crown Reserves already surveyed, point out abuses and recommend that certain lands taken possession of by superintendents be not granted to them. 68

Sherbrooke to Gore, 28th December (separate). From reading the correspondence he had believed that the payment of the expenses of the surveys of land in Upper Canada had been reserved for him (Gore) and funds placed at his disposal. Had hoped that the difficulties would have been removed by his offer to make advances to be repaid. Is disappointed that his expectations have not been realized. In his official letters, states the only means he has hit upon to pay the surveyors. 72

Same to the same, 28th December. Official, of the same purport as the preceding. Will pay the amount of the surveys from 1st of July, leaving His Majesty's ministers to decide if the expense is to fall on the military chest or not. Regrets the hasty measure of the Council in dismissing the surveyors as there are discharged soldiers ready to go on the Rideau in spring, for whom 50 or 60 lots should have been surveyed. 75

Extracts from minutes of Executive Council of Upper Canada respecting the source from which the expenses of survey should have been met.

Ridout to Fowler, 10th June, 1816 (extract) on the same subject. 81

(These two papers were sent by Sherbrooke as proof of the understanding that the expense of settlement was to be paid by Upper Canada.)

Gore to Sherbrooke, 14th January, 1817. Regrets that any misunderstanding on a point of indifference should embarrass the progress of settlement. The avoidance of interference by the legislature until attention was called to the want of funds by the withdrawal of help from the military chest. 83

Same to the same, 14th January. The steps taken to establish the settlement on the Rideau, the want of funds the cause of the dismissal of the surveyors. Sixty lots shall be surveyed if required, to be under the exclusive control of the surveyor general. Asks for copy of contract for the sale by Indians of lands near the Rideau; if more exists, he shall have to obtain authority to extinguish the Indian titles to the four townships recently laid out. 86

Same to the same, 24th January, 1817. Has received queries from McDonald and answers by Drummond. Cannot reconcile his (Sherbrooke's) satisfaction with his (Gore's) letter of 30th December, with his animadversions on the minutes of Council of 18th December. Transmits minute of Council on that part of the letter. Thanks for confirming Dr. Thorn in lot 1 of the 2nd concession of Drummond. Has divided lot 2 of same concession into eight lots of 25 acres each for artificers settled in the village. Oliver is settled on lot 21 of the 5th concession of Elmsley; as his ferry is useful to the settlement, Capt. Fowler cannot be confirmed in it without special commands of Government. Orders were given that land should be provided for the 60 settlers still unprovided for; but no further pledge can be given for immediate preparations, leaving the further survey to the direct order of His Majesty's Government. 89

Report of Council, 22nd. Details of the settlement and of the adherence of Council to its engagements. 94

Extract from queries of 5th February, 1816, by McDonell to Drummond and answer respecting the quantity of land to be allotted to superintendents. 100

Sherbrooke to Gore, 4th January. Is glad to find by minute of 18th December, that he was correct in the opinion that the charge for surveying the new settlements on the Rideau was to be defrayed from funds at his (Gore's) disposal. After lands on the Rideau were placed at the disposal of the commander of the forces for settling a particular class of persons, it seems extraordinary that alterations should be recommended by the Executive Council without consulting that officer. Asks for a note of grants which may appear objectionable that they may be inquired into and settled, that no further difficulties may be thrown in the way of these poor people receiving their grants; this should be clearly understood; any doubts may require to be decided by a higher authority. Comments on the different allotments and states that the allocation of lands to the superintendents was sanctioned by Drummond and Bathurst. 104

Gore to Executive Council, 22nd January. Transmits dispatch from Sherbrooke, and asks that the Council will report such further assurances as may be thought necessary to satisfy the settlers. 111

Same to Bathurst (No. 51). Claus, trustee for the Six Nations, has drawn for the six months' dividends, £275 12s. 5½d. 11

Same to the same (No. 53). Powell, who succeeded Scott as Speaker of the Council, was promised £400 a year; has drawn for three quarters of the year's salary. 113

Same to the same (No. 55). Has received a communication from Sherbrooke on matters exclusively connected with the civil administration of Upper Canada. Presumes his reference to his (Bathurst's) dispatches alludes to instructions to the person administering the government of Upper Canada, in which case the originals should have been sent. The establishment of a Trinity House would be at variance with the prejudices of the colonists. How the lighthouses are managed. Shall cause the reserves at the isthmus near Drummond Island and the unlocated land at the Indian landing, near Holland River, to be reserved for naval purposes, when the former is purchased from the natives. The salmon fishery on the Humber and Credit rivers is protected by law from abuse; any further laws to prevent Americans from buying fish from the Indians might appear invidious. 117

Enclosed. Sherbrooke to Gore, 31st December, 1816. Desires him (Gore) to bring before the Legislature of Upper Canada the establishment of a Trinity House, as suggested by Bathurst, and that the isthmus near Drummond Island and Indian Landing or Gwillimsbury are to be reserved for naval purposes. American citizens are to be excluded from the exclusive enjoyment of the salmon fishery. 120

York.

Same to the same. Has found it necessary to prorogue the legislature owing to the attempts of land speculators to settle the province with the citizens of the United States. The danger of their proceedings "if early attention is not paid to compose the spiritalising by the machinations of land speculators in this province, the King's government will be exposed in all future time, to purchase tranquillity by the disagreeable measure of stifling sedition by rewards, and thus encouraging the growth of the evil." 129

Enclosed. Resolutions of Assembly for the unrestricted admission of settlers from the United States, and that orders to the contrary be rescinded. That the Crown and clergy reserves should be sold and not leased as at present. 137

Speech of Gore on proroguing the legislature. 142

Gore to Bathurst. Found on his arrival a Board of militia officers sitting on claims for allowances which had accumulated. From removal and death the Board had since lapsed without making a report, so that he had to revive it. The report now made shows claims to the amount of £28,784 11s. 6d. currency. The militia would have been satisfied with ordinary pay and barrack accommodation, but the commanding officer placed the militia staff of Lower Canada on the same footing of allowances as the regular forces, so that the militia of Upper Canada had to be placed on the same footing. It is to be lamented that attention had not been paid to carry out the measure at once to prevent lingering claims; but more courteous attention was paid to the militia of Lower Canada, and the governors administering the government of Upper Canada had not the control of means which should have been coeval with those of the governor of Lower Canada. If there is any hesitation in discharging the demands it will have a most unfavourable effect on the people. The charge was not indispensably necessary to call into activity their zeal and loyalty, but they will sink under a sense of injustice and a feeling of jealousy of the distinction between them and their fellow-subjects in Lower Canada. He cannot ask the legislature to make up the deficiency; during the war it gave its all; at the peace it compensated the sufferers by pensions. Recommends that the commander of the forces be instructed out of the army extraordinaries to meet the requisitions of the person administering the government to an extent equal to the extinction of this claim, which he thinks necessary to maintain the respect and confidence of the people. Page 143

Enclosed. Report of the Board to examine into the claims of the militia. 147

Gore to Bathurst (No. 58). Transmits memorial from McGregor for lands on the Credit River reserved for the Missisauags; the reserve has not answered its purpose, as during the salmon fishery the Americans tempt the Indians with ardent spirits which they cannot resist. The establishment by a gentleman like McGregor would check this. Should the application be received favourably the surrender should first be made to the Crown and the lease granted for the benefit of Indians. 172

Enclosed. Memorial of McGregor for lands on the Credit River, on which to erect mills, &c., the payment for the lease to be applied for the benefit of the Indians; engages that his mills shall not interfere with the salmon fishery. 174

Gore to the same. The disposal of the Crown reserves to the disbanded troops and emigrants from Europe, in consequence of a letter from His Lordship (Bathurst); this practice he had found prevailing on his resuming the administration in 1815. The case of Cockburn, who finding the large grant to him on the Rideau would impede the improvement of that settlement, had relinquished it and received land in another part of the province. Recollects no instance of any officer receiving lands anywhere but on the Rideau, except on the recommendation of the commander of the forces. 205

Alexander McDonell to Bathurst. States for favourable consideration the position of the Roman Catholics of Upper Canada, who are about 15,000 in number, spread over great part of the Province. The Scotch Highlanders are chiefly in the Glengarry settlement, but many are dispersed as far as Kingston. Six clergymen and eight or ten schoolmasters would be required for the religious and other instruction of these settlers, so as to preserve the children to the loyal principles of their fathers. The encouragement to public teachers of emigrants without respect to religious persuasion, namely, £100 sterling per annum and 200 acres to clergymen and £50 and 100 acres to teachers, would be all that could be expected by the Catholics of Upper Canada. Intends to establish a school for superior education for gentlemen's sons to preclude the necessity of sending them to the United States or to the seminaries in Lower Canada; an allowance might be made to these similar to that made to the Protestant district schools. The necessity for boarding schools for young ladies, those in existence being kept by American women, who train the children in United States principles; a few English nuns or religious women might be encouraged so as to counteract these insidious attempts. All the encouragement that would be required by the nuns would be a trifling pension on the Jesuit fund till they could establish themselves, with the grant of land for buildings at Kingston or elsewhere and 200 acres in the vicinity, whence they could provide themselves with fuel and other necessaries. Exclusive of the eight district schools, which are principally taught by clergymen of the Established Church, the education of the youth of Upper Canada is in the hands of Americans, and consists of the perusal of works "artfully" "tinctured with the principles of their Government and Constitution" "and holding up their own worthies as perfect patterns of every moral excellence, whilst our public and private characters are represented in" "the most odious and disgusting light." The danger is of a serious and alarming nature. In consequence of the countenance given by Lord Sidmouth in 1803, he (McDonell) was able to direct the emigration of Scotch Catholics to Upper Canada, whilst in the same space of time thousands of Scotch Presbyterians and innumerable Irish Catholics have found their way to the United States and were not only lost to their native country but became its most formidable and inveterate enemies.

Enclosed. Memorandum respecting the proposal to divide the Roman Catholic diocese of Quebec and to form each province into a separate spiritual jurisdiction and the islands of Prince Edward, Cape Breton and Magdalen into another. The Bishop of Quebec has, no doubt, forwarded recommendations to Rome of the persons to be named Vicars Apostolic for each new diocese. Bishop Plessis would undoubtedly name proper characters and loyal subjects, but would naturally prefer Canadians. As by far the greater part of the Catholics in Upper Canada and in the islands are Scotch Highlanders and those in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick principally Irish, clergymen of their respective countries should have their spiritual direction. This has been and is the opinion of the different governors, and it is not too late to give it effect. 184

Sends dispatches from Gore; would have requested permission to explain a misapprehension which Gore supposes to exist respecting Cameron, had he obtained an interview, which the death of his mother prevented him from asking. Enclosed. Gore to the Bishop of Quebec, 16th November, 1816. When the grant of 12,000 acres was made, the deviation from the rule did not extend to the fee on the patent and no discretion on that point rests in Upper Canada. Informs him of this, that he may apply to the proper authority to sanction the same fee on his grant as on those to the Executive Councillors. There need, however, be no delay. 255

March 7,
London. Drummond to Bathurst. Has received letter of the 4th that Loring's request for the substance of the information on which His Lordship had been induced to act should be sent him. As his (Drummond's) character is also aspersed, asks that copies of all the communications respecting Loring's case may be sent to him (Drummond). Page 79
- March 14,

Should further explanations be required, he shall be happy to give them and trusts that no adverse determination on the subject of Loring's grant may be come to, without previously calling for such details as he (Drummond) can furnish. 81
- March 19,
Whitehall. Lack to Goulburn. In reference to proceedings of the Assembly of Upper Canada relative to commercial intercourse with Lower Canada, the Lords of Trade doubt if they can take the arrangements into their own hands, at all events they can arrive at no opinion on the subject without a report from the Governor of Lower Canada, which is to be asked for. 11

A. Macdonell to Goulburn. Thanks for the attention to his application for the people under his charge. Shall make it a gratifying duty to impress the liberality of the British government on the minds of his people. Catholic clergymen are no less necessary in Upper Canada than Catholic schoolmasters; the urgency of getting Scotch Catholic clergymen to that province. Recommends Rev. James Sharp, Rev. John McDonald and Rev. William Chisholm. If a few proper clergymen and schoolmasters were settled amongst the Catholics of Upper Canada, he would pledge his life for their loyalty and good conduct. 199

Enclosed. Memorial from Rev. Alexander Macdonell, Vicar-General, dated 15th June. His services in respect to the Scotch Highlanders who removed to Glasgow and other manufacturing towns; his successful efforts to secure them as settlers in Upper Canada; his raising fencibles for defence during the war, whose privations he shared with the private soldiers. States the great expense he incurs as Vicar General. 201

A. MacDonell to Bathurst. Should he obtain a grant of ten or twelve hundred acres, he will engage to have the required quantity cleared and to have a loyal subject settled on every 200 acres. Besides his other services he had paid for the passages of 20 persons who were unable to do so themselves; being mostly tradesmen, he wishes them to be near him, as they would be useful in building churches, school-houses, &c. Had also a lease for eleven or twelve lots of clergy reserves, on all of which people are settled. If he could get the lease extended for 50 or 100 years, he and his successors would be enabled to accommodate widows and poor people who would wish to live near their friends. If about 20 reduced soldiers of the 1st Glengarry fencibles, who received no grants, being too poor to pay the fees, received them gratis like others, they would be perfectly satisfied. Merry to Goulburn. Has received memorial from Battersby relative to his claim for full pay, whilst he acted as commissioner for investigating losses in Canada. The practice has been to allow full pay to officers disbanded abroad up to the date of their landing and for two months after, provided they have used due diligence, or been detained by military duty. In this case Battersby was detained by civil duties for which he expects remuneration and cannot, therefore, be kept on full pay longer than if he had returned in the usual course. 33

Loring to Goulburn. Has received substance of the report on which Bathurst founded his instruction to Gore respecting his (Loring's) property in Louth. Trusts that in what relates to his conduct his answers are satisfactory, but as to what respects the conduct of His Majesty's representative and officers it would be presumptuous in him to answer. Has answered the report paragraph by paragraph; refers to it and refers also to Drummond for such parts of the report as it would be unbecoming in him (Loring) to reply to. 114

Enclosed. Transcript of the "substance of information" respecting Loring's property in the township of Louth. The information and answers in parallel columns. 116

Unfavourable accounts of his conduct have been or will be made by Gore, but trusts that he will not be condemned on ex parte statements, as he is prepared to meet any investigation. 215
- September 15,
Bletchley. Battersby to the same. The reason of his receiving full pay for two months after his arrival was the authority given by the Prince Regent's warrant and was only what other officers received. - Nichol to Goulburn. Omitted to state that it was intended to establish a strong military post at Chatham to which it was recommended by

Their opinion is that subjects of the United States are entitled to have the oath of allegiance and the oath of their intention to reside administered, the governor having no discretion to refuse to administer, but this does not enable them to hold lands, for which purpose they must reside seven years in the Province. 18
- December 3, ——— to Bathurst. Unless an energetic system is adopted in the Kingston. provincial government and in the army quartered in Canada it must soon form a state of the American confederation. The inefficiency of the generals: the army engaged in clearing land; the posts never visited. Works should be thrown up in the upper lakes and orders have been given to visit these posts for which the district general is making great preparations, although the writer performed similar voyages with a clerk and coxswain, carrying provisions on their backs. The honesty of the Indians, but the expense is £100,000 and sometimes £150,000 for presents to them of articles which they do not require; the presents go to the benefit of the United States, whose traders get them from the Indians for rum. This expense could be lessened by £80,000. Suggests the appointment of three officers (naval or military) to report on the distribution of the presents. There is a feverish dread of these people who are as dastardly as the Hottentots and only show themselves after a battle. The immense expenditure for victualling the Indians whilst the army was retreating for want of provisions. 42

Gore to the same. Finds by reference to the surveyor general of Lower Canada that John Black, who had presented a petition to him (Gore) in Upper Canada in 1816, had obtained 50,000 acres. Liverpool, on 1st November, 1800, directed that a grant of land should be passed to Black in Upper instead of Lower Canada, but he had delayed the grant, believing His Lordship to be deceived. Grande Isle is private property, belonging to the heirs of the Baron de Longueuil. The seigniorship of William Henry is in Lower Canada. From Black's character any further favour would have a bad effect.

Gore to Gordon. Returns letter from Brock, who has taken a just view of settlement in Upper Canada. It is true that emigrants from Europe dislike settling on the Rideau, as the Deputy Quartermaster General and his assistant only visit the settlement occasionally. Brock's account of the Talbot settlement is correct. Talbot derives no benefit from the settlement of the Talbot road and the townships of Bayham and Malahide, which is distinct from his grant. Shall be sorry if Talbot is not allowed to complete the settlement. Brock's letter should be laid before Bathurst.

February 9,

Smith to Bathurst (No. 3). No Crown reserves were granted until authorized by their Lordship's instructions to Drummond, confirmed by Sir George Murray. Since then they are granted indiscriminately to officers, soldiers and emigrants by virtue of the Order in Council. There does not appear to have been granted 1,200 acres to any field officer; Cockburn was allowed to locate four lots of 200 acres each; only Gore can explain the cause of this exceptional grant, but it appears incidentally that Cockburn had given up a favourable situation to accommodate some emigrant artificers and was provided for elsewhere. Takes no

Smith to Bathurst (No. 4). The statement of the Bishop of Quebec as to the grant to children of the Executive Councillors is erroneous; each Councillor was to receive 6,000 acres on the removal of the seat of government to York, the fee to be at the rate for that amount of £5 11s. per thousand acres. The bishop was charged that rate for the 6,000 acres and the ordinary rate for the rest. If it is the Prince Regent's pleasure that the bishop should receive the 12,000 acres at the rate of £5 11s. 0d., the Receiver General must obtain authority from the Treasury to refund the excess. 6

Enclosed. Address, which gives an account of the occupation by Flummerfelt (given as Plummerfelt in the address) and Moore and the manner in which the grant was made to Loring of their holdings. It recommends that legal proceedings be taken to cancel the grant to Loring, so that two-sevenths of the land might be bestowed on the persons to whom the faith of the provincial government was pledged. There would then remain 500 acres in the heart of a valuable settlement to bestow on Loring. 13

Smith to Bathurst (No. 10). Has been obliged to call the Legislature together before receiving His Lordship's sentiments and instructions on the subject of the prorogation of the last session. Does not think the objectionable interference with the Clergy Reserves will be revived, but expects a declaration on the subject of settlers from the United States who were ordered to be discouraged. The laws relating to this subject and the change made on account of the war. The movement on the part of those interested who had been allowed to purchase large tracts of land from the Grand River Indians had caused Gore to prorogue the Assembly. They have found support out of the House in a reformer, Robert Gourlay, whose declarations are not the less inflammatory amongst an ignorant population from the want of truth, reason and decorum; he has no property in the colony and is only known as a relation of Dickson, the proprietor of a Grand River township; his insignificance is no security against the mischiefs he may cause. Desires legal advice on the effect of the statute respecting the admission of subjects of the United States without discrimination. 21

JOHN MCGILL,

Auditor General of Land Patents, Upper Canada.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,

1818.
Queenston.

Address by Robert Gourlay to the resident land owners of Upper Canada. The object of a previous address was to obtain information respecting the country for the benefit of the people and Government of Great Britain. Had believed it was only necessary to amend the errors of original institution, in which lay the chief obstacle to the prosperity of the province. Has since changed his mind; an official inquiry to be made into the state of the country should be demanded by the inhabitants. The attachment of public men to the late Governor Gore; his respectable private character, but he laughed in his sleeve at their subservience and whilst he dismissed Parliament in a style unheard of since the days of Cromwell, he carried away as much flattery as secured him a snug retirement in Downing Street. Has no wish to cast contempt on constituted authority; the goodness of a government keeps pace with the virtuous conduct of the people, so that the people of Canada should take to themselves every part of the blame and regard it as a warning for the future. The reception given to Gore on his arrival in London leaves not a doubt as to the necessity of the inquiry, as it shows that the gross manner in which the Canadian Parliament was dismissed has been misrepresented and the ministers labour under a fatal mistake as to the laws and policy of the country. Since the revolution three fourths of the settlers have emigrated from the United States; their loyalty. It is true that there were unprincipled villains in Canada but the basest of all were European born. The Acts of the Imperial Parliament authorized the naturalization of foreigners, a contradiction to the swaggering declaration of a war minister that allegiance cannot be changed; quotes the words of the Acts. The benefits of the policy of which he is proud as coming from a nation of which he is part. Compares the inducement thus held out to a war of conquest which compels men to change their allegiance. For himself he would be faithful to whatever government he should live under, but the change should not be trifled with and a great moral lesson was taught those who deserted during the war, whose property was confiscated, and if they assisted the enemy they were to be hanged. The advantage to Canada by the war in showing her strength to resist and many of the most upright citizens of the United States were on the wing to settle in Canada, finding a pure democracy not immaculate, with its evil effects described. It was then that an odious barrier was erected. It is not for temporary objects that he calls attention to this subject, but for reasons of permanent principle. The true principles of the British constitution by which the people when virtuous shall become all powerful, but which reins back their freedom in proportion to their vice or imbecility; the law is above all men, and while it is a maxim that the King can do no wrong, his ministers are open to censure and amenable to justice. The watchfulness exercised has prevented those in authority from converting their offices of trust to the purposes of selfishness. This has been neglected in Canada with evil consequences, but the constitution should not be blamed. It is not for the people of Canada to be inveterate, the impeachment against the late Governor should be dropped, but while they seek not blood they may properly extort tears. The reprobation from the mass of the people for the acts of the Governor will make future Governors more circumspect. The province must either prosper or fall; having resisted invasion, are the people to suffer a more deadly foe to waste and destroy it? It is true that if Canada were united to the States its property would rise to twice its present value, but if a liberal connection with Britain were established and a system of business introduced instead of paltry patronage and favouritism, the same property would rise to ten times its present worth. The ignorance of the people of Britain of Canada; the Prince Regent would never have insulted the inhabitants with the offer of confiscated estates to make good the claims of sufferers by war did he know how little these would afford, and were he apprized of the truth under proper management, the public property would not only defray every claim but yield a handsome revenue to Britain. The township reports he has received far exceed his expectations and form a mass of information well calculated to assist Parliamentary inquiry and he would hand these reports over to the Assembly, as he never wished to have them for the purpose of book-making. Urges them to press for inquiry and for a commission to go to London with the result, which they should publish with the township reports; this would break the spell and produce consequences every way splendid. The absurd proposals made by Governors. Advises the land-owners to transact their own business and to correspond with friends in Britain. He knows hundreds of farmers who would come with money in their hands, and he knows of many of the best and wealthiest farmers who last year went to the United States on speculation, who might be drawn to Canada if the house were cleared of vermin and filth. N.B.—Sends condensed statement of the Bill of Rights and a form to be used in applying to the House of Assembly. Page 26

Same to Bathurst. Calls attention to the legal proceedings by Thorpe and the verdict against him (Gore) for libel, in consequence of his zealous exertions to maintain His Majesty's authority in Upper Canada. Enters into an elaborate statement of the disordered political state of Upper Canada, the efforts by Thorpe, Wyatt and Willcocks to create disaffection and the conduct of Firth in giving evidence of the publication of a libel, arising from receiving the copy of a pamphlet in his official capacity and appeals for protection against the consequences of the two verdicts (that of Wyatt and that of Thorpe). 'Having received the Government of "Upper Canada when that province was agitated by serious divisions, "and having under the support of His Majesty's ministers, established "and confirmed the people in sentiments of loyalty, of which they have "given unbounded proofs, and having now resigned my Government in "a state of tranquillity and attachment I throw myself upon the justice "of your lordships, to sanction and indemnify my retirement." 115 to a bill to provide for the administration of justice and for civil government recommended to the Assembly in his answer that such a measure should be passed, but it was contrived that there should be no quorum, so that his answer will not be reported till next session. Copies of the addresses from the respective Houses are attached to that to the Prince Regent, so that he does not comment on them. The ostensible is not the real reason of the difference between the two Houses. Amendments to money bills made by the Council, have, if not otherwise exceptionable, been put into a new bill, to save the privileges of the Assembly. The amendment, which is the present subject of discussion, was brought in as a new bill, but owing to the Receiver General declining to pay Jones £100 as a commissioner, on the authority of the Assembly, it became a personal question and led to the prorogation of the Legislature, without a bill of supply, a bill for intercourse with the United States, and without a bill to regulate the disposal of forfeited estates. The uncertainty of peace in the colony whilst liable to be disturbed on such pretenses of privilege. Trusts before the next session to be armed with power to meet the contingency of the funds being locked up by a similar misunderstanding. Page 51

Enclosed. Requisition by the Assembly for the issue of £8,000, dated 27th March. 56

Maitland to the same. Took the oaths on the 13th and summoned the legislature for the 12th of October. The two Houses separated wrangling and the Lower House voted £8,000 by address. By summoning them in October the Lower House will desire to be dismissed before the bad weather, and will, therefore, attend to business and not to wrangling. On the subject of constituting rectories, he is desirous to comply with His Lordship's wishes, but there are difficulties in the way of which he shall send a sketch; these are not serious, but the presence of the Bishop of Quebec is necessary. Has visited the settlements, but was disappointed with the condition of that of Glengarry, where great portions of the uncleared lands are held by absentees to the injury of the actual settlers, who are of a good sort but who brought neither funds nor notions of comfort. The land council has been sleeping over an office choked with applications; he shall stir up the members. A man named Gourlay, half Cobbett half Hunt, has been perplexing the province; an indictment for libel against government has been found against him; has no great confidence in the result before a petty jury, but hopes he will not escape for a libel against an individual, which may cripple him. Apologizes for the haste in which the letter is written. Has named a township after Lady Georgina. Page 129

Same to Bathurst. (No. 2). Delay in deciding on petitions for land from the men of the flank companies, of the provincial navy and of the militia, the Council believing that a decision was pending relative to a proposed gratuity of lands, asks for the Prince Regent's decision. The prospect of this gratuity has been so long fostered that disappointment would be productive of discontent. If granted to the persons in question, it would be an act of bounty generally gratifying to the province as well as to the individuals. The land council, by daily exertion, has brought up a long arrear of business. 134

- December 7,
York. Maitland to the same (No. 11). Transmits address from the legislature for part of the waste lands of the Crown for the purpose of improving the navigation. The inexpediency of alienating the Crown lands as prayed for except with great circumspection. Should Crown lands be granted the reserves should not be alienated, as that would materially injure the interests of the Crown in the province. 168

- December 8,
York. Maitland to Bathurst (No. 12). In reference to the dispatch on the subject of securing from loss persons who had settled in the township of Harwich, on lands supposed to be vacant but afterwards found to belong to previous occupants, exonerates the surveyor general from blame and points out the evil effects of granting lands to persons who neither settle nor cultivate them. Suggests a small tax on such lands so that the owners would either be induced to settle or dispose of them on equitable terms. Recommends the proposal for serious consideration. 172
Enclosed. Ridout to Hillier, 7th October. Reports the survey of a road from Port Talbot to Amherstburg. In the plan returned by Burwell, deputy surveyor, it was found that by a plan of 1815, lots laid out by him in Harwich had been already granted, not marked in the plan sent for his guidance, dated in 1811. Has written to Talbot on the subject. 175

Firth to Bathurst. Learns from Baldwin that he had contracted for the sale of his (Firth's) mansion house at York for £1,100. It is rented to government at £130 a year, so that the amount would only be about eight years purchase, as it cost £1,750, the loss to him would be £650. The sacrifices he had made by accepting office in Canada.
Leaves the question of purchase to his Lordship's known just views. 332 enter into the question of remuneration of his (Firth's) losses, nor interfere with the arrangements of the colonial government in respect of the

May 26,
Glengarry. Rev. A. Macdoneli to Bathurst (private). The salaries of the clergy and schoolmasters for the Catholic inhabitants of Upper Canada have not been paid, owing, the administrator states, to the want of funds, the legislature not having provided adequate means for paying them.
The embarrassment of these persons who left their native country and are now without means of subsistence. Were payment ordered in the meantime out of the Jesuits' property, it would afford immediate relief and convince the Catholic inhabitants that their clergy and schoolmasters are supported by the king's bounty independently of the provincial funds. Had already expressed the opinion that the public functionaries of religion should depend for their subsistence rather on His Majesty's Government than on their hearers and now presses that point. Black to Goulburn. In reference to Bathurst's reply, that he sees no reason to change his mind, states that proof of his case is accessible in London, but to obviate the difficulty asks for a portion of land in the new townships of Lower Canada. On his arrival in Quebec, he will give security for the fulfilment of the conditions. The jealousies from which he had suffered; cannot believe that Bathurst or he (Goulburn) could be actuated by such feelings; he cannot therefore think that Bathurst would allow him to leave without a positive order for a portion of land or otherwise to be provided for. 304

In respect to his application for land as a reduced officer, it is impossible to put every consideration into an official letter; asks, therefore, to be allowed an opportunity of answering objections before an official answer is sent. The son rented a farm from his father, but fled, a warrant being issued for his apprehension; settled in England on a farm, but quarrelled with his landlord, was deprived of it and went to Canada. He is a man of no principle, desperate in fortune and may prove a dangerous adventurer in Canada. 454

Halton to the same. Has had frequent letters from inhabitants of Upper Canada who assisted in defending the province, asking if it is intended that they shall be paid for the losses caused by the war in which many were ruined. Reminds him of the Board appointed to investigate these losses which reported in July, 1816, but no relief has yet been granted, causing great dissatisfaction. Will make no remarks on any of the claims but one, estimated by the commissioners at £5,906 16s. 4d. for supplies and labour. Is aware of the order respecting the forfeited estates, but it may be years before purchasers are found, or if they can be obtained the lands would not produce one-sixth part of the losses, as the forfeited estates are subject to the debts of the proprietors who fled and various heavy charges must accrue. Several letters mention that those subjects of the United States who sustained losses during the war, living in several cases in view of the Upper Canadians, have long ago received remuneration from their government. May he report that it is intended to apply to Parliament on behalf of the Upper Canadian sufferers? 219

Mal. MacGregor to Goulburn. Again addresses Bathurst on the subject of the Indian lands on the Credit, and asks that his remarks may be transmitted. 1. The lands were not granted to the Indians as stated in Bathurst's letter to Gore, but were part of their own territory. 2. They retained possession of the banks of the Credit to have the exclusive right of the fishery, now encroached on by whites, both Canadians and people from the United States, who, under pretense of traffic, brutalize them with deleterious spirits, causing a rapid reduction in their numbers, so that they will soon be exterminated. 3. The benefit to the Mississaugas should his offer be accepted, as they would not only be protected, but would derive a permanent income and be secured food and clothing. 4. The benefit in a provincial point of view. He will erect mills at a cost of $20,000 the result of which would be to bring the land into cultivation, which is now a wilderness. If required he shall enter into more minute details and give satisfactory security for any engagements he make make. 372
